The third meeting was held last Tuesday evening. The subject was, "How far are we Responsible for the Other Student?" We were reminded of the fact that we are our brother's keeper, and that our duty as Christian Friends is to bear one another's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ.

Because of well chosen leaders, the meetings have been both interesting and instructive.

Yale University is planning to build a tunnel under the campus to relieve traffic conditions.

World War Hero To Grace Maryville Rostrum Saturday Night

"ART" WELLS, IN PERSON

Veteran of Many Battles To Defy Mighty Highlanders

On Saturday night Mr. and Mrs. Wells will assault the peace and quietude of Maryville College with a battery of banjos, bassoons, saxophones, etc. It is their proud boast that they have laid low any and all auditory opposition that they have ever had the privilege of beseiging. It is said that they once played at a deaf-mute school and seven inmates dislocated their fingers talking about it afterwards. Mr. Wells played "You Tell Him, I've Got Rheumatism" on the banjo, singing the song in the sign language as he played his instrument.

Though he denies the fact with becoming modesty, Mr. Wells was the hero responsible for turning back the Germans in the famous repulse of the Hindenburg line during the late war. His pathetic rendition of "When Beer Bocks Grow on Annhauserbusch", played to the tune of shrapnel and heavy artillery, caused the Germans to shed such copious tears of bitter yearning that they got their powder wet, and were easy prey for the Allies.

Maryville is fortunate to obtain such a big man to appear before us. Mr. Wells is a distinguished us. Mr. Wells is a very easily distinguished figure, he weighs 300 pounds, and wears shoes size two and a half. Two cow hides and half a keg of nails.

Moreover admission will be ENTIRELY FREE, to those who present at the door, the little cardboard slips they may obtain at the "Y" stores or at the bookroom. Of course, some charge will have to be made for the card-board, probably thirty-five cents or so a throw.

If you are susceptible to St. Vitus Dance, stay away from the Chapel Saturday night. Or if your roommate is of the delectable variety that hits the floor in the morning moaning some mournful, mutilated,

COLLEGE TO GET NEW DEPARTMENT

At Last We'll Have Chance To Know Our Onions.

T. 4-2 Lover's Lane,
Slush City, U. S. A.

Dear Sir:

Find enclosed my impersonal check for $10,000 to be used in the establishment of a department of Campusology at Maryville College. The head of the department is to be chosen subject to my approval and of course you would think of using none other than My "Philosophy of Love" for the textbook.

It has long been my ambition to endow such a much needed department at your school. Believing thoroughly that everyone was made for someone—we feel sure that this course will help the said ones to find each other.

It is indeed a pleasure to provide such a liability for My dear old Alma Mater—especially as it comes when my five daughters and six sons are simultaneously ready to enter Maryville.

Yours,

Elinor Glyn.

Maryville Scenery To Be Despoiled

WHAT'LL WE DO?

Beautous Members of Male Sex To Be Torn From Our Midst.

Well at last Maryville College is going to get national fame and personally I think secertly in the hidden, innermost thoughts of my brain and heart, in about the only way that Maryville College could gain fame if she was gaining it through her men. But to get down to the central idea or though of the theme. It is just like this—the movies are hunting ten beautiful college men to be star actors in their pictures that they are going to produce all about modern college life and its morals and immorals. And so they are coming to Maryville College some time soon to pick out the men—that is some of them, I personally think that they intend to get a large percentage of the ten men at Maryville, although they are really supposed to choose the men from colleges all over the country.

What I really think is this—that the movies have in some unakount-

Oswald, Oswald, I Fear We Have Erred

Fair Ones Seem To Have Our Number.

"No girl can ever make a fool of me!" boasted Johnny Just-Out-of High-School. And then he went to college, and met a charming little co-ed, who told him he was the most wonderful thing she had ever known, admired his athletic prowess, flattered him by references to his good looks, and before very long had him wound smoothly and neatly 'round her little finger. Then, all of a sudden, she dropped him FLAT—in favor of a handsome senior with a coveted gold foot-ball and letter sweater. Johnny was right. No girl could ever have made a fool of him; Nature had beaten her to the job!

Every girl knows how pathetically easy it is to set the masculine heart a-flutter and the masculine blood a tingle. All any attractive little co-ed has to do is to flatter a little and flirt a little, and the poor fool has fallen at her feet.

So when there's one day in the year, April 1, when the man has a chance to employ his little artifices and deceptions, just let him do it! On All-Fools' Day, he may indulge in various little pranks and practical jokes which seem absurdly childish and silly to the feminine mind. Nevertheless, he should be humored in it by the girls. This is the one day when a man can really get by with anything. Oh, of course, he may be attempting it all the time; but, if he has a grain of intelligence, he must realize that by the side of those of any knowing girl his tactics appear clumsy and amateurish.

So girls, just let him have his day of fooling! Pretend innocent surprise when he informs you there's

STUDENTS TO HEAR DR. DUMBASS GOOFUS

Dumfounds Audience With Presentation of Life Here in Early Days.

The stewdent body were given rare treat one day last Sunday morning during the chapel hours in the form of an address by Dr. Dumbass Goofus, who graduated with the Class of '00, and who has since been professor of social misusage in the State Duff and Damn School.

The larger part of Dr. Goofus' noise was taken up with a mental panorama of life here in the early days when men were men and women were not. In a pleasingly modest and unboastful manner the speaker stated that there never had been, and never would be, a person to graduate from Maryville who had had to work as hard as he did, or who had bore his burdens with a broader grin. Since his parents possessed only three sections of land and one oil well, Dumbass was forced to pay for his board and tuition by the perspiration of his physiognomy. In the five-minute interval between class periods he would rush to a neighboring farm and fill his skull cap with turnip greens and polk salad and peddle the vegetables to the girls' dormitory. He never allowed an opportunity for work to pass. Just before the May Day celebration in his Freshman year the president desired that the campus be mowed and the shrubbery be trimmed. Only 48 hours remained in which to do the work. The college hand-scythe was lost as usual and the toothless hand saw had gaps in it. Thus did it seem that the campus would have to give the appearance of a river bottom wilderness on the day of the great explosion. But the absent-minded president said "NO", the campus must be cleaned up. Then did the ingenius Dumbass come to the rescue. He swore and be durned that he would have the 40-acre stretch looking like a roof-garden by May Day. Two days later the de-

Dean Spurts To Nose Out Dean of Women In Breathtaking Finish

WINS UNDER HANDICAP

Only Two Entrants Out of Large Field Finish Course.

Day broke and fragments of dawn scattered to the four winds. The pretzel birds in the trees were singing melodies from Schnapps, and even the bare sounds were clothed in anticipation. Uncounted bedsprings heaved up sighs and sleepy occupants, and the very splinters in the unpainted, uncarpeted floors eked forth expectancy.

There are days and days, week days, Sun-days and holi-days; but of all days, this was the day. This day was to permeate the annals of M.C. for the much heralded Faculty Bicycle Race was just in the offing. The entries were registered, and rooms containing large wooden tables and fragrance of wintergreen were in evidence at every conceivable point of the campus.

The race was to begin promptly at ten o'clock, antemeridian. Moonshining privileges were allowed to all who could give evidence of having seen, heard or smelled anything of near similarity to a bicycle. As the time for the race drew near the gladiators and judges drew together to consider matters relevant. Dr. Knapp, appointed as Commissioner of the Way expounded the route of the contest, which was to consist of two laps around "the loop". After the course was amply explained to those of the faculty who dine (courteous phrase) at Pearsons, and have difficulty with most courses, the Committee on Eligibility held hasty conference at the south side of the gold-fish pond from whence the race was to begin. It seemed that quite a little difficulty had been encountered concerning certain entries. Dean Barnes had insisted on riding the course on his trusty tricycle. Prof. Davis of the Committee at this time took issue to the venerable Doctors entrance, on the ground that the term bicycle meant two-wheels, i. e. from the Latin, bi, two, and the Greek

Miss Molly and Dr. Hunter Become Reactionary

A very important question is now confronting Maryville College. In view of this fact the Faculty met last evening at Mr. Jim Irwin's. Miss Molly and Dr. Hunter have announced that the rules and regulations of Maryville College do not allow enough freedom to the students.

Dr. Wilson opened the meeting by reciting the Gettysburg Address. It was pathetically sweet to hear Dr. Rogers sing "It ain't Gonna Rain No More" to such a responsive audience. The Dean, Dr. J. C. Barnes, laid the charge of Miss Molly's allowing the Fourth floor Pearson's girls to give a roof party. Miss Molly said she felt that the girls had been so good and uncomplaining and co-operative. Then when they presented the box of Camels to her as a token of their love on her thirty-seventh birthday,

Consider The Greeks How They Flourished

In Which Lowly Man Make Humble Reply. (See Second Column to Left.)

To the everlasting credit of the Greeks, let it be known that it was they who first ascertained the fine status of woman. They knew, did those wise, far-seeing men of old, that woman had been sent to earth on some pestiferous errand, but for long her true mission remained in doubt. Then the doubts cleared and lo! we have this, "Jove, being angry that man had secured fire from heaven, resolved to punish him and so he gave to the world Pandora, most foolish of all creatures, the progenitor of modern women, who let lose in the earth countless miseries and ills."

Such is the observation of the races of brilliant, Archimedes, glorious Pericles, saracious Hippocrates, eloquent Demosthenes, and profound Socrates.

To the eternal glory of man, let it be known that poets from the beginning have been, almost entirely, men, that the great conquerors of the world, the great statesmen of the world, the great discoverers of the world, the great orators of the world, and the great inventors of the world have been men. What woman is there who dares vie with immortal John Milton, or the strategist Julius Caesar, or the illustrious Gladstone, or the noble Columbus, or convincing Cicero, or the ingenious, Edison? Where was woman when Washington defeated the British at Trenton, when Magellan sailed the stormy seas, when Perry forged forward through the rigorous blasts of the North, or when distinguished Virgil composed the marvelous lines of the Aneids? Where was she? Why there she was perched, trembling

IDIOTORIAL

What's the idea of a burlesque edition? There isn't any—that's just the idea. Anyway, what would be the big idea of presenting an idea to Maryvillians on the first of April? It would perish for lack of company (and on any other day, for that matter).

The trouble with the editorial staff of this illustrious journal is that it thinks too slowly, if at all. The best joke of the day would have been to fool everybody and not put out a paper sotto voice, from back stage, "That wouldn't fool anybody, you never have put one out yet.")

What was I saying when so rudely interrupted? Oh yes, well to continue, maybe after looking over the menu for this febrile feast of fatuous foolishness, you may conclude that such an act would not only have been a good joke, but an act in the interests of public welfare as well. If this be your verdict we can only reply with Marcus Aurelius "Ish ka bibble". We have it on good authority that this means go to where what Sherman said war was is, but it don't look reasonable Adolph, no it don't.

OUR POLICY

This paper, among other modern features, boasts of being ahead of all others in the matter of policy. Most publications have a policy. We have two—one accident and one life. Our complaint department is therefore amply protected. Further, the management disclaims all responsibility for any articles appearing in these pages.

The editor requests that all scandal be mailed promptly. If you wish your roommate's name dragged in the mire, just drop us a suggestion. We do the rest.

It being conceded that an editorial department must take a stand on important public issues, we have concluded to take our stand always with the majority. If therefore, our readers at any time wish to know our opinion on any momentous question, we advise that they first determine the attitude of the majority and they will then find that ours will be like unto it. We think that all real honest citizens will commend us for our backbone and grit. Thus far this policy has proved as successful as a ball-bearing mouse-trap.

Clara Dalton: "What are some words that end in 'ship'?"

Gertrude Burke: "Well—smoking, dancing, playing bridge; if you want a complete list, go to Miss Molly."

Logan Mount: "But, officer, I am a student."

Officer: "Ignorance is no excuse."

spairing ones perceived that he had made his promise good. It was discovered that he had gnawed the grass off the campus with his teeth, and that he had trimmed the hardy oaks and magnolias with his sweet heart's finger-nail file. For his great service in saving the college for future generations he was given a suite of rooms on the back porch of the janitor's home, and was given an embroidered radiator for the bathroom of his suite.

Dumbass early won distinction as an after-dinner speaker. By virtue of his ability in this pasture he secured a position with the Logan Hot Dog Wagon Concern with a view to plying the torrid canine trade for ten minutes after chapel every day.

These and many other nightmares were reviewed by Dr. Goofus in his retiring, matter-of-fact way. His address was most interesting and expiring to the audience, many of whom sank into their customary 10 o'clock beauty sleep without saying their prayers.

Dr. Goofus is a son of whom Maryville College is proud. Since he was finished by the faculty and business office in '00 he has become a big man in state affairs, weighing over 270 pounds and wearing 50-inch trousers at the waist. He has made this enviable record because when he was given his first baby rattler he thanked his parents in tears of gratitude and swore by the great horn spoon, saying "To make good your faith in me I will make myself a lad about whom it cannot be said that he hasn't got anything."

AHA! THE WORM HAS TURNED AT LAST

her heart over-flowed and she felt justified in allowing the celebration.

The roof party, chaperoned by Mr. Irwin and Miss Molly, had been a grand success. The dancers on the roof vaguely seen through the haze of Camel smoke would have delighted the heart and eyes of any observer. Dr. Hunter had helped to plan the party although unable to be there himself. Hence he was held under discipline as an accomplice.

Both sides of the argument were stated and the faculty is arrainged in two groups—divided against itself. Dr. Hunter made a speech on "The Emancipation of Maryville College" to the effect that this is the time for Maryville College to bestir herself—awaken and come forth from the sepulcher of fogey, narrow-mindedness into the full, noonday sunshine of freedom! This speech rang full into the heart of our open-minded Prof. McTeer, who nooded his head with that cute little individualistic tendency so well known to his loving pupils.

Miss Heron aired her danty views to the effect that Maryville College is under the Evil Eye. Such carryings on! Girls with short skirts and painted faces should be wiped out by the hand of Providence! She voiced a call, full of pathos, for the return to yesterday. Ten years ago, when girls were feminine and boys were chivalrous.

The meeting continued until the lights flashed. The Faculty has come to no decision. Dr. Wilson called the meeting to order and gave a stirring appeal to the Faculty members to stick by their principles if they had to lie to do it.

The meeting adjourned until further notice by the recital in unison and in order of the names of all the United States Presidents from George Washington to Calvin Coolidge.

Miss Molly: "If you wanted to go riding, why didn't you come and ask me first?"

Ex-Maryville Mary: "Because I wanted to go riding."

able way gotten hold of some of my artickles on the handsomness of the blonde men of Maryville College and have been convinced that this is the place for them to get their men from. So, it is just a mere matter of time until some of our boys will be learning how to really live, out in Hollywood which is the place where most of the truely great people of the United States reside at. And it certainly does make me feel proud that at last my literary efforts are axually doing some constructive work.

It seems to me that Gene Dunn has a chance to break into films as where else on earth would the movie men find a blonde with such curley hair? So you see Gene has almost as good a chance as the editor on account of the fact that his hair is blonde and curley also. Then there is Horace Clemens who has blonde hair and a wonderful figure so that if he doesn't seem to have so much of the elusive quality he will have a great deal of appeal for certain types of the opposite sex.

Blonde or brunette I believe that Maynard Dunn stands a good chance to get in the movies as it looks like Charlie Chaplin isn't going to have any funniness left in him when his wife gets through with him. Then they have to use brunettes as foils for the blondes sometimes. That is one reason that I believe Trigger Morris will get some notice from the picture men also as he seems to have certain attractions for I over heard a little girl with shiny, shingled hair say, the other day, that his eyes hold a certain quality of attraction that combined with his indifference is almost irrisistable; it is just such qualities that they want in the movies.

I suppose after considering things, that they will choose several brunettes as well as blondes. Max Hunt ought to stand a pretty good chance in that case, as he is a very atheletic looking boy and also seems to have an eye for beauty. They are always using sheik types for background in the dancing scenes and I would think that this would be a good chance for some of our more ornamental boys such as for instance Billy Crawford, John Lucy Morgan, Walter Courtenay, Bob Dance, John Crawford and Percy Rosa.

Then there is Louis Veech who, if environment has anything to do with acting, ought to have absorbed a little dramatic ability by this time. As they are looking for typical collegiate types I thnk that they will be very interested when they see Robert McKelvey or that is if they could see him with his banjo, which provides just the right back ground for him.

Well, if the directors can't get their men from those mentioned above it just proves that they can't see real art in the raw, for as I have said these boys may be "diamonds in the rough" but diamonds they are. Anyone could tell this after watching them sparkle and shine on the campus. So here's wishing you good luck Maryville College Wampus Baby Stars—to be!

kyclos meaning cycle, or wheel. However, the doughty dean insisted that it was the spirit of the race that was basic, not the word of rule, and upon contending that the attractiveness of a tricycle was the fact one could walk while sitting down he was duly entered. Next came Dr. Kiger who insisted upon entering the race with his Chevrolet, on the contention that there were never more than two wheels on terra-firma at any given time. Not having any comeback to this hot shot the Committee let him in. Also entered were: Miss Heron with her Kannonball Kiddie Kar, specially built for the occasion; Thrower (in person) with his Texas Puddle Jumpin' Scooter, and Prof. Howell with his old Cloud Scraping Bike. Two last minute entries added unusual zest to the occasion. One of which was Dr. Hunter who entered his Ford, on the grounds that in the course of the race he would pedal as much as any of the other entrants. The other was the old Invincibles, a long-standing team composed of the Mesdames Caldwell, Snodgrass, Worley, and the Messrs. E. E. McCurry and Erwin. This able quintet had entered, with a tandem as their means of locomotion.

A brisk silence reigned, tho no one got wet; and the valiant speeders were up, and ready to go. After the usual three snaps of Coach Honaker's antique model starters gun (which his great Grand father had used in the French-Indian Wars) the contest was on, and the participants departed from Science Hall in a cloud of dust and appretension. At this juncture "Ginger" Hendricks, "Yiddy" Johnson, and Dixie Lewis came beaming upon the scene claiming their rights to moonshine privileges due to their long--standing equanitance with perambulators.

The race was on, the long awaited event, which was to chronicle the sensationnal pages of Maryville history was a thing of the present. Scarcely twenty minutes had passed when Miss Heron was seen returning. She stated that the wind resistance being too high she had dropped out for a rest and had talked herself to sleep. Prof. Howell also returned before completing the lap. His wife had insisted upon accompanying him on the long solitary journey, mounted upon the handle-bars. Having been shipwrecked in their attempt to navigate the unbridged creak, they with drew from further competition with dampened ardor. Dr. Hunter also returned before finishing the first lap, telling that he had been unable to make the stipulated speed which was posted half way around: "Speed Limit 15 miles per hour". Shortly afterward the first of the remaining quartet heaved (also sighed) into view—the Honorable Robert Texas Thrower, and passed in a shower of cinders and encouraging shouts.

Close behind him in chronological order came Prof. Kiger, with his usual serene smile, closely pursued by Mr. Mac and the guardian of the night, pedalling the tandem for dear life, the three worthy matrons seated serenly between, all faring well for their first beat. As all passed in grand array and grew small in the distance, an elephantive puffing heralded some one's approach from up the course, and Dean Barnes sailed into view at the fore end of a huge cloud of dust. He explained his tardiness by the fact that he had swallowed his chewing gum half-way around, which had gummed up the works, so to speak.

It was on the second fatal lap that fate in the form of a bovine quadruped wearing a husky cowbell played Bob Thrower an unwashed trick. Thinking the bell to be the "pancake bell" of Pearsons', he ditched the "puddle jumper" and departed post-haste through the fields for the old champing grounds. The proctorial team, going strong on the home stretch, ran aground when Miss Molly discovered two black-birds moonshining un-chaperoned, and stopped to campus said duet. Being greatly fatigued, three of the quintet dropped out, leaving Miss Molly and the Proctor of the Grounds to continue the race in a discarded wheelbarrow. By this time Dr. Barnes had almost caught up with them and drew rapidly closer. It was only due to the first team's lead that he did not pass them, and amid great cheering they came down the straightway. Neck and neck Dean and Miss Mollly rushed over the finish mark. Dean was declared winner because of the sportsmanship he had shown in removing one of the wheels of his tricycle.

It was only after the excitement had died down that someone discovered the absence of Prof. Kiger. The Professor in person was not discovered till early the next morning when he was located on a quiet road near Chattanooga, with the front wheels of his "Chivvy" embracing a friendly telephone pole, and the head-lights gazing heavenward. He had missed his road he said.

All in all the race was a huge success. Never before was there seen such an event as the Maryville College Faculty Bicycle Race, which no doubt will become an institution in the college. Dean says that hereafter he will mix his gum with Pearson's "nonskid" peanut butter to prevent any more near calamities from swallowing it. It is rumored that "Science and Invention" is to endow the Maryville psychology department in honor of this invaluable contribution to the field of science. So that, although no prizes were awarded, he feels amply repaid for his unusual exertion.

NO SIREE, WE HAINT SO FUR BEHIND!

Tennessee wuz made into a big bowl and all the corn what's in Tennessee wuz made into moonshine, and put in that bowl we could sartinly drown all the Texans and New Jerseys in it and have enough left over to break that there prohibition law. And if all the cotton in Tennessee wuz made into cloth they would be enough to put a bottom onto every Nehi short skairted dress in thisee here United States. Now take our tobaccer. Put it in a hundred peace pipes and we can smoke them and have peace till Gabriel blows his horn.

Our old state ain't so little, nuther. If our East Tennessee mountings wuz set down in New Jersey, they wouldn't be no room left fur nobody. And if all these here trees on these here mountings wuz tuk and cut up into lumber they would make a forty foot board walk cerost the Atlantic Ocean.

Whut's more than that we air independent. Take old Tennessee and set her out by herself and she will get along purty well without no help. We have everything a budy needs from the first dress he wears up ontil the marble tombstone what sets on his grave when he passes out. We have enough copper in Old East Tennessee to make all the gold rings everybody wants. Whuts more we make enough molasses to keep Pearson Hall in "old Lady" and that's no small skimption.

Oh yes, I most forgot to tell you abouten our cows. Over in West Tennessee they was a man had so many cows, hit wuz dangerous. He tuk and put them in one big barn, but when they slept they all breathed in at the same time and drew in the walls of that barn, and then they all breathed out at the same time and done busted that barn to pieces and the pieces done killed two thousand six hundred and thirty-nine chickens but, law, that wuz nuthin' he had so many.

Weuns is proud of our state and we is warnin' anybody not to run it down. If any budy thinks their state can beat ours they hed better keep it to theirself and keep there mouth shut. We is thinkin' they ain't got nuthin to say nohow.

Now that woman is here to stay, having been sent by vengeful Jupiter, it is for lordly man to make the best of an ill fate. He will admit, for recreational purposes, that with her dainty feet, her silken clad nether limbs, her scanty flimsy bodily apparel, her cosmetically-coated features, her voluble, vapid speech, and her shorn tresses, these shallow, silly, empty, fluttering bits of feminity quite often provide a not-to-be-despised source of diversion Since April Fool's Day affords greatest opportunity for man's enjoyment of females, it is suggested that the name be changed to Woman's Day, for entertaining her master, Man.

Y. M. C. A. Officers For Coming Year Elected Tuesday

CONSERVATIVES WIN

Courtenay, Crawford, Layman, and Crawford to Guide Destinies of "Y".

The Y. M. C. A. has once more won the war. Hatchets are buried or at least hidden from sight in somebody's scalp. It was Tuesday evening (the day it rained) that the Highland laddies flung toward Bartlett Hall. The "Tong-men" were out full force, and the southeastern portion of the campus looked like "tag day" in Scotland.

After a hasty caucus the various factions entered into the holy-of-holies to the stirring refrains of victrola music and synthetic peanut munching. After some searching all found seats, and settled down for a season of quiet serious meditation, led by Dunn and McConnaughay. At this juncture Bob Harvey, our retiring President soothed the denizens with a virile left-handed gesture, and peace reigned in a fine drizzle. From this point on no one seemed to be accountable for their actions least of the Tennessee Electric Light and Power Co. Mr. E. E. McCurry entering at the last minute declined to speak so soon after supper but answered that he would hold all bets, the proceeds of which were to go toward founding a home for blind goldfish. After announcing that withdrawing was not being done in the best of families the election began. It might here be stated that this entire campaign was a black and white one, for no sooner had the tellers passed out the lottery tickets than the god of darkness held sway. The light company later explained that their last shipment of currents had not arrived on scheduled time, and as the president's B-radio battery needed recharging it was found convenient if not expedient to dispense with lights for the evning. Amid howls of treason, corruption, and other amorous little gibes (meaning language of gibbons) the votes were

PREACHER'S BANQUET ON NEXT WEEK'S SLATE

Dr. Stevenson Brings Fine Message This Week.

"The Preacher and The Pastor" was the subject which Dr. Stevenson brought before the Ministerial Association on Wednesday evening, April 6th. He summed the whole speech up very well when he stated that "The chief power is heart power, although mind power is essential and very much to be desired." It was certainly a valuable message and was appreciated fully by all who heard him.

After the speech and regular business the announcement of the Preachers' Banquet was made. All Preachers and Would-be Preachers take especial notice of the following: You are invited to attend the Banquet of the Ministerial Association if you see fit to meet four requirements. First, you must be there promptly at six o'clock, Monday, April 11, 1927, and stay one hour and a half; second, you must bring a girl friend; third, you must give the name of this young lady to Mr. Bob Jones or Mr. Wilbur Franklin; fourth you must permanently deposit $1.25 with either of the above gentlemen before 10:60 p. m. Saturday, April 9, 1927.

Tennis Fast Growing In Popularity Here

Spring Tournament Opens With Forty-seven Entrants. Good Material for Team.

Forty-seven emulators of Tilden responded to the call for entrants in the annual spring tennis tournament. The ever-faithful "Y" is sponsoring the tourney, and the chase started off with a bang last Saturday.

Rain and a great desire on the part of some to remain in the running longer have halted rapid progress toward the finals. Most of the first round is history, and thus far has produced no upsets in the dope.

Swaim, the only letter man back from last year's team, is finding strong competition in Rodgers, Franklin, Jones, Caldwell, Buchanna and Coulter. Coulter was one of Carson-Newman's best last Spring. The winner is more in doubt every day.

Bill Rodgers is arranging another fine schedule, which includes matches with U. T., Carson-Newman, Tusculum, State Teachers, Milligan, Emory and Henry, Chattanooga, Wesleyan, L. M. U., and possibly others.

Last year's team won seven out of eleven matches and established tennis as one of the most popular sports in Maryville. This year's team should be even better. The first macth will be played here against Milligan on April 18th.

Girls Still Seeking Solution For Marriage and Divorce Problem.

On Thursday night, the second girls' debate of the season took place, with Asbury College, Kentuckey. Our girls debating here were Emily Minton and Mary Eleanor Welbon, while Marjorie Frey and Betty Keown represented Maryville at Asbury.

Our girls ar still threshing out the question of Marriage and Divorce, and anyone who wishes to hear a clearly presented discussion of this all important question should most certainly attend these debates. If you heard the two which have already been given, you won't want to miss any of the others, and if you happen to have missed these by all means come out to the remaining two!

Our girls lost the decision here last night, after a spirited contest. Professor Harvey G. Meyer of U. T. gave a very interesting talk in explaining his bases for judgement. No returns have come from Asbury as yet.

L. M. U. GAME

Eleven innings of baseball, just the kind that makes baseball our national sport. Stone, our captain, and Calloway engaged in a pitching duel with M. C. scoring in the second only to have L. M. U. come back with 2 in the third. The ninth opened with the score still two and one, when Captain Stone smashed a mighty drive far into center field for a home run, tieing the score. L. M. U. scored a run in the tenth but McCall led off in our half of the same scoring with a single, stole second and rode home on Shanks' double. Shanks went to third but there he stayed. The eleventh was a Waterloo for the Harrogate boys as Captain John made one man fly out, then struck out the next two. Stone, the first man up in the eleventh was handed a pass and Bird for the third time lay down a sacrifice bunt, Stone going to third. Davis came up and on the second hit ball slashed one to the L. M. U. shortstop who fumbled the ball, allowing Stone to score for his third run of the game and the winning score.

"The New Student" Briefly Summarizes Trouble In China

With news coming in every day of new outbreaks and violence in China, we wonder what the reason can be for the continuous upheavel going on over there. The following article taken from The New Student, gives in concise form the conditions in China that are responsible, at least in big part, for China's troubles.

"In 1911 a revolution broke out in South China, a revolution which had as its main purpose the establishment of a progressive republic in place of the hopelessly inefficient Manchu dynasty. In 1912 a Chinese Republic was established. Foreigners not in touch with the situtation immediately concluded that the goal of the revolutionists was achieved; consequently they have had scant sympathy with the domestic conflicts which have kept China in a turmoil ever since.

"Actually the republic which the revolutionists set out to establish is almost as far from a reality today as it was in the days of the Manchus. The revolution started in the South, where the rapidly progressing industrialization of China had created a native merchant, industrial and manufacturing class who were the backbone of the movement. This class aimed at the development of a modern industrialized nation, with a republican form of government under chinese control.

But the South was too weak to achieve its goal unaided. Yan Shih-Kai, powerful Northern leader, an anti-republican at heart, had to be placated with the post of president before the Manchus could be deposed and a republic (which could only be nominal with such a head) established.

Yuan soon alienated his Southern partners by attempting to make himself a hereditary monarch and by encouraging the attempts of foreign capital—to secure additional concessions infringing on China's Triple Play Features First Game. Heavy Hitting Characterizes Second.

Who says that our Scotties can not play ball? They made quick and easy work of the Michigan State nine, and this week they are working hard to be ready to meet the Lincoln Memorial University aggregation who were here yesterday and today. Birmingham Southern has wired and cancelled their games. A game with the Knoxville Smokies may be arranged for this week or next.

The first two games were good batting and also running practices for the Highlanders and they took advantage of it, gathering 15 hits in the first game and 17 hits in the second game.

Our veteran Bob Harvey had the mound for the first game and he also had all of his stuff with him for he fanned 11 men and allowed the visitors but five hits. They made all their runs in the third inning on two walks, two errors and one hit. Captain Stone led the hitting with three hits; a triple, a double, and a single. His triple was converted into a home run when the left fielder heaved the ball over third. Cartwright got a home run and a single while McCall got a long triple and a single.

The feature of the game was the triple play which the boys pulled in the fifth inning. With men on first and second, their third man at bat hit a line drive to short which McCall grabbed and tossed to Shanks on second, who then heaved it to first for the third out. It was

Glee Singers Planning First Trip Of Year

Going to Johnson City Friday, The Fifteenth.

The Glee Singers are preparing for a trip to Johnson City on Friday of next week. The older members of the club can remember the fine time Johnson City always gives the Maryville Glee Singers and are looking forward to this visit there.

With a well balanced program of chorus, quartet and piano numbers, together with readings by Paul Meikle and a chalk talk by Walter Matthews, the boys feel that they can assure any audience of an enjoyable evening's entertainment.

The club has had some difficulty in getting under way this year but things are now looking bright for a good season. The fellows have completed the routine work under the direction of Bob Jensen. In adding the finishing touches and polish to the program Miss Benner has been kind enough to offer her services. Dub Jones is promising several more trips which will be well worth while and will aid in preparing the boys for the home concert.

Speed Demons To Raise Dust Saturday

Track Season To Be Opened With Inter-Class Meet. Number of Meets Scheduled.

Mercury be still and know your place. Saturday the tracksters of Maryville College will make you look and feel like a Ford engine in a Packard speedster. Speed, endurance and graceful form will mark the excellence of the Fleety Highlanders.

The weather has been on the opposing side for some time, but the boys have stood their ground and worked hard. Some try-outs have been held and the "sheep separated". Taggart, the cross-country champion, is the flaming-arrow of the would-be sprinters. Billie Crawford is running the low hurdles in fine form. The long distance runners are all training hard and will show their mettle Saturday. The field men, Holland, Brock and MacDonald are surely going to give somebody plenty of opposition.

Saturday, the track season opens with an inter-class meet sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. This meet will be an elimination contest to decide who is to compose the team for the year. We have a number of meets and are counting on Maryville to acquire a few trophies.

THE ELECTION

The Y. M. C. A. election held Tuesday night, resulted in a change of control from the so-called "liberals" to the hands of the "conservatives". It is well known that feeling has been pretty strong between the two sides during the past year. This however, is not to be regretted. In these days of religious apathy, it is refreshing and encouraging to find college men with enough sincerity to be willing to stand convicted of their beliefs. That is more than can be said of the bulk of the population of our "Christian" nation.

Moreover, young blood runs hot, and the men most bitter in their antagonism to the other side now, may one day awake to the fact that both are striving to serve the same God, and that, while there are elements of error in the beliefs of both sides, there is also much good. Tolerance for the other's views, and honest endeavor to see both sides clearly, is the only atitude for a real Christian to take. The college man, and above all, the Christian college man, should be the last one to be guilty of the sin of narrow-mindedness or intolerance. Small misunderstandings sheltered in closed minds, grow to colossal proportions, and produce much needless friction and strife.

Despite the fact that the election was conducted in semi-dorkness, it was on the whole very orderly, and the selections were made with dispatch. Able officers were elected, and we await with interest the plans of Y. M. C. A. administration for 1927-28. Good luck be with you.

A BASE BALL GAME

While the breakfast table waited
For a man who never came
The syrup-jug suggested
That they have a base ball game.
The knives and forks applauded
Saying, "Waitings such a bore
We'll play against the China
And the clock can keep the score,
We'll call the pancake batter
From the kitchen for the fun—
He's such a spelndid batter
And he's thin enough to run."
The cream jug was the pitcher
Of reputation great—
He deftly put the butter ball
Right over the home plate.
The pancake batter made a hit
And ran for second base
But a spry young teaspoon got the ball
And beat him in the race.
The clock said, "Five to seven",
And excitement mounted high,
But the game abruptly ended
When the pitcher caught a fly.

ELEPHANTS

The elephant is man's most intelligent helper. But—consider this interesting comparison:

An elephant is much larger than the electric motor of a "yarder" or logging machine. The "yarder" has the power of twenty elephants; it handles clusters of logs; it works dependably, twenty-four hours at a stretch, if necessary.

Twenty elephants would eat daily 10,000 pounds of green food, which a corps of attendants must gather. A motor "eats" nothing but electricity, supplied at the throw of a switch.

Power used in the modern industrial world is applied through electric motors—tireless "iron elephants" that are relegating antiquated machines to museums, along with such oldtime household articles as wash-tubs and ordinary irons—and stuffed elephants.

Two million elephants could not do the work now being done by General Electric motors. Whatever the work to be done, whether it needs the power of an elephant or the force of a man's arm, there is a General Electric motor that will do it faithfully for a lifetime at a cost of a few cents an hour.

Y. M. C. A. ELECTION

officially accepted and counted, Albert Cook of cinema fame performing at the tally-board. After several of those present protested that some one was putting money in their pockets in the dark, a number of kerosene lamps were issued from the college store-room by Mr. McCurry, and a number of aspiring young Diogenes held the illuminary devices at points of vantage. It has since been stated that had the election been lighter the outcome would not have been so dark for some. The final judgments we may state are as follows: President, Walter Courtenay; Vice President, William (nee Billy) Crawford; Secretary, Maynard Layman; Treasurer, George (Corky) Crawford.

The election was manipulated in fine style. Only for one office was it necessary to cast more than one ballot.

Now that the offices are capably filled for another term, we heave a sigh of relief, and, as Columbus said after crossing the Atlantic, "We're glad that's over with."

CHINA SITUATION

sovereignty. A second revolution, consequently, broke out in 1913. It failed, but the South broke away soon after and formed its own government. Yuan died in 1916, and with the removal of his strong hand there resulted in the North an era of internal warfare among the "tuchuns", or military provincial governors, who had been his henchmen.

Since then war among these tuchuns has been practically continuous. The Southern government has been constantly attempting to end this banditry; but backed by strong armies recruited from among the poverty-stricken masses the tuchuns have continued to wage devastating campaigns throughout the North in order that they might secure the booty with which to placate their rabble. This is the "disorder" to which foreign governments object.

Why have the people of the North not put an end to this banditry? Because the tuchuns have not allowed the people to possess arms under the severest penalties.

Meanwhile interested foreign groups have financed the tuchuns (and have even persuaded their home governments to send military support) whenever the Nationalist (Kuomintang) government endeavored to subdue them. In return the foreign capitalists have been granted new (and have kept their old) concessions, and have maintained the old privileges gained under the unequal treaties which they forced on China.

Thus Chan Tso-lin, in return for Japanese domination and exploitation on Manchuria, has been maintained in power as the head of the Northern alliance of tuchuns. So too, until his recent defeat, was Wu Pei-fu able to control the Upper Yangtze Valley for the British; while Sun Chuan-fang, at present "defending" Shanghai, was the British maintained overlord of the Lower Yangtze.

Such are the reasons why peace, to which the Western Powers have given lip service, has not returned to China. Nor will peace prevail until the foreign-supported tuchuns are eliminated. Not until the small numbers of foreigners who have axes to grind cease to foment these internal struggles will there be established a strong, progressive government, welcoming foreign capital but unwilling to be dominated by it."

The second game was played in weather which would have been far better for a football game. It wa Maryville all the way from the first inning when the Scots, with 4 hits combined with 3 errors, chased 6 runs across the plate, knocking Milbourne out of the box. They were not satisfied with this and kept up the attack on his successors. Davis led the batting bee with four hits and Laz Shanks was there with three singles.

Gabbard was on the mound for the Scots and he pitched one fine game, holding the situation in hand at all times. He received fine support from his infield. The outfield was given little to do. With Gab in shape Maryville has three first string hurlers who will give the fans some nice exhibitions during the coming season.

The Highlanders were running the bases wild and at will, for they pilfered 11 bags, getting at least one every inning.

Seniors Celebrate Last Open Party

BAD EGGS

Easter Motif Held Throughout Evening of Fun and Gaiety.

Opening with a thrilling easter egg hunt, the Senior party, on Tuesday evening at the home of Dr. Wilson, promised to be a huge success, and thus it turned out. Many serious and sedate events contributed toward the success of the party, the first of which was the afore mentioned egg hunt. Everyone present was eligible to participate, with the exception of Messrs. Rosa and Dunn, who had been disqualified for doing a little premature collecting. For several minutes there was keen competition. from which Mr. Mischlisch emerged victorious with over a hundred eggs to his credit.

The hand embroidered spare tire was duly awarded, and graciously accepted by the victor.

The guests were then divided into four groups, the Pullets, Bad Eggs, Roosters, and Rabbits, and various contests were waged among the groups. The honors were evenly divided.

After these events had been brought to a close, the program took a more serious form. Several songs were sung by the Senior mixed quartet and by individuals, and a reading was given by Jeanette Alford.

At this time came the crowning event of the evening—the marriage of society's fairest flower, Miss Vera Dumb to Mr. Iva Paine, young business magnet. Preceding the ceremony, Betchametchi's "I love you truly", and Stakenski's "For you only" were beautifully rendered by Misses Ima Scream and Ura Riot. An improvised altar of cedars and honeysuckle stood in the center room. Rev. Payme First officiated. The procession came down the great stair case, and thence to the altar. Seven of the bride's sisters who served as bridesmaids, preceded her down the stairs. The bride, accompanied by her maid of honor, presented a lovely picture. Her gown was a shimmering clinging affair, and shone brightly in glowing lights. Her veil, of the French Revolution type, extended into a long train, which was carried by two charming little pages. After the ceremony the bride and groom received the congratulations of their friends.

Screams of delight were heard issuing forth from the back of the

The University of California, including its Southern branch, has the largest enrollment in the United States. This western college has 16,771 full-time students, Columbia has 12,519, and Illinois 11,810. The three schools hold the same ranking os they did last year. University and college enrollment is growing faster than it did before the war. The reports from over 180 institutions throughout the country show an increase of about 11 per cent over last year.

More than 6,000 women athletes can be accomodated in the new Phoebe Apperson Hearst Memorial gymnasium at the University of California. The building has five floors, three swimming pools and various enclosed open air courts. It is a gift of William Randolph Hearst.

Our second encounter with L. M. U. was rained out last Friday, and "Ole Jupe Pluvius" has been busy for the past two weeks. However, the Scots were able to go to Knoxville Monday where they played the Smokies, of the South Atlantic League. The Highlanders hit the ball hard but had a bad day in the field. Gabbard and Harvey worked for Maryville with Sneed and Clemens doing the receiving. Davis and Stone were the batting stars of the fray. Both of them are finding the apple regularly and often.

This week the Scots are working hard for the first game with U. T. to be played Saturday in Knoxville. U. T. beat us in football and we trimmed them in basketball, so it remains for baseball to settle the dispute.

Captain Stone will probably take the mound with Blazer in reserve.

Everybody be up there and help the boys show the Vols a thing or two in the way of baseball. We have the team, now we need some fans to hold the bleachers down and the enthusiasm up.

RESERVES

The Maryville Reserves defeated the Walland High School team Tuesday afternoon 3 to 2 in a close hard fought game. Banks and McCulloch were the Baby Scots batteries and worked fine. McCulloch, Banks, Taylor and Layman led in the hitting.

The Reserves have games pending with Sevierville High School, Deaf and Dumb School at Knoxville, and the Carson-Newman Independents.

ENJOYABLE PROGRAM

Banquet For Preachers To Be Featured by Fine Food and Well Done Toasts.

On last Monday evening, when all the world was going to Pearsons, many couples could be seen wending their way slowly and indirectly toward Science Hall. The reason for such seeming special privilege was the annual banquet of the preachers-to-be.

The sumptuous three-course dinner was greatly enjoyed by all. The only item made slightly conspicuous by its absence was the time honored chicken, so closely connected with pastoral duties.

Dr. Gillingham, serving as toastmaster, acquitted himself very creditably, his ready wit and entertaining manner adding spice to the program.

Toasts were given by three seniors, Mr. Welbon, Mr. Usner, and Mr. Meikle, and by the president, Mr. Tull. Mr. Robert Wood gave two readings. The speech of the evening was develivered by Mr. C. R. Johnson, well-known to systematic discourse students. He gave many worth-while thoughts, tempered throughout with dashes of humor.

The color scheme was purple and gold, and the only lights were candles, lending an unusual effect to the room. Small white roses

THE TERRIBLE MEEK TO BE PRESENTED

Y. W. and Y. M. To Present Kennedy's Powerful Drama Saturday Night.

All wide awake college students are eager to see and hear something new. You have heard of "The Servant in the House" by Charles Rann Kennedy. "The Terrible Meek" another of Mr. Kennedy's typical allegrical plays is to be presented Saturday night, April 16th in Voorhees Chapel at 8:15.

"The Terrible Meek" is challengingly new. It is especially appropriate for this Easter Season. Mr. Kennedy has most cleverly combined the sacred and the secular in a powerful one-actplay.

Such a play as this has never before been attempted on the Maryville stage. Therefore, we are asking for your combined efforts and co-operation to help us make it a success.

Records Fall In "Y" Track Meet

TAGGART LEADS

Sophomores Win Meet With 33 Points. Other Classes Close Behind.

The "Y" Inter-class Track Meet received a sumptuous ovation Tuesday by a meagre but enthusiastic gallery. And rightly so, for not only was the contest a satiety of thrills, but two previous records were lowered and one equalled; the mile and two mile distances and the hundred yard sprint respectively.

The sky was overcast and occasional sallies by "Jupe' Pluvius vainly attempted to drive the staunch supporters to their respective domiciles. Despite the inclemency of the weather a goodly display of spring haberdashery and feministic varieties remained in evidence for the duration of the Grecian exhibition.

The responsibility of the meet rested upon a competent and ample staff of officials, and the events were run off smoothly despite the handicap of Maryville's two traditional hoaxes, which never fail to produce much light-hearted merriment, especially on the part of the participating gladiators. The above mentioned hilarity producers being a starter's gun which never functions without the usual trial and error preliminaries, and a discrepant ston-watch which officiates only after being sent through the rigorous gyrations of the inimitable St. Vitus. It was remarked by one of our budding Polyanna's of whom we are justly proud that we should be glad that only two such accessories were necessary for track event. Rightly, we are!

Prince Albert de Cook excelled even the husky-throated train announcer of the Grand Central in his magnificent performance at the anterior end of a megaphone and duly began the first event at 3:15 o'clock promptly (Maryville colloqualism). The aforesaid event being the 100 yard dash which was taken by Taggart, our Mercurial primarian. Despite the heavy muddy field he measured the straight-way in the amazing time of ten flat, which equals the record, slumbering since 1914. He immediately heralded Crawford and Hunt in respective and respectful order.

The 220 yard dash again featured our freshman flash out to the fore of an avalanche of cinder-men, to the tune of twenty-three and four Fraternities of Stanford University plan to adopt a system of cooperative buying of supplies in order to cut operating expenses. A manager will be appointed to be responsible for the purchase and delivery of all supplies to all fraternities. If the plan proves successful, the sororities will also have a similar organization.

At last there are figures on the number of students who wash dishes for a degree, or perform some other labor to earn their way through college. The Christian Science Monitor estimates there are something like 100,000 young men and women, in state colleges and universities only, paying part or all of their expenses while they study. This does not take into account the vast number of private institutions.

WAR! !

"Militarists" and "pacifists" among us have been bombarding each other with invectives, mild and otherwise, and engaging in verbal skirmishes now and then throughout the past year. Not only is that true of our campus, but it is and has been true of the world at large for ages past.

However, when it comes to intelligent analyzing of reasons for taking one side or the other, we find most antagonists clinging to their beliefs, not because they have studied the matter, but because they have been brought up in an environment favorable or unfavorable, as the case may be, to militaristic sympathies. They have inherited their ideas of militarism along with their political parties and their ideas on interracial problems.

Any scientific and rational study of war, the nemesis of civilization, has been strangely long in coming, but at last we find a move in that direction on the part of one of our American Universities. We read in The New Student:

"A course in "War: Its Causes and Cure" is one of the recommendations embodied in the Wesleyan Undergraduate Report (Wesleyan University,) which is now available in pamphlet form.

"The purpose of such a course", the report says would be to give a back-ground of facts on the subject of war as a method of settling international disputes, so that educated men would be capable of recognizing the various factors making for conflict when they appear on the horizon of current events, and could more confidently take steps to eliminate them.

"A few of the topics covered by this course on international conflict would probably be: the history and development of the 'art' of war; a classification of the causes of conflict.—historic, economic, psychological, etc.; forces at present tending towards war and towards peace, such as nationalism, imperialism, and trade; the possible nature of a 'next war'; the after-effects of war on the 'victors' and the 'vanquished', on business and the progress of the human race; pacifism and its limitations; problems of national defense; education for peace; disarmament; and the League of Nations.

"The course should be made as practical and as concrete as possible, with the present situation of America receiving the most attention. One man, probably from the department of history and government, would be given full responsibility for the course, but he could be aided by men from other departments when phases of the course peculiar to their branch of knowledge were to be considered. The number of topics covered, and the nature of the discussion, reading, and lectures dealing with each one, would be a matter for the professor. His permission would also be the only prerequisite for the course. The above subjects could be dealt with extensively or not, as their importance and the available time for their consideratioin would seem to dictate. The course is by no means a piece of propaganda for the League of Nations.

The reasons for introducing such a course on war into any college curriculum are to be found in the present international situation and in America's positon of isolation. . . Events of international importance are taking place with a rapidity unknown in the nineteenth century. Recent developments of science have made the possibility of another war the nightmare of the human race. America's position in the world money market has placed her in the grip of circumstances over whch she has little control, and, if proper attitudes based on a knowledge of essential facts are not established, may plunge her into conflict with her debtors. There are many vital problems which cry for a solution.

"A new type of statesmanship is imperatively needed. Politicians are a drug on the market. The operation of the United States Government must be entrusted to men of appropriate education, men of broad sympathies, keen foresight, and sound judgment. . . ."

It is to be hoped that this movement will be taken up and spread through educational institutions everywhere. Of all topics that could be selected, certainly such a study as this would be one of the most important. Too long have we let our stand on "legalized wholesale murder" be decided for us by blind prejudices. If our striving for useful knowledge is anything but sham and hollow pretense, we will welcome any chance to get at some of the truths concerning War; its causes, effects, and possible preventives.

Athenian

Well fellows, we are again going to meet in Athenian Hall, after having been away from it for about two weeks. There is certainly a fine program arranged to begin our work again as a society in our home hall. "Daddy" Knapp is going to give us an astronomical talk, using stereoptican slides, and explaining them. He will tell us all about the stars and I don't know, but I imagine the workings of the moon will be included. This is something different and it will be valuable for you to know. We know there is going to be a play in the chapel, but this program will be over in time to allow everyone to be on time for the play.

There were forty-five present, and all voted that the affair was an entire success. Already the parsons and their particular friends are looking forward to the '28 banquet.

ODE TO THE PRACTICE HOUSE

6:30 a. m. comes a rap at the door
The milkman, arrived; Mary Fant to the fore
Argument follows "5 bottles or six"?
"I'll give you tickets, then we'll be fixed."
Chapel bell rings, dishes not done
Girls pull on coats, and start on a run.
Afternoon shopping, bundles galore
Along came Ralph Erwin "You can ride once more".
Mary Nuchols' hair matched the tint of her cheeks
As she stepped in the car 'neath the stare of the sheiks
Mae goes for the mail, as noon comes around
Every one's happy, for letters abound.
Our tall little iceman comes tinkling the bell
Juanita calls, "25 pounds, just as well".
Frances in pinafore, with broom and soap
Scrubs down the steps, her heart full of hope
That the morrow will bring no rain in the sky
To muddy the steps as the "housewives" go by.
Clara, the waitress comes in with a clatter
Dishes are steaming, especially the platter.
Then Mae with trusty knife for aid
Carves the eggs, as they drink lemonade.
10:30 P. M. comes darkness once more,
The Practice House sleeps, Listen! a snore.

First College Man: "I think the train has just passed."
Second Dumb-bell: "How do you know that?"
F. C. M.: "I can see its tracks."

RECORDS FALL AT "Y" TRACK MEET

fifths seconds. Milling and Morgan came second and third.

The sensational event of the day was the mile, which was won by Rosa, the Senior dark-horse who forged out ahead early in the race and maintained his lead throughout though closely pressed by Mann. He lowered the old mark of King set back in '25 by eleven and three-fifths seconds. Courtenay came in for third place, scoring one for the lordly Sophs.

However, Mann, our Carolina Speedster, was not to be denied, and ran a pretty two mile grill bringing down thundering applause and another record by six breath taking seconds. Only one other Marathon finished— Crosby, who well earned his three counters.

The high hurdles furnished 110 yards of amusement as the fun loving track-men played ten-pins with the wooden hurdles, "Billy" Crawford winning them with a nineteen second tally, McDonald and Holland following in order.

The low hurdles brought to mind the celebrated pun, "It may be comedy for some folks, but it sure is tragic to us", with the Junior Class joining sadly in on the chorus. It is a conceded fact that the irresponsible stop-watch robbed them of valuable points which would have beyond doubt revolutionized the final scores. "Bob" Wood took the initial position with his pretty exhibition in twenty-nine seconds flat, with John Morgan and Max Hunt in next order.

In the 880 distance immediately following the steeple-chase, the sad toll of excessive hurdle-running showed its effects, and once more the third yearlings join in on the chorus of "We Ain't Gonna Reign No More". "Smiling" Peterson took off his blankets in this heat and dashed in an easy winner with the time of two minutes, five and four fifths seconds. Rosa ran second with White, a "black-horse", running third.

Taggart again proved "how time do fly" in the 440 mill, and came in to claim the laurels at fifty-three and three-fifths seconds. J. Morgan and B. Crawford ran second and third respectively.

The track events above enumerated were not only good for any man's meet but were phenomenal considering the saturated condition of the track. It is a safe prediction that still more marks would have been lowered had the track been up to required standard.

The field events were of expected standard. Holland won the shot put at 33 feet 7 1-2 inches, with Brock and Young next in rank, both over 32 feet. Brock running true to form took the diiscus toss with 101 feet. Headrick and "Dozen" Spangler falling next closest, at 92 and 91 feet. The javelin throw was captured by Millsaps with a heave of 131 feet 6 inches. McDonald ranked second with 129 feet, and McClung a close third. The broad jump was taken with 20 feet 1 inch. Billy Crawford in first place and McClung and Hunt next in order. McDonald with his combination spring won the lower altitude at 5 feet 4 inches, with Morgan rating 5 feet 3 for a second, and Crawford and Headrick tieing for third place. The altitude de luxe found Milling vaulting his way to a win at one inch under nine feet, with McClung second, and J. Pendil Peirce third. Holland true to form vaulted a pretty nine feet with little effort, after withdrawing from competition.

The Sophomores are conceeded the laurels of victory with thirty-three points; the Juniors took thirty-two points for second place and the Seniors and Frosh follow in respective order with twenty-nine and twenty-eight points.

Taggart, the Frosh centaur, proved the lion of the day with his fifteen points, spoils from three first places. This boy will bear watching. Billy Crawford with his fourteen and one-half counters ranked second, placing in all five of his entries. His tie for high jump held him from evening matters for first scoring. McDonald and Morgan follow with eleven and ten points in order. Brock, Mann, Rosa and Milling tied with eight markers each.

We are well pleased with the initial exhibition of our boys, and feel safe in foretleling a successful year. New material was uncovered in th "Y" meet and the superlative records are indices of power. Just watch our cinders, opponents.

JUST BACK FROM THE WEST

Oh give me a home in the golden west,
Where the sand storms sweep o'er the prairie crest;
Where we've rattlesnakes plenty and vinegar roans,
And the night birds whistle "Casey Jones".
Where the coyote's scalps bring fifty cents,
And the blue bat sleep on the barbed wire fence;
Where the Mexican quail and the whippoorwill
Join in the chorus of "Steamboat Bill";
Where white-faced cattle and bronco steed
Go out to nibble the loco weed,
And the farmer subsists on beautiful scenes
With an occasional mixture of rabbit and beans;
No chills, no fever, pellagra or gout,
We look lean and hungry, but are heathy and stout.
If you'd like to live where the livin's best,
Just come on out home to the golden west.

Visitor: I say, Freshman, how can I get to the Lamar Memorial Hospital "

"Chronic" Usner: Just try calling me that again.

RESOLUTIONS

March 29, 1927.

Preamble:

Whereas, whereby, and wherefore, and inasmuch as it seemeth that I, Walter W. Buchanan, will probably kick off within the next 13 or 134 hours, I, the aforesaid and self appointed committee on advance resolutions of the Junior Class of Maryville Colliteh, sigillum in Tennesseenso, sincerely request that any money which might have been othrwise wasted on flowers be saved up for a three layer chocolate angel food cake in case of my possible recovery, and in case anything else happens may I request that all coffin money be spent on a psychological observation as to how many more wrinkles I have on my brain than any other great man that has been heretofore tested.

Signed:
Committee on Resolutions,
Walter W. Buchanan.

(Editor's note—You will note the date of this article. Fortunately there were no fatalities, and Mr. Buchanan is patiently (?) awaiting his chocolate cake.)

Louis Buell (nervously): There's been something right on my lips, for several days.

"Weary" Sutton: Yes, I notice. Why don't you shave it off?

L. B.: Yes, I'll have to. I'll dye if I don't.

THORONESS IN TEACHING

Always wins both for the pupil and for the school.

The Knoxville Business College, now about forty-four years old, is having one of the most successful years of its history. The school has been practically full all the time since last August.

In a talk, the other day, with the manager, we learned the school has more calls all the time for its graduates from the Combined and the Secretarial courses than it can fill. Business Men all over the country are beginning to realize there is quite a difference between Business Colleges and the teaching done and the thoroness of the work in preparing pupils to secure and to hold good positions.

The Knoxville Business College is called upon to furnish more graduates than it can graduate. The graduates from this school are found in all parts of the country filling honorable and responsible positions in the largest business concerns. Hence, THORONESS in drill and fairness in dealing always brings their reward.

house, and when investigated, it was found refreshments were being served. Wine, women and song then took their true place, and for several hours Bachus reigned supreme.

As the early rosy fingered dawn came fluttering out of the east, all the guests, emitting sighs of enjoyment started on their homeward journey—and the last open party of the class of '27 passed into history.

Track Men Bulls in Record Shop

TAKE IN L.M.U. 84-47

College Records Being Smashed Right and Left. Seven Broken in One Meet.

Now that last Saturday's track meet is listed as a historical fact, several observances may be made. Maryville has at the present time the best track team ever chronicled in the annals of the college. If there is any contention on this point we cite the fact that seven college records were broken in this one meet. The mile and two mile records were lowered phenomenally, Mann and Rosa taking first and second places respectively in both events. The mile record was lowered by 10 3-5 seconds, and the two mile record by 32 4-5 seconds. These events were also broken earlier in the week at the "Y" Inter-class meet, Rosa winning the mile at that time at an even second below the figures set in the L. M. U. meet. The records made at the "Y" meet however, are not considered as official college records. The five other records broken were: the 220 low hurdles; 440 yard run; high jump; mile relay; half mile. Dickinson of L. M. U. was forced to lower the existing 220 yard dash record by a second to win, as Williams and Taggart were only a stride behind. The competition in the high jump finally won by McDonald, afforded the keenest rivalry of the day.

Billy Crawford was Maryville's cinder-man De Luxe, taking three first places, and being also a member of our victorious, record breaking relay team. Dickinson, the blond Hercules of the L. M. U. aggregation proved the sensation of the day, by placing in seven events. We've often read of such feats in fiction, but here's endurance personified.

Next week the M. C. cindermen go to Knoxville, highly favored over the University of Tennessee. Maryville never has defeated Tennessee in track, but, Maryville never has had a track team like the she now boasts. Don't forget the date—April 30th.

The schedule is completed with

Expression Graduates Do Excellent Work

Third of Series of Recitals Most Enjoyable.

On Monday evening, April the eighteenth, the Department of Expression presented in graduate recital Miss Turnmire Byars, Miss Elizabeth Keown, Miss Jessie Post, and Mr. Gordon Jeffries. The selections were given effectively, showing careful work and study. The program was varied and entertaining.

Scenes from Ingomar - Translated by Maria Lovell
Miss Byars

The Twelve Pound Look - Sir James Barrie
Miss Keown

Maker of Dreams (a fantasy) Oliphant Down
Miss Post

Monsieur Beaucaire - - Tarkington
Mr. Jeffries

This was the third recital of the year. The last will be given May sixteenth, when the graduates will receive their diplomas.

COLLEGE WOODS TO BE SHERWOOD FOREST

Y. W. C. A. Will Present "Robin Hood" for May Day Program.

The May Day program, Robin Hood, will be given in the College Woods, on Saturday, April 30th at 2:30.

Y. W. hopes to make this the most unusual and entertaining program of the season. Robin Hood the great outlaw will be presented to us as a lover, daring, thrilling and in fact, possessing every trait that a real lover should possess. Bill Crowder will play the role of Robin Hood, and will be ably supported by other songsters of the Hill as his outlaws. Robin Hood, Little John, and Tuck give us a picture of bravery and the real life of Robin Hood and his outlaws.

Margaret Lewis plays the part of Maid Marian, the maid of Sherwood forest, the little timid maid. But is she really timid? Come and see. You will love the little Maid because she is so differnt, and Margaret is just the girl to make Maid Marian, the real little maid of Sherwood forest.

Birds, grasshoppers, flowers, winds, milk-maids, gypsies and Indians help to make the program humorous and interesting.

Nelle Montgomery, Senior, was elected by good majority to be crowned as Queen of May. She has chosen as Maid of Honor, Johnnie King and as King, Lewis Veech.

Other attendants of the Queen are Lucy Horton, Fancher Smartt, Lucy Lewis, Robert Jensen, Charles Jones, and Ralph Cherry.

TENNIS TEAM HURT BY NEW RULING

Returns From Trip To Hear That Rodgers and Coulter Are Ineligible.

The Varsity Tennis Team traveled to Athens last Friday and duplicated the precedent set by last year's team in bowing to Tennessee Wesleyan by the score of 4-1. The margin was not nearly so wide as the score would indicate, as each match was undecided until the final error.

The next day one of Tennessee's far-famed rainy days greeted the scene of the M. C.-University of Chattanooga match, causing it to be postponed until Monday morning at which time M. C. again lost by the closest of margins.

Each of the contests consisted of single matches by Swaim, Coulter and Rodgers, and one double match by the two Bills. Franklin went to Chattanooga as the fourth man Saturday, but did not stay over for the contest.

The Board of Control greeted the returning racqueters with the sad news that Coulter and Rodgers are ineligible because of the new one year's residence rule, so an elimination tournament is now in progress to decide the players who will cross racquets with the University of Chattanooga here Saturday, Carson-Newman there Monday, Tusculum there Tuesday, State Teachers there Wednesday, and a half dozen other matches in the near future.

With Red Buchanan also on the ineligible roll the most likely letter men are Swaim, Franklin, Caldwell, and Charles Jones.

Vive La May Queen!

Of even more interest than the Faculty Bicycle Race was the race of the most beautiful Atlantis' of Maryville College for the privilege of choosing the May King. The finish was breath-takingly close but be it said to the glorious honor of our predecessors in whose steps we follow so closely, that the winner was the beautiful blonde senior—Nelle Montgomery.

There are so many charming girls in Maryville College that any such contest, necessitating the selection of one from the group, is hailed with enthusiastic interest. There are all types of pretty girls, blond, brunette, titian, and what-not. The four final candidates presented a variety for choosing.

The approach of May brings to mind the annual festival.—Girls rushing over the campus, "Hey, you! We're gonna meet in th' gym this afternoon to practice the May Pole dance"—; Dr. Wilson reading notices in chapel of the meeting of May-Day committees; curious and certainly interesting costumes hastily snatched up and concealed at the approach of a would-be observer.

Only the Freshmen fail to understand what May-Day on the Hill means. Next year they will smile condescendingly on the class of '31

Dr. Vander Meulen Gives Forceful Address

President of Presbyterian Theological Seminary Speaks In Chapel Thursday.

The student body had the privilege of hearing Dr. John M. Vander Meulen, President of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary of Kentucky, at Louisville, speak to them in chapel on Thursday morning. All the students who were in school two years ago remember the wonderful sermon Dr. Vander Meulen gave us on "The Fine Art of Sympathy." He spoke from the text found in the Old Testament. "And Esau sold his birth-right to Jacob". It was a sermon which filled with inspiration for right and clean living, and the student body enjoyed and benefited from such a powerful message.

High Points in the Message

"The judgment of life of an old man is worth something for he has lived it".

GLEE SINGERS MAKE SUCCESSFUL DEBUT

Receive Warm Reception At Johnson City. Trip Enjoyed By All Concerned.

Getting up at the unholy hour of 5:30 a. m., the Glee Singers started the first trip of the year on last Friday, the 15th. The bus ride to Johnson City went without mishap. Miss Molly was shocked once to find the boys on the back seat playing checkers, but fortunately there were no casualties.

The bus was met at Johnson City by a reception committee that was more than adequate. It seemed that every good looking girl in town had volunteered her services. Mr. Bowles the only freshman of the crowd, handled the baggage of the older members very efficiently, and all his refractory moves were checked by the use of a large paddle, (Glee Club Junior) designed especially for such service.

The concert, which had been well advertised, met with warm approval. The Johnson City audience, usually rather unresponsive, warmed to the opening numbers by the Glee Club, and loudly voiced its approval of the various special numbers, and the work of the club as a whole. The Glee Singers finished the program with the feeling of being surprised at what they could do.

Toward 11:30, a party was thrown in honor of the Maryville singers, and punch, women, and song were enjoyed by everyone. Miss Molly had some trouble between twelve and two keeping track of her most errant charges, Harold, Vaughan,

TO GIVE CONCERT IN KNOXVILLE TUES. EVE.

Department of Music Honored. Miss Lucy Horton To Be Presented In Post Graduate Recital Monday.

Miss Laura Hale has been invited by the Tuesday Morning Music Club of Knoxville to give a Concert in Knoxville next Tuesday night, to be presented by the advanced students in the Music Department. The College considers it a very high compliment to the work done in this Department, that they should be asked to appear in concert before the music circles of Knoxville. This is the second time this compliment has been paid to Miss Hale, a Guest Concert having been given last year before the same audience.

Those assisting in the program are:

In piano, Misses Fancher Smartt, Garnet Manges, Bonnie Hudson, Lucy Horton, and Mrs. Martha H. Burchfield.

In Voice, Miss Jimmie Rule.

Miss Virginia Sting will contribute a group of harp numbers.

Post Graduate Recital

On Monday night, April 25, in Voorhees Chapel the Music Department of Maryville College presents in post graduate recital, Miss Lucy Horton. Miss Horton is one of the advanced students, and has been teaching in the Music Department the past year. Her program will consist of the following numbers:

The Wedding Cake - - Saint Saens
The Musical Snuff-Box - - Liadou
Pastorale - - - - Scarlatti
Nocturne (for the left hand) - Scriabine
Polonaise - - - - Chopin

Highlanders Lose Heartbreaker To U.T.

SCORE 1-0.

Smokies Take 10-5 Victory Monday. Boys Take It Out On Tusculum Wednesday. Trim Them 15-4

The Highlanders journeyed to Knoxville last Saturday where they played the University of Tennessee. Captain Stone pitched airtight ball allowing but one hit to the twenty five men who faced him during the entire game.

In the first inning Tennessee scored the only run of the game. Johnson the first man up, hit a pop fly to short. Hicks, next up, hit a hot grounder to Bird, who let it get through him. On the throw in Mischlich overthrew Shanks at second ond Hicks went to third, scoring on an infield out.

Tennessee's only hit came in the second, when Ross drove the ball over the infield for a single. His chances to score were knocked in the head by a neat double play (McCall-Shanks-Davis) pulled on the next batter up.

Merrill pitched a good game for Tennessee allowing but four hits, walking two and hitting one batter.

Cartwright and Davis divided the hits for Maryville, each getting two singles.

The luminaries of the game were Davis, Cartwright, Stone, McCall and Shanks.

BLUE RIDGE BANQUET MONDAY EVENING

Every Girl Urged to Attend Fiesta of Fun, Fellowship, and Food (Both Material and Spiritual.)

Some good eats! A good laugh! You bet! The annual Y. W. C. A. Blue Ridge Banquet is soon to come off—next Monday night at the Presbyterian Church. The time is 5:30 sharp. All who partook of the banquet last year know whereof we speak when we say the Y. W. C. A. banquet means good eats, good fun, good fellowship.

This is a secret but we will tell you anyway. Miss Benner is going to act as toast-mistress. Of course you will want to come back for the graduate recital that evening at the chapel, but don't worry, we promise you that your hunger will be appeased by that time. Every girl is welcome. Tickets are fifty-cents, and are on sale at thirty-three Pearson's and at the Y. W. C. A. Store. Let's have a good time, and don't miss the eats.

WHY?

At one of the discussion groups recently, the leader spoke in passing about the traditional hostile attiude of the students toward the faculty, a characteristic, not of our student body alone, but of students the world over. Along with this attitude we find a similar one toward study of any kind, that makes us wonder just what the average student is in college for.

Are you here for a four year loaf, dodging the daily grind you foresee as your lot once you get out of school? Are you here to acquire the social distinction and prestige a college degree lends, with no further aim or ambition beyond that? Or are you laboring under the very common dellusion that a college degree, whether honestly earned or not, confers upon one a mystic and supernatural power (it would have to be in many of the cases here) with which the problems and battles of life may be easily overcome, and success achieved? If this last be your plight, may we remark that a university club, founded among the hoboes and bums of America, would not be wanting for membership. You may interpret this fact any way you like, but to us it means that if college degrees in themselves entitle the bearers to peculiar powers, lots of folks have failed to collect when said pwers were being dished out.

It may be however, that you are here because you want to become familiar enough with various lines of study so that you can continue them after you leave college, thereby enriching your own life, and increasing your chances to contribute something of value to the world in which you live. If this is true, you are in a class that numbers far too few students in its membership.

Now for the first group, those here to dodge work and responsibility, and those looking merely for prestige, the faculty is irritating in its insistence a little work be done now and then, and is looked upon as an opponent to be outwitted at any cost, and against whom all tactics are fair.

But to the second group, those here to get started on the path of knowledge and worthwhile achievement, the faculty is a staff of guides to keep them progressing in their acquisition of knowledge, instead of wandering blindly and ineffectually in the maze of possible paths of study and research open to a student today. To them the faculty members, are friends and fellow students, association with whom is a stimulation and a source of pleasure.

Get right on this faculty question. By your attitude toward the faculty and the studies, the chances of your getting any good out of your college work can be very easily computed.

Why are you in college?

The first graduates of a chemistry commerce course in the United States received their diplomas from the University of Wisconsin last June.

DR. VANDER MEULEN GIVES FORCEFUL ADDRESS

"How little are the things in youth that make or mar a man's destiny!"

"Don't play the game by deceit."

"Jacob, beware, your king is in check".

"God has a golden apple for every student here, but don't snatch at it! It must come by fair means. Then it will be sweet, worth waiting for."

"One of the most bitter things in life is to know that you cannot right a wrong you have done to someone."

"Don't sell your future for the present."

If there were students present who were untouched by Dr. Vander Meulen's address they are beyond the reach of human eloquence. The speaker's positive personality and forceful presentation of his topic deeply impressed upon the students the thought that the material present cannot be exchanged for the higher moral and spiritual values that differentiate man from beast, or we, like Esau, shall have sold our immortal birthright for a mess of pottage.

Because he permitted his class to read "What I believe" by Bertrand Russell, H. J. Chambers, instructor in the English Department at the University of Washington, has been placed on probation. Parents objected to religious discussion in freshman composition sections. Chambers will not be reappointed at the end of the quarter, it is announced.

So we wait, with ill-concealed curiosity and interest, to see the King stride along with the blonde, the Maryville College gentlemen preferred, tripping lightly and gracefully by his side. We want to see the attendants with their chosen, and the ecstatic, aesthetic, flower-bedecked, fairy-like beauties do their stuff.

Theta Epsilon

Thetas would you like to know When and where the flowers grow?

Of course we would, and on Saturday night at our meeting Miss Green is going to talk to us about flowers. Then skilful fingers and a melodious voice will weave garlands of beautiful buds when we have our piano solo and our song. Someone will read for us too, and bring springtime and flowers right into Theta Hall. Come Thetas!

Athenian

Fellows, this Saturday night we are going to have something which we have never had before. It s a "Mock Trial". Everyone will be certain to enjoy it, so come up to Athenian Hall for an hour before you go down town. It is a great temptation to go down town immediately after supper, but you will be wise to put that off for an hour and you will go to town in a much better humor than you would just after you have had the "dogs". Remember, a "Mock Trial".

Bainonian

Saturday night is the first time the new officers will have an opportunity to show us what they can do. Let all Bainonians be out and start them off on their term of service with a boom.

Girls, how many of you have often wondered what your old sweet hearts thought about you after you had broken off, and someone else had taken your place? I'm sure we are all interested in such things, and if you would like to get a little light on the subject, don't miss "A Bachelor's Reverie" Saturday night. We all live to learn and it is probable that you might learn something new if you see this program, for it is not often that we get the man's side of the question first hand as we are going to at Bainonian Saturday night. Our bachelor is one who has had a vast amount of experience with the ladies, and has plenty of good material with which to fill a most enjoyable evening.

PRACTICE HOUSE

The practice house "inmates" made a noteworthy contribution to the culinary arts recently, in the form of an unusual, (to put it mildly), recipe. It seems that Lillian Dorough told Mary Fant to take down a recipe coming in on the radio a few evenings ago.

Mary did her best, but got two stations at once. One was broadcasting exercise, and the other the recipe. This is what she got.

"Hands on hips place one cup of flour on shoulder. Raise the knees, depress toes, wash thoroughly in one half cup of milk. In four counts raise the legs and mash two hard boiled eggs in a seive. Repeat six times, inhale one half teaspoon of baking powder and one cup of flour. Breathe naturally, exhale and sift. Attention. Jump to a squatting position and bend whites of eggs backwards and forwards over the head and in four counts make a stiff dough that will stretch at the waist. Lie flat on the floor and roll into a marble the size of a walnut. Hop to a standstll in boiling water, but do not boil into a gallop afterwards in ten minutes remove from the fire and dry with a towel. Breathe naturally, dress in warm flannel and serve with fish."

Baylor University, at Waco, Texas observed its eighty-second birthday February 1st.

The worms worked away in dead earnest.

Summary:

Double plays: McCall, Shanks and Davis; Johnson and Bowles. Left on bases: Tennessee 1; Maryville 6. Base on Balls: off Merrill 2; Struck out: by Stone 3, by Merrill 2. Umpire: Leahy.

Smokies

Monday the Smokies turned back the Scots 10-5 in a ragged exhibition of baseball. Harvey was wild and allowed the Smokies 13 hits. Davis again swung a mighty stick getting three out of four. The Highlanders nicked the Smokie boxman for 8 hits and 5 runs.

Tusculum

In a slow one-sided game the Scotties took the Tusculum boys into camp Wednesday. The Highlanders were on a batting spree, and although Hill, the visiting pitcher, stayed in the box eight innings he was hit freely in every inning. Maryville got at least a hit and a run every inning, while Gabbard and Blazer kept Tusculum fanning the air. Gab allowed one hit and one walk, and struck out four in 5 innings. Blazer, who relieved him, whiffed six batters, walked one and gave up four hits in four innings. Two of these, with two errors in the ninth accounted for three of Tusculum's runs.

The features of the game were Cartwright's home rn (which, with his two singles, gave him a perfect day at the bat), and two hits of McCall's, a double and a single, which were turned into home runs on errors. Stone and Davis also shared in the hitting, John with 2 singles, Davis with a triple and a single. Mischlisch's double was the other extra-base hit of the game.

Maryville plays the East Tennessee State Teachers here Friday. Lefty Harvey and Captain Johnson will probably be on the mound.

Twilight Concert

On last Friday afternoon at four o'clock in Voorhees Chapel the members of the Tuesday Club and a few invited friends were guests of the Chilhowee Club at a Twilight Concert given under the direction of Miss Laura Hale using her advanced students.

The stage was an appropriate setting for the lovely program with its decorations of flowers and ferns, lighted by the last rays of the setting sun.

Miss Hale made the program doubly interesting by giving the interpretation of each number before it was played.

This is one of the very nicest social affairs in the music life of Maryville, and each year the music lovers of Maryville look forward to the Twilight Concert.

Those assisting in the program were: Misses Fancher Smartt, Marion Johnson, Lucy Horton, Anita Allen, Bonnie Hudson, Josephine Barnaby, and Mrs. Martha Burchfield.

and Meikle, but she promises not to report.

After approximately fifteen minutes of sleep, the singers were ready to start back. Pearsons' Hall loomed into view at exactly 12:20, and the club, contributed its bit to putting the din in dinner.

DEBATE

The girls' debate team debating Tuesday evening against the East Tennessee Normal debate team won both decisions. Both debates proved to be good contests, and our girls showed excellent ability in argument and speaking. The question debated wos, Reslved: Thot Congress should be empowered to enact a Uniform Marriage and Divorce Law. The traveling team going to Johnson City was Margaret Lewis and Emily Simpson. The team debating on the home floor was Genevra McDonald and Jeanette Alford.

The Agriculture College of the University of Wisconsin plans to plant between 700 and 800 trees in a 12-acre orchard for permanent experimental purposes.

Y.W.C.A. Officers Are Elected

MISS BAIRD PRESIDENT

Capable Group To Head Y. W. For 1927-28. Girls Manifest Much Interest.

Last Friday evening the Y. W. C. A. elected their officers for the coming year. The nomination committee had carefully selected the names of those persons whom they believed would carry on the program of the organization efficiently, every one selected was fully capable of doing the work.

The members seemed unusually interested in the election. The attitude of the girls, which many of them expressed in saying, "I hardly know how to vote, both candidates would be good; which one could do it the better?" shows their desire to put the girl in office who could do the work the best. The entire election was marked with a touch of seriousness and earnestness manifesting the interest which the girls have in choosing the leaders of their Christian organization.

The officers who were chosen know the work, have served on the cabinet, and have shown their ability and interest in the program of Y. W. C. A., nationally as well as the local work on the Hill. We are expecting a bigger and better year for Y.W. than ever before. We offer our prayers, our best wishes, our support and eager co-operation to the new officers. "We unite in the determination to to live unreservedly Jesus' law of love and so to know God."

Those who have been chosen to carry on God's work through the medium of the Y. W. C.A. are:

President - - - - Louise Baird
Vice President - - Florence Black
Secretary - - Lena Strawbridge
Treasurer - - - Mary Clopton
Nu Gamma Leader - America Moore
Under-graduate Representative - - Mary Davenport

Y. W. BANQUET

Yes, it was postponed, but not for long. The big time is set for Monday night, May second. Don't forget the time, five-thirty, and the place, the Presbyterian Church. The Blue Ridge Banquet always brings a smile to all who enjoy good eats and good time. Tickets are on sale at the "Y" Store until Saturday. Don't miss it. Every girl must bring an appetite and a smile.

CO-ED DEBATE

On Monday night of this week our girls varsity debate team went to Berea College, Kentucky, to meet the Berea girls. The question, which has stood the test of many contests, still proves to be a good one, and our girls proved to the Berea judges that Congress should be given power to enact a uniform marriage and divorce law. The girls bring back some very interesting reports from Berea, and we are glad that we can have the opportunity of coming in contact with the other colleges of this sectin.

On Tuesday night our girls met the Berea team on the home floor. Our team manifested exceptional ability in good delivery and effective and rapid thinking. They were not quite so fortunate in persuading the judges to realize the ineffectiveness and evils of the proposed uniform law for marriage and divorce and lost the decision.

The traveling team was composed of Louise Baird and Grace Loftain.

TRACK MEN READY TO BATTLE U. T.

Go To Knoxville Saturday Determined to Humble Vols.

The Maryville Track men have been working out daily since the L. M. U. meet in preparation for the Tennessee meet at Knoxville tomorrow. All of the soreness and stiffness is gone, and the entire squad is in fine shape. Maryville has never been able to defeat the Vols on the cinder paths, but this year the Flying Highlanders are going to put forth their best in order to bring back the laurels of victory.

The dashes will be taken care of by Williams and Taggart; the middle distances by Milling, Morgan, Peterson, Brock; the distance runs by Mann and Rosa.

Crawford and Morgan will enter the low hurdles, while Crawford and McDonald will essay the high.

In the field evnts, Holland, Headrick, and Brock will work with the weights, while McDonald, Milling, Morgan, Crawford, McClung, and Holland will work in the jumps and pole vault.

This promises to be one of the best track meets of the year and it is expected that a large body of students will accompany the team to Knoxville. We're with you men. This is one time to show the other fellow a clean pair of heels. Make the Vols eat dust!

GLORIA'S TALENT IS BEING CONSERVED

Gives Plausible Reason For Non-appearance in Recitals.

Well, I just got to thinking and remniscencing the other day and I just came to the conclusion that I owe it to my admirers to explain to them why it is that I have not had a recital of some sort as all the girls of the school who seem to have exceptinal brains have had lately. And I feel too that I ought to explain this all the more on account of the fact that everyone knows that I am taking Voice and Expression and Music.

Although I haven't studied Dean Barnes' and Professor McTeer's Courses in Physiology I have taught myself to study or physiologize people from a scientific standpoint and although Miss Benner and Mrs. West and Miss Hale haven't, in just so many words told me so, I know that the reason they are not presenting me in recitals this year is not because they don't think that I am especially talented or plenty able to give a recital equal to any that's been given but that they are just afraid that I will feel that I have nothing to learn and won't work hard the next three years.

At home Gloria Geraldine Gutterford was always in demand at all the importnt social functions given by the Masons, Eastern Stars, Amra Grottos, Odd Fellows, Missionary Society, B. Y. P. U., American Legion, the Kiwanis, the Knights of Columbus, and the Ku Klux Klan. Why there hasn't been a Decoration Day service that I haven't read that touching poem "Oh Tell Me Not in Mournful Numbers", for ten years in Pigeon City and every time the young society set gives a party I have to read "Almost Beyond Indurance" until they almost die laughing because of the funny way in which I render it and then

In answer to a higher call, no doubt to some great service in that heavenly world beyond, Elizabeth Johnston, our beloved classmate, has gone home to God.

The members of the Sophomore Class have adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, that we the members of the Sophomore Class hereby assure the family and friends of our dearly beloved classmate, of our profound sorrow at the premature death of Elizabeth Johnston in the midst of a life of usfeulness; and of our prayers in their behalf in this time of sorrow.

Be it further, resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be read in chapel, a copy printed in the Highland Echo and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

W. R. Courtenay, President.

Big Parade Held On Thursday Last

It came off. I mean the Big Parade, the Show-off, the Senior Sally. Enough seniors acquired caps and gowns last Thursday morning to put on the annual senior show off. It is hard to explain how such a custom as this has a place in Maryville College, especially so when those who participate in such an affair are supposed to be the most intellectual of all students.

Some of the more sensible Juniors, possessing advance information of the proposed show-off prepared to present the compliments of the class by adding a little variety to the usual customary proceedings. At 7:20 a. m. they entered chapel with a supply of wire and rope to prepare the several thrones for the respective Seniors. They were met at the door by one Benjamin Blackburn, sexton and watchman extraordinary of the chapel, official guardian of Senior rights, Protector of the Seats, our Firm Believer in the annual goose step. Ben was the sole member of the reception committee and the Juniors entertained him by wiring up seats faster than he could unwire them.

At 8:05 a. m. the Juniors were leading the Reception Committee by eleven rows of seats.

A few minutes after 8:10 the Seniors appeared outside the chapel door arrayed in their pomp and splendor (?) ready to stalk majestically down the aisle. The procession was delayed for several minutes while the Senior reception Committee of One assisted by the President completed the work of releasing several rows of seats from the barbed wire entanglements.

The o. k. signal was given and the Seniors armed with wire pliers and smiles stretching from ear to ear tried to appear unflustered as

College Band To Give Home Concert

The College Band, augmented by talented artists from town, will present its home concert, under the direction of Mr. Harry Bird, in Voorhees Chapel Monday night. The program, consisting of numbers by the band, interspersed with readings, solos and quartets, promises to be one of the best musical entertainments ever given on College Hill.

The Band has supported our teams loyally and entertained us at the games. Let us give them our hearty support in this home concert.

BASEBALL MEN EMULATE SHERMAN

Leaving Wake of Desolation Behind Them.

The Maryville Highlanders are on a week's trip into East Tennessee. The first game was with Tusculum Monday, which game we won, 7 to 2. Tuesday we played Milligan at Johnson City, and again won, the score being 12 to 7. Wednesday we played E. T. S. N. at Johnson City (and won again, 7 to 2). Thursday and Friday we play Emory and Henry, and Saturday meet the team representing the Pressman's Home.

The trip is being made in cars. Harvey, Stone, Gabbard and Blazer represent us on the mound and outfield work; Davis, Shanks, McCall, and Bird compose the infield men; Clemens and Sneed serve behind the plate; and Cartwright and Mischlich are the regulars in the outfield. Twelve players in all are making the trip, accompanied by Coach Honaker and Manager Armstrong. The games in detail will be in next week's Echo.

Men students at Jamestown College recently set aside three days in which they were to make no dates, but they were willing to receive them providing all expense was borne by the makers. The co-eds showed unusual courage at making dates, and the event was an unusual success.

CORONATION OF MAY QUEEN TO-MORROW

College Woods Will Vie With Fairyland on Saturday Afternoon.

The May Day program, Robin Hood will be given in the college woods Saturday afternoon. The program starts promptly at 2:30.

Most of the program is taken from the story of Robin Hood. Of course there will be the long procession, the Queen and all her attendants, for this is customary with our May Day programs. After the song of the flower girls, the Queen of May is crowned and then the program begins.

Wandering thru the woods, it is natural that the first people we would meet should be gypsies for they certainly are a wandering people. The gypsy maidens wandering thru the forest sing for us.

Hearing the noise, Maid Marian and her companion Dorothy, who are trying to get away from the High Sheriff of Nottingham, enter the forest. Poor Dorothy is discouraged, and soon her fears are realized when they are discovered by the High Sheriiff of Nottingham and Guy of Gisbaurne. Marian is supposed to marry Guy because of a debt of her father's. Friar Tuck affords a great deal of comedy in his battle with the Sheriff. Robin Hood protects Maid Marian from the "Evil Sheriff" and in the end all is well.

During this story, we see the grasshoppers, the birds and such creatures found in a forest. Even the North, South, East and West winds appear and give us a beautiful dance. Robin Hood would not be complete without the usual milk maid dance so we are having that, too.

Last, but not least, comes the May Pole Dance.

NEW COUNTRY

Tremont Selected For Spring Hike. In Heart of Great Smokies, Within Park Area.

You'd better go to bed with the chickens next Tuesday night, for the rising bell will ring Wednesday morning, May 4th, in the wee sma' hours. Then you must get up, don your hiking togs, eat a big breakfast, and prepare for a good all-day hike with your best girl.

Ever since most of us have been here, there has been one day in the early fall and one day in the early spring of each year when a train load of conductor—nuisances get farther up in the mountains for the day. They pack up lunches, cups, chewing gum and chaperones and set out. As the fun grows these accessories are more or less quickly and permanently disposed of, and by early afternoon the mountain moonshiners are getting some pointers on the collegiate article.

It is very important that a good scene be picked out for this day's various activities, so Bob Harvey as chairman of the Hike Committee, fluly understanding the ways of youth and chaperones, looked farther than has been seen yet, and picked a place where it will take two engines to pull us and healthy chaperones to keep up with us. Please note this and get a chaperone quite capable of looking after strays and minding your business.

Tremont is just like the places mother used to go. It is a romantic spot, lately invaded by lumbermen. If the Girl is already dated up, you might easily take a note book along and write poetry. If you want to tramp around, there is plenty of room.

This is a trip you cannot afford to miss. Never again, perhaps, will you have the chance to see the mountains in this near-virgin state. There is a river hurrying through the forest on the banks of which you may sit and dream and eat hot dogs.

Come on, get your tickets and let's give the suspicious and omin-

Chilhowean Out About Middle Of May

The 1927 Chilhowean will be issued to the students on Monday, May 9th if the students will cooperate by paying their dues to the treasurers of the various clubs and societies.

The pictures of the six beauty contestants have been submitted to Mr. Fuller and from these six he has chosen the two young women that he considers the most beautiful. The names of the winner of the contest will not be announced until the annual is delivered to the students.

The Chilhowean this year has the largest sale of any previous Maryville College year book, approximately five hundred books having been sold.

The staff has given much time and thought to the book this year, with the hope that it may prove to be one of the best Chilhoweans ever published, and that the students will have it and prize it as a record of the happy days spent on College Hill.

TILL WE MEET AGAIN

Soon we shall be leaving college hill, most of us to return next fall, many of us to take up our work in the world. But one has passed from our midst whom one shall not see again while this world lasts.

We are saddened to think of the family left desolate, and our sympathies go out to them. We cherish the pleasant associations we have had with her, and we grieve that they are to be no more. We are brought again to realize how ephemeral and transitory our earthly existence is, and we are oppressed by a feeling of helplessness and futility in the face of such occurrences as this.

But our sorrows are not for the one who has left us, they are for those who are left behind. The only fear death has for the Christian, is the grief and desolation it brings to those remaining here, left amid the fragments of shattered hopes, and broken ties of love and friendship. Our classmate has gone ahead to a world where the sorrow and anguish of this one are not known, and where we hope some day to meet again. May we so live that when our call comes, be it early or late, we shall be ready to go, placing our trust in Him whose love and wisdom never fail.

Notice is hereby given that on or after May 1st, all business in the Y. M. C. A. Store will be transacted on a strictly cash basis. No credit will be extended. Please do not embarrass us by asking for it, and embarrass yourself in being refused.

BERNARD SHAW ADVISES LAWRENCE COLLEGE FRESHMAN

(Appleton, Wisc., by New Student Service)—"You are quite an ingenious young liar", commented George Bernard Shaw on a thesis submitted him by a Lawrence (Wisconsin) College Student.

The thesis was a criticism of the Irishman's philosophy and religion by Miss Miriam Stephenson '29, written for a course in Introduction to Philosophy.

She received the following reply:

"You are quite an ingenious young liar. How many marks did they give you? A career as a journalist is indicated. Good luck to you! G. Bernard Shaw, 11-2-277."

In a recent game between Texas College and Baylor University, a battle-royal started among the spectators. Through some happy inspiration the Texas band played "The Star Spangled Banner", and immediately everyone came to attention. In spite of the fact that some of the spectators were standing on their heads when they came to attention, the day was saved and peace was restored.

Nine days from today and you will have the privilege of honoring the greatest person who ever lived—"Your Mother". We are prepard to furnish you with th season's choicest FLOWERS. No other gift is acceptable as FLOWERS, particularly on this Mother's Own Day.

The following is an authentic history of Mother's Day:

In the age of Shakespeare, Queen Bess of England designated a day to be as "Mothering Day", and the first flowers of the field and garden were picked to bring to mother.

It was a day to decorate the home of the living and the resting place of the dear departed.

It ws left to America to revive this tribute of gratitude to Mothers. On May 8th, 1914, the Sixty-third Congress approved by the President of these United States, designated the Second Sunday in May thereafter to be known and observed Nationwide as MOTHER'S DAY, and directing that it shall be the duty of the President to request its observance by issuing a proclamation calling upon the government officials to display the United States flag at their homes or other suitable places on that day, "as a public expression of our love nd reverence for the Mothers of our Country."

BIG PARADE HELD ON THURSDAY LAST

they tramped down the aisle to the tune of an inspiring cheery funeral dirge.

Even the funeral dirge succumbed to the tragedy of the affair before the leaders of the procession had half-way reached their seats, and in the awful stillness of silence and the admiring (?) gaze of 650 under classmen the journey to the front of the chapel was completed.

So it ended—the Big Parade, the Annual Show-off. The Senior Fiasco was over for another year—that is unless the present Junior Class wish to continue childish kindergarten custom which is decidedly out of place in college.

Girls! Wasn't that a snappy program last Saturday night? There was a big crowd out to see it, too, and we don't want to fall down on our attendance again this week. We can all profit by Bainonian's programs, and it's a cinch that we all enjoy them, so why not come and support your society.

We know now what kind of programs our new secretary can put on and there's no telling what she will spring on us next. I know this much though, and that is there is to be a one act play this Saturday night. All I can find out about it is that the name is "Cinnamon Buns" That doesn't tell much, but it certainly sounds interesting. All we can do is just to wonder what it will be and just wonder what it will be and then come to see it.

he scrawls;
Then Accident o'erturns the flask of ink
And quicker than a gray tom-cat can wink
It spreads on every page—on every leaf,
And he is filled with deep despondent grief.
Even so and more am I with all beset;
A plight more hopeless ne'er to type was set.
Two girls upon this hill my heart have dented;
To each by thongs of love am I cemented,
And still there are a half a dozen more
To each of whom my changeless love I swore.
And now these maids whose total numbers eight,
They each have said that I must make a date
With her to keep her love for evermore;
For what but that is then a fellow for?
Oh carefree youth who looks to days,
Take care of sinful woman's winsome ways,
Heed not her charming and distracting smiles,
To work thee harm are such satanic wiles;
For if thou yield and come to such a plight
As mine, ye'll have no ease by day nor night.
For if I dare to date with either one,
That act for me will not be any fun;
For wrathful demons would me then assail
To pull my hair and ride me on a rail;
And other torments of the jealous seven
Would not be such to make me think of heaven.
But if I date with either maiden not
I'll be consigned to regions hot hot,
And all these maids will turn from me away
And I will have no one with whom to play.

Ye men of worldly weal and many years,
My case I bring to ye with scalding tears.
Oh may it in your hearts compassion fire,
And in your minds some prudent scheme inspire.
To save me from the grasping hand of Fate
And circumvent the woeful wiles of eight.

P-K.'S

Not long ago on the lawn by the Chapel, the so-called "good little girls and boys of the Hill" organized themselves into what is perhaps the most exclusive club on College Hill. This is the second year that the Preacher's Kids (P.K.'s) have functioned as a Club. Gordon Harold was selected to guide the destiny of this organization. Other officers were Eleanor Franklin, vice president; Billy Crawford, secretary and treasurer; Maynard Layman, editor. Here's to a bang up finish for 1926-27!

DR. CROTHERS TALKS TO PREACHERS

Dr. Crothers, pastor of the New Providence Church, addressed the prospective preachers Wednesday evening. His subject was "The Present Needs of the Ministerial Student". He brought out four requisites of a student preparing for the ministry. First, a deep conviction; second, a profound sympathy; third, a broad range of knowledge; and last, catholic tastes.

There were eighteen present, Mr. Barnard leading the devotions. The deputation team was reported as holding a fine service at Mt. Tabor Friday evening. Dr. Hunter will address the Association next week.

Now we understand why students of Johns Hopkins, Harvard, the University of Michigan and other educational institutions recently staged riots that had to be quelled by the police. They were students of political science doing laboratory experiments in Chicago elections.

Compulsory chapel as such has been abolished at Vassar. In its stead is to be a series of "weekly" academic convocations, which will be devoted to the consideration of the ideals of the college. Chapel service will be continued, but in no way will be required.

GLORIA'S TALENT BEING CONSERVED

I always give them a big thrill to end up the program by reading "Lockin'var".

At the funeral of old Mrs. J. Stokely Duggan where I sang her favorite song "Silver Threads Among the Gold" at the Swans Down Baptist Church, I had the whole house bathed in tears by the sweet tremulousness in the tone of my high mezzo alto voice. I also sing solos in and partly help direct the Swans Down Baptist Church choir. And once I gave a concert all by myself except that I was assisted by a saxaphonist, it was a lovely program for I had much more variety than the girs seem to have here. I played some swwet popular pieces like "Sugarfoot When You Shake That Wicked Foot You Shake My Heart" and "My Great Big, Beautiful Man" and also a medley of Southern songs like "Dixie" and "Old Black Joe" and some beautiful classical pieces like "Narcissus" which is the favorite of the Sharp Music Club at home.

But then they probably will save my concert until my senior year now and present me, in three recitals combined in one, as the most talented girl who has ever graduated from Maryville College.

Be sure to see the May Day celebration tomorrow in the College Woods.

Upon entering college every Freshman has for his or her goal a life of success. You too had such a goal! It was an influencing factor during the first month but other interests engaged your attention and forced the goal in oblivion. One of the first steps on which tension was released was that of study. It was there that a definite working goal linked with "bulldog" perserverence was needed and it is yet needed if you are to achieve success. However, college life has other purposes than that of receiving a diploma. It has for its chief aim the making of men ond women who develop into leaders of initiative and intelligent followers. The student age is the age in which habits are formed that determine the man and woman of tomorrow. It should then be the desire of every student to form worthy habits of honesty, thrift, friendship, style and neatness. With these points in mind

KITCHEN AND BASEMENT OF PEARSON'S SCENE OF FIRE

Excitement and Confusion Reign as Flames and Smoke Pour Out. Quickly Subdued.

It came; we saw; they conquered. This Caesarean pharaphraze means in pure unadulterated American that the fire heralded by Betty Griffes' keen olfactory sense brought out the students, and town-people, and most of all the wails and sobs of our blushing co-eds as well as their more or less conventionally clad persons.

The Maryville Fire Department supplemented heavily by their sister quering. It was as fine a piece of queirng. It was as fine a piece of conflagration exploit as the writer has ever seen since he left Saluda, S. C. Extinguishing this bonfire would have been an honor to any two fire trucks in any man's town.

The emphatic screams of our fair creatures who call Pearsons their "Ever Humble" brought as speedy response as did the eerie cries of our Paleolithic ancestors when they were attacked by Mumbo-Jumbo or some other dread creature of the ancient swamp. Ben Blackbird (Blackburn, pardon me) the Zealot Ethereal of the chapel, staged a one man "Big Parade" in spreading the fearsome word at the band concert which was then in progress at the chapel. It is said that the girls absolutely ignored their less excited escorts and nearly trampled them in their mad exit. The first girl out was the one who screamed "Oh my Gracious, my new hat". The answer from Carnegie and Baldwin were less classic but more interesting. Memorial responded however, to the "third alarm". Paul Meikle was the first to hear it in Carnegie, and was up in a certain Pearson room throwing powder-puffs and newspaper clippings, demonstrating his prowess from the window, before the deadened senses of his fellow-sufferers reacted. Different interpretations to the scene were given by the psychologically different minds. One chap (a Soph.) likened it to a Chinatown disaster, the reason for which may be had upon application to a certain Soph. from Middletown, Conditions In Library And Their Solution Sketched by Reformer.

"It has been said that America is the Melting Pot of the World, and just as the U. S. is a melting pot for the world, the college library is the melting pot for the attendants at Maryville College. People come from all different parts of the world to America; some to make money, some to have peace; some for religious reasons; and there are numerous other reasons that could be mentioned. The same is true of the students at Maryville, who visit the library at night.

"Promptly at 7:00 p. m. students come from their various places of abode; some from Pearsons, some from Baldwin; some from Memorial and some from Carnegie. They come from all directions to the library, and they come with many different purposes in mind, but in the main the students who go to the library may be put in three classes.

"First there is the "love-sick" class. Their main purpose in going

Ninety-five Men Meet Tuesday Evening For Fellowship Supper and Program.

Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock ninety-five men from the Y.M.C.A.'s of Maryville and the University of Tennessee sat down to a dinner at the New Providence Presbyterian Church. They had been introduced a few minutes before to a bona fide Scotchman, Mr. Haigh, a resident of Knoxville who is a native Scotchman and graduate of the University of Edinborough. Mr. Haigh responded with several selections on the bag-pipes.

The occasion was the Maryville entertainment of the U. T.-Maryville Friendship Pilgrimages. Several weeks ago some thirty-five Maryville men went over to Knoxville and were guests of the University Y. M. C. A. Maryville furnished the program for that evening, and the offerings of Matthews in his artistic interpretations on the chalk board, Jensen in his solos, Meikle in his readings and the quartet composed of Matthews, Bowles, Jensen and Crowder were well received.

U. T. came over to Maryville fifty strong with an excellent program. McGowan, U. T. track star, opened the program with a burst of oratory in which he stated that it took an East Tennessean Jew to beat a Scotch Highlander out of a dinner. Bill Rodgers, rose to the occasion and gave a very effective reply. Ed Newell, chairman of the program called on Joe McCluskey, president of the U. T. Y. to respond to the address of welcome which was given by Dub Jones. The vocal solos of Mitten, Goodman and Rogers Carrol were very pleasing and both were called back by the audience to give additional numbers.

A remarkable exhibition of two piano playing was given by Lawrence Cochran and Hugh Smith.

The program was brought to a close by an address by Ralph McDade president-elect of the U. T.-Y.M.C.A., and by the singing of Auld Lang Syne.

It is the hope of the Y. M. C. A. here that there will be similar Pilgrimages next year and that through such meetings a strong bond of friendship shall come to exist between the two leading collegiate institutions of East Tennessee.

The Y.M.C.A. wishes to extend its most hearty appreciation to Miss Sheldon and the girls of the Home Economics who assisted her, for the delightful dinner they served. It was a potent factor in the success of the affair and the good spirit of the evening.

Y. W. C. A.

The pageant, "The Light of the World" will be given at "House in The Woods" Sunday afternoon. Mothers of Maryville are invited. Every girl is urged to come.

Miss Mildred Curtis, a member of the National Board of Y. W. C. A. was on the campus last week end. She has traveled extensively in all parts of the world and presented the international phase of Y. W. C. A. work in an instructive and interesting way.

Trip Up Into Smokies Furnish Thrills and Amusement ment From First to Last.

Say, didn't you have more fun on the Mountain Hike? It was all we expected and more too. There were two hundred and seventy-six student-passengers, with three engines and five coaches.

Investigating we suppose, the Little River Railroad inspector popped unexpectedly into the smoker and was disappointed apparently in finding the gang sweetly and angelically singing "There's a long, long trail". Of course we had a lot of fun on the train, but like Maryville College always, clean, wholesome fun.

After the arrival at Tremont, it took about five minutes for the two hundred seventy-six to disappear almost completely, some of them misplacing a few chaperones, who with woe-be-gone faces patrolled the river bank, or sank peacefully to rest on the mossy ground while some panic-stricken, ranged the surrounding mountains all day long vainly searching for their charges.

It was pathetically amusing to note the number of children who unwittingly tumbled into the river the minute they let go the hand of their keeper. Like sheep following a leader some half-dozen fell, followed closly by their chaperone who was

MUSIC DEPARTMENT GAINS RECOGNITION FOR FINE WORK

Orchestra Concert and Graduation Recital of Miss Bonnie Hudson Next Week.

College Orchestra

The College Orchestra has been doing splendid work this year under the capable direction of Miss Mildred Butcher. We are gong to have the opportunity of hearing it in a concert on next Wednesday night, May 11th. The members of the orchestra have been working hard and have ready for the public a repertoire of well-finished pieces. The orchestra will be assisted by Miss Butcher's Ensemble, which consists of eight violins, harp and piano, and selections from the voice and piano departments. This is going to be a good treat and you don't want to miss it. Remember the date: Wednesday night, May 11, at 8:00 in Voorhees Chapel. Admission 35c.

Miss Hudson's Recital

Next Monday night, May 9, Miss Bonnie Hudson will appear in a graduate recital in piano at Voorhees Chapel at eight o'clock. She will be assisted by Miss Virginia Sting, who will give a group of harp numbers. All interested in music are invted to attend.

Miss Hale Honored

At the close of the Guest Concert Miss Laura Hale directed in Knoxville last Tuesday night, she was complimented by being made an honorary member of the Tuesday Morning Musical Club of Knoxville. Miss Hale, Miss Horton and Miss Benner were invited to be guests at a banquet to be given by the club at Whittle Springs.

Relay—Tennessee, Maryville. Time 3.37.

The girls' tennis tournament begins Monday. Twenty-five have entered for the singles, and fourteen couples for the doubles. The singles will be played first. Schedules will be posted in the dormitories Saturday.

Last week the Highlanders made one of the most successful sorties in to East Tennessee in many years, taking four games, and losing one to Emory and Henry. The sixth, with Pressman's Home was rained out.

The Highlanders as a team hit .307. Stone at .500, Bird .473, Cartwright .450, Blazer .461, Davis .353 and Sneed .333 were the men who hit over .300. This hitting, coupled with the excellent pitching of the entire staff, were the deciding factors in the Maryville victories.

Tusculum Game

Tusculum, our first game, was won when Blazer let down the Greeneville boys with 1 hit. However, they were enabled by a couple of errors to score two runs on this lone hit.

IN APPRECIATION

Possibly no one else on the campus comes in for as much more or less good natured raillery and disparaging comment throughout the year, as does Miss Coulter, in her position as head of the boarding club. Much of this is in fun, and part of it is due to mere ignorance of the problems she has to contend with in her work.

However, Miss Coulter has proven again and again her interest in the welfare of the students, and her sincere desire to do everything possible for them.

This was strikingly proven again on Monday night, when, despite the seemingly hopeless ruin in the kitchen and dining room after the fire, she announced before the crowd had dispersed, and while the smoke and steam were still pouring out of the doors and windows, that breakfast would be served in the morning! And it was! We don't know how she did it, but we certainly are appreciative, and so we take this method of letting it be known.

HIKE AT TREMONT VOTED BEST YET

not to be outdone by their venturesome spirit.

Some few of the more ambitious hikers struck the trail to the lumber camps and from all accounts had an unusually thrilling time. They tell us of rather adventuresome thrills, proving the truth of their otherwise doubtful tales by displaying pictures of themselves gingerly holding bear cubs in their arms. We are sincerely relieved to say that it was bears these honorable gentlemen held at the time the pictures were taken.

The general hilarity of the gang as they crowded into the train at four-thirty, dirty, grimy, wet, bedraggled, but happy and smiling withal, proved the Maryville spirit triumphant.

We winced nervously as we sat on the rear platform and heard the conductor give the colored porter orders to watch and throw the emergency brake if one of the front cars ran off the track. But nevertheless the fun was great.

At six-thirty sharp the train rolled into Maryville. With mountain bouquets and limps and groans we descended from the train and wended our way homeward. Tremont, we voted was the best place yet, and we owe ourselves a vote of thanks for breaking a precedent and not getting left.

More than 60 per cent of the mechanical power used by American industry is applied through electric motors. But the electrification of the tasks performed by man power has hardly begun. Electric power not only saves dollars; it conserves human energy for better purposes and raises standards of living. College men and women may well consider how electricity can lessen the burdens of industry and of farm and home life.

Ohio. The author saw the departure of the supporters of the Czar from Russia re-enacted. Others saw only the picture of their best fellow receiving a premature burning and the rhination of their roostng place. At last the fire was put in the place where all good little fires go and the frenzied females gave a red eyed examination to their respective cells.

Perfect order was restored after bow-knots, reef-knots, overhand knots, and what-nots were disentangled from the hose lines, and the big red chariot drove up the front lawn to pump out the water. This it may be stated was the first time that a un-intoxicated chaffeur performed this act it is said. Moonshining privleges were not allowed as "Chilly" Bowles confirmed upon interrogating Miss Molly. The scene at last quieted with the deadliest of the species finding abode either in other halls or out in town. All being tired immediately seeking slumber. Some of the force remained 'till the wee hours of the morn clearing away things for our breakfast, and extinguishing another outbreak of the fire. The fire was not entirely a success, for two families, Dr. Stevenson's and Dr. Burchfield's did not know it till all was over. All in all, we can use a fire at any time if it is as great a monotony relef as was this one.

Our boys tramped on the Lenoir nine 10 to 4 in the game yesterday. Harvey was in fine form, holding them to 5 hits. Two of these with two errors in the 7th, let Lenoir score 3 unearned runs. The Scots garnered 14 hits, and Bird crashed out the extra base hits with a home run and a triple respectively.

We meet the same bunch today. Gabbard and Blazer will be ready for mound duty.

to the library is to see their beloved and enjoy the evening. This class of students can always be recognized.

"The girl usually is the first to arrive. She comes in about 7:00 registers on the "book of life" and finds a seat facing the boy's section and makes a few feeble attempts to study. After a while, usually by 7:10, a young man, neatly dressed, may be seen to enter the side door and he walks, none too softly, and none to quickly toward the librarian's desk. He walks heavily, so she will hear him and slowly so that he may have time to glance all over "No Man's Land" to see if he can locate her. Usually he succeeds. He gets a book from the librarian, takes a seat facing the girl's side of the hall and there he and she gaze yearningly for a while at each other. But after a short while she is not content with gazing and neither is he, so they may be seen to write very industriously. Then in a few minutes the girl accidently breaks her pencl point, and of course it must be sharpened. So she proceeds to the sharpener, with her pencil and a little slip of paper; and while sharpening the pencil she accidentally drops the paper and forgets to pick it up. She then goes back to her seat. And alas, the poor boy is unfortunate too, he breaks his pencil point and of course it must be sharpened. So he proceeds to the sharpener and casually picks up the paper the girl had dropped, slips it into his pocket, and goes back to his seat and smiles at her. He reads his note. then finds it necessary to go to the dictionary to look up the derivation of some word, and while there he slips a little piece of paper in the back of the dictionary. Pretty soon the aforementioned girl feels the need of enlightenment and she goes over to the dictionary, finds this slip of paper, looks up her word (maybe) and returns to her seat. She reads it and they both gaze at each other for another half hour and by this time it is 9:30, which is bed time for Maryville students.

"But to be fair to the students we must mention the third type, although this is by no means the predominating class. This is that little, select group of students who come to study. They can be identified both by their personal appearance and their actions. A typical student of this type is either fat or skinny, usually he wears glasses, and nearly always has a perpetual frown on his face. His actions also betray him. Coming into the room with a brisk, quiet walk, he finds a sparsely populated table, and deposits his books. He then goes to the librarian's desk, gets a reference book or so, and settles down to work. These students are few and far between.

"When asked if there was any way in which these conditions could be remedied, one librarian answered, "Yes, first, students could be required to wear tennis shoes, and thus some of the loud walking would be eliminated. Second, there could also be a curtain separating "No Man's Land" from the boy's section; or students could be required to wear smoked glasses. Third, there could be a system for sharpening pencils established. To each table there could be run a wire basket, such as they have at the Department Stores. When a pencil point was broken, the pencil could be put in this basket, a wire pulled, and the basket would shoot up to the desk, where a student worker could be employed to sharpen them."

Any suggestions from students themselves, as to correcting these existing conditions can be addressed to the Library Reform Editor of the Highland Echo.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, God, in His infinite wisdom and mercy, has seen fit to promote our beloved friend and classmate, Martin Luther Deaton, from his earthly home to the one prepared for him in heaven, and has called him unto Himself;

Therefore we, the members of the Freshman Class, adopt the following resolutions:

Resolved: That we, the members of the Freshman Class, hereby assure the family and friends of our dearly beloved classmate of our profound sorrow at his death in the midst of a life of service and promise; and of our prayers in their behalf in thiis time of great sorrow.

Be it further resolved: That a copy of these resolutions be read in chapel, a copy printed in The Highland Echo, and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

Early History Of Maryville Y.M.C.A. Related By Dr. Wilson

First Secretary Gives Vivid Account of Beginning Years Of Association at Maryville

The year eighteen hundred and seventy-seven was in a peculiar sense a "year of our Lord" to Maryville College. It was splendidly ushered in on New Year's Day, a Monday, by 'The Great Snow', eighteen inches deep. Snow had fallen on the day before Christmas and on subsequent days; but now the classic hill and its evergreen growth of yong cedars were deeply covered with the glory of the Lord, and presented a panorama never to be forgotten by the little groups of excited students who looked out of the windows of Baldwin and Memorial Halls upon the transfiguration of their Mount Hermon.

On Janary second, the opening day, only thirty-two students out of the total enrollment for the year of one hundred and sixty, had reported. All trains and roads were blocked and mails were stopped, and students floundered through the snow-drifts to the tune of ten degrees below zero. On Wednesday another record of many years was broken, for our thermometers registered from sixteen to twenty degrees below zero. My Thursday, however, recitations were resumed with some regularity.

But on Sabbath day, January seventh, with this opening week of frosty glory for a back-ground, and in the midst of continued snows, the celebration of the week of prayer was begun on College Hill. These meetings, before they were

Carrying On

Our Bible records the great essential things of life. In it we find the everlasting laws of God that control the destiny and existence of man. Each person illustrates a phase of character that we see in our every day life. Every story makes a point that is of inestimable value in refuting the call of the "downward way". Among the great sentences in the Holy Book, we find these words, "Go to the ant, thou sluggard, consider her ways and be wise." What happens when you step on an ant-hill? Do the ants slink off and bemoan the fact that their home has been destroyed? Why no. They immediately go to work and reconstruct their home. They use the available members and the "carry-over" from their old home, plus new material. Just so in the Y. M. C. A. Graduation and a new year always disturb the tranquility of our campus. Members leave and the old cabinet is temporarily destroyed. There a problem is fomented. The old members may or may not be members of the new regime, but one fact is certain, a new cabinet must be called; new plans made and the "carry-over" from the old cabinet used, to make a strong working force for the coming year. The "Y" boys follow the trail of work.

For fifty years Maryville College has had a strong "Y". Today it is recognized all over the Southern

KIN TAKAHASHI A CAMPUS HERO

An "Alien" By Birth, A Maryvillian By Virtue of His Unselfish Service To His Alma Mater

A small, nervous Japanese in a college dormitory bends over the study table at midnight, his black eyes snapping and his whole being intensely concentrated upon the task of moving twenty-two grains of corn into various positions. Those grains of corn represent two foot ball teams and tomorrow "Kentucky Hossie", as the boys have dubbed him, will be coaching the boys of Maryville College in a new grid-iron formation.

Thirty-five years ago Takahashi introduced football into Maryville College. How the undersized Japanese taught those surprising and elusive tricks merely by the aid of a football manual and his personal practice plays with corn grains is still told with pride by the loyal sons of Maryville. His lightning-like dashes around the ends, puzzling the opposing team with his catlike agility, are part of the athletic annals of Tennessee.

Kin Takahashi was born in Yamaguchi, Japan, in 1872. At the age of fourteen he was sent by his father to America, in order to learn English and and return to his native land for a commercial career. Two years in the schools of San Francisco whetted his appetite for the kind of learning not to be measured by commercial standards. for the young Shintoist had, meanwhile, found the Way. The burning question before him was whether he was to be cut off from the help and consideration of his family. He sat down and wrote a letter to his parents announcing his conversion. The result was a complete separation from his family. Both his father and mother indignantly denounced him and cut off his generous allowance.

Nothing daunted, Kin sought the counsel of his Christian friends. He wanted to know where he might go to school and, through his own efforts, secure a Christian college education. Maryville was suggested, and the lonely Japanese found his way into the heart of the Tennessee hills, where he was warmly received by the president of Maryville. He entered the preparatory course in 1888. He remained at Maryville for seven years, graduating with the degree of A. B. in 1895.

The career of Takahashi ought to be an encouragement to any poor boy who is fighting to get an education, and arouse in many others the desire to struggle through with no funds but such as can be earned during the course. Every penny of expense during those seven years was earned by this young man. His capacity for work was almost limitless. Whether cooking, waiting on tables, sweeping, working on the campus, lecturing, or canvassing, Kin Takahashi labored cheerfully and always with profit. His courtesy, earnestness, and industry won him a place among the people of a strange country, significantly proving that alien birth is no inherent

EX "Y" PRESIDENTS SERVE HUMANITY

SERVICE THEIR IDEAL

Sketches Show They Have Gone To All Parts of Globe

Maryville College Y. M. C. A. presidents have always been more than mere presiding officers, they have been servants. A study of their lives will reveal that fact.

James Boyd Porter was the first president of the Y. M. C. A., elected in 1877. After he graduated from Maryville he went to Princeton Seminary; and then to Japan as a missionary. While engaged in missionary work there he did not forget his Alma Mater but, together with Dr. Alexander and others, organized the M. C. Club of Japan. His life of service was cut short by a railroad accident in New Jersey while home on furlough.

Perhaps one of the most outstanding examples of unselfish service is Dr. Samuel T. Wilson, the second president of the Y. M. C. A., who served during the year 1877-78. He had been secretary of the Association the year before. His services as a missionary in Mexico, and after his return, his consecrated work in connection with Maryville College are well known. Last year Dr. Wilson completed his twenty-fifth year as president of Maryville College; and he has not only made a host of friends but has endeared himself to former and present students by his sympathetic

BLUE RIDGE

Out of a definite sense of need has come the summer student conference of the South, fostered by the Young Men's Christian Association. The first conference was held thirty-five years ago. In this institution the Y.M.C.A. of Maryville College has always shown a marked interest. From time to time Maryville students have been leaders in the Young Men's Christian Association movement in the South, and as such have helped to influence and direct the work carried on among the students in the ten states comprising the Southern Region of the Y.M.C.A. An example of this leadership is the fact that at the Conference of the National Councils of the Young Men's Christian Association, the Young Women's Christian Association, and the Student Volunteer Movement not less than four Maryvilile students were in attendance.

However, this leadership of Maryville is not exclusively due to an active Y.M.C.A. on the Maryville College campus. Indirectly, it reverts to past summer conferences at Blue Ridge, where the officers and cabinet members of the Y. M. C. A. have always received a large part of their training. For instance, last year four cabinet members and one officer attended the summer conference, and one man attended the president's training school held by the Y.M.C.A. at Blue Ridge, and another student attended the Southern Y.M.C.A. college during its two summer quarters at Blue Ridge. During the past year these men have used their experience in their work in the local Young Men's Christian Association.

But some of them will leave

Historic Jubilee Pageant To Be Presented By Maryville Y.M.C.A.

COMMENCEMENT WEEK

"Y" To Portray Growth Of Association During Last Fifty Years With Outdoor Pageant.

On Sunday evening, May 29th at 6:30 o'clock a pageant will be given in the place of the annual address to the Christian Associations, to commemorate the semi-centennial of the Maryville College Y. M. C.A. It consists of six scenes with several tableaus in each and portrays the development of the Y. M. C. A. since its foundation on March 1877 and its influence on the students of Maryville College during the last fifty years.

After a short introduction the thoughts of the audience will be turned back to the scene of the foundation of the Y. M. C. A. with its charter members at the first meetings. This scene will also show activities of the first few years of the association. The second scene will acquaint the audience with the foundation of the Y. W. C. A., which has ever since its formation worked together with the Y. M. C. A. The building of Bartlett Hall and the outstanding part played on Maryville College campus by Kin Takahashi form the third scene. In the fourth scene the service rendered by the Y.M.C.A. on the campus will be described, giving details of early cabinet retreats to Sheeppen Cave, February Meetings, and other activities. The fifth scene depicts the influence abroad through the Maryville College missionaries, such as Dr. Silsby, Fred Hope, and others. The sixth scene closes the pageant with a look into the future of the Y. M. C. A.

The pageant will be presented by

FRED HOPE OUR AMBASSADOR TO AFRICA

A Man Working Miracles In The Dark Continent Assisted By M. C. Students And Faculty.

Thirty years ago a young man entered the preparatory department of the College, for what seemed to him then a long course of study. He took five preparatory years here, and then four college years.

Very soon after he came to Maryville, Fred Hope lined up with the Y. M. C. A. He was a man of himself unreservedly into everything and business ability, and he threw himself unreservedly into everything that was good about the College. He started the lyceum course here, and guaranteed its finances for two years. He was a most valuable member of the football team. He was much interested in carrying Christian principles and ideals into everything he did. He was the jolliest man on the Hill, and his laughter could be heard all over the campus.

Just after the Boxer uprising, Dr. Wilson made an address to a joint meeting of the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. After this address Fred Hope arose and suggested that the students have their own native missionary in the foreign field. He went about the matter so systematically and so enthusiastically that the required amount of money was pledged before the next Sabbath. For many years the students supported a native missionary in China.

Just before Fred Hope graduated, Dr. Wilson said to him: "Fred I covet your wonderful business ability for foreign-mission work". He seemed much surprised and said: "Do you think I am fit for the work?"

In 1907 he and his wife, Lou Johnston, who was also a Maryville graduate, set sail for the western coast of Africa. Soon after they reached their destination, Fred Hope was so discouraged and homesick that he felt he must surely have been mistaken in his decision. And then things began to happen. They needed a good business man to take charge of the Frank James Industrial School, at Elat, and Fred Hope was the man. He began with very crude equipment; and was working with natives who were lacking in ambition and energy; but patiently and persistently he worked with them until they began to catch his spirit and enthusiasm, and to become eager to learn all he had to teach them.

At that time the conditions in Elat were most primitive, and doubtless he and his wife suffered many hardships and perils, but no word of complaint ever came from them.

He made the school self-supporting from the time he got there. He began to teach carpentering, then tailoring, shoemaking, building, ivory work, and furniture-making.

He is a man with the true "Maryville Spirit", and by his humility and unselfish devotion to his God-appointed task, he has won the admiration and respect of all who know him. He has worked with

Cooperation

It is because of the great principles of cooperation that the Y. W. C. A. has in the past and will in the future co-operate with the Y. M. C. A. in carrying on the Christian student activities. Many people consider the Y. M. and Y. W. as two entirely different associations, but though they are under different administration the only difference is that one serves the young men and the other the young women. They are alike in purpose, organization, and they serve the same God. There is no real difference, they are really one great association for the young people of our nation and the world. But more especially in local college communities must the two associations work together as one. Though the Y. M. is for the young men and the Y. W. for the young women, yet both are for the highest good of the entire student body, and the leaders of each organization must have this important fact in view before they can serve the best.

In a co-educational college such as Maryville there are broader fields of work for the Y. M. and Y. W. than is ordinarily true of the work of the organizations. It is necessary for the two associations to make their plans according to the needs of the student body as a whole. While each necessarily has a program peculiar to its own need, yet to accomplish some of the very important work of

PROGRESS

This year we celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of the National Student Y. M. C. A. as well as the fiftieth anniversary of the Maryville association. For these fifty years Maryville, a pioneer association has been one of the strongest and most progressve in the South and is recognized as such by leaders in the student movement. However, we cannot say that Maryville's success has come from within itself entirely. It is undoubtedly true that at Maryville the percentage of students interested in Chrisitan service and vital religion is somewhat larger than that of the average college, but the impetus given by the National and Regional Student Movement has been the greatest factor in the success of our local "Y".

Among the various branches of the Y. M. C. A., city, railroad, industrial, army and navy, foreign, etc., the Student Association has always taken the lead, pressing forward to new fields wherever and whenever the need was indicated. The Student Association has attempted to show the way to make the life and achievements of Jesus count in the lives of students—to acquire His spirit of adventure, His complete committal to the way of justice and right, and His consciousness of fellowship with God in working out great things for the Kingdom. It has attempted to make Jesus real to the college man.

Directed by adventurous, courageous and consecrated leaders the work has gone steadily forward. Such men as John R. Mott, Robert E. Speer, David R. Porter, Sherwood Eddy, etc. are leading this movement in the stimulation of student thought and action throughout the world. In our own Southern Region Dr. W. D. Weatherford, J. W. Bergthold and others, disregarding all thought of self, have been teaching students how to apply Jesus' principles to the great social, economic, and industrial problems, and thereby bring about the Social Order which Jesus came to establish.

Looking into the future then, if the Maryville Y. M. C. A. is to maintain its place as one of the most progressive asssociations in the South, the spirit of the movement—which is truly the spirit of Jesus—must continue to dominate the program.

EX-"Y" PRESIDENTS

interest in their problems.

In 1878-79 John A. Silsby was elected president. He did not graduate at Maryville, but after two years of teaching here he went to Chattanooga as Y.M.C.A. secretary. Then he took up his seminary work at Lane Seminary, and in 1887 he went to China as a missionary where he is still in active work. He has distinguished himself in the romanization of the Chinese alphabet, in which work he is considered an authority.

John T. Reagan, one of the founders of the Y. M. C. A., was elected president for the year 1879-80. After graduating at Maryville he went to the Theological Seminary of Kentucky, then at Danville, from which school he went out into life as a minister. He lives now at Knoxville in retirement.

In 1880-81 Horace McBath was elected to lead the Y.M.C.A. He was a native of Blount County, but went to Kansas after graduation. He is one of the few Y. M. C. presidents who have gone out as laymen. However, being a layman has not kept him from taking a deep interest in spiritual things, which is proved by the fact that he soon was made an officer in the church with which he affiliated.

David A. Heron was president for the year 1881-82. He graduated in 1882 and then went to seminary to prepare himself for larger service. In recognition of his work Maryville College honored him with the degree of D. D. He died while he was pastor at Wooster, Ohio. His daughter, Miss Jessie Heron, is a teacher of English at Maryville College.

William C. Broady became the seventh president of the Y.M.C.A. serving during the year 1882-83. He graduated in 1884, and went to Lane Theological Seminary and to Union Seminary, New York. Maryville College acknowledged his splendid work as a pastor in Ohio, Indiana, and Tennessee by conferring upon him the degree of D. D. He lives in White Pine, Tennessee.

In 1883-84 the Y. M. C. A. was directed by William R. Dawson, who after graduating went to Union Seminary, New York. He was also honored with the degree of D. D. by Maryville College. For many years he has been pastor of the Graystone Church, Knoxville, and lives now in South Knoxville. His boys and daughters graduated from Maryville College, which he still serves as a member of the board of directors.

David A. Clemens, who was president during the year 1884-85, went to Lane Seminary after he graduated from Maryville. From there he went to Idaho as home missionary. He is still at work, and lives in the West. A son and two daughters were students at Maryville College, and his sister, Miss Alice Clemens, is an instructor in the English department.

In 1885-86 John M. Alexander was elected president of the Y. M. C. A. After he graduated from Maryville he went to Union Seminary, New York, and then returned to East Tennessee as a minister. Maryvile College honored him with the degree of D. D., and he is now a member of the board of directors of the college. His wife, Mrs. Jane B. S. Alexander is professor of English Literature at Maryville College.

Thomas Judson Miles, who was president during 1886-87, has given his service chiefly to the country churches, and is now principal of the mountain school at Alpine, Tennessee. He also was honored with the degree of D. D. by his Alma Mater. His interest and love in Maryville College is shown by the fact that he sent all his children here, where they have left splendid records.

During 1887-88 the Y. M. C. A. had as its president Melville Mc. Rankin. He was one of Maryville's musicians, and for some time, while in school, he directed the chapel singing together with John Grant Newman. After he graduated he went to Lane Seminary and then worked as a minister in Ohio. He died in 1924.

The first student from another state than Tennessee to become Y. M. C. A. president was Alexander P. Cooper, who served during 1888-89. He was the member of the class of '89 who planted the big walnut class-tree standing near Anderson Hall. After graduating from Maryville he went to Lane Seminary and Princeton Seminary, and then to work afterwards as home missionary in South Dakota and Iowa.

Charles C. McGinley served the Y. M. C. A. as president during 1889-90. After graduation he went to Auburn Seminary. Then he worked for a time in Oklahoma, and was also Synodical Superintendent of Missouri. Recently he has resigned from the First Church at Covington, Kentucky, to accept a church in the North West.

During 1890-91 William E. Graham was president. He received his preparatory school work in Maryville and after graduating from Maryville College he taught for a while entering Auburn Theological Seminary. He was a student, and even during his ministry, he continued his studies, taking at one time extra work at the University of Chicago. His last of the several very successful pastorates ended at the New Providence church in 1923, when he was suddenly called by death.

The year 1891-92 found William McClung at the head of the Y. M. C. A. He graduated in 1892 and went to McCormick Seminary, Chicago, from which he went out as a minister. He is doing evangelistic work now. He has a sister in Mexico to which country she has gone in answer to foreign missions.

Frank H. Marston, the president for 1892-93, has now become a familiar figure on Maryville College Hill. This spring he has completed his third series of February meetings, during which he has won the hearts of all. He graduated from Lane Theological Seminary after he left Maryville, and, after some years of ministry in Alabama and Ohio, became the agent of the American Bible Society, taking charge of the work in Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, and Mississippi. In 1919 the college conferred upon him the degree of D. D.

For 1893-94 Robert C. Jones was elected president of the Y. M. C. A. He graduated from the San Francisco Theological Seminary, and went to Siam as a missionary, where he worked with great success for twenty years. Failing health made it necessary for him to return to America. Since his return he has taught for a time at Maryville College, and served three churches. A serious illness is confining him to his home at present.

Francis A. Penland is one of the few who have taken their place in life as a layman, after having served the Maryville College Y. M. C. A. as president during 1894-95. He graduated in 1895, and is now principal of a high school in North Carolina. His father graduated from Maryville College before the Civil War.

In 1895-96 Thomas W. Maquire, a native of England, was elected to the office of president. In 1898-99 he again became president of the Y. M. C. A. after his return from a visit to England; which indicates that recognition of service knows no nationality in Maryville College. After finishing his education he preached for a while in America, and then went to Victoria, Australia. He is now pastor of the High Church at Geelong, Australia.

A goodly number of missionaries have come out of the ranks of the Maryville College Y.M.C.A. Charles N. Magill, who was president in 1896-97, was one of them. After graduating from college and seminary he went to the Philippine Islands, where he has rendered a distinctive service by translating the Bible into Tagalog. In recognition of this service Maryville College has conferred upon him the degree of D. D. He is now on his way home to the States for a much deserved furlough.

Howard M. Welsh was president in 1897-98. He graduated in 1899 and went to Lane Seminary. For a time he was in the ministry in Ohio, and is now preaching in Middle Tennessee. He has two sons in Maryville College.

William D. Hammontree, one of the cousins of the famous singer, was president during 1899-1900. He graduated in 1901, and then entered his life work as teacher in East Tennessee. He is at present teaching in Athens, East Tennessee.

In 1900-01 William H. Keeble was president. He did not graduate from Maryville, but went out as a teacher, teaching in William and Mary College and Randolph-Macon College, Virginia.

Maryville students are not slow to recognize efficiency and therefore elected Frederick H. Hope twice as president. He served during 1901-02 and 1902-03. In 1926 the college conferred upon him the degree of LL.D., in recognition of his work as an industrial missionary in Africa, of which an account is given in a separate article in this paper.

Lloyd E. Foster directed the Y. M. C. A. during 1903-04. He graduated in 1907, and after teaching for some time in Kentucky, accepted the position of secretary of the Chamber of Commerce in Jackson, Mississippi.

Hugh C. Souder was president during 1904-05. He also went from Maryville as a layman and is now teaching in the North West, and some educators call him one of the best teachers in the North West.

In 1905-06 Stanley H. Jewell was president. He graduated in 1907 and went to Princeton Seminary. He preached for a time in Maryland, and has just recently accepted a call to Belle Vernon, Pa. Miss Almira Jewell, professor of history at Maryville College, is his sister. It is of interest to know that Rev. Mr. Jewell was responsible for the attendance at Maryville College of Robert S. Harvey, this year's Y.M.C.A. president.

For 1906-07 the members of the Y.M.C.A. elected as their leader Jackson Smith who graduated from Maryville College in 1910. After his seminary course he went to the Philippine Islands as a missionary. At present he is in Woodlake, California.

Homer A. Hammontree served as president during 1907-08. He graduated from Maryville in 1909, and is a well known gospel singer. He was recently ordained as minister, and is now assistant pastor at the Moody Bible school.

Stephen C. Guigou directed the Y.M.C.A. during 1908-09. He was a gifted linguist, and after graduating from Maryville did advanced work. He spent one year in Italy studying in a seminary of the Waldensian church, of which he was a member. For some time he was a professor in the language department of Princeton University and later of Ohio State University. Mr. Guigou died in 1926 of cancer.

Job B. Sellers who was president during 1909-10. He did not graduate from Maryville. He developed tuberculosis and died while a student. He had intended to become a minister and thus serve God in the biggest field of service.

In 1910-11 Horace E. Orr was president. He graduated in 1912 and went to Lane Seminary. After some time of service as minister he returned to Maryville as professor in the Bible department. Last year the college conferred upon him the degree of D.D. Dr. Orr has received his M. A. degree some time ago from the University of Tennessee, and is now on leave of absence doing work toward his Ph. D.

James K. Stewart was elected president fr 1911-12. He is a graduate of the class of 1914. He attended Princeton Seminary, and has had churches in New Jersey and New York.

Emory-Henry Track Team Swamped

Maryville Walks Away With Meet, Taking All First Places. Season Ended.

The meet with Emory-Henry last Saturday brought to a close the scheduled season for our cinder-path athletes. The week's training following the U. T. meet conditioned the squad and made possible the earning of letters by three members of the team that up to this time had not qualified for the wearing of the winged "M". The meet was as usual, officiated in a very competent manner by a number of our athletically inclined faculty members.

Conditions were practically perfect for the event, and an ample perfect for the event, and an ample gallery of rooters responded to the lure of Dame Nature and our Mercurian disciples. Despite the presence of an unusual number of enthusiastic co-eds our cinder-demons really "put out" in a masterful fashion. The meet was most interesting. This was especially true of the finish of the mile, and the 440 yard runs, which brought the audience to its feet in an outburst of cheering. Roop, the little cinderman from Emory-Henry, after being held in the background for three laps, came rapidly up on the leaders, and finished in third place, not a half dozen strides behind Mann, and Rosa.

The 440 yard run proved to be the thriller of the day, and the keenest rivalry seen on the Maryville cinder paths this year. Milling, leading the field from the start, held the post till near the halfway mark, and was there passed by Taggart who led the rest of

In Memory Of Our Departed Friend

Martin Luther Deaton, who died of appendicitis in the Knoxville General Hospital on May 3rd, came to Maryville as a Freshman last September. He was born March 9, 1904 at Crockettsville, Kentucky. During his early years he attended school at Crockettsville and there made a splendid record. When Luther had finished his fifth grade work the family moved to Buckhorn. Here he continued his elementary work and completed his high school subjects. All through his schooling he maintained the excellent record with which he started, and won the esteem and admiration of all his teachers. His whole life was lived in the Christian faith which was taught him by his parents. He was a faithful member of Buckhorn Presbyteran Church and upon coming to Maryville became an affiliate member of New Providence Church.

Luther came to Maryville to start his preparation for the Christian Ministry and while in college proved himself to be a diligent student and a friend to all who had the pleasure of knowing him. His character throughout his life was beyond reproach. He died at the early age of twenty-three and is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Deaton of Buckhorn, Kentucky, five sisters and four brothers. His pleasing personality gained for him many friends, both at home and here in Maryville. While we cannot understand why one so young, and with the possibilities of a great life before him, should be removed from our midst, and while we are saddened by the loss of a friend and classmate, yet we must abide by the wisdom of God and know that His way is the best way.

WRITER OF ARTICLE ON FIRE SCORED

Pearson Co-eds Inform Reporter of Excellent Point for Disembarkation.

As girls of Pearsons Hall we wish to say how we appreciate the "intellectual"? ? bunk that was slung at us in last week's Echo, concerning an incident that might have been comic to some "disabled bystanders", but certainly not to the brave lads who were almost suffocated by smoke, or to the girls whose worldly possessions were as near ashes as we shall ever care to see them.

If "The Hall of Fame" in which the creator of last week's inspired article resides, had suddenly burst into flames, we of the humble and speaker sex might not have been able to dash madly up the stairs after his clothes, but it is our united opinion that one, or some of us would have found him sitting out in some lonesome corner sobbing his dear little heart out, very much in need of being comforted; for he would not think of going near the horrid old smoke. We would certainly have endeavored to quiet his screams and sobs and afterwards I am quite sure we would not have laughed at the dear little thing. We would merely have lent him one of our bonnets, shawls, etc., and he would have looked as natural as ever. He might even have loved himself more after taking a few squints in his mirror, but it is also our opinion that this would hardly be possible considering his present exalted opinion of himself.

"Now little boy, don't cry, don't cry, You'll be a big man by and by."

And instead of calling out the fire department next time, we shall merely call on you, big and grave that you are, and lo! the fire will immediately be knocked cold!

There little boy, don't cry, don't cry,
We will rescue your playthings and toys;
Just be very good and by and by
The girlies will bounce you away up high!
Goodbye little boy—don't cry.

New "Y" Cakinet Makes Ready For Action

The school year is now drawing to a close. Many hearts are fluttering at the thoughts of final examinations and low grades. Plans are being made for summer vacations and "positions". These thoughts are all o. k. but how about next year? That is the principal question.

The newly-elected "Y" officers have been busy making plans for the greatest year of the association.

1928 marks the beginning of the local Y. M. C. A.'s second long lap of the century run. Up to this point she has made tremendous headway and is now in good condition to cntinue the long grind and finish with a winning sprint. Our aim for next year is to make the race sure by giving our energy and care to the interests of the Association on Maryville Campus.

The following men have been chosen as cabinet members:

Athletics - - - 'Shorty' McCall
Lyceum - - - Wilbur Franklin
High 'Y' - Taggart, Driscoll and Holman
Bible Study - - - Albert Tull
Membership, Weinand, Fred Byerley
Publicity - - - - - Peirce
Missions - - - - - Hopkins
Music - - - - - - Rusk
Inter-Collegiate - - - - Fell
Sorial - - - - - Voorhees

Sunday afternoon the "Y" officers and cabinet will journey to Montvale for a "get-together meeting".

Dr. Edgar A. Elmore Concludes Life of Christian Service

WENT AWAY WEDNESDAY

Powerful Exponent of Christianity Answers Call. Loss Keenly Felt.

It was with a distinct sense of loss that Maryville College heard of the death of Dr. Edgar A. Elmore, which occurred last Wednesday night at the Erlanger Hospital, at Chattanooga.

A joint committee of the Directors and Faculty of Maryville College has prepared the following minute regarding the life, the service, and the death of Rev., Dr. Edgar A. Elmore, President of the Directors of the College:

The loss by death of our beloved President of the Board of Directors is seen in its tragic immeasurableness only when the lifelong intimate relationship of Dr. Elmore to the College is realized. He entered the school when he was only fifteen years of age, and he was a student of the institution for seven years, graduating in the Class of 1874. While a student he was also for one year a tutor in the College. In 1884 he was elected Professor of Latin, and served for four years, the last of which years he also served as Chairman of the Faculty. Thirty-nine years ago he became a Director of the College, and has served continuously in this capacity down to his death. For three years before his removal from Knoxville to Chattanooga, he was a member of the Executive Committee of the Directors. And now for twenty-one faithful years he has been the President of the Directors of the institution. And in all these varied capacities in relation to the College he has ever been an inspiring and loyal leader, full of ambition and

DEBATERS SET GOOD RECORD THIS YEAR

Win Substantial Majority of Contests. Many Go Out With Seniors.

The last gun of the 1927 debate season has been fired, the smoke (lots of it) has cleared, and the wounded are rapidly recovering. It is still possible to find a few overwrought nervous wrecks, however, going abot the campus muttering rebuttal speeches under their breaths, and pointing menacing fists and fingers at imagined "Honorable Judges" behind every cedar. It may be, therefore, that a few of our readers will be interested in a few more stastistics (debater's pronunciation) regarding the season.

In all, Maryville teams engaged in 22 debates with 12 different institutions. Of these debates our teams won 13, lost 8, and engaged in one no-decision debate. The schools debated were Carson and Newman, Asbury (for the first time), East Tennessee State Teachers College (for the first time), Berea (2 debates, girls for first time), Tusculum (two debates, freshman for first time), Emory and Henry (2 debates, resumed after 8 years lapse), Chattanooga, King, Georgetown, Lincoln Memorial (resumed after 7 years lapse), Centre, University of Tennessee.

Forty-two persons made up the three squads: twelve freshmen, fourteen varsity boys, and sixteen varsity girls. Eleven members of this year's varsity teams will be lost by graduation, five girls and six boys. The Seniors girls are:—Jeannette Alford and Margaret

GLEE SINGERS PRIMED FOR HOME CONCERT

Name Fully Merited on Kentucky Jaunt. All Set Now For May Twenty-third.

Tuesday morning about chapel time, the Glee Club took it into its head to leave the campus desolate and mirthless for a day or two. The trip to Corbin was scheduled at 7:30, but there was a half hour hold-up while the president of the organization said good-bye. Gordon Harold set a better example by merely barking out a sharp farewell.

For the last ten miles of the trip up, the singers were accompanied by three fair sirens in a New York Ford. These sirens almost caused the capsizing of the good ship "Mariavillensis" when all the gallant voyageurs tried to poke their heads out of one port hole.

The bus arrived safely in Corbin, however, and was met by a man who had recently become a lunatic from reading a "master mind" ad. This interesting personality immediately became very chummy with Walt Matthews, proving the validity of the old adage, "Birds of a feather flock together."

The concert was given and received as at Johnson City with the exception of two numbers. The first was a dance of less than seven veils by Wilbur Franklin. Mr. Franklin being blissfully ignorant of the fact that he had an audience. The other change in the program was "Nize Baby", read by Mr. Meikle. A sudden thunder storm came up during the reading, but Meikle's voice rose majestically above the tumult of the elements.

The trip home nearly wrecked the bus (internally). After a rubber band battle royal, initiation of new members was in order. Mr. Bowles, being a freshman, modestly declined the honor of being initiated. The club, however, honored him with a surprise party, and made him the favored recipient of many comments and love taps.

Home Concert

The club has an excellent program worked up, and meets with much favorable comment wherever it appears. On Monday, May 23rd, the boys will present their home concert, which will be fully up to the standard of past years. Reserve that date for the Glee Singers.

Graduation Recital In Voice Next Thursday

Next Thursday night, May 19th, at eight o'clock in Voorhees Chapel, a real treat in the line of music is awaiting the people of Maryville when Miss Jimmie Rule, the pupil of Miss Dorothy Benner, will give her graduate recital in Voice.

It is a mark of rare ability and perserverance to graduate in Voice as is shown by the fact that Miss Rule is the first graduate the Music Department has had in several years.

Her program will consist of the following numbers:

With Verude Clad - - - Hayden
Porgi Amor - - - - Mozart
The White Dawn is Stealing - Cadman
From the Land of the Sky-Blue Water - - - - Cadman
Far off I Hear a Lover's Flute - Cadman

The Blue Bell - - - MacDowell
The Pansy - - - MacDowell
Will O' the Wisp - - Spross
There Are Fairies at the Bottom of Our Garden - - - Lehmann

Miss Heron to Ted W.: Write a short theme on "Baseball".

The following day Ted handed this in: "Rained, no Game".

State Championship Highlander's Goal

14 VICTORIES—2 LOSSES

With Carson-Newman's Scalp Safely Tucked Away, Mary-Is On Way to Top.

Maryville Won From Carson

Newman last Tuesday playing pretty ball. Harvey was at his best, allowing the visitors five hits and striking out 9 men. Three of these strike-outs were in the ninth inning.

The Parsons scored their two runs in the fourth when Sams and Mullendore doubled, and Newton's grounder took a freak bound over McCall's head.

Maryville scored two in the first on an error, and a single by Davis. Another in the fourth on a hit by Davis and Clemen's double. Stone scored in the sixth on Bird's single after he had doubled. Davis opened the eighth with his third single of the game. Captain John Stone then crashed out a triple, scoring Davis. Bird and Stone executed a perfect squeeze play bringing Stone in for the final score of the game.

This makes fourteen victories out of sixteen intercollegiate games thus far played, and with their eyes set on the State Championship, our men are set to win their remaining games. Here's to the Highlanders!

Expression Graduations Monday, May Sixteenth

As the days grow warmer and the trees and flowers are taking on the appearance of late spring, our thoughts turn to Commencement and all the last memories we may gather then. The very first of the graduations is to be next Monday night when the graduating exercises of the Expression Department will be held. In the three preceding recitals twelve of the expression seniors have been presented. On this last and greatest night of all, three of the best readers in the department will give their graduating recital.

Mary Eleanor Welbon has been on the stage this year in Alice-Sit-by-the-Fire. Those who know have pronounced her interpretation an artistic piece of work. She is reading as her recital "The Enemy", one of the latest plays by Channing Polloch.

Vera Slagle is very well known for her character work on the stage. She will be remembered for her appearance in "The Goose Hangs High" when her presentation was well finished and intensely interesting. She is giving Pauline Paulovna, a play of Russian atmosphere and subject.

Paul Meikle has been reading everywhere on the Hill and his work is well known to every one. He has been traveling with the Glee Club as their reader and he starred this year in "The Show

FINIS

With this issue, the present Echo staff completes its task, and ceases to function. As we look back over the year we find many errors, both of omission and of commission,—that we wish might have been avoided. That,s of course is characteristic of all of life, and if by the mistakes and failures of the past, we learn to avoid them in the future, they are not to be too bitterly regretted.

We have endeavored to be fair and impartial in our presentation of student activities. Doubtless some have not received the recognition due them, while others may have been given attention and prominence out of accord with their relative importance on the Hill. This is all the more apt to be the case because so few have contributed to the paper, and because insufficient time was given to the actual editing of each issue.

The editor cannot thank enough those faithful members of the staff, and several students not even recognized as staff members, who have worked so persistently and hard to make the Echo a truly representative sheet. To them is due all credit for whatever success we may have had in realizing our objective this year.

And so, we lay down our pens and relinquish our positions to our successors, confident that a capable staff is replacing us, and that the Highland Echo of 1927-28 will surpass our own humble efforts, and prove to be the best paper thus far edited on the Hill.

NOTICE

The next issue of the Echo will be on May 27th.

DEBATERS SET GOOD RECORD THIS YEAR

Lewis, who have debated one year; Vera Slagle, who has debated two years; Betty Keown, who has debated three years; and Kathleen Hunnicutt, who has debated four years. One of the most regrettable features of the season is the fact that Miss Hunnicutt was prevented by illness from actually appearing in her fourth debate this year. These five girls have all made splendid records as debaters and will be greatly missed next year.

The senior men are: John Crawford, who has debated two years, 4 debates this year; Gordon Harold, 6 debates, Defoe Pemberton, 4 debates, Walter Buchanan, 3 debates, who have debated three years; and Julian Johnson, 8 debates, Merle Marshall, 5 debates, who have debated four years. These men have been dependable and capable debaters who have given strength to their teams and who have entered heartily and faithfully into the spirit of Maryville forensics. The college orator for this year, Merlin Usner, is also a senior, and Joel Morris, not a member of the squad this year but a debater last year, is also lost by graduation.

There are sixteen members of the Junior class remaining on the varsity squads, ten girls and six boys, only three members of the Sophomore class were on the teams this year. These facts point to the conclusion that there will be a number of places open next year to the members of the incoming junior and sophomore classes. It is by no means an indication of the debating strength and interest of the sophomores that so small a number should have made the teams, for there are a large number in this class whose work in the debate class of last fall indicates their fitness for the teams.

On the whole, the impression of the season is satisfactory. While we wish we might have had a we are still convinced that the system of training more debaters than higher percentage of victories, yet handicap in this land of the free.

KIN TAKAHASHI

Kin Takahashi's own problems, prominent among which was the insatiable bread and butter question, were incidental to the larger issues of life. Indeed his personal interests served only to show him the way out for other students situated as he was. For example, he found that a number of students were compelled to leave school every year on account of lack of funds. He thereupon organized a self-help system and secured a large garden plat in an unused portion of the campus where he set groups of impoverished students at work. Out of this has grown Maryville's admirable plan of working scholarships wherein a large percentage of students earn their college expenses in whole or in part.

But the greatest service he rendered to Maryville, indeed the greatest service ever rendered by any student to this institution, was the religious service which gave to Maryville such distinction in Christian student initiative.

The story of how this poor Japanese student pushed through his project for building the Maryville Young Men's Christian Association building and gymnasium reads like a romance. Toward the end of his course he became convinced that God wanted him to promote a building enterprise. According to his usual method he prayed earnestly over the matter and then began to "talk it up" among the students and faculty. Soon sufficient interest was aroused to warrant the organization of the movement. Subscription of money and work, principally the latter, began to poor in. Kin Takahashi heaped more fuel on the fire and through his senior year continued the agitation. On graduating he did not leave the institution but stayed on the ground during the summer, building a brick mill and kilns and, with the help of other students, burning three hundred thousand bricks during the vacation. In addition he organized a campaign of publicity, enlisting the active support of newspapers throughout the state, and contributing farther by lectures and entertainments, at which he was an adept.

But the work had only begun. Much money was yet to be raised. What would the average college man think of spending two years of his life, those precious years immediately succeeding graduation, in raising funds for the housing of the religious interests of his college? This Oriental, this "alien" did it, for his was an enthusiasm for college life that did not exhaust itself in cheers and yells and "Now-boys-the-good-old-song!" Without a cent of compensation he devoted himself to pushing the enterprise upon which he had set his heart. Journeying from city to city in the North he pleaded in burning words for help for his "boys". At the close of the campaign he had secured sufficient funds to build Bartlett Hall which stands today a monument to the zeal of this fiery heart, the little brown man of Nippon, whose banzai was "For Christ".

"The collgee has done so much for me and the Christian Church in America has done so much for my country, that I, a Japanese, want to do something to show my gratitude," he used to say. It was a happy day for Kin when the corner stone of the Association building was laid. He chose the motto graven thereon: "Christ Our Corner Stone." On that marble slab eight hundred of his fellow countrymen in American colleges can, if they will, read the only hope of Nippon's rebirth as a nation, according to the faith of Kin Takahashi.

His work in America had been accomplished. Followed by the love and prayers of a host of friends he returned to Japan in the fall of 1897 to take up his life work. Entering the Association field at Tokio he was winning out in the same remarkable way as at Maryville when suddenly a fatal disease struck him and he retired to Hirao, a village of some seven thousand people, where the work was less strenuous.

His serious decline in health did not prevent his entering heartily into the Christian work. Gathering a class of boys he began to teach them English. Later he organized a literary society "after the dear old Maryville style", with the intention of forming a nucleus for Christian work.

Though urged by his physician to abandon the task which under his hands was developing so rapidly, he continued to plan even larger things. "The work", he said, "was too interesting for me to follow the advice of the doctor and consequently I planned and organized the society into a school."

A staff of nine teachers was secured, not one of whom had a fixed salary. The school was opened with an enrollment of thirty-four pupils and soon was moved into larger quarters with an attendance of one hundred and twenty.

Although he had many bitter adversaries, Kin Takahashi never allowed the missionary motive to be obscured. The inhabitants of Hirao thought the sickness of the Christian teacher was the punishment of heaven for his having adjured the faith of his nacestors. The ingratitude of his fellow townsemen bore heavily upon his heart and, as his suffering became excrutiating and he was only to crawl about, he was tempted at times to doubt the Heavenly Father's love. But, as the end drew near, the clouds were dispelled and his faith shone out clear and triumphant. In a letter to a friend in America he requested prayers for the success of his work. "Pray for us, my friends, that this particular plan may be successfully carried out and many souls may be saved through our Lord Jesus Christ." At the time of his death he was planning a new school building. An eligible site had been given and he had collected considerable money.

On the morning of May 7, 1902 Kin Takahashii's spirit was released from his torn body. Rev. F. S. Curtis, of Tokio, a close friend was summoned to conduct the services. He says: "The house and grounds were crowded to overflowing. I suppose two hundred and fifty or three hundred persons were present, including the leading citizens of the town, who had been impressed by the earnest life of this young Christian. The streets were literally lined with hundreds, and when he reached the hillside where his body was to be interred, we found nearly a thousand people gathered."

Thus one of Japan's most vital Christian men was cut off in the midst of his days, when the most brilliant prospects of usefulness appeared to be opening before his glowing vision. But why "cut off"? Takahashi would be the first to repudiate such an interpretation of his life. At the very end, while in great suffering, he spoke to a friend of how "all things work together for good", finding great consolation in the words of the apostle.

He longed greatly to see his parents become Christians but died without having that prayer fulfilled. He saw his work in Hirao decline by reason of his illness and many of his cherished plans thwarted. But the light of his faith burned the brighter as his earthly projects failed, and he died with these words comforting his last hours, "My earnest expectation and my hope is that Christ shall be magnified in my body; whether by life or by death." "For me to live is Christ: and to die is gain."

—Joseph W. Cochran.

Robert Wood Wright, who was president during 1912-13, did not graduate from Maryville. Instead he finished his course in a law school, and is now established in Florida as a lawyer. He was one of the many studentst converted in the February meetings.

To many of the students now on the Hill Lester E. Bond is well known. He was president during 1913-14 and graduated in 1915. He served in the late war, after which he taught and took advanced work. During the years 1923-24 and 1924-25 he was professor of biology and assistant coach in Maryville College. Then he left to go to McCormick Seminary, Chicago, where he is now preparing himself for the ministry.

G. Oscar Robinson, who was president during 1914-15, graduated in 1916 and went to Siam as a missionary. On account of the illness of his wife he was forced to return to America. He is now in Missouri, where he is teaching.

In 1915-16 Harry H. Ferntheil served as president, and was re-elected for the year 1916-17. He graduated in 1918 and then went to Lane Seminary. He is now preaching in Ohio.

Horace Dawson was president during 1917-18. He graduated with the class of 1918, and went to China as a teacher for a short time. Then he studied law and is now a lawyer in Chicago.

Cedric V. Miller, who graduated in 1919, was president of the Y. M. C. A. during his senior year. Afterwards he went to Princeton Seminary, where he took work in addition to the regular seminary course. He is now preaching in New Jersey.

During 1919-20 and 1920-21 Harry W. Wagner was president. His health broke down during his second year and he had to leave school. He is now living in Ohio.

Forrest D. Brown was president durnig 1921-22. He graduated in 1922, and went to the Southern Y. M. C. A. College for further training. For a time he was student secretary of the Y.M.C.A. of the University of Iowa. At present he is State Student Y.M.C.A. secretary of Virginia.

In 1922-23 Roy S. Buffat was president. After graduating from Maryville he went to Louisville Seminary, and now serves four churches near Knoxville.

Sam H. Franklin served as president during 1923-24. He graduated in 1924, and was for a time assistant pastor in a church in New York. He is now attending McCormick Seminary, Chicago.

C. Edgar Cathey was elected president for 1924-25. Since his graduation he has been teaching and coaching at Spring City, Tennessee. He hopes to attend seminary next year.

During 1925-26 Charles R. Johnson presided over the Y.M.C.A. He was a magna cum laude student and the directors of the College saw fit to retain him as assistant instructor in the English department. He intends to enter McCormick Seminary next fall.

Robert S. Harvey has been the president of the past year. For four years he has been on the varsity baseball team as pitcher and for the last two years he was a player on the varsity football team, and preving himself a valuable man in other student activities. He is also expecting to attend seminary next fall.

Even if they are short biographical sketches of the Maryville College Y.M.C.A. presidents, they impress one with the fact that the men who directed the affairs of the Y.M.C.A. during its fifty years of existence were of real service to the Maryville student body and that after leaving school they did not lie down on the job, but took with them the ideal of service and applied it in their later life.

DR. ELMORE CONCLUDES LIFE OF SERVICE

hope and cheer in the counsels of the institution, and manifesting through the years an unswerving fidelity to his trust, and of high consecration to the cause of Christ and of Christian education as represented by the College.

And it was given to him to render another service that was, if possible, even more far-reaching than was that thus far indicated—a service certainly not paralleled or equaled by that rendered by any President of a Board of Trustees in any other institution in this broad land. This unique and conspicuous contribution of his lilfe's endeavor was that rendered the College in his leadership of the historic February Meetings. In nine Februaries marking the quadrenniums that have elapsed since 18888, Dr. Elmore has conducted the eleven-day special evangelistic campaign that his alma mater devotes to an earnest endevor to lead all her students to the service of Christ. And as with unsurpassed devotion and winning reasonableness and Christlike love he has summoned the young men and the young women to self-surrender and to enlistment in the service of our Lord and Master, he has had the supreme happiness of seeing between five ond six hundred of Maryville's sons and daughters give themselves to his Lord and theirs; besides having the joy of witnessing hosts of Christian young people reconsecrate themselves for a higher and better service than they had been rendering. Dr. Elmore's name is beloved and revered by thousands whose lives he thus touched and helped to transform while they were passing through their testing days in college.

While a student at Maryville Dr. Elmore, then little more than a boy, worked in building the literal walls of Anderson Hall; and throughout the more than fifty years that have since then elapsed, he has been engaged to the limit of his ability in building, firm and strong, the figurative walls of this historic old synodical College. And his works will follow him in this same regard; for love and loyalty and infuence do not die with the death of the body. He will continue to be, even in coming posthumous days, a builder of the enduring walls of Christian life and principle in Maryville College.

So personally bereaved do the Directors feel in this "insupportable and touching loss", that their expression of sympathy with the widow and children of Dr. Elmore is more a real sharing with other kinsmen of a common kinsman's woe than the expression of mere friendship's sympathy. In this bereavement we are all profoundly bereaved, and must search for our consolation only in the promises and the grace of our Heavenly Father—our Father who both gave and hath taken away this very dear brother of ours.

We commit the interests of the College that Dr. Elmore so greatly served, to the providence of One man to be our champion and friend; for only God can discover another that can take the place that has now been so sadly vacated.

EARLY HISTORY OF MARYVILLE Y. M. C. A.

concluded, had developed into the first of the now glorious and historic February Meetings of Maryville College. At first they were prayer-meetings conducted in the college chapel by the faculty; then there were also preaching services directed by Dr. Nathan Bachman, of blessed memory, who conducted eight such series of meetings at Maryville before he died. Then the meetings were removed to New Providence Church; and after Dr. Bachman left, they were conducted by Dr. McDonald. Including the meetings held at both places, College and town, they lasted for over six weeks, and did not close until late in February. They profoundly affected the College and the town. Epidemics, snowstorms, and rainstorms, interfered with the meetings, but in vain. Fifty men and women, mostly college students, enlisted in the service of Christ. On February 27, twenty-six united with New Providence Church alone, of which number twenty-three were students. Over twenty per cent of the student body made the great enlistment into God's service. One of the town converts who united with the church on that day was a saloon-keeper.

"What wilt thou have me to do?" was the spirit of the Meetings.

On February 20, a Convert's Daily Prayer-Meeting was begun in Memorial Hall in a room where the next week the organization of a college Y. M. C. A. was planned. All the converts rooming in Memorial met for a half-hour daily throughout the rest of the college year, to pray for themselves, for one another, and for others. The attendance ranged from ten to fourteen.

It was the following week that the suggestion was made that a Y. M. C. A. should be organized in the College The one who first suggested it was John Alfred Silsby, then a member of the Freshman class, and now for forty years a missionary in China. He had not known of any college Y. M. C. A., for that species did not then exist in this quarter of the globe; but he knew something about city Y. M. C. A.s, and he did not see why the organization might not work as well in a college. So he went to the room on the first floor of Memorial where his friend, James Boyd Porter, popularly known as "Jimm'e Porter", one of the leading Christian men of the College, was domiciled, and spoke of the matter to him. Agreeing in their opinion as to the advisibility of founding a Y. M. C. A., they then came to the writer's room, the south corner room of the second floor of Memorial hall, to talk the matter over. There the three young men heartily agreed that it was the thing to do to organize a Y.

So on Friday morning, March 2, an announcement was made at chapel asking all young men that were interested in discussing the establishment of a Y. M. C. A. in our College to meet in the chapel at two o'clock p. m. The meeting was held near the south door in that section of the old chapel that is now Miss Heron's recitation room. There were nearly twenty young men in attendance. There were only one hundred and four young men enrolled that year in college. James Boyd Porter was called to the chair. He pointed out the advantages of united Christian effort, and then gave opportunity for remarks. All that spoke favored the organization of the association, and it was then voted that the organization should be effected. An election of officers was then held in which James B. Porter was chosen President, and Samuel T. Wilson, Secretary. A committee, consisting of James E. Rogers, Charles C. Hembree, and Samuel T. Wilson, was appointed to draft a constitution. Fifteen young men signed up as members, of whom eleven afterward became ministers of the gospel, and five of them, foreign missionaries.

The organization of our Y. M. C. A. was effected just after the close of the February Meetings, on Friday afternoon, March 2; and the first regular weekly meeting was held on Monday night, March 5, in the college library room, the room now occupied by Dr. Hunter's classes. The rest of the college year, the association met alternately in the young men's literary society halls. This inaugural meeting of the Y. M. C. A. happened to come upon the Inauguration day of the President of the United States. While the country was excitedly debating Hayes and Tildon and politics, the Maryville boys were organizing an association for the service of the Kingdom of heaven. The topic considered at that initial meeting was "Moral Courage."

And thus in the first quarter of the good year of our Lord eighteen hundred and seventy-seven, two mighty Christian institutions were firmly established on College Hill: (1) the February Meetings, which have rendered their beneficent and far-reaching service every year since their institution; and (2) the Maryville College Y. M. C. A. This second institution, the Y. M. C. A., grew out of the first institution, the February Meetings, and was primarily designed to conserve the results of those meetings. "It's grand object should be to promote the cause of our Saviour in the College and community", its first minute declared. And who but God himself can compute the good that has been done in this half-century of loyal endeavor by the Y. M. C. A., whose semi-centenial anniversary is now being celebrated!

THE EMORY-HENRY TRACK MEET

the distance till right up to the tape, when Milling with his characteristic driving finish, leaped toward the ribbon and fell over the line for a tie for first place. These two youths certainly deserve the laurels for their exhibition, as their efforts drove them from their feet at the end of one of the prettiest races we have ever beheld.

The meet was not entirely without casualties. One occurred when ("Smiling") Peterson, favorite of the half mile run was forced from the race with a strained ligament.

The honors were rather evenly distributed, with each track man performing efficiently in his event. Eight men took first places in all of the fourteen events. The final score of the meet was: Maryville, 101; Emory-Henry 25. This rates Maryville as being "up among them", as Roanoke won from the E.-H. boys by a much smaller score. It must also be remembered that the relay was not run.

The summary:

100 Yard Dash—Williams (M); Tagart (M); Miles (E-H.) Time 10.4 seconds.

220 Yard Dash—Williams (M); Taggart (M); Wilson (E.-H.); Time 23.4 seconds.

440 Yard Run—Milling (M) and Tagart (M) tied; Roop E.-H.) Time 53.2 seconds.

880 Yard Run—Brock (M); Mann (M); Roop (E.-H.). Time 2:09.

District as a hard working organization. The good that it has accomplished cannot be measured in dollars or cents. This much we know, it has saved souls and has worked hard to develop Christian character and better living conditions for the world at large.

Co-operation is the secret of success, so we ask that all students and faculty will work with us to make this next year a season of Christian-fellowship and service to our Master. How can this be done?

First, we wish to make it clear that the "Y" is not an organization for preachers or the Student Volunteers. It is not a clique composed of those officers and members who were put in office by the student body. The "Y" is a student organization. It is operated by students for students. There is a great deal of criticism on the Hill in regard to the association and the manner in which it is run. Much of this criticism may or may not be "the East-wind", but granting it is, whose fault is it? The officers and cabinet have endeavored to put on those things that would interest the student body. The student body loses interest and blames it on the "Y". What do you think would happen if the student body took more interest in the "Y" and gave a little advice now and then, and let us know what they wanted. What would happen here on the Hill if all the students lived up to their church pledge and became "doers of the word and not hearers only."

Second, by the members of the "Y" who truly love Jesus and are willing to serve him to take an active part in the work. We cannot do the work by ourselves, we need your help. Give us your hand and all will be well.

Christ said, "Take up your cross and follow me". The cross he spoke of is our duty. Our duty should be service for others. Therefore, we wish to serve Maryville College next year in the spirit of Jesus Christ. With God's help we shall endeavor to make it the best year in the history of the Association.

Maryville this year, and they, with other members of the old cabinet, will be replaced with men, some of whom have little or no experience in Y.M.C.A. work. To these men it would be most helpful to attend the next summer conference, held from June 17 to 26, where they will be associated with some five hundred students from all over the South, where they will have the opportunity to consider common problems and learn how other students deal with them, and where they will receive the inspiration which is necessary to a successful year.

The Y.M.C.A. will post a series of posters on the campus giving details about the conference. Those interested in going to this conference should see the president of the Y.M.C.A. or Ernest J. Frei, chairman of the delegation committee of the Y.M.C.A. at once.

energy and skill and, under the direction of his Lord and Master, he has built up one of the most remarkable schools on the Dark Continent. But, as he expresses it: "We are trying not only to build houses, but also to build character." The church at Elat is one of the largest in the world, having a membership of over 5,000.

Soon after Fred Hope went to Africa the students and faculty of the College decided to have their annual missionary fund go to him, to be used in the Elat Mission. It is a source of great joy to Mr. Hope to know that the friends of Maryville are loyally and enthusiastically backing him in his work. But his joy can certanly be no greater than that felt by the students as they make their contributions from year to year. Frequently when a student has come in to pay his pledge, he has said "I wish it could have been much larger." If Fred Hope could have been the treasurer of this fund here for the past few years, he would have known beyond a doubt, that Maryville's students and faculty are proud of him and his work, and are happy to have a small share in it.

such Christian organizations complete cooperation and a unity of purpose is the first requisite for successful service.

Some of us have distorted ideas of cooperation in thinking that it means that one side must give in to the other. However, as we should all sooner or later learn, cooperation takes mre than that. It means working with, for the good of all, it takes cooperation on both sides, and the Y. W. C. A. here at Maryville is expecting to co-operate in the true sense of the word with the Y. M. C. A. during the coming year.

The associations are planning to make 1927-28 a big year for both associations. In the devotional and inspirational program of the organizatins, each needs the help of the other. But especially in the educationcl and social projects of the associations is it important that the work be done in a cooperative way.

With cooperation as the keyword for next year we shall see the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. satisfying the real needs of the student body of Maryville College.

It has been written by Miss Sarah Moore and Miss Betty Jane Sharp, two members of the Y. W. C. A., who have worked with a committee composed of members of the faculty, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. They have consulted Dr. Wilson, a charter member and the first secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and have gone through the minutes of the Y. M. C. A. meetings of years gone by in order to produce a pageant corresponding in every detail to the history of the association.

Thus, they have produced a pageant which will be of the greatest interest to students and graduates of Maryville College.

It should especially attract the attention of every old Y. M. C. A. member of Maryville College during the last fifty years. It is hoped that many graduates will return to the Hill during commencement week to visit Bartlett Hall again and talk over old Y. M. C. A. days with former class mates, and attend the pageant on Sunday evening.

One Hundred Eighth Annual Commencement Begins Saturday

MANY ALUMNI EXPECTED

Dr. Wilson and Mr. Roland Leslie Taylor Will Address Graduates

The one hundred and eighth Annual Commencement will open Saturday morning, May 28th, with the distribution of prizes for the year 1926-27, at the Chapel Service. From that time until Thursday noon will be the busiest time of the year on College Hill. Underclassmen, struggling with examinations, will try to keep pace with the Seniors, visiting friends and Alumni, in participating in all of the events of Commencement Week.

Maryville is fortunate in securing three splendid speakers who will give of their service during this week. Dr. Wilson will deliver the Baccalaureate sermon on Sunday morning in Voorhees Chapel. Dr. Lincoln McConnell, a former student of the college, and pastor of the large First Baptist Church of Petersburg, Florida, will address the Alumni at the annual meeting and banquet on Wednesday night.

Mr. Roland Leslie Taylor, for twenty-five years a good friend of Maryville, will make a business man's address to the graduating class Thursday morning.

The Y. M. C. A. will celebrate its semi-centennial anniversary by a pageant given Sunday night on the lawn between Carnegie Hall and the Chapel. Forty-five actors will take part in this celbration that should be of interest to everyone on the campus, and especially to old Y. M. C. A. members.

The graduating class of 1927 has helped to make this Commencement a memorable one. As an expression of its love and devotion to Maryville this class has voted to build a block of concrete road from the Court Street entrance. The thanks of the student body and faculty are due the graduating class for this memorial which will add much to the campus.

CHAPTER OF THETA ALPHA PHI INSTALLED ON HILL

A great day dawned for Maryville College, May 20th, for on that Friday morning the Tennessee Delta chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, the National honorary dramatic fraternity, was duly installed on our College Hill.

Last year Miss Jennie Edwards got some of the graduating Expression students enthused over the honorary fraternity. Slowly the enthusiasm grew until last fall after a great deal of arduous toil in the research line a petition to the National officers was drawn up. It contained a bird's eye view of the growth of Maryville, a complete chronological review of the plays given on the Hill since Mrs. West first started the Department of Expression, and the names of the petitioning members together with their hard-earned qualifications. A copy was sent to each chapter in the U. S.—sixty-two of them.

Then some months later a letter was received from the National president, Mr. Menser of Galesburg, Illinois, announcing the glad news that Maryville College had been almost unanimously voted into the fellowship of the fraternity. It becomes a greater honor when we realize that thirty other colleges had been refused admittance, and then we know that this is the first petition that has been accepted since Prof. Menser became National President.

So last Friday night thirteen charter members were initiated into the mysteries of Theta Alpha Phi by Mr. C. R. Morse of Knoxville—National Associate Editor of "The Cue", the magazine of the fraternity.

TRACK TEAM HAS SUCCESSFUL SEASON

Maryville closed her track season on this year when she defeated Emory and Henry College by a score of 101-25. This was the second victory of the season, having won from the Lincoln Memorial University's fast cinder artists by the score of 83-48.

The one and only defeat of the season came when we met the University of Tennessee. They defeated Maryville 69-51. Maryville's track team has never been able to defeat this team, and this was a good showing.

There were thirteen men who lettered in the three meets, eight of them were old men, and the other five were new men. The new men that lettered were: Taggart and Williams, dash men; Rosa, distance man; Stone, Javelin hurler; and Peterson in the half mile.

B. Crawford was high point man for the season, scoring 39½ points. He has been rewarded for this by his team-mates who elected him Captain of next year's team.

E. Mann was the next highest scorer with a total of 33 points. Williams was third with 28 points.

Four of Maryville's track men will graduate this year, Holland, Rosa, Wood and Morgan. Holland has been a great help to the team, because he was good in several events. Rosa proved to be a good distance man, but this happened to be his first year out for track. Morgan has lettered four years. He was a good quarter miler, pole vaulter and relay man. Wood has lettered two years during his stay in college. He would have lettered the other two years if his ankle had been stronger.

Bates' Oratorical Contest Monday Night

FOUR CONTESTANTS

The eighth annual contest for the Bates Prize in Oratory will be held in the chapel Monday night at 8:00 p. m. There are four contestants—Paul Meikle, who will speak on "Which Way to Peace?"; William Rogers, speaking on "The Menace of Materialism"; Julian Johnson, whose subject is "The Nation's Challenge to College Men", and W. B. Jones, who will also speak on "Which Way to Peace?"

The Bates contest always arouses a great deal of interest on the Hill. It is open in alternate years to the men and women of the two upper classes. Those who are interested in sound thinking and finished delivery will certainly want to be present Monday night.

Glee Singers Finish Season With Home Concert and Banquet

Experience has taught us not to be disappointed when the purchased article does not fulfill the promises of highly colored advertisements. Exceptions sometimes occur and we are delighted. Such a promise-fulfilling affair was the Glee Singers' Concert on Monday night.

It is with pleasure we remember the enthusiasm and sincerity of Monday night's performance. There was less volume than we have heard in similar group singing, less volume than we have heard from our own Glee Singers; and yet there was the much lovelier effect produced by sound, carefully worked-out interpretation and an honest effort to do real ensemble singing. Nor was their work really lacking in volume. One felt and appreciated the power of their singing especially on such numbers as Handel's "Holy Art Thou", and "The Bells of St. Mary", particularly when they were singing in full chorus.

The concert caanot be fairly reviewed without remembering Walter Matthews and his crayons. So, too, the work of the quartet was marked for its cleverness, its close harmonies and the deep, rich tones of Bill Crowder's big, bass voice.

And as we comment on these points of interpretation, successful ensemble work, sincerity and artistry, we are conscious that these are the things for which Miss Benner and Mr. Jensen have been striving in their directing. We recognize and appreciate the generosity with which they have given of their time and effort to produce the successful performance of Monday night.

Miss Garnet Manges' spirited and sympathetic accompanying is a thing of delightful interest and beauty. We still wonder how a person of her diminutive proportions can evoke those beautiful big bass chords as she plays MacDowell's "Praeludium."

The Glee Singers celebrated the end of this year's work by a banquet last Tuesday night at 6:30 on the third floor of Science Hall. The excellent meal was cooked and served by the sophomore girls. Miss Green was toastmistress. Julian Johnson, the President of the Singers, gave a toast to the ladies, and

Senior Class Presents "The Enemy" Tuesday Evening

POLLOCK'S LATEST PLAY

Experienced Cast Headed By By Betty Keown, Percy Rosa and Paul Meikle.

Maryville College is known far and wide for its dramatic productions but none of them arouse so much interest as the Senior Play. Tuesday night, May 31st Voorhees Chapel will be crowded to the doors by those who eagerly wait for the curtain to go up on the first act of Channing Pollock's latest play "The Enemy"

The play itself is full of the very highest of dramatic moments dear to the heart of the actors which are sure to receive an answering thrill from an appreciative audience. It is a play which deals with one of the foremost questions in the world today—a question that is being aroused in the heart of every true lover of mankind—international peace.

Channing Pollock was warned by dramatic critics that this play would be a failure but he declared—"One does not write for success—I can not rest until this play is produced." It was produced and has run for two years on Broadway. Today "The Enemy" is declared to be one of the ten best plays of the year. In a day when a play must be obscene to be successful Channing Pollock has attempted the impossible—a great Message has flung its world-wide challenge across the footlights.

Each member of the Senior cast is peculiarly suited for his part and after weeks of hard practice

ALL HAIL TO THE CHAMPIONS

The last ball has been thrown. The crack of the bat is heard no more. The athletes are not seen scurrying from the dressing room toward the baseball diamond. These and many other noticeable happenings are only signs that the baseball season has drawn to a close.

Since the practice season opened March 1st, all kinds of weather have been endured. Sometimes the players and fans have shivered from cold. At other times the sun has beamed with all his might. And a number of times the spectators have watched the boys play while the lowering clouds were threatening. But amid all this the Highlanders have acquitted themselves like men. They have gained what others covet—the championship of the Smoky Mountain Conference and a tie with Vanderbilt for the championship of Tennessee. This is not asking too much. Maryville lost two games to Conference foes but in turn defeated each team by a larger score than she lost by. Maryville lost to Tennessee 1-0. Later Tennessee fell before Maryville 20-2. Vanderbilt was able to defeat Tennessee by the score of 9-5.

The players have worked hard to make this a winning season. They showed their true spirit at the opening of the season when Coach Honaker was unable to meet with them. Under the leadership of Captain Stone and with advice from Coach Honaker's bedside they were rounding into condition when Coach was able to take over the team. This same spirit has followed the team throughout the season.

Maryville has had many teams in the past. She has had many leaders of these teams. But taking the opinion of the fans "John Stone is one of the greatest leaders Maryville has ever produced". He is a true leader. He is a leader and not a follower. Stone has played in every game either as a pitcher or as an outfielder.

With Clemens or Sneed catching, Davis on first, Shanks on second, Byrd on third, and McCall on short—what college wouldn't like to have these players? Then with Cartwright, Stone and Mischlich in the outfield, where could a faster

Athletic Board of Control Elected for '27-'28

JOHN STONE PRESIDENT

The student body at a recent meeting elected the following to serve as members of the Athletic Board of Control for the school year 1927-1928.

John Stone, President
William Crawford, Vice President
John Davis, Secretary

Jimmie Rule, Mary Ella Sullivan, Eugene Gabbard, George Crawford, Student Representatives.

Coach Robert C. Thrower, Dr. J. H. McMurray, Faculty Representatives.

Dr. G. W. Burchfield, Chas. L. (Turkey) Smith, Town Representatives.

Coach L. S. Honaker and Treasurer F. L. Proffitt are automatically members of the board.

Highlanders Win From U. T. In Last Home Game of Season

Captain John Stone and the entire Maryville team covered themselves with glory as the Maryville College Highlanders easily defeated the University of Tennessee in the final home game of the season on May 18. The game started off in true baseball fashion but before many innings had passed Maryville was enjoying a track meet at the expense of the visitors. When the game was over the count stood Maryville 20, Tennessee 2.

Stone, smarting from the 1-0 defeat earlier in the season at Knoxville, was out to win his game. The Tennessee batters were helpless before his pitching. Only three hits were made off of his delivery during the game and these were singles.

The Maryville players were out to make up for the four hits made at Knoxville and they redeemed themselves in good fashion. Mischlich, Davis, Sneed, Stone, Shanks and McCall were the heavy hitters for Maryville. Davis had two singles, one double and a triple to his credit. Mischlich hit three singles in three trips to the plate. Stone had a triple and a home run as his day's work at the bat.

The fielding honors were evenly divided. Each team made one double play. Vaughn, Johnson and Baxter made Tennessee's. Byrd, Shanks and Davis took part in Maryville's double play.

This game closed a successful home season. The Highlanders lost only one game at home and that

FAREWELL

Seniors, we saluate you! For four years you have laughed with us, mourned with us, studied with us, and occasionally quarreled with us, and we have grown to know and love you. But now is the time to bid you farewell. We shall miss you exceedingly. When you return to the Hill in after years you know what a comradely welcome awaits you.

For four years you have absorbed the ideals of Maryville College. She has taught you all she knew; she has endeavored to present you with a healthy body, a keen mind, and a high soul. Soon you will go out to prove whether or not these four years were in vain. You are leaving this Game for a Game in a larger field—the Game of Life.

There are many things we wish to give you as parting gifts—success, happiness, and worldly gain. But these come only to the few. To each of you, however, we wish to give two gifts that you may pack in your trunks immediately. We wish you a Sense of Humor, that gay quality which precludes thinking one's own immediate interests the spokes and oneself the hub of the universe. The second gift we wish you is the Will to Do that disregards hesitancy, fears, timidity, and prejudice. May you give to whatever task that comes all that's in you, and Maryville will claim the Class of '27 with a just pride of ownership.

IN MEMORIAM

One of the saddest memories of this college year is the death of Elizabeth Anna Johnston, which occurred April 28, 1927. But one of the brightest memories is the recollection of her life.

Elizabeth came to Maryville College from her home in South Brownsville, Pennsylvania. Although so young when she left her home, she had made herself a bright and usful member of her community. In high school she distinguished herself in every activity and graduated with great honor. She taught in the public schools for two years and for seveeral years taught a Sunday School class.

Perhaps her greatest achievement was in the realm of music where she showed great talent and promise. She played the piano and organ in her church and taught music for five years. She was looking forward to an early graduation in the musical department of Maryville College. The leading piano teacher of western Pennsylvania had engaged her to become his assistant wherever she desired to begin her vocation.

To the keen intellect and unusual musical talent she possessed she added the charm of a lovable personality, remarkable for kindness and a sparkling sense of humor. Maryville will ever cherish the brief knowledge of such a life and will rest content in Elizabeth's own calm faith that "the best is yet to be."

After the reading of the impressive ritual the members enjoyed a banquet at the Maryville Bakery to celebrate the occasion. Miss Helen Scheibler presided as toastmistress. Some very appropriate toasts were made and congratulatory telegrams were read from chapters in California, Kansas, Oklahoma, Illinois, Missouri, Ohio and Pennsylvania. Mr. Morse then presented the charter to the new president. The thirteen names which will go down in the history of Maryville Dramatics are as written in the charter: outfield be found in college circles? Harvey, Stone, Gabbard and Blazer are a quartet of pitchers who have been a thorn in the flesh to all opposing teams throughout the year.

It would be entirely improper to give all the praise to the aforementioned players. The reserves must not be forgotten. They have helped mould the winning machine. Some of them have been rewarded by getting to play in parts of the game as a substitute for a regular. Strive on 'reserves' your day is coming!

The season is closed. The Highlanders have come out victorious. Hail to the champions! Hail to the Maryville College Highlanders!

under the direction of Mrs. West their achievement is such that we are justified in saying that "The Enemy" will be the greatest dramatic production presented on College Hill. Just to mention the names of Betty Keown, Percy Rosa and Paul Meikle is sufficient to assure this. It is hard to believe that this will be the last time an audience will see this cast working together on a Maryville stage. No one can afford to miss such a powerful play presented by such an all-star cast.

RESOLUTIONS OF FRESHMAN CLASS

Whereas God, in His infinite mercy and wisdom, has seen fit to call unto Himself the father of our beloved friend and classmate, Eufaula Swafford, be it resolved, that we, the members of the Freshman class, assure the bereaved family of our heartfelt sympathy and prayers.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be read in chapel, a copy printed in the Highland Echo, and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

REGARDING SUGGESTED CHANGES IN COLLEGE RULES

Memoranda regarding suggested changes in the rules and regulations of Maryville College were handed me not long since. The faculty considered these suggestions carefully. It may be that, when the faculty gives its annual revision to the rules, some of these suggestions will be of service.

In general, however, it may be said that the college rules as now in effect are the outgrowth of long experience on the part of the College in its daily attempt to realize the ideals that it has ever upheld as a Christian institution. Their wisdom has been tested and demonstrated by many successful years of application and enforcement. They are the result of a very earnest and honest desire to promote scholarship, to safeguard character, and to uphold the reputation of the College and its students. Every one of these regulations has been wrought out under the compulsion of duty; and none of them will be changed except as the judgment of the faculty is convinced that it is its duty to modify them. Any other procedure would, of course, be unworthy of the Maryville spirit.

The faculty recognizes the fact that it is responsible to God for the framing and enforcement of Maryville's rules, and so it dares not shirk this important responsibility.

Samuel Tyndale Wilson,
President of Maryville College.

Buel: I'm raising a moustache; what color do you think it will be?

PENTATHLON WAS CLOSE CONTEST

Crawford Wins

This is the third Pentathlon that the Y. M. C. A. has sponsored. The Pentathlon is a test of speed, activeness and endurance. Every man that enters this contest must compete in all the events. This kind of track program has been creating interest in the southern schools during the last few years.

The contest was close from start to finish. The three favorites to win were Holland, Brock and Crawford. On account of the differences of the lanes and the poor stop watches, each man had to run by himself in the 100 yard dash and the 220 yard low hurdles. Holland, Brock and Crawford set a good pace in the 100 yard dash. Then in the shot put Brock upset the dope by putting the shot further than he had all year. Holland took second. Brock fell down in the high jump because he only tied with Hunt for sixth place. Holland surprised Brock by beating him in the low hurdles. At the end of these four events, Holland and Crawford were tied with ten points each, while Brock had 12½ points.

The half mile was the hardest of the five events, three men failed to finish, and two men fell exhaustd at the finish.

The following men finished in the order named: Brock, Holland, McDonald, Headerick, Pierce and Hunt.

VOL. 13 MARYVILLE TENN. FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 16, 1927 No. 1

Opening Of Football Practice Forecasts A Champion Team

13 LETTER MEN RETURN

Opening Game With Kentucky State September 24th At Lexington.

During the summer months Coach Honaker kept in touch with all prospective candidates for positions on the football team. As a result he has the largest squad that he has ever had this early in the season. About fifty men have answered the call and are working daily getting in condition for the opening game with Kentucky State at Lexington, Sept., 24. Many of the old men played baseball during the summer and were in fairly good condition when they reported.

The following letter men have reported: Capt. Stone, Davis, Bird, G. Crawford, Clemens, Sneed, Taylor, Gann, Brock, M. Dunn, G. Dunn, Proffitt, and Hurst. Many of last year's reserves are showing up well. The most promising of these are Morrison, Hope, Williams, and B. Crawford. Of the new men little can be said about them for many of them reported late and haven' had time to make any marked improvements. Of the new men who have been in training for several days, De Laney, Russell, Watkins, Wilson, and Bond are showing up the best. However, there are some good men who will be heard from later in the season although they are not doing so much now.

It is too early in the season to make any bids for the championship of the state, but the material, with which the coaches have to work, can and will be molded into a winning combination.

Maryville has a good schedule and has the material for a good team. Then it is the duty of the student body and the town people to talk football and support the boys as has been done heretofore. Let us forget the heat and drouth and remember that the football season is almost here. The Orange and Garnet needs your hearty cooperation and support to sweep on the victory over the larger schools. Come on, football fans, let us make this year Maryville's best year of the gridiron.

MOONSHINING AS AN INSTITUTION

One of the most popular courses on the campus of Maryvilte College is that one known as moonshining. It is indulged in by those infatuated individuals who believe in the old saying, "Ain't love grand?" Feminine moonshiners may be distinguished by the two pillows which they carry, while the male of the species is known by the expectant look with which he surveys a group of girls for a glimpse of his beloved. For the benefit of those who are interested in this form of entertainment, some of the more favorable locations might be enumerated in which this course may be pursued. The favored ones are: in back of the Chapel, the grounds around Thaw, the hill sloping toward the railroad, and the territory around the hospital. Instru tions might be issued as to what to do when the couple is established in a certain favorable place, but such information would be obvious, unnecessary, and unwelcome. Originality of expression is encouraged in any course, and in this one particularly. Go to it, freshies!

Miss Bewley To Read For Y. W. C. A. Benefit

On September 26, Miss Irene Bewley, reader, will give a program for the benefit of the Y. W. C. A. Miss Bewley is an accomplished and popular artist and the program should be well attended by both students and town people. Miss Bewley attended Maryville College and was discovered by Mrs. West, who started her on the long road to developing her remarkable genius. She is welcomed in numbers of cities who ask her return the following years to repeat her triumphs. She is rated as one of the best readers in the United States. Maryville students cannot afford to miss such a charming personage as Miss Bewley. So get your tickets and make your dates for September 26th.

Y's ATTEND ANNUAL MONTVALE CONFERENCE

By Mary Davenport

Last Saturday afternoon the college truck left Pearsons loaded with the officers and cabinet members of tse Y. M. C., and the Y. W. C. A. Being crowded didn't worry us because we were all so glad to see each other again. A few took their first Tennessee bath in the swimming pool just before supper and we later noticed how muddy I was.

The conference opened Saturday night with an address by Rev. Brown of Knoxville. He brought us a splendid message and urged us to make our religion a living thing. Rev. Broyles, of the Nothern Methodist church of Maryville, led the sunrise prayer meeting on Lake Lanier. During the morning the cabinets and committees met and discussed plans for the coming year. In the afternoon the cabinets held a joint meeting and were addressed by Dr. Hunter and President Wilson. After supper Jimmy Rule led us in a song on the front steps and everything was lovely until Corky Crawford insisted on singing, "Jesus Wants Me for a Sunbeam." At vespers President Wilson gave us a message full of inspiration as his speeches always are.

The conference ended on Monday morning when the truck left Montvale, loaded even more than it was before.

The last thing the guests at the Montvale hotel heard was a great big Howie, How. The biggest thing the conference gave us was a head full of inspiration and hope for the coming year—besides memories of the moonlight on the mountains and mountain streams. We appreciate the efforts of the conference chairman to provide this inspirational program for us. Here's wishing everybody a successful "Y" year.

CAPTAIN JOHN STONE

Captain John Stone, the captain of Maryville's football team for 1927-28, is entering on his fourth year of work on the team. Captain Stone comes from Mulberry, Tennessee, and has been playing center for the last three years with consisent and intelligent fight and determination. His years of service and loyalty to the College entitle him to the position of trust which he now holds, and his record of clean, hard, intelligent fighting insures that he will carry the honor of his office handsomely. He possesses unusual qualities of leaderhip, and with a splendid team back of him, he will be sure to lead Maryville to victory on many a hard-won field. We're backing you, so speak for yourself, John.

LEARN YOUR SONGS

ALMA MATER

Where Chilhowee's lofty mountains
Pierce the southern blue,
Proudly stands our Alma Mater,
Noble, grand, and true.

Chorus: Orange Garnet float forever
Ensign of our hill,
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail to Maryville!

As thy hill-top crowned with cedars
Ever green appears,
So thy mem'ry fresh shall linger
Through life's smiles and tears.

Lift the chorus, wake the echoes,
Make the welkin ring!
Hail the queen of all the highlands!
Loud her praises sing!

It was remarked at the Pep meeting last Wednesday night that the new students did not learn the Pep Song very quickly, and that the upper classmen were not sufficiently familiar with the song, "Alma Mater." They are here reprinted in the hope that these two songs will be so well known that the cheer leaders can get an instant and hearty response when they are announced.

THE PEP SONG

We've got the rep, rep, rep,
Of old Maryville,
We've got the pep, pep, pep,
Of old College Hill,
We've got the strength
To knock 'em stiff
And never know the diff,
We're from Maryville
In Tennessee!

Construction And Repair Work Done On Campus This Summer

ROAD PAVED TO LIBRARY

Automatic Fire Sprinkler System Installed In Baldwin And Memorial.

1927-28 bids fair to be one of the best years in Maryville's history. With the enrollment up to the limit, scores having been turned away since early August, we prepare to launch forth into a glorious school year.

Students coming in for the first time this year see a far more attractive campus than the old students have ever seen, while we who have spent one, two, or three years here rejoice in the fact tht such improvements have been made before our departure. The new concrete road leading from Court street up to the post office is one of the most outstanding features. It is the gift of the classes of '26 and '27 and will serve as a pleasant and extremely useful reminder of them. In addition to the new road, the campus has also undergone a thorough cleaning, the hedges clipped, the lawns mowed, the fountain in good working order —in fact, everything has been done to uphold our reputation for having what an enthusiastic Maryville admirer has called "the prettiest college campus in East Tennessee."

Nor have the improvements been confined to the campus. Anyone walking through Baldwin and Memorial can hear on all sides the "ch's" and "oh's" of admiration for the respective third floors of these halls. Hard-wood floors, newly plastered walls, and new double-windows make these rooms among the most desirable to be had.

The many new improvements on campus and dormitories make a fitting welcome for such a fine student body as has just enrolled. Although Maryville, as always, places quality above quantity, we cannot but rejoice at the number of our students.

In mentioning the factors which shall contribute to Maryville's success in 1927-28 one could not afford to leave out our august and dignified seniors. The number of seniors enrolled so far is 74. With such a large class, composed of such able students and loyal Maryvillians, the class of '28 should and will contribute largely to the glory and prestige of our beloved college.

Y. W. TO RECEPTION

Saturday night Y. W. tenders a reception both to the new and old girls. Emily Simpson will have charge of the games, so come prepared for a splendid time. Old girls, bring your little sisters, and don't let them feel lonesome.

New Co-ed Athletic Program Is Planned

How about it, girls? What part are we going to have in M. C. athletics this year? It's up to us, you know. Miss Norton has some mighty interesting plans, but she can do nothing without our cooperation.

There is to be a complete change in the girls' athletic program this year. A new point system is to be tried out, for one thing this will give every girl a chance to try for a letter, instead of a fortunate few.

We're going to have enough different sports to interest every girl on the hill, tennis, swinmming, soccer, basketball, and track will all be included.

Miss Norton is our athletic director, and it would be hard to find one with more pep and ability. The Y. W. also expects to sponsor sports. Mary Ella Sullivan is athletic chairman.

Surely there are a number of Freshman girls who were active in high school athletics and are anxious to continue on college hill. And a lot of old stars are back. Come on girls, and let's all cooperate and make this the biggest year yet for co-ed athletics.

AMUSING QUESTIONS ASKED OF REGISTRARS

Registration—those long looked for days of toil and prespiration for registrars and bewilderment and disillusinment for students, old and new! Just imagine what might be heard if all the sounds in Thaw Hall the past three days could be broadcasted throughout the country.

"I know freshmen are not supposed to have any preferences, but do you think that I might be allowed to take Spanish under Miss Gruchy? Oh, that's fine! Do I have any other preferences? Well, I had not thought of any others but just let me think a minute."

"That man back there gave me a lot of little cards. What in the world do I do with them? You say to write my name across the top? Oh, you mean on the blank side of the card?"

"There I have one card all done. Now what do I do? Oh, I have to do all the little cards that way? What a waste of time!"

"Well, listen. I want to take Spanish and Spanish is not written on my card. Oh, I can write it in. Oh!"

"My home address? There isn't room for the street number. Well it's a small town anyway."

"Was I ever vaccinated? For what? Small pox? Oh yes, ages ago, but I don't remember what year. Oh, you say to put it down as nearly as I can. Well—I wasn't very old. It must be almost sixteen years ago. I will put it that way anyhow."

"They even want to know when I as born! Some people are inquisitive! What? Did I write that I was born in 1927?"

"Yes, my cards are all filled out. I don't think I want to take both biology and chemistry. I'll just go back and let them register me all over again."

"What does it mean when it says "class" on the back of this card? Oh, why of course I am a freshman."

"I think there is a mistake somewhere. There is no number on my expression card. I guess I better go back and have one put on. Oh, Mrs. West will do it for me? Where is she? When will she do it? Can I have the expression teacher I want? Can I drop it if I don't like her?"

"Yes, I am back again. Why didn't you tell me I had to have an extra little card if I wanted to take piano lessons? Do I want one lesson or two? One, of course, can you imagine anyone wanting to take two!"

"Do you know that all my courses are different from the ones that girl has and we are sisters, too!"

"Do you keep all of those cards? Oh, I get the white one. Now what do I do? Go to the treasurer's office? Where? Oh, in Anderson Hall. Where is that? The large building beyond the bookroom? Well, maybe I can find it."

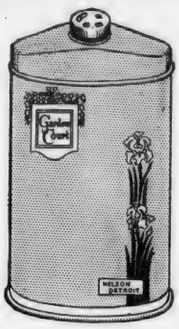
MARYVILLE SACRIFICES FOR HER STUDENTS

There was a breathless pause in chapel Tuesday morning when Dr. Wilson announced that last year 500 of the 750 students drew out from the college treasury in return for their services on the hill $32,000. Now to most of us $32,000 is an enormous sum, and when we realize that this sacrifice on the college's part is purely voluntary, we are amazed at the generous spirit thus shown. Why should Maryville feel herself obligated to give work to any earnest student who asked for it? Why should not she rather employ a smaller staff of workers and give the surplus to her professors, who richly deerve such a well earned increasc? Why should she not rather demand of every student money in return for a college education? Why should she not keep her $32,000?



Because Maryville is dedicated to that divinely-inspired thought that it is more blessed to give than to receive. Because Maryville's officers and teachers have entered her services willingly, knowing that they can never be repaid with money, but looking to the higher compensation, the loyalty, faith, and love of Maryville's students. Let us give it to them, in full measure, and let us finally go out to prove that we are worthy of Maryville's sacrifices.

TO THE CLASS OF '31

Welcome, class of '31, to College Hill. You are upon the threshold of four year's work at Maryville. It is yours to decide whether you will follow in our footsteps, knowing our failures and our successes, or whether you will blaze a new trail—the trail of a class that will have nothing to look back upon with regret when 1931 rolls around. The test of the success of your class will be in Achievement. Will you do things? We, ourselves, have dreamed and talked of doing many things and have accomplished a few. We wait to see if you will accomplish all of which you dream and talk.

We have talked of improving the student standard, and so will you. Will you do anything about it? We have talked of making a better team, and so will you. Will you do anything about it? We have talked of many things, and so will you, but will you do anything about it? The hope of Maryville lies in each class exceeding the other until finally the ideal class comes—the class filled with the Maryville spirit, the joy of loyalty and of service—the class that will do things. Will that class be the class of '31?

CULTURE WEEK TO BE OBSERVED ON CAMPUS

It's a terrible thing to get so used to bad manners that they are taken for granted. Is that what some M. C. students have done? I'm afraid that it's only when we hear the shocked remarks of the freshman that some of us stop to think. Surely we'll all agree that culture is a necessity—even for college students! A college education is no excuse for rudeness. A diploma doesn't take the place of table manners.

There is usually a remedy for every bad condition, and the remedy for this lack of culture is, broadly speaking, thoughtfulness and consideration for others. So the Y. W. C. A. is sponsoring culture week, starting Sunday the eighteenth. All during the week we'll try to pay special attention to the little things that count so much toward true refinement.

The worst condition is that in the dining hall. There's no need to describe it—it's entirely too obvious. And there are other things that the Y. W. will try to bring before us his next week. Mrs. McMurray has agreed to help us in every way that she can, and we all want to show our appreciation. Tuesday night has been designated as culture night. There will be a program in the chapel, showing the right way and the wrong way to do a number of things. Nobody will want to miss this.

Of course, the whole problem and its solution depends upon the attitude of the student body. Nothing can be done without whole-hearted co-operation. Let's start the school year off right in this particular, and show ourselves and everybody else that we are not lacking in culture.

WHAT Y. W. MEANS ON OUR COLLEGE HILL

Few new girls come to the hill with any idea of Y. W. work. Some may have been Girl Reserves; to others it is only an hotel for girls and a very good place to eat. A college Y. W. is an entirely new idea and one wonders just what it is and what its functions are.

Y. W. means a lot to our college. Did you new girls know that Y. W. had charge of the sing the other night? That she sponsors the "pop calls" you'll receive soon? That Nu Gamma Sigma is a part of Y. W? That Y. W. gave you your big sister? Why, Y. W. is even going to give us lessons in etiquette!

Then there's the Y. W. reading room in Thaw Hall, really for your use. There you will find interesting reading matter and perhaps your favorite magazine. Don't the Woman's Press, Woman's Home Companion, Pictorial Review and Cosmopolitan sound good to you? You're welcome to our reading room.

Y. W. not only tries to make you feel at home and to give you good times, but also is hard at work in other fields. She provides big sisters for those at the orphanage. She is organizing Girl Reserves in surrounding high schools. She has charge of the morning prayer meetings. She sends teachers to the Mission. Y. W., in conjunction with the Y. M., has charge of something that is to mean much to you new students, the Life Work Conference. You'll also hear of Y. W.'s connection with athletics.

Our meetings, we trust, will be attractive to all. Our aim is to vary the devotional type of meeting with discussion and Bible reading. Music we have always, with special musical programmes now and then. Remember, every Sunday afternoon at 1:15. Every new, and old girl, too, is invited.

FRESH IMPRESSIONS

(By a Freshman)

The freshman, after the last trunk is packed, after the last farewells have been given, after the last glimpse of the old home town, receives his first impression of college on the train. He travels for a day or so, he sees many sights and many peoples until he is able to distinguish between an old student and a new one. And how, one may ask, does he tell the difference? Which one sits, stiff as a poker, looking neither to the right nor to the left? Which one walks up and down the aisle, slapping acquaintances on the back, and manifestly enjoying a hilarious time to the tune of his chewing gum?

The freshman arrives at night and at once infers that Maryville College is some big electric light plant. If he knows not whither to go he is directed to Greenhorn Hall and turns his obedient steps thither. After finding a room and bunking for the night he is awakened by the clanging of a bell. He is told that he must arise, and does so, to find that all the upper classmen arise leisurely a half hour later. He drifts with the tide and samples some of Pearsons' famous hash about which he has been informed. Applesauce!

Then follow in rapid succession photographing, registering, chapel, pep meeting, receptions, and finally classes. He has had experience, he has lived, the freshman belongs to Maryville.

MANY STUDENTS SHOT

Maryville, along with other leading educational institutions, has adopted the photographic method of identifying its students. This system has already proved highly successful in all our large penetentiaries.

It is hoped that this new system will facilitate the authorities in becoming acquainted with the new students. For those who do not desire such facilitation there is little hope unless a disguise is assumed either before or after the "shooting." At any rate, as the years roll on, there will be a formidable rogue's gallery created—and it is for us who have just sat before the camera to head the list!

Professor Jensen, A. B., has already shown his versatile ingenuity by so successfully operating the identograph camera for the past several days. As he says, the only question now is, "are the pictures good?" Those who had to wait in the chapel before confronting the camera will probably wish him the best of success in this opening event of his career as a professor.

BAINONIAN

Bainonian's mission at the beginning of every year is to make the new girl forget she is new and lonesome—to make her realize she really belongs. Every girl wearing a Bainonian badge is your friend, she can straighten out your most terrifying difficulty if you'll only stop her and ask her. Bainionian wants to help, so don't feel timid about asking, for Bainonian means friendship and hospitality.

Later in the year when the new is worn off and you are a happy member of our College Family—and Bainonian, we hope, you'll learn that Bainonian also stands for co-operation, helpfulness, loyalty, love, in short, everything that's highest in your ideals and ours.

Oh Yes! Bainonian may not be able to supply you a man, as nice as the one back home, but just you look at our Athenian brothers.

Elizabeth Murphy,
Editor.

HAVE YOU VISITED OUR ART DEPARTMENT?

Freshmen, did you know that class lessons in free-hand drawing are available to students of all the other departments without extra charges? Now is your chance, think what an opportunity is offered you! If you are interested along industrial and artistic lines these lessons will lay a foundation for you. In these lessons the student is taught to draw from still life objects and from nature.

If you will visit our art department in Anderson Hall on the first floor you will find it to be a very interesting place.

Besides free-hand drwing, courses are offered in charcoal, crayola, water color, oil, pastels and in china painting.

THETA EPSILON

New girls! Greetings from Theta. Have you noticed the girls on the campus who are wearing the blue and white Theta badge? They are wearing these to let you know that they are willing and ready to help you in anything. Theta is anxious to help you get accustomed to the new routine at college, so if there is anything that puzzles you, ask a Theta girl and she will help you out. We want you to feel especially free in the use of Theta Hall at anytime for anything. Everything we have is yours, new girl. You are already our friend, won't you make us your sisters? Visit us and then decide. Yours for most successful freshman year.

WHO'S WHO ON THE CAMPUS

There are quite a number of officials among the student body who keep the flame of Maryville spirit burning clear. Some have tasks that carry them into the limelight, others have tasks that keep them away from the limelight, but all of them strive to do their best in their respective tasks. These students deserve the honors that come to them, perhaps that is the reason for their modesty. The Echo takes pleasure in announcing such students.

John Stone is captain of this year's football team, and also president of the Athletic Board of Control. Horace Clemens is captain of the baseball team. The president of Theta Epsilon is Jimmy Rule; of Bainonian, Lillian Jackson; of Athenian, Arthur Young; of Alpha Sigma, Gordon Jeffries. Gordon Jeffries is also president of the senior class, William Crawford, of the junior class, and Robert Jones of the sophomore class. Leading the "Y" life on the hill are Florence Black, president of the Y. W. C. A., and Walter Courtney, president of the Y. M. C. A. Lucy Horton is Chairman of Lyceum in the Y. W. C. A., and serving in a similar capacity in the Y. M. C. A. is Wilbur Franklin. Of the musical and dramatic talent on the hill, Walter Buchanan heads the one as president of the Glee Singers and Mary Eleanor Welbon the other, as president of the local chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, the national dramatic fraternity. The debating fraternity. Pi Kappa Delta has not yet chosen its officers, nor has that important and interesting part of college life, the incoming freshman class. The editor of the Chilhowean is Walter Courtenay and its business manager is John Wienand. The official cheer leader is Ed Driscoll.

DR. WILSON'S PORTRAIT IN LIBRARY

Have you noticed the new picture hanging on the walls of the library? It is a splendid portrait in oils of Dr. S. T. Wilson, presented last spring by the alumni. Dr. Wilson is represented seated, dressed in his robes as president of the college. The dark shades of the picture center the attention on the scholarly face crowned with white hair. The heavy gold frame completes this striking picture. This gift is a most welcome adornment to the walls of the Library and is appreciated by the students.

There are two other interesting pictures that hang directly in front of the door. The portrait of Mrs. Mary Copely Thaw, the donor whose generous gift built Thaw Hall, hangs next to the portrait of Dr. Isaac Anderson, the founder of the college. The regally held head beautiful lace, and purple satin of Mrs. Thaw's picture are in contrast to the Quaker costume and drab colors of that of Dr. Anderson. Out of both faces shine the clear eyes that speak of great and quiet souls.

ATHENIAN

For more than fifty years the Athenian has been holding out to the young men of Maryville College the opportunities which may rightfully be expected of a first-class literary society. During these more than fifty years literally hundreds of young men have taken advantage of these opportunities, and as a result they have gone out into the world as stronger, better men because of the associations they have had as Athenians. Today, the Athenian is as ready to help the students as it has ever been. All that it asks is that the students do their part.

Last year a large number of the new men visited the Athenian in response to the invitation to them to visit the society, to consider carefully its merits, and to join if they were pleased with what they found. Many of them were pleased and now they are active members of the society. And that is what the Athenian is doing today—asking the new men to consider seriously the question of fellowship in a literary lege life. The Athenian's slogan is, "Visit us; then, if you like us, join us." More than that, the new men are urged to consider each Athenian as a committee of one who is interested in the new men and anxious to become at home on the "hilltop crowned with cedars."

Our first regular meeting will be held Saturday evening, September 24. Since this meeting is largely in honor of the new men, they, particularly, are urged to attend Watch for further announcements. In the meantime, do not fail to attend the Y. M. C. A. reception Saturday evening September 17.

ECHO GETS NEW STAFF ROOM

The Echo Staff will soon imitate some of the wiser animals and go into winter quarters. For several years the Staff has been forced to call its own a huge, bare room on the third floor of Anderson. Dust, papers, and posters were allowed to accumulate n order to give it the proper journalistic atmosphere. When the authorities were approached in regard to changing it, they gave the Staff a small room on the second floor of Anderson. This room will be the center of activities for this year's Staff. An ancient swivel chair and writing desk will make members of the Staff more or less comfortable while they pound away on the one new possession of the Staff, the typewriter.

The Staff of this year strives, as other Staffs have done, to give the college students, alumni and town subscribers an accurate, wide-awake, and interesting newspaper. It solicits your ernest support, for it is striving in its way to help Maryville.

NEW TEACHERS

The teaching force of Maryville College has been enlarged for this year's work. Dr. H. E. Orr has returned to work in the department of education after studying last semester in Northwestern University. Of the senior class of last year three have returned to teach in the college; Miss Gregoria Gruchy will teach Spanish Miss Annie Vanderslice will teach French, and Robert Jensen will succeed Wilson McTeer in education. Miss Frances Henry, graduate of Cincinnati Conservatory will teach voice, succeeding Miss Dorothy Benner. Prof. Verton Queener, of the class of '24, will teach history and oratory and hove charge of the debate course.

PROSPECTS FOR THE MUSIC DEPARTMENT

The prospects for a successful year in the music department of the college are very favorable this year With Miss Hale again in charge of the music and her splendid staff of assistants with her, we feel sure that the department will be able to accomodate new students who wish to enter. Aside from Miss Crawford and Miss Hoton we have with us Miss Batt, a graduate of the Peabody Conservatory of music at Baltimore, to assist in the piano department. Miss Henry, who will teach voice, comes to us from the Cincinnati Conservatory of music, and both she and Miss Batt are welcome additions to the department.

Miss Butcher will have her violin class, and will direct the orchestra again. She has done splendid work with the orchestra, and we feel sure it will continue.

The college Band and Glee Singers also promise to entertain us musically. Last year the Glee Singers had a most successful year under the direction of Mr. Jensen, and since many of the men are back and we are sure there are many good voices among the new boys, we hope the Glee Singers will be even better than ever.

New folks, as well as old ones, let's all help in every way we can to make our department the best.

DR. WILSON RECOUNTS HIS SUMMER OUTINGS

Trips to Different Sections of Country Restored our President's Health

On the wall of Dr. Wilson's study is a large map of the United States, on which are traced, in pencil, black ink, red ink, or with waved lines, various routes, all beginning at a point in East Tennessee, all returning to the same point. Regarding the trips that these routes represent, several volumes of diaries have been written and to these trips we owe due thanks for the present state of health that our President enjoys.

At the time of the Centennial celebration in 1919, following the strain of raising funds to the amount of $540,000, Dr. Wilson was very ill. The following spring he suffered an attack of influenza, lasting seven weeks. Knowing that his strength could not withstand many such ravages, he planned a trip. He prescribed for tired nerves and worn body a trip during which the constantly changing scenes would divert his mind from the multitudinous problems and plans of the college, and the sunshine and open air would restore to exhausted body much-needed strength and endurance. And the doctors pronounced his prescription ridiculous. Nevertheless, he kept his faith in the curative powers of the out-of-doors.

The first trip was a visit to the battlefields of the Revolution, King's Mountain, Guilford Court House, Valley Forge, and so on—ending by an excursion up into Maine and New Brunswick, back through the lake region of Maine and the Green Mountains and White Mountains of New Hampshire and Vermont, finally

Miss Henry Is New Instructor In Voice

In charge of the voice department of our school this year we have Miss Frances Henry of Mt. Sterling, Kentucky. Since Miss Henry's graduation from Cincinnati Conservatory in 1925 she has been teaching and studying voice, the first year after her graduation having been spent as head of the voice department of Millersburg College, Millersburg, Ky., and last year in study at the Louisville Conservatory with Madam Aopin.

While in Louisville, Miss Henry was a member of the quartet at the 4th Avenue Baptist Church. When she was studying at the Cincinnati Conservatory she sang in the choir directed by Mr. Hoffman, her teacher, at the Methodist Episcopal church of Cincinnati.

This is Miss Henry's first experience in Tennessee or the south, and she says she likes it very much. She thinks the people of Maryville are charming people, especially since they have been very nice to her.

While she was talking, she noticed a dog outside. "That reminds me," she said, "that I am not a lover of pets—I am certainly not an old maid in that respect."

When asked her opinion of jazz, Miss Henry readily answered that she does not play jazz, but that she doesn't mind hearing it—good jazz. She also added that she is very much in sympathy with modern girls, that she likes them very much, all of which makes us feel that this generation is not entirely hopeless if such a person as Miss Henry approves of us.

MISS BEWLEY WILL READ PLAY "SUN-UP"

Monday night, September 26, Miss Irene Bewley will read "Sun Up." Miss Bewley has consented to read for the benefit of the Y. W. C. A. Since Maryville was her college home, Miss Bewley always likes to return here. Mr. Phidelah Rice, of the Leland Powers' School of Expression has said that in a few years Miss Bewley will be known as America's foremost woman reader. Her remarkable talent has been recognized in almost every state of the Union, in Canada and abroad.

One play in Miss Bewley's repetoire shows her unusual powers of concentration. She was given permission to use "Applesauce," then running in New York, but no manuscript copy was available. That fact did not deter Miss Bewley, who attended the play five times, and without notes, memorized the whole. "Sun Up", the play which she reads Monday night, was written by Lula Vollmer, a great friend of Miss Bewley's. "Sun Up" is a true picture of North Carolina mountain folk. It is a most thrilling drama and at points the audience can barely restrain its suspense. Miss Bewley's reading is so realistic that one does not see her but sees an old bent mountaineer "chawin' 'baccy," or stern, straight-backed mountain woman knitting fiercely. Tennessee people will recognize the true mountaineers, while others will find for the first time how fascinating such people are.

Buy your tickets early, and enjoy this unusual offering.

Y. W. C. A. SUNDAY MEETING

The usual weekly Y. W. meeting will be held Sunday at 1:30 P. M., in Thaw Hall. We have been looking forward to a new message that Dr. Wilson has promised to bring us, and we expect him to lead this week's meeting. If he should be unable to talk to us this week, we will look forward to having him the following Sunday, and some good program will be provided for this Sunday.

Our first Y. W. Meeting of the year was truly successful, judging by the attendance and the comments afterwards. Let's keep the standard high, girls, and all turn out for the meeting Sunday.

Miss Ernestine Monroe, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Monroe, and Miss Etta Galbreath were guests on the campus Saturday night.

BEST DRAMATIC PROGRAM OF YEARS IS PROMISED

Theta Alpha and Play Committees Sponsor Good Plays; Three Graduates Remain

When the velvet curtains closed on the fourth act of Channing Pollock's "The Enemy" in June, one of Maryville's greatest dramatic years was over.

Will the audience ever forget how it screamed with laughter as "The Whole Town's Talking"—or the heart rending tears that were shed for "Friend Hannah"—or the suspense that had to be endured before the curtain went down in the last ridiculous Barrie situation of "Alice Sit By the Fire."

So much of the dramatic talent disappeared with the bestowing of degrees that we gazed almost dejectedly on what seemed to be the fallen wings of Maryville dramatics. But now as committees start discussing plays and casts, new hope springs up and we are beginning to look forward with great expectancy to the achievements of this new year.

Strange to say some new comers have the mistaken idea that Maryville as a small college, presents grown-up high school plays. Not at all! Maryville's dramatics is a finished and high-class art. A play presented by a college with the largest expression department in the South must necessarily be of high grade—and a Maryville audience is never disappointed. The casts are carefully chosen and coached by the head of the department. The national secretary of Theta Alpha Phi, on looking over the list of plays presented on Maryville's stage, declared that no better list had been handed in by the entire group of chapters of the dramatic fraternity.

It is a small wonder then that great things are expected of Maryville this year. The four literary societies have already started the search for their Midwinters with the slogan "the biggest and the best." It is interesting to note that one of the duties of Theta Alpha Phi is to see that every dramatic presentation on the Hill is of the highest possible grade. But since every society has always been so anxious to present the best play in its ability to produce, we are sure that Theta Alpha Phi will have no trouble in sanctioning every play upon which the various play committees decide.

Who will uphold Maryville dramatics this year? It would be a great deal easier to predict Tennessee weather than to make any attempt to declare who will star in college dramatics. It is only safe to tell after the curtains have closed on the last act. However, for the first time in many years the department boasts of three post-graduates. The name of Gordon Jeffries has always meant A1 in dramatic lines. His finished dramatic achievements have delighted Maryville audiences for years. We are expecting great things from him in his last year. And in pure, unadulterated comedy no one has ever been able to shine brighter than Maynard Dunn.

Nelle Watkins and Mary Eleanor Welbon both have diplomas from the department. No one can project her sun loving personality across the footlights better than Nelle Watkins. Can any forget her as the twin in "Goose Hangs High?" Nor can one forget Mary Eleanor Welbon as the charming Alice in Barrie's play, "Alice Sit By The Fire."

Indeed we have no need to worry—in four weeks another audience will sit delighted, amused and spell bound through one of Maryville's never-to-be forgotten Midwinters.

Coach Announces Probable Line-Up; Prospects Bright for Hard Game

The Maryville College Highlanders will leave Friday for Lexington, Ky., where they will meet the University of Kentucky Wildcats in the opening game of football for both teams this season.

Reports coming from the den of the Wildcats indicate a light and inexperienced team. However, these reports have undoubtedly not reached the ears of the Maryville coaches for they have driven their charges at a fast pace during the practice this week.

Scrimmages have been held daily as the last part of the afternoon's work. The first part of the practice period has been devoted to blocking, tackling, charging, and running signals.

All of the regular players are in good condition except Davis, regular quarterback, who has a slightly wrenched knee. He will be in condition to start the game Saturday.

Nu Gamma Sigma Begins Fall Meetings

One of the biggest things in the life of a new girl on the hill is her part in the Nu Gamma Sigma movement. The hope that from now until the middle of November, when the groups will break up, Nu Gamma will mean more to the girls each week.

There are twenty groups started on the hill, all holding their first meetings this week. This first meeting is chiefly a time for getting acquainted, and culture week is also being discussed.

Nu Gamma leaders are giving each member of their groups an outline each week, which she is to follow in her personal work. These are to be worked out in notebook form, and there will be a prize given to the group having the best books. Also, Nu Gamma Sigma pennants will be given to the groups keeping the highest percentage of attendance.

Next week's discussion is to be on "The Purpose of a College Education". Keep it in mind, new girls, and remember that Nu Gamma's aim is to help you in whatever way she can.

MAKE YOUR PLACE

In talking with Maryville alumni of life on College Hill, one very often hears repeated a phrase of this sort, "Oh, if I had only done more while I was there!" Over and over this same idea is reiterated, until it becomes strikingly evident that the wish to have made more of college life is practically universal.

To us who are still enjoying the pleasures (and, no doubt, grumbling at the burdens) of this our college life, these words should serve both as a warning and a message. There are so many, many chances which we let slip every day, and for which we shall be eternally regretful when we say good-bye to Maryville.

Nor is this a mere preachy admonition to study harder. Studying is important of course, but there are outside activities which mean just as much, according to the report of the alumni, as "book knowledge."

With such varied activities as Y. M. and Y. W., debating, the literary societies, athletics of all sorts, Glee Singers, orchestra, et cetera everyone should be able to make a place for himself somewhere. And the way to accomplish this is not to sit calmly back and wait for worth to be discovered. Nine times out of ten it won't be. For in Maryville, alas, a leader in one line is usually forthwith acclaimed as a leader in all lines; and thus many who could excel in some particular thing are pushed into the back-ground by those already established.

Of course, such a condition should not exist, but what is to be done about it when those who could make their own mark sink back into oblivion without even trying to assert themselves?

The best way to guard against losing the chances for leadership which one will regret vainly later on is to go out strongly for all extra-curricular activities which appeal to one. By all means, "blow your own horn, for (be sure) no one else will blow it for you."

Y. M. C. A.

The Y. M. C. A. has opened with a very successful week. In the opening week the Y has aided in a number of ways the new men on the campus.

The Y. M. C. A. this year is striving to be of service to the students here on college hill in a spiritual, social and intellectual way. If the Y. M. can aid in interpreting Christ to the men on college hill we will feel that we have been most successful. In a few weeks the Y will sponsor a week-end hike that will carry the men deep into the heart of the Smokies. Later in the year the Y intends to put on a "Life Work Conference" similar to the ones that have become traditional here at Maryville.

The Y. M. wishes to impress upon the new men that they are just as much a part of the Y. as the old men on the campus.

These are some of the high points of the opening week.

1. Y. W. and Y. M. held conference at Montvale.
2. Y. M. met trains at Knoxville and Maryville.
3. Y. W. and Y. M. took care of student baggage.
4. Y. M. sponsored the opening Pep Meeting for the new students.
5. Y. M. was in charge of the meeting of new men on lawn in front of Bartlett.
6. Y. M. "Pow Wow Stump"
7. Special programs for new men at regular Y meeting.

TO A BAR OF SOAP

A lonely cake of soap I see,
It sits so sad and still,
Some careless owner left it there
Where cleansing waters spill.
Quite homeless in its present state,
It watches terrified,
Expecting doom from everyone
Of those who come inside.
Fear not, thou harmless hunk of grease,
For I can sympathize;
Too well the fate of missing cakes
I've learned to realize.
Pluck up! No enemy is near,
No danger do I see;
I love you, little bar of soap—
So come abide with me.

—Exit.

she is going to like her work here. We hope that she will like us as well as we are sure we will like her.

returning to Tennessee by way of the Shenandoah Valley. This trip was made by motorcycle, Dr. Wilson traveling in the side car of a machine operated by his son, Lamar. The roads in those days were not the beautiful motor roads of today, and these cyclists encountered some that were frightful. Yet this trip lasted seventy-seven days and covered a total of 4,247 miles.

The following spring Dr. Wilson was again subjected to a seven weeks' attack of influenza. So, in the summer of 1921, he planned and carried out a trip through the West. Again he traveled by motorcycle, spending sixty-six days on the trip and covering a total distance of 5,011 miles.

During subsequent summers he has spent a month in the Wisconsin lake region and the Michigan peninsula, has made another trip west, has made a second trip to Canada, spending considerable time in Ontario, has gone to New York by motor, has spent three weeks "seeing Florida," and has just this past summer spent three weeks visiting historical places in North Carolina, South Carolina, and Virginia. Whether these are all his trips is uncertain. He himself says they are not all traced on that map. Several summers saw two trips to their record. On one occasion he and the late Major McTeer, then a man of eighty years, spent two weeks visiting the battlefields in Tennessee and northern Alabama where Major McTeer had fought. Once Dr. Gillingham was his companion.

These later trips have not been by motorcycle, but by automobile. The change of vehicle, however, has not been to take shelter from the sun, as is testified on his return from one of these trips by the ruddy state of his complexion and the "peeled" state of his nose.

One marvels that his taste for the severity of camp life has not been exhausted. Instead, his zest for it has increased. And one can well believe that camping has become an art for him who finds a source of beauty, as well as an opportunity for efficiency, in camp-making. And so each summer our President takes his one long dose of Nature's healers—golden sunshine, free, clean air, beauty and change—and is made strong for the duties of the school year. May Nature's healers long prove their potency!

ATHENIAN

At the pow-wow in the woods last Saturday evening the Athenian renewed her acquaintance with the old students and introduced herself to the new men. We hope that the new men got the idea of what Athenian stands for and the fellowship she offers.

As previously announced, our first meeting will be held Saturday evening, September 24, in the Athenian Hall on the third floor of Anderson Hall. A short literary program has been arranged so that there will be plenty of time for refreshments and fellowship. The new men, particularly, are urged to attend this meeting which is held in honor of them.

The program for the evening is as follows:

Alma Mater.
Invocation
Address, ------President Young
Reading ----------Mr. Pierce
Music ----------Quartette
Refreshments and fellowship, in the College Woods

THETA OPENING

Theta Epsilon will open her year's program of work Saturday night by giving a three-act play on Baldwin lawn. This play is written by Betty Griffes, a talented Theta and a member of the Senior Class. "In A Little Spanish Town" promises to offer a hero new to the stage or screen. Juan, played by Inza Marler, is a facinating Spanish lover, while Dolores, played by Jimmy Rule, is certainly not far behind her lover in fascination. Betty Griffes plays the hard-hearted father, while Gregoria Gruchy plays the equally stoney-hearted aunt. Nellie Caldwell is the fiery Spanish dancer. A Spanish dancer chorus lends gaiety to the occasion.

Everyone is invited to come out to Baldwin Lawn at 8:00 o'clock Saturday night and enjoy the gaiety of a Spanish fiesta.

ALPHA SIGMA

Alpha Sigma for Fellowship, that is our motto. Alpha Sigma welcomes every new and old student on the hill to its weekly meetings. In all of our meetings the new student will find a spirit of fellowship that is characteristic of Alpha Sigma.

Alpha Sigma offers programs each week that are educational as well as entertaining. The member not only has the privilege of attending the program but he can also take part in them. Every member at some time during the year may appear on the program at least once. By taking part in these programs he receives a training that will be helpful to him long after he has left college hill.

The first meeting will be in Alpha Sigma Hall at 7:00, Saturday night. A splendid program has been arranged with everything from the president's speech down to the famous Alpha Sigma advance.

We have received a carload of refreshments that might go well with a bunch of hungry fellows.

Come on out, fellows, Alpha Sigma does not merely want you to be a visitor, it wants you to feel that you are one of us. Be at home and let us be your brothers.

NEW FOUNTAIN

It is with interest we note the assuming of the sole proprietor's duties of the City Drug Store by our friend Roy Fowler. Mr. Fowler has purchased full interest in this Maryville institution and has blossomed out with the addition of a new modern fountain, fully equipped to cater to the whims of the Maryville student body. The interior has been redecorated and several important changes have been made over the summer.

PALACE THEATRE

H. G. Judkins has accepted the position of manager of the Palace Theatre. A continuation of the promise of "bigger and better" things bids well to hold in store many interesting features. It has been the policy of the Palace Theater to present for the approval of the Maryville theater public, the best of the available first run pictures, and Mr. Judkins assures us that such will be the continued status of his new protege.

Wendy (after a long argument) "I wonder what would happen if you and I ever agreed on anything?"

Jean: "I'd be wrong."

"Oh, yes, I was," replied Doc. "But when they reached me they only had red hair left, so I told them to chuck it in the ash can."

VOL. 13 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, SEPT. 30, 1927 NO. 3

Maryville Holds Kentucky State To 6 - 6 Tie

CLEMENS IS STAR

Touchdown Made in Last Quarter; Brock, Stone, Proffitt show Good Work

In what proved to be one of the best early season games of the year, Maryville blasted Kentucky State's chances for a clean slate this season. Fully five thousand people were out to see the Wildcats romp on the High landers, but when the whistle blew, a different tale was told, for Maryville had emerged with a 6-6 tie.

The Kentucky Wildcats did not think that they were playing a great football team, but held their hopes on former years. On last Saturday Coach Honaker's eleven startled the football world and not only shook the stadium at Stoll field, but showed local fans that brawn is not the only thing essential in football.

During the first quarter neither team could get going. Kentucky started the scoring in the second quarter with straight football. The Wildcats started on Maryville's forty yard line, and their off tackle plays and end runs could not be stopped. Miller carried the ball over for a touchdown, but failed to kick goal.

Then the tide changed. Maryville did not like the scratches of the Wildcats. From this time on Maryville playing in Kentucky's territory, tore into Kentucky's charges and held them, got the ball and fought for Kentucky's goal, but failed to score.

Finally the chance came for the Highlanders to score. During the first part of the last quarter Bird kicked thirty yards to Kentucky's 22 yard line. A Kentucky man was caught clipping, so the ball went to Maryville on Kentucky's 22 yard line with first down and ten yards to go. Then Clemens was called around right end and the big Maryville back plowed across the goal line carrying with him a Kentucky end. Maryville failed to kick goal.

The whole team showed a good brand of football but the work of Clemens, Brock, Captain Stone and Proffitt was the outstanding feature, while Miller and Portwood were best for Kentucky.

The whole squad returned to Maryville in fine shape. Now the Kentucky game is a thing of the past, and everybody is looking forward to the game this Saturday with the strong Tennessee-Wesleyan team.

GLEE SINGERS SELECTED

On Thursday and Friday nights of last week, tryouts for the Glee Club were made, under the direction of Mr. Jensen. A good number of men were out, both old Glee Singers and new men, and Mr. Jensen reports that he has some very good material to make up the club this year. The selections are.

First tenors: Lawson, Vaughn, Boles, Davis, Alexander.

Second tenors: Buchanan, Milling, Carter, Williams, Grinsted.

First Bass: Franklin, Anderson, Holman, French, Schildknecht.

Second Bass: Crowder, Courtenay, Cotton, Everett, McCool.

BULLDOGS WILL ENGAGE "GOBO'S" ELEVEN TODAY

The Bull dogs, one of the most faithful of the unseen and unsuspected organizations on the hill will swing into official action Friday afternoon. This body of enthusiastic football cubs has been tuning out faithfully every afternoon, not in the search of praise from any favored source, for there is none in evidence, but like the soldiers of the French Foreign Legion are there because they must have action and if glory comes with that action well and good. Now that the varsity will need a rest for the Saturday game these doughty warriors must seek elsewhere for this action, and this is furnished by the gridders of Walland High, the present proteges of "Gobo" Cartwright. Keep your eyes on these embyro footballers, girls, for they will be your next year's heroes.

HIGH TRAILERS ARE READY FOR SMOKIES

"In the heart of the Smokies" is an expression that is on the lips of many thousands of business men and lovers of nature. People travel from all parts of America to gaze upon the wonderful scenery to be found in this, the newest of- our National Parks. Nature challenges all men to come and pit their strength against her high peaks and rugged slopes. That challenge has been accepted and from the plans laid down by the High Trail Club on Tuesday night there is to be a great battle, race or what-not this year between the boys of this particular club and the Great Smokies, and from the look of those belonging to the Club, the mountains stand a good chance of joining Jack Dempsey in his present state.

On October 15th, the Y. M. C. A., is having a week-end hike for the boys. The High Trailers will be in charge. The gang will leave the school Saturday at 3:30 P. M., and hike to Gold Creek Falls, where they will spend Saturday night. Sunday there will be a further hike to Cade's Cove and back to camp. Sunday night there will be a great camp fire get-to-gether.

OHIO CLUB

The Ohio Club met for the first time this year on Tuesday, the twenty-seventh. The chief item of business was the election of officers. The officers elected were as follows:

President, Glenn Cross

Vice President, Betty Griffes.

Secretary and treasurer, Virginia Sting.

Editor, Jack Cotton.

In addition to the election of officers there was some discussion about the club picture parties and dues (of course.)

The Buckeye Boosters have lost several old members, but there are new members to fill their places. It is this club's intention to do more than merely pay for a page in the annual. Look out for us.

Three Classes Elect Members For Council

Complying with the stipulations of the Constitution under which the Student Council is organized, the Sophomore, Junior and Senior classes have, during the past few days, elected their representatives to the Council. The Seniors, with the privilege of electing eight members to this body, have elected the following: Wilbur Franklin; Walter Buchanan; Gordon Jeffries; Arthur Young; Elizabeth Griffes; Lucy Horton; Bland Morrow; and Josephine Parker. The Juniors are allowed to have six representatives. Those elected are Walter Courtenay, Elbert Thompson, Glenn Cross, Fancher Smartt, Arta Watkins, and Elizabeth Murphy. From the Sophomore class the following representatives were chosen: J. N. Stribling; Brenton Stearns; Mary Ella Sullivan; and Peggy Mevis. The Freshman class will elect their representatives next week.

The Student Council is the authorized voice of the student body, by which the wishes of the student body may be known. The success with which it functions depends, of course, upon the interest and wisdom with which the Council attends its duties. Though restricted in its powers, the Council should, by the efficiency and usefulness of its work, recommend itself as a practical means for making known the wishes of the student-body, and thus merit the confidence of both the student body and the faculty.

Highlanders Meet Tennessee Wesleyan Here Saturday

FIRST HOME GAME

Wesleyan Presents Strong Line Up; "Pinkie" Waldon Makes Debut

The Maryville Highlanders are in prime condition for the first home game of the season with Tennessee Wesleyan Saturday afternoon on Alumni Field. None of the players suffered other than minor injuries in the hard-fought game with Kentucky State last Saturday when they held the highly touted Kentuckians to a -6 score.

In Tennessee Wesleyan Maryville will meet a worthy foe. Last year Maryville emerged victorious from the annual battle between the two schools with a 14-0 score. This year Tennessee Wesleyan will present a stronger line-up than the team that faced Maryville last year in the opening home game. Most of last year's team has returned with additional strength gained from new men who are making the grade. "Pinkie" Waldon, one of the greatest high school backfield men in the South last year will make his debut as a college football player. Other luminaries are McCray, full back, the Whitehead brothers, guard and tackle, and Gaut, a two hundred pound center.

Maryville's starting line-up will probably be: Hunt and Taylor, ends, Brock and Proffitt, tackles, M. Dunn and Gann, guards, Stone, center. Davis, quarter, Crawford and Clemens half backs, and Bird, full back.

SWIMMING COURSE MADE COMPULSORY FOR GIRLS

At last all the co-eds are having a chance to take part in at least one branch of athletics. Not only is the opportunity provided, but everyone is expected to take advantage of it. In fact, swimming classes, one hour a week, are to be compulsory for all girls who cannot swim at least one hundred and fifty yards.

Jack Coughlin is the swimming instructor, and he comes to Maryville with a well established reputation for aquatic skill. He is scheduling a number of classes for both beginning and advanced pupils. The pool is to be drained and cleaned once a week this year, and will be kept disinfected.

Swimming is something that everyone should be able to do, for emergencies are liable to arise that may make this accomplishment a vital necessity. And now is the time to master this sport, while so splendid an opportunity is provided.

"Y" HANDBOOKS DID NOT MAKE APPEARANCE

Excuses are never in style, but reasons are balm to hurt feelings and broken promises. Last spring the new officers of the Y. M. C. A., had many objectives, one of the principal ones being, that the 'Y' hand book should be in the hands of the students at least one week before school opened. With this goal in mind, Mr. Layman, editor of the book, and Mr. Tull, assistant editor, worked hard to have everything in readiness. The dummy was in the hands of the printers by June 15th, and we have their contract, signed, sealed and supposedly authenic, that they would have the book in our hands on or before August 25th. The books did not arrive by the promised date, so the staff became very nervous and wrote many letters regarding the subject.

On September 7 Mr. Layman sent the eighth wire of the week stating that if the books were not in our hands by the morning of the 12th we would be obliged to cancel them. The books did not arrive, so the afore mentioned step was taken. We, the members of the Y. M. C. A., regret very much that our book failed to materialize, but I am sure that all the members of the student body will understand how we were situated. We promised the business men of Maryville and Knoxville that we would have the book in the hands of the students at least one week before school opened, and so we had to live up to our promise or cancel the book and thus stand a chance of losing a couple of hundred dollars, and good-will of inestimable value.

Y. M. AND Y. W. MEETING

Sunday afternoon the Y. M. and Y. W. will have an unusual opportunity to hear a really inspiring address. Dr. E. L. Mumpower, at present medical advisor for the Student Volunteers in Tennessee, will speak at the joint meeting, which will be held in the chapel at four o'clock.

Dr. Mumpower has spent seventeen years in Africa as a medical missionary, and out of his wide experience he will give us a picture of the value of missions and the glory of serving God in that channel. His subject will be some phase of the students relation to missions.

Don't forget this meeting. You can't afford to miss it.

SOPHOMORE CLASS MEETS

Wednesday afternoon in Dr. Gillingham's classroom the Sophomore class met for the purpose of discussing class dues and the class party. It was decided that one who has not paid his semester's dues may not attend the class party which will be held on Hallowe'en night, Monday, October 31st. The amount of class dues and the place of the party will be fixed at another meeting.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The Ministerial Association has already made a good start, there having been two meetings already.

In the opening meeting President Tull gave a cordial welcome to the new members and also struck forth the motto for the coming year, "A job for every man and every man on his job."

The second meeting of the year was held Wednesday evening. Mr. Murphy gave a short talk on some of the perplexing problems of the Bible. Eight new men were sworn in as members of the organization.

Dr. Orr will address the organization next week, using the topic, "Religious Education." An interesting meeting is assured. All members are requested to attend. Others interested in religious work should be present.

Editor, William Mayer.

CHATTANOOGA CLUB

The Chattanooga Club organized last Tuesday with 12 members present. The Dynamo of Dixie organization boasts of a live wire group this year. Walter Headrick was elected president.

LET'S KEEP GOING!

Come on, Maryville, let's keep going! The Highlanders have started out the year with a 6-6 score, and that in the face of Kentucky's opposition. They have returned jubilant, if not victorious, knowing now what they can do. They have discovered in actual battle their mistakes and their capabilities. The days now are spent in endless hammering to eliminate those mistakes and to develop those capabilities. On future fields they will fight clean and hard to the last whistle.

We're proud of you, Highlanders. We are waiting to see what you will do. We're with you, in spirit and in lung power. And if cheering will help you, we'll cheer till the cedars fall. We're waiting for scores!

Rolling stones may gather no moss, but Maryville's pigskin will surely roll up scores.

Let's keep going!

AN INVITATION

Have you a criticism, a commendation, or a suggestion that you think would benefit the Highland Echo? Have you written an article which might be of interest to the student body? The Highland Echo, since it is a student publication, desires the contributions of its readers. Articles must be signed, although the writer's name will not be published if it is so desired. The Echo, however, reserves the right to publish the articles it thinks best and to omit others.

Editors of student organizations on the hill must put in the Echo box in Anderson Hall before Wednesday at 4:00 p. m. any notices which they wish to appear in that week's Echo.

PERSONALS

Miss Pearl Stephenson, who has been detained on account of her mother's illness, has returned to resume her work in the Senior class.

Miss Theo Belk, a former member of the class of '29, visited friends on the campus last week.

Mr. Allan Grinsted, from New Jersey, has recently come to Maryville. Mr. Grinsted will enter the Freshman class.

Miss Madge Kellar and Mrs. Alvis Johnson (formerly Miss Georgia Belle Kuhn), both members of the class of '25, were visiting on the Hill Sunday.

Mr. Edwin Blake, who has been suffering with an injured foot, had as his guest his mother, Mrs. Charles Blake, of Knoxville.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Newman were visiting their daughter, Elizabeth, last Friday.

Miss Lucille Henry spent the week-end at her home in Knoxville.

Mr. Jack Cotton's parents paid him a short visit Tuesday night on their way to Ohio.

Miss Willie Wrinkle, a former Maryville student, visited on the Hill Wednesday.

Rev. R. O. Franklin visited his son Wilbur, last Saturday.

THE HIGHLAND FLINGS

Miss Green (in Biology)—"Where do bugs go in the winter?"

Freshman (absent-mindedly) "Search me."

—M. C.—

College progression.

The Freshman—I don't know whether I like this place or not.

The Sophomore—It's a good place, but I hate to get back to the grind.

The Junior—I'm almost glad to get back. It's a peach of a place.

The Senior—Gee, what a wonderful place. Say, but I'm going to hate to leave it.

The Grad—The most wonderful four years of my life. It's some old school.

—M. C.—

Pete—"May I borrow your blue tie?"

Strib—"Why all the formality?"

Pete—"Couldn't find it."

—M. C.—

Ed Driscoll—"Bill! Lend me a dollar and I'll be eternally indebted to you."

Bill Franklin—"That's what I'm afraid of."

—M. C.—

I stole a kiss the other night,
My conscience hurts, alack!
I think I'll go around tonight,
And put the blame thing back.

—M. C.—

Found on a freshman's registration card:

Question—Give your parents' names.

Answer—Mamma and Papa.

—M. C.—

Room-mate—"You don't mind my singing, do you?"

Ditto—"Not at all; I work in a saw-mill."

—M. C.—

Our idea of a rusting father is one who sends the son at college a blank signed check.

—M. C.—

Frosh—"Say, Prof. how long could I remain without brains?"

Prof.—"That remains to be seen."

—M. C.—

Home Economics Teacher—"How do they make hash in Pearsons?"

Co-Ed—"They don't—it just accumulates."

—M. C.—

Jeannette—"Did you ev r have a fever blister like this on your lip?"

Bess—"No, I keep mine worn off."

FROSH OF YESTERYEAR

We have held palavers with some half-dozen alumni this current season, and the immutable excuse for the conversation has been, "Well, how does the Freshman Class look this year?" The more we discuss this matter, the sadder we become. But this however is not loading any coal cars. We have time after time wished for an influencing power over that omnipresent being, Father Time, who, knowing all, and seeing all, might be bribed to lift the veil of the past for only a few short moments and leave there, bared to the vision, the long procession of Freshman classes that have passed thru our halls. It would be a treat, rare and racy, to see and know the status of the present alleged most verdant class with that once undertrodden group of ours and yours. But that "isn't being done," and we can only weigh slowly and separately the parties concerned. Remember when Uncle Jake appeared on the Maryville Campus? Clad in outlandish costume vouched for as being the mode elite by the outfitter "back hum," with a tie of flaming crimson, and a hand cultured roach off-setting the time-honored "cowlick, and a fiery suit of red-flannel underwear hidden in inverse proportion to the conspicuousness of the kindred-colored haberdashery. An impressive sight he must have been to the cultured eyes of the matured upper classmen, as they peered thru the shutters of the swinging doors of the downtown "drugstores". And the gay co-ed of the time of Aunt Nancy—with a treasured copy of Godey's "Ladies Book" hid away in a safe corner of the carry-all, and a goodly supply of "rats" and asafoetida in a still safer place. But what of it? Those good old days are living now only in the minds of those "gone before."

The one common property that they held in common with the frosh of today was the dream of the college years ahead. Wood cuts of Alonzo Stagg and "Buck" Heston in moleskins have been replaced by the more or less accurate sketches of college life by one John Held Jr., and the Youth's Companion has been abetted by more or less accurately named College Humor. Such has been the change in the pre-college criteria, but nothing has been found that will substitute for the dreams of becoming "big men" in athletics and other lines of collegiate endeavor. Some undoubtedly still have dreams of telling the faculty how to "do things;" others never "go out" for anything, but seek out a commanding corner, and worship from afar those more pushing youngsters. Some will become "Duds" and others will, as Percy Marks says, return to the twenty-fifth reunion to allow the gods of so many years previous to stand around and gaze at them with admiration and envy. Some are content to sit with the Freshman Class for three years and then on the eve of graduation make a final splurge and pass off the condition in high school Algebra and sit in dignified splendor with the Seniors in Chapel. As the years of college pass some, meeting that "one who understands" will pursue the beacon of connubial felicity. Then there is that gifted group who will remain the full four years, or more, and will learn how to look a grape-fruit in the face, and become a person who entertains well. Ater graduating, some write articles for literary periodicals on "What College Did To Me", and "Advantages of a College Education." Others go back to the hamlet, and help Pop with the creamery business, and expound literary knowledge upon the loungers in the cross-road grocery. In due deference to the occasion, we humbly bow to those gone before, and gaze nonchalantly at the freshman class of today, and experience that same sense of superiority and worldly wiseness that scores of upper classmen have undergone before us. Selah, it is spoken. Back to the mines, men, we'll have no strike today.

ALPHA SIGMA

Alpha Sigma opened this year's program last Saturday night by a get-together in Alpha Sigma Hall. Besides the regular program, there were quite a few refreshments that were done away with in short order.

This week's meeting will be held in Alpha Sigma Hall at 7:00, Saturday night. An interesting program has been arranged, it is as follows:

1. Invocation, Mr. Tull.
2. Roll Call, to be answered with your favorite song.
3. Alma Mater, Society.
4. Alpha Sigma quartet.
5. Spirit, Mr. Dance.
6. The Syncopating Four.
7. Sigma's Advance, Mr. Layman.

We especially invite the new fellows who have not yet visited Alpha Sigma.

ATHENIAN

With the next meeting, Saturday evening, the Athenian begins the real work for the year. It always takes two or three weeks at the beginning of the year for renewing old acquaintances, and making new ones. The Athenian feels that these weeks this year have been spent to good advantage, for out of the acquaintances formed will grow many lasting friendships.

Come on out, fellows, old and new, and get your part of the benefits of Athenian. The program arranged is as follows:

CINDER PATH CHAUTAUQUA

Bainonian has come almost to the end of the most successful week in her history. The society has put on something every day this week for new girls. Monday there was an old fashioned candy pull in the gym, and everyone reported a glorious, sticky time. Tuesday night Bainonian was "at home" to the new girls after supper. Wednesday brought the formal opening of the French Modiste Shop, to which every girl in school was invited. All articles used in this style show were furnished by Chandler-Singleton Co. Thursday afternoon a kid party was held on Baldwin Lawn. Friday there was a big peanut hunt and weinner roast in the college woods.

The grand climax of Bainonian's week is the opening program Saturday night. Every girl in school has been counting the days until Saturday evening since the chautauqua was announced the first of the week. Everyone is familiar with the chautauqua which comes to town every summer and puts on a different program every night under the big tent. The Cinder Path Company, sponsored by Bainonian Literary Society, offers something unique in the way of chautauqua. Five whole nights of entertainment are to be crowded into one. Just what those five nights performances will be is a deep, dark mystery until Saturday. But you can expect the true chautauqua variety, including popular and classical music, and drama and it's worth an evening just to see what happens to our heroine, Rosalind.

Come expecting an evening of fun for you will see for yourself what Bainonian has prepared for your enjoyment. Every performer is a star.

Don't forget Bainonian is expecting every new and old girl in Maryville to be her guest at the Cinder Path Chautauqua Saturday night, at 7:30 in the gym. Be early if you want a good seat.

"LA BOHEME" ONE OF YEAR'S FINEST

Lillian Gish's First Film Made in America in Years a Hit

"La Boheme," Lillian Gish's first American-made picture in some years, is the attraction commencing Monday and Tuesday at the Palace Theater.

The much-heralded play, in which Miss Gish is seen in the tragic role of Mimi, famous wherever opera is loved, is one of the outtanding productions of the year from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, and Miss Gish's interpretation of the role has created a furor in studio circles.

King Vidor, who directed "The Big Parade," directed the new picture, which was staged on a lavish scale. John Gilbert plays the leading male role as Rodolphe, the poet, with Renee Adoree as the sprightly Musette. Others in the cast are Roy D'Arcy, Edward Everett Horton, Gino Corrado, Karl Dane, George Hassell, Eugene Pouyet, Frank Currier, David Mir, Rosita Marstini and others of note.

WESLEYAN CARRIES AWAY 13-0 SCORE

Maryville Plays Inconsistently While Wesleyan Crack Players Carry Ball

With Maryville playing inconsistently and Tennessee Wesleyan displaying a smart brand of football, the latter team won out in a listless game at Maryville last Saturday by a 13-0 score.

Maryville's usually strong line failed to display very much fighting spirit and as a result Maryville failed to make any good gains through the line whlle Tennessee Wesleyan's backs ploughed through Maryville's line for long gains.

Horace Clemens was the only Maryville player who gained consistently when carrying the ball. Clemens made two runs for 35 yards each and one for 23 yards besides many short gains. Bond displayed a good brand of football while he was in the game, carrying the ball well and tackling hard.

For Tennessee Wesleyan, Walden was the best ground-gainer. His broken field running was good. He made many long gains. Lowell Thomas' punts averaged 45 yards. These men were stars but McCray was the real star of the game. He broke up many of Maryville's passes, tackled hard, and gained almost everytime he carried the ball.

Wesleyan scored early in the first quarter when McCray ploughed through the line for a touchdown. Maryville threatened in the closing minutes of the half when they placed the ball on the 15 yeard line. The third quarter was a punting duel between Davis and Thomas with Thomas having the advantage. Walden, on a fake play in the fourth quarter, ran 23 yards for the final touchdown. He failed for the extra point. As the game ended Maryville was using the passing game, but unsuccessfully using it, as McCray was in the way of most of the passes and grounded them.

New Men Organize Fellowship Club

On Friday night, September 29, a goodly number of the new fellows led by several old ones gathered in Bartlett Hall to organize a new club for the benefit especially of the new men and freshmen. After due consideration and discussion it was decided to call it the Maryville Fellowship Club. The first business that of election of officers was immediately taken up and the following new men were elected by majority vote to their respective offices:

Hugh H. McClellan, President.
W. T. Robeson, Vice President.
Richard Marston, Secretary.
J. S. James, Reporter.

As members of this organization the new men will have many new advantages and opportunities. The Club will make a new opening for them to know their class mates. It will give them a chance to gain a foot-hold in activities on the Hill, to develop a spirit of loyalty for Maryville, and in general, to do something at M. C. for M. C. as well as themselves. These are worthy purposes and the Club will be certain to meet with success if the fellows support it as they should.

Meetings will be held weekly and the programs will contain things of interest and benefit to all. Since there are several musicians of promise among the freshmen, music will doubtless be plentiful.

M. C. Students Attend Interracial Commission

The first of the series of meetings for the year 1927-1928 of the East Tennessee Student Interracial Commission was held on Monday, October 3, at Knoxville College, Knoxville. Students from Knoxville College, Morristown College, University of Tennessee, and Maryville College gathered to discuss the program of the Commission for the year.

After a talk by Professor Carrey of Knoxville College, problems of interracial relationship and their solutions were considered. The findings will be embodied in the programs of the monthly meetings.

The next meeting will be held at Maryville College on Monday, Nov. 7, the program including devotional exercises, some items of business, a consideration of the value of personality as brought out in the teachings of Jesus according to the gospel

MUSIC DEPARTMENT TO GIVE FALL FESTIVAL

Members Of Department's Facuty To Appear In Program

In conformity to the precedent started last year, a Fall Festival of music will be given soon by the music department of the college. As this is one of the big events of the musical year we are looking forward to it with a great deal of pleasure and anticipation, remembering the excellent success of last year's Festival. On the program for this year a number of the members of the musical faculty will appear, including the new voice teacher, Miss Henry, a graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, and Miss Batt, of Peabody Conservatory of Baltimore, also Miss Lucy Horton and Miss Virginia Sting, harpist. We shall have the pleasure of hearing Miss Butcher's delightful class in ensemble playing, consiting of eight violins and harp. In leading this ensemble playing, consisting of eight play on her new violin, recently purchased in Cincinnati.

We look for real enthusiasm for this Festival on the Hill, and believe that the students will support it unanimously.

Miss Butcher became the fortunate owner this summer of a very fine old violin, which she bought from the artist teacher, Mr. Perentz of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. This violin, formerly owned by a Polish gentleman in his country, was used by Mr. Perentz in giving his series of concerts this last year at the Conservatory. Finding that Miss Butcher wished to purchase a new violin, he made it possible for her to become the owner of this very excellent and valuable instrument, which she will use in assisting with the Fall Festival of Music soon to be given by the Music Department.

CHANGES IN FOOTBALL RULES

Someone has said that the reason for the changes in foot ball rules this year was that many people were begining to show signs of intelligence in the interpretation and general knowledge of foot ball rules and that even some sport writers of the better papers were often times writing up the plays and points on rules correctly. Thus it was very evident a change in rules was necessary.

Regardless of the reason some very radical changes were made and it is hoped they will be for the improvement of the game.

The most important changes are:

(1) The goal posts were moved back from the goal-line to the end line, thus leaving the playing field the same length and the goal line the same as heretofore but putting the goal posts ten yards back of the goal line or line for scoring touch downs.

(2) "Time Out" reduced from four to three in each half.

(3) In order to avoid delay a time limit of thirty seconds for putting in play was made, that is, thirty seconds from the time the ball is in playing position. Also a time limit of fifteen seconds has been placed on

CHEER LEADERS ELECTED

Thursday morning in chapel the election of cheer leaders was held, three men being chosen. The head cheer leader is Ed Driscoll with Paul Everett, Jesse Pierce and Billy Rogers, alternate, to assist him. The eight men whose names were up for election led the cheering last Saturday at the Tennessee Wesleyan game and the chosen three are expected to get a big response from an enthusiastic cheering section at the U. T. game.

Maryville Host To Student Volunteers

Maryville College assumed the role of host by entertaining representatives from various colleges and universities of Tennessee last weekend. They met at "The-House-In-The-Woods" for the annual council meeting and educational retreat of the Student Volunteer Union of Tennessee.

Mr. Milton Stauffer, educational secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement, led the group in the study of problems confronting Student Volunteers. Business items considered included the Quadrennial convention which will be held in Detroit from December 28, 1927 to January 2, 1928, the annual state conference to be held at Bryson College, Fayetteville next spring; the election of Miss Annie Vanderslice as alumni secretary of the state union.

The local group, under the leadership of Mr. Wilbur Franklin, president of the group, and Miss Mary Eleanor Welbon, vice-president of the state union, made the necessary arrangements and gratefully acknowledges the generous help of Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson, Mrs. H. McIlvaine, and the college authorities who contributed much to the success of the meeting.

DRAMATIC TALENT APPRECIATED IN TOWN

The dramatics department of the college is just beginning its winter work. The Maryville Players have selected their first play which will be presented November 11 in town under the auspices of the American Legion. The play is "The Lucky Break", a rip-roaring comedy, which is guaranteed to keep the audience in gales of laughter. Josephine Parker and Robert Anderson have the leading roles while Betty Jane Sharp, Genevra McDonald, and Marjorie Frey compose a trio that will ably support the leads.

"Rosalind", the play presented by Bainonian at her opening night, was given Tuesday at a meeting of the Tuesday Club at the home of Mrs. Chandler of Alcoa. The dramatic talent on the Hill is becoming known in town and is very well received.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, God in His infinite love and mercy has seen fit to call to Him the mother of our beloved friend and proctor, Mr. McCurry, we, the boys of Carnegie Hall do hereby extend our sympathy to the family in their bereavement.

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be read in chapel, a copy sent to the bereaved family and a copy printed in The Highland Echo.

WHOLE SCHOOL OUT

Determined To Put Up Real Fight—Men In Fair Condition

Maryville college meets the University of Tennessee in the annual game of football at Knoxville Saturday.

Tonight, the eve of the annual game Maryville is in only fair condition. Part of the regulars are suffering from injuries which will slow their playing if they are able to get into the game. Stone, Bird, and G. Dunn have bruised shoulders. Gann has a fractured rib. Bonds has an injured leg. Hunt injured his hip in practice Tuesday.

With the return of Kirk Young to the Highlander fold the Maryville hopes have soared upward. The morale of the team has been strengthened by the return of Young. Maybe this is the year, although all of the regulars are not in good condition, the tide will turn and Maryville will come out of the struggle the conqueror and not the conquered.

Last year the Highlanders swooped down upon the Volunteers in their stadium and when the smoke of battle had cleared from the field, the score board indicated a Tennessee victory with a 6-0 score. Until the last five minutes of the game neither team had scored although a long pass from McCall to Cartwright was almost completed, which, if it had been, would have meant at least a tie game and possibly a victory. In the last five minutes of play Tennessee managed to shove over the only touchdown of the game.

The entire Maryville team played brilliantly but the passing of McCall and the work of Stone at center surpassed the achievements of the players of both teams. Stone was playing against Butcher one of the best centers in the South. McCall threw long passes for good gains. His passing was the best exhibition of passing seen on Shields-Watkin field last year.

NEW GIRLS TO CHOOSE BETWEEN SOCIETIES

The last two weeks have been gala ones for the new girls. Theta and Bainonian have been entertaining them royally, and it's a real task for most of the new girls to decide which society they want to join. The week beginning September nineteenth was "Theta Week" and such good times as there were! Breakfast hikes, teas and all sorts of things, crowned by Theta's opening program "In a Little Spanish Town" on Saturday night.

Then "Bainonian Week" started September twenty-sixth and again there was a round of gaiety for the new girls including a candy pulling, a kid party, a fashion show, a weiner roast and then on Saturday night the Cinderpath Chautauqua.

And so this week the girls are having a chance to think it over and decide which society they want to join, and whichever it is, they are going to have some mighty good times, and they will find that each society stands for the highest things on the campus.

Monday afternoon the two presidents will preside over a ballot box in the hall between the two society rooms, and the new girls will cast their vote there, and then go to the hall of the society they have chosen, where they will be welcomed by the old girls.

UP, BOYS, AND AT 'EM

The great day has arrived. Tomorrow Maryville turns out to fight U. T. For over a quarter of a century Maryville has repeated this annual pilgrimage and has returned to the Hill feeling that she has done her best. But tomorrow she is going to do better than her best. And you must do your part.

The team will do their part. A team that can give as good as it takes from the Kentucky Wildcats, suffer a bitter defeat at the hands of Tennessee Wesleyan, and come up smiling to trounce U. T. is rather a dangerous puzzle.

You must help that team. Give your interest, your encouragement, your whole hearted loyalty. Be at the game, and be there with bells on. Yell just as much as the cheer leaders wish, and a little more. If you haven't anything to say, keep quiet. And above all, never say die!

Come on, Maryville, let's go!
Up, boys, and at 'em!

WHEN MARYVILLE BEAT U. T.

The game with the University of Tennessee has always been one of Maryville's hardest fought gridiron battles. Since back in the nineties our Maryville team has been going forth to war with our Knoxville neighbors almost every year. Maryville has always won praise for herself in these struggles for her fair playing, her gameness and her "never say die" spirit.

The much larger size of the University has usually made these games victories for U. T. This does not mean, however, that we have never beaten U. T. or never given her a close run for the victory.

The first Maryville-U. T. game on record was a 6-6 tie. This was in 1895. In 1906 we beat U. T. 11-0. This so far is our only victory in the U. T. games if we judge only by the scores. A member of the faculty who saw this game in 1906 has supplied us with some information concerning this historical victory.

The student body went to Knoxville in a body and disembarked from the train about two hours before the game was to start. These two hours were spent in various ways by the different students, but as is customary, they succeeded in letting Knoxville know that something was going to happen. Everyone was happy and full of pep.

There was nothing accidental about the result of the game. It was won by superior playing, both touchdowns coming from line plays. Bill Campbell carried the ball over for the first touchdown in the first half. Frank Taylor scored the second touchdown near the last of the game.

Of course, everyone "went wild" and spent the next day in celebrating. Everyone of the two hundred and fifty students yelled and celebrated until hoarseness and exhaustion stopped them.

Though we have not beaten U. T. since then, we are an ever increasing menace to her. In 1923 we tied with a 14-14 score. Those who remember our game last year know that we out-played U. T. though she did manage to score a touchdown near the end of the game. It is only a question of time before we accomplish our second victory. Eventually, why not now?

There will be no Y. W. meeting Sunday afternoon, but after vespers Sunday night the annual candle light service will be held for installing the new girls as Y. W. members. No one will want to miss this beautiful and impressive ceremony.

HIGHLAND FLINGS

A spinister encountered some boys in the old swimming hole minus everything but nature's garb, and was horrified.

"Isn't it against the law to bathe without suits on, little boys".

"Yes'm," announced freckled-faced Johnny, "but Jimmy's father is a policeman, so you can come on in."

the huddle.

(5) On all shift plays all players must come to a full stop and remain motionless for one full second. This has almost completely done away with the shift play.

(5) A fumbled punt is a free ball as it has been heretofore and may be recovered by a member of the kicking side, but may not be advanced beyond the point of recovery. The purpose of this change was to prevent an easy touchdown made by picking up a fumbled ball with a clear field ahead.

(6) Any backward pass, other than one from the center which strikes the ground is a dead ball and is put in play by the side making the pass, at the spot were the ball hit the ground. Heretofore it was a free ball and might be recovered by either team.

It is very evident that the changes will have a tendency to minimize the importance of handling the ball perfectly and surely in foot ball.

FIVE RING CIRCUS
POSITIVELY COMING

Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey To Bring Sacred White Elephant And Other Big Features

Yep, youngsters, it's really true! Meaning that a rumor heard sometime ago is now confirmed by the official announcement that the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Combined Shows will positively exhibit at Knoxville, Wednesday Oct. 12.

At that time the world's first and only five-ring circus will be within easy reach of local sawdust fans. With it will come the only genuine white elephant ever brought to America. He is "Pawah," the world-famed sacred white pachyderm from Burma, who will be the foremost feature of a menagerie composed of more than a thousand animals.

The big show is now a third larger than it was when it last visited this locality. Enormous new displays have been introduced such as ninety zebras, camels and horses performing at one time on a mammoth pedestal. On a similar series of circular raised platforms thirty-two of the show's forty-three elephants dance, run and perform in unison with the topmost of the ponderous actors twenty feet above the ground. Prior to this gigantic display five herds of elephants appear in the five separate rings. At another time the rings are given over to five companies of liberty horses. At still another juncture of the program two hundred of the show's 900 horses, each ridden by an expert, are seen in the brilliant maneuvers.

BULLDOGS SCORE 7-0 IN WALLAND GAMES

Coach Thrower's Bulldogs left off scrimmaging the varsity for a day last Friday and journeyed up to Walland where they engaged in a game of football. When the game ended Maryville was on the long end of a 7-0 score.

The playing of Jarvis and Harris of Maryville was exceptionally good. Jarvis's punts averaged about 40 yards. The work of Harris at end at rushing the punter or passer was noteworthy. All of the Walland players put up a good game, especially the backfield men.

Neither team scored in the first quarter but Maryville scored early in the second quarter when Jarvis went around right end for 20 yards and a touchdown. Jarvis made the extra point by the drop-kick route. In the last seconds of the first half Scott intercepted one of Walland's passes and, by the good interference of Taggart, raced 87 yards only to be downed within 3 yards of his goal. The half ended before the touchdown could be made. Neither team scored in the third quarter nor in the fourth quarter but Maryville was driving for a goal, with only 3 yards to go, when the game ended.

PEP COMMITTEE ORGANIZED

One would not suspect that we had a Pep Committee on College Hill after reviewing the results of Saturday afternoon, but all the same we have.

The Pep committee had the stage all set last week with a meeting in chapel, cheer leaders at the game, decorated field and a stunt between halves. We, as a student body, got off on the wrong foot and continued to step off on it until it was too late.

Regardless of what has happened our committee of eight is functioning in full force to put their best ideas together so that you may enjoy carefully planned programs throughout the year.

Don't keep your ideas to yourself but pass them on to a member of the committee so that they may be considered by the group and possibly used during the season. Members of the committee are Prof. Queener, advisor; Ed Driscoll, Chairman, Frances Easley, Nell Watkins, Elizabeth King, Maynard Layman, William Rodgers, John Taggart.

ATHENIAN

The Athenian believes in good clean athletics as an important part of college life. Saturday a football team, having in its ranks a goodly number of Athenians, is going to Knoxville to beat U. T. Can we do it? Why, of course we can. And we are going to be there full force to see it done.

If it is late when we get back to the hill and if there is a snap, we shall probably postpone the meeting of the Athenian until the following Saturday night. Watch the bulletin board for announcements, and, whenever it comes, be sure to hear the stringed trio composed of Messrs. Marston, Cotton, and Buchanan. There will also be other numbers worth hearing.

ALPHA SIGMA

Alpha Sigma congratulates the new men for the interest that they have shown in literary society work. This interest during the first weeks of school has shown that this will be a banner year for Alpha Sigma. Many interesting programs have been arranged for this semester. Last week the hall was filled to overflowing, and if the old men as well as the new ones could realize the benefits to be obtained from real work in Alpha Sigma. We are sure that there will be a 100 per cent attendance at every meeting.

On account of the football game with U. T., this Saturday, there will be no meeting this week. But to the Sigma we are sure that there will Alpha Sigma, we extend an invitation to the meeting next week. An excellent program has been arranged so let all the fellows come out and enjoy some real Alpha Sigma fellowship. We will also vote on the names that were put up last week.

U. T. DISCOVERS THAT MARYVILLE CAN FIGHT

Stone Leads Way in A Fighting Hard Game

Rain Does Not Dishearten Players or Students

A mighty Highlander machine went to Knoxville Saturday and a mightier machine returned to Maryville that night for the under-rated Maryville college football team had held Tennessee, who had defeated Carson-Newman 33-0, and North Carolina 26-0, to the low score of 7-0 in favor of Tennessee.

Maryville was seriously handicapped in the starting line-up. J. Davis, regular quarterback; Hunt, end, and Bonds, a prospective halfback were not in uniform but watched the game from the side line. Sneed, substituting at quarter for Davis, ran the team well and his handling of the slippery ball on punts far excelled the work of the Tennessee safety man. Wilson started at end in Hunt's posi-

The school for the training of religious leaders in the church school will be held at the college next week, October 17-21. The courses offered are units of the standard training course, and give credit toward a standard diploma. These courses are arranged so as to fit in with, and make specialized application in the regular college courses in Bible and Religious Education. But none of these courses are given in the regular college work. Credit on several of the college courses may be credited toward the standard diploma of the church if application is made to the department of Leadership Training. 423 Witherspoon building, Philadelphia, Pa.

The registration fee is $1.00.

Necessary books will be furnished. Some supplemental books will be offered for sale.

The school will have on its faculty this year five great religious educators from various parts of the country. Five courses will be given covering practically every department of the Sabbath school work. The classes which will begin at 3:15, October 17 are as follows:

23. "Beginners' Department Administration," by Mrs. C. B. Converse, Superintendent of the Beginners' Department, Park City Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, Tennessee.

33. "Primary Administration," by Miss Elsie Rodgers, Asst. Director of childrens' work, Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, Philadelphia, Pa.

204. "Junior Worship," by Mrs. F. F. Ballard, Superintendent of the Birmingham Council of Religious Education, Birmingham, Ala.

52. "Intermediate Materials and Methods," by Mrs. Deborah Clarke Warriner, Director of Girls' Work, Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, Birmingham, Ala.

63. "Senior Department Administration," by Mr. P. E. Green, Representative for Religious Education in the Synods of Tennessee and Mississippi, for the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, Chattanooga, Tennessee.

If you are interested in any kind of religious work any one of these courses will be much of benefit to you. A large enrollment is expected and every student is urged to further prepare himself for church leadership.

HERE'S THE BOY THAT CAPTAINED THE TEAM THAT WORRIED NEYLAND

PUNTS AND FUMBLES

The cheering of the Maryville section showed a decided improvement. However, the cheerings of the rival schools were about equal.

Horace Clemens made a beautiful tackle to bring Elmore down when he threatened for a goal.

The Maryville section had many graduates and former students in it. Looked very much like a Home Coming.

George Taylor gave a manly exhibition of football by remaining in the game after he had received a painful injury.

When Hope was sent in to replace Proffitt one Knoxville sport writer said, "Maryville has Hope for Proffitt" (hope for profit.)

The cheer leaders seemed to delight in playing in the mud. Brown pants would have been more suitable than white pants for a day like Saturday.

The referee and Sneed had a race when Witt punted one of his long punts. The referee won by getting between Sneed and the ball and preventing Sneed from getting the ball until it had rolled about 80 yards.

The Maryville cheer leaders practiced economy by having the fans sing "Alma Mater" while they were putting on their rain coats when rain began to fall during the game.

Various colors of rain coats were to be seen in the Maryville stands. The radio announcer told his unseen audience the particular colors he could see. He seemed to think Orange and Garnet predominated over the other colors.

BAINONIAN

"Why Girls Go Back Home" is a short, snappy program especially for new girls. It won't make you homesick, so just come and see the many reasons why girls go back home.

Each girl on entering may have the privilege of handing in a slip of paper telling her idea of "Why Girls Go Back Home." These slips are to be signed. The girl handing in the best reason will receive a prize.

Remember, new girls, you are a part of Bainonian now, and we expect you to take part in this and every other program during the year. We need you to make this the biggest and best year that Bainonian has ever had. Old girls, just keep up that marvelous loyalty and support you gave to Bainonian during the opening weeks of the year. Every Bainonian, don't miss the first meeting of the year in Bainonian hall Saturday night at 7:30.

MOST POPULAR COUPLE TO BE ELECTED

Annual Staff To Have Charge Of Election of Beauties

According to the editor of this year's Chilhowean, the work on the annual is underway and is moving forward swiftly.

The opening and view sections are already finished; the senior panels engraved and the balance of the book outlined in detail. We think that we have the best view section ever presented to the students of Maryville.

Mr. Webb will take charge of the photographic work again this year. The seniors will begin having their likenesses taken on Monday of next week. We need co-operation in this work so we ask that all seniors will look after this matter.

Our feature section is the same and yet different from any other section of the same order. We shall have one feature selected by the student body as a whole, namely, the most popular couple on the hill. This election will take place next Thursday morning after chapel.

Then each class will elect the two prettiest girls in the class. These eight girls will have their pictures taken and the pictures sent to Mr. F. D. Casey, Art Director of Life Magazine Mr. Casey will select the prettiest girl from these to be our Highland Queen, and then he will also select the prettiest girl from each of the other classes. In short we shall have the four prettiest of our young damsels. These winners will not be known until the annual is published.

The other feature will be our Best All Round Athlete, chosen by Coach Honaker.

Three elections will take place next so be ready to vote for the right parties.

By the students co-operating with us by getting their picture taken when we ask them, and by the clubs getting their panels made up on time, and by each student saving some of his hard cash for our product we can make this annual the best ever. You'll help won't you?

The Chilhowean staff is as follows:

Editor-inChief, W. R. Courtenay.
Associate Editor, Mary Davenport.
Business Manager, John Weinand
Literary Editor, Florine Hopkins
Photographic Editor, Jack Cotton
Activity Editor, Betty Jane Sharp
Athletic Editor, Jimmy Cox
Typist, David Marston
Class Editor, Mary Fitzgerald.

ALPHA SIGMA

The regular meeting of Alpha Sigma was not held last week on account of the U. T. game. The regular meeting will be held this week however. The vacation has given our program secretary an opportunity to arrange a program of special merit, which is as follows:

Invocation, Floyd Geist
Alma Mater, Society.
Roll Call, To be answered by your favorite hobby.

Debate, Resolved, That Freshmen at Maryville College should be compelled to Wear Green Caps at All Times.

Affirmative: William Rodgers, Allan Herdman.

Negative: Frank Baker, Floyd Geist.

Vocal Duet, Chilton Bowles and Norman Vaughn.

Football Reports, William Grayson Advance, Arthur Shaw.

GLEE SINGERS HARD AT WORK

Everything points toward the fact that the Maryville Glee Singers this year will outdo all previous records. Never before has there been such a large amount of good material to choose from in selecting members. As a result, the club will be composed of twenty men this year, three more than last year, and even then quite a few good prospects have had to be turned down in the final cutting.

There was some complaint last year about lack of volume when volume was desirable, which complaint will probably not be made this year. With five good singers in each section, Mr. Jensen, the director, believes he can put out a club capable of producing good music whether in the lightest pianissimo or the heaviest fortissimo. As to tonal balance, the present club probably surpasses all those which have gone before.

Tentative try-outs for the quartets have been made, but the quartet members have not all been definitely decided upon. There are to be two quartets, one of which will be known as the novelty quartet and which have charge of the novelty act, a burlesque opera-tragique in two parts said to be a knockout. The other quartet will do straight quartet work.

In conjunction with the aforementioned novelty act, there will be a regular, six-piece orchestra which will entertain during the act and also separately. This orchestra is made up entirely of Glee Singers—further proof of the versatility which will characterize this year's program.

The club is getting an early start. There have been three or four practices already and work is progressing on a group of songs. Toward the end of November there will probably be a joint-concert of the Glee Club and the orchestra and there will be at least one trip before Christmas. The club is working hard to get in shape for these concerts because, after all, Christmas is not so far off.

An Ohio youth was given twenty-one lashes at the whipping post for chewing off his mother-in-law's ear. The dispatches failed to state whether or not the judge who gave the sentence was a married man.—Exchange.

PRE-MEDICAL CLUB

The pre-medical club met on Oct. 7th in Prof. Davis' class room and elected officers. About twenty-five students were present.

President, William Crowder
Vice President, Paul King.
Secretary and Treasurer, Mary Louise Rodgers.

Program Secretary and Editor, Mary Sue Carson.

Will all those wishing to be members hand their names to one of these officers sometime this week. We are planning an interesting and worth-while program this year. Every student who is expecting to study medicine should be a member of the pre-medical club.

MARYVILLE ENCOUNTERS TUSCULUM TOMORROW

Coach Does Not Expect An Easy Game

FIRST CONFERENCE GAME

Hunt and Davis Probably Will Be Able to Play

The Highlanders will move their camp to Tusculum this week-end and engage Tusculum College in the first conference game of the season. Incidentally this is one of the two upper East Tennessee. The second trip will be made to Bristol where King College, another conference foe, will be played October 29.

Little is known of the strength of the Tusculum team. Coach Honaker predicts that they have a good team basing his opinion on the number of old men who returned to school and the new men who are eligible. Anyway, the coach isn't expecting an easy game Saturday.

Maryville is in fair condition for the game. Taylor and Bonds will be unable for service. Hunt and Davis will possibly be able to play in part of the game if their services are needed. The remainder of the squad is in condition for real action.

Beside Coach Honaker and Manager Mischlich the following men will probably make the trip: Capt. Stone, Bird, G. Crawford, Davis, Gann, Hunt, Sneed, McDonald, Wilson, Williams, DeLaney, Young, Clemens, Proffitt, Hope, Rogers, Morrison, Watkins, M. Dunn, G. Dunn, Brock, Cherry and Harris.

Orchestra And Ensemble Class Work Under Way

The orchestra and ensemble classes under the direction of Miss Butcher, are in process of organization. The prospects for a large orchestra are unusually good this year. While at the Cincinnati Conservatory this summer Miss Butcher took a course in directing and conducting orchestra work and is abundantly equipped to take charge of this branch of musical activity.

While the date has not been definitely set for the Fall Festival of Music, the Music Department is actively at work on a program which promises to be one of real interest, including as it does some of the best artists in the department and in the musical faculty. A great deal of enthusiasm is being shown in the establishment of this Fall Festival as an opening musical event of each school year and Miss Hale is bending her energy toward the working out of an interesting musical festival which will give an impetus to music and create a taste for the highest and best in music.

CHATTANOOGA CLUB

The Chattanooga Club had a party in the college woods last Monday afternoon. Many games were played, while progressive moonshining was a big feature. Twenty-eight persons were present, chaperoned by Professor Thrower.

At a recent meeting the club decided to admit students living in Chattanooga as the Chattanoogans are few in numbers ths year. This gives the club a membership of sixteen.

WE WANT A BAND

If one recalls the Tennessee Wesleyan game, one might remember that Wesleyan brought its own band along. Maryville had none. And if one recalls the game with U. T. one might also remember that U. T. had a band while Maryville had none.

We want a band.

It is not necessarily incumbent upon us to acquire a thing simply because other colleges have that thing, but it is incumbent upon us to acquire a certain thing when we need it. And there is no doubt that Maryville needs a band. In fact, it seems that a foot ball game, particularly, is incomplete without one to add to the volume of the cheering, give the proper pitch and tempo to the students, efforts at "Alma Mater" inspire the team on occasion with defiant blasts, and give the final touch to victory by an insolent and triumphant rendition of the Pep song.

For the presence of a band at foot ball games the time is short, since there remain three more games to be played on the home field. But later its presence might be heard and appreciated at snaps, basket ball games, and holiday celebrations.

Is it possible to have a band?

If the fifteen or twenty students on the hill who possess the ability to perform on a band instrument will meet and inform the faculty of their desire to aid their Alma Mater in this particular fashion, we believe that the faculty will respond by obtaining a director for the band.

The students want a band, Maryville needs a band, the possibilities are here, so why not have a band?

Then will the sound of "The Campbell's Are Coming" and "There'll be a Hot Time" be heard afar off and there will be rejoicing in the land of our sojourn.

CONCERNING A COURTESY

In the joy filling experience of last Saturday in Knoxville there was but one draft of bitter in our cup of sweetness. We speak of the obvious thoughtlessness of some few of the members of our student body; that thoughtlessness showed itself in the slow rising when it was announced by the cheer-leaders that the Alma Mater was to be sung, and in the fact that a number of the male members of the body forgot to remove their hats." You pay for your education?" Yes, but do you not owe loyalty, support and love to her who nurtures you in your quest of knowledge? Are you to be a member in but not of her student body? If there be an one among us, who is too big, too self sufficient to give honor where twenty-seven generations of Maryvillians have pledged it, let him go, say we, to another clime, where he will be taken at his own valuation.

Miss Lillian Dorough was a guest on the Hill last week-end.

Margaret Goodwin spent last week-end at her home in Sweetwater.

Dr. Charles Cushman, of St. Petersburg, Florida, visited his daughter, Carol, Saturday and Sunday.

THE HIGHLAND FLINGS

Mr. Proffitt: Dont you think that it is rather extravagant to eat both butter and jam on your bread at the same time?

Freshman: Oh, no, Professor. It's economy. You see the same piece of bread does for both.

Y. M. C. A. HIKE

Fellows see those peaks yonder thru the mist. Well they are the destination of our trip this week end. They look mighty inviting to me, because I've been there before and know how much fun it is to roam thru the valleys and camp at night out under the skies. Then again just smell that coffee, bacon an the rest of the grub. Why say I'd sooner have one of those meals than a turkey dinner at Pearsons. When you've hiked all day you can eat too, take my word for it. Then fellows just picture that camp fire. A real big fire, and the good old gang of fellows around it, singing and swapping yarns. That picture will be with you all your days. You'll always look back on the trip with great satisfaction.

The boys have been divided into groups. Each group has a leader. The leader is responsible for every boy in the group, both his person and also for his actions. Only in this way can we have an organized hike. Obey your leaders and pull with the squad and not against it.

Each fellow will take at least two blankets, a plate, knife, fork and cup. And don't forget the proverbial spoon. Also two pair of hose are required. Reasons given privately. Wear your old hiking clothes and wear strong shoes. Soap, towels and tooth brush will come in handy, take them along. No razors allowed.

We will leave Bartlett Hall at 3:30 sharp and hike to Gold Creek Falls where we will camp for the night. After supper we'll have a song service and then each squad will put on a stunt. Sunday morning we will have morning service and later hike over into Cade's Cove and back to camp in the evening. We hope to be back in Maryville by 10:30 Monday morning.

Get the ole' fight in your bones fellows. Talk up the fun and the scenery and good times. Let's make this the best hike ever.

STATE Y. CONFERENCE

On Friday, October 7th, W. R. Courtenay, W. B. Jones and Maynard Layman journeyed to Chattanooga to attend the third annual conference of the Y. M. C. A. Student Council for the State of Tennessee. Ten colleges and universities were represented and each contributed to the success of the conference. Mr. Ed Hamilton, State Student Secretary; Mr. C. B. Loomis, new Regional Secretary; Mr. Charles Corbett, secretary of World Education and Rev. C. B. Wilmer of the University of the South were the illuminaries who attempted to lend aid to the mystified students present.

For the first two days the work was in the nature of group discussion on such subjects as: "What and why is the Y. M. C. A." and "What is a Christian," and "Relations between men and women on our campuses." These questions were voted as being the most vital to our schools, and much information was obtained as how we might live better lifes and how we can improve the spiritual welfare of our campuses.

The Rev. C. B. Wilmer gave the closing address. It was a great inspiration to hear him blend the old ideas and the new into a wonderful view of Christianity as it should be today.

The new officers for the coming year are:

Mr. Chas. Houk, Tennessee, President.

Mr. Robert Council, Tenn. Wesleyan, Vice-President.

Mr. W. R. Courtenay, Maryville, Secretary.

JOINT MEETING

Rev. R. A. Torrey, Jr., representing the Board of Foreign Missions of the Presbyterian church, U. S. A. will address the joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Sunday at four o'clock. Mr. Torrey is a son of the great evangelist, Dr. R. A. Torrey, Sr., and has had many thrilling experiences during his fourteen years of mission service in China. He was forced to leave on account of the recent anti-christian uprising and is now traveling, in this section, for the Presbyterian Foreign Mission Board. He is a gifted speaker and his address will be of interest to all Maryville students.

Nelle and Arta Watkins spent the week-end at their home in Loudon.

Mrs. F. H. Dyer, of Sweetwater, was the guest of her sister, Lois Miles, Monday and Tuesday.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The Ministerial Association held its regular monthly meeting Wednesday, October 12, in Athenian Hall. There were twenty-four present. There were also five new men taken in as active or associate members.

The devotions were led by Mr. Ed Dehaven. President Tull offered the prayer.

Mr. Russell Gilmore being the speaker of the evening brought to us a testimony of his life and calling into the Christian Ministry. It was a testimony that touched the heart of each man present. We join in the words of our president and say, we were glad to have been there.

tion but was replaced by Brock, who had been playing guard. This was Brock's first game at end but he played like a veteran. His going down on punts was the best of any linesman on either team.

The Maryville backfield did not gain very much ground as compared to Tennessee's gains. Maryville was playing a defensive game and not an offensive one. Bird was called back frequently to punt on the second or third down—and his punts were good considering the condition of the ball. He out punted Witt in the second half, keeping the ball in foreign territory most of the time. Clemens failed to make many gains as he was closely watched by Tennessee.

But of all Maryville's players Capt. Stone played the best game. Playing his last game against Tennessee Stone broke through the Tennessee line, time after time, to throw the fast Tennessee backfield men for a loss. Three centers were tried against him and none were able to knock him out of the plays. Quoting Major Neyland, head coach at Tennessee, "I'll dream about this fellow Stone crashing through our line tonight in my sleep."

Marysvilles line for out classed Tennessee's line. Butcher was the only Tennessee regular who was not in the game. But all of the players looked alike to Maryville. Three times Maryville's line held Tennessee for downs when they had only ten yards to go for a touchdown. Every man in the line did his part.

Much credit for Maryville's strong defense must be given to Morrison, fullback. He backed the line well and made many good tackles.

Putting the game in a nutshell, Maryville was paralyzed less than Tennessee. Tennessee gained more ground than Maryville. Maryville's defense was stronger than Tennessee's, Tennessee out punted Maryville.

The following men took part in their last Tennessee game: Stone, Brock, Sneed, G. Crawford, Gann, M. Dunn.

The line-up:

Tennessee	Position	Maryville
Lowe	L. E.	Wilson
McArthur	L. T.	Proffitt
F. Johnson	L. G.	Brock
Abernathy	C.	Stone
Tripp	B. G.	M. Dunn

HIGHLANDERS AND BAGGAGE WILL TURN OUT FOR SMOKIES

Calderwood Destination Of Whole School On Monday.

So far as old students are concerned, a M. C. mountain hike needs no explanation, encouragement, or remarks—but the freshmen are different—as usual. . .

Know, then, freshmen, that a mountain hike is an extra curricular activity indulged in twice a year by all sane inmates of college hill. It's a sort of outside reading or parallel investigation for courses in botany and moonshining. No extra credit is given, but it's worth the $1.10, or $2.00 tuition fee, nevertheless.

All the advantages and benefits might be pointed out, such as scenery —lots of scenery, exercise, conversational opportunities (there is such a lot of silence around a mountain) chances for being heroic by dragging fair damsels out of creeks and other selling points that I might mention —but even freshmen are supposed to have imagination.

Nobody is going to be foolish enough to miss the fall hike, so get your dates right away, boys (girls, work on those prospects Mr. Franklin mentioned,) and get your tickets by noon Saturday. Girls, feed your dates well; a good meal makes any man more entertaining. And everybody be ready to leave for a big time at seven o'clock Monday morning.

PUNTS AND FUMBLES

A wee, small voice from the sidelines cheered Horace Clemens on to do his best.

Williams showed his heels to the field when he took a sprint for a gain of 25 yards.

The Maryville cheering section was composed of about 12 Knights of the Road, Dr. McMurray, and some citizens from town, Jesse Pierce led the cheers.

Capt. Stone went into the game and encouraged the line to hold Tusculum with about one yard to go and four downs in which to make it. The line certainly did stand like a stone wall.

Franklin and Clouser, two members of the Knights of the Road Club, reached Tusculum in time to learn the final score.

John Lucy Morgan, member of last year's graduating class, was an interested spectator at the game.

Brock, played end thru first half and guard the second half. He played both positions equally well.

The faces of J. Davis, regular quarterback, and Taylor, regular end, were not to be seen among the Maryville players. They did not make the trip due to injuries received in the Tennessee Wesleyan and University of Tennessee games, respectively.

ART CLUB ORGANIZES

The Triangle Club met on Tuesday afternoon and elected the following officers for the school year 1927-28:

President, Jesse Peirce
Vice President, Robert Jones.
Secretary, Edith Sbrygner.
Editor, J. Gordon Jeffries.

DEBATING TEAM WILL ATTEND NATIONAL CONTEST

Alabama And Florida Will Debate Here; 65 Freshmen Out For Team

Although nothing definite is known yet about the year's debate schedule, exceedingly interesting plans are underway. There are fourteen girls out; eight or ten of these will be selected. Ten or twelve of the twenty-three boys out will do varsity debating.

A boys team will be selected to go to Tiffin, Ohio, to the national debating contests, and while in the north will probably have debates with a number of Ohio colleges. If possible an equally extensive trip will be planned for the girls' team.

The home debates promise to be unusually interesting. The University of Alabama and the University of Florida have already written to arrange for debating Maryville here.

Between now and the debate season efforts will be made to raise extra money for trip expenses. Possibly the debate classes will put on a play

With the number of old debaters that are back, and the fact that sixty-five freshmen are out for debate, it surely seems that Maryville can look forward to a successful year in forensics.

MARYVILLE DOWNS TUSCULUM 19-0

Offering a brilliant offense and a stubborn defense, Maryville College swept to victory over the fast Tusculum eleven last Saturday at Tusculum.

Maryville excelled in every department of the game. Tusculum's team was too light for the heavy Maryville line and failed to gain consistently through it.

Bird's punting was good. Sneed played a heady game at quarter until he was removed on account of an injury. Young and Rogers played a good defensive game in the line. Harris, playing his first varsity game looked good at end. Clemens and DeLaney threw many passes which were completed for good gains.

But the real star of the game was none of the afore mentioned men. The real star was a recent graduate of Thrower's Bulldogs. Billy Crawford, playing at half, was a real menace to Tusculum. He ploughed through the line for long gains. During Crawford's stay in the game most of Maryville's yardage was made by this fleet-footed halfback.

After Tusculum had kicked off,

REHEARSALS UNDERWAY FOR ONE MIDWINTER

Cast Is Selected For "The Patsy" A Modern Comedy.

The first midwinter of the year presented by Baionian is just going into renearsal.

Those who have seen "The Patsy" by Barry Conlor, the play that has scored countless successes for the Redpath Chautauqua this last season, are looking forward with anticipation for we are also familiar with the work of the Bainonian Society.

It would be extremely difficult to find a play that is so admirably cast as "The Patsy". Can we imagine anyone who could portray the cleverness of Patsy Harrington better than Nelle Watkins?

The all star cast is as follows:

Patricia Harrington, Nelle Watkins
Mr. Bill Harrington, Jesse Piece
Mrs. William Harrington Alice Gillingham
Frances Harrington Lillian Robinson
Billy Caldwell Leland McDonald
Tony Anderson Ed Driscoll
Sadie Buchanan Lillian Jackson

ART CLUB ORGANIZES

The students of painting and free hand drawing met a week ago and organized the Art Club. The following officers were elected:

President, Mary Clopton, Vice-President, Nanette Cline, Secretary and Treasurer, Mary Fant; Program Secretaries, Betty Griffes, Anna Rowe Templin; Editor, Nelle Caldwell.

Plans for coming meetings were discussed last Wednesday, and it was decided that the lives and works of the great painters should be studied. This series will begin next Wednesday with the study of Raphael. The following program was presented: Art in everyday life, William Rogers; Reading, Alice Gillingham; Duet, Selma Baird, Betty Griffes.

HOT FROM THE TOASTER

Horace Clemens Featuring the latest song hit "When Will the Sun Shine For Me."

Lillian Jackson: Picks her roses in Kresses.

Tom Gann: Who answers to the cognomen of "America's Sweetheart."

Lillian Robinson: A firm believer in the "Freedom of the Shes."

John Trevethick Wriggins: We understand he has a cousin named George.

"Jimmy" Rule: Sings as well for "Mike" as she does for us.

Roy Taylor: Have you heard "Doc's" famous discourse on the loading of elephants?

Ed Driscoll: "Something's gotta be done!"

Harry Miller: Who has given excellent performances with the belles of Maryville, while he nonchalantly quotes "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight."

Harold Miller: Another Alpine climber, who assists his brother as a "Belle Wringer".

Clyde Mischlich: Tee Hee, we fooled you it's only "Jiggs."

Selwyn Havens Osborne: Who without beating around the bush says, "This country is an autocracy, with womanhood as the dynast."

Stirl Rule: He says that he learned to kiss by playing the saxophone.

FRESHMEN HERE'S YOUR CHANCE

Freshmen, attention! Here is where you shine. Bring your pads and pencils to the game tomorrow and take down all the high spots. Then write up the game for the Highland Echo and put your composition in the Echo box in Anderson by Wednesday afternoon. Come on, you embryo sport writers, let's hear from you. The most accurate, spiciest, and best written article will be published next week.

Y. HIKERS HAD ADVENTURES IN SMOKIES

Were Lost, Chilled, and Starved Before Return To Hill.

The Y. M. C. A. mountain hike began last Saturday afternoon and ended sometime Monday morning. Someone once said, "united we stand, divided we fall." This hike almost proved the truth of this statement; for, although there were comparatively few falls, there was certainly a lot of stumbling and uncertain rambling over the Chilhowees last Saturday night.

The first bunch going into the mountains was the smallest of all, composed of Pope, Barnard and Dimler. These boys thought the destination was Abram's Falls instead of Gold Creek Falls so they went several miles beyond Gold Creek Falls before pitching camp. For supper they ate marshmallows, fig bars and light bread. For breakfast they ate light bread, fig bars and marshmallows. Of course when they arrived at Abram's Falls they found no-one and nothing to eat. They were rescued shortly after twelve by a motley crew led by Prof. Hussey.

The crowd with Prof. Hussey was the first to reach Gold Creek Falls Saturday night. Thammy from Arkanthaw was in this group. A few hours later, the crowd, misled by Bob Anderson, joined the hilarious Herrs after much yelling and S. O. S. signalling in unison. Thus, about fifteen or twenty fellows really reached the appointed destination as scheduled.

The remainder of the hikers, twenty-five or more got off the trail near the foot of the mountain and after considerable rambling and futile signalling to more fortunate hikers in the heights, ended up in Miller's Cove and proceeded to pitch camp for the night.

Sunday morning little was accomplished toward uniting the different parties. True, two intrepid explorers, Walter Headrick and a Maryville alumnus, Brickey Lequire, succeeded in reaching the Gold Creek camp. When they returned several hours later with the entire lower camp, however, the former residents had departed for Cades Cove.

No-one arrived at Cades Cove. Prof. Hussey and his cohorts were lead off the trail by signs left by Pope and company so that they finally arrived at Abram's Falls, rather than Cades Cove, much to the sorrw of one party and to the delight of the hunger stricken marshmallow victims.

Sunday night was spent by some in Miller's Cove and by others at Gold Creek Fall.

Naturally, there were some sore feet after the hike, a few burned bankets and shoes, a few lost articles etc. However, the hike proved a very enjoyable event to all concerned. The experience gained will surely aid in planning the next similar hike. One thing certainly gained by all is a greater respect for Carnegie beds, Pearson's hash and coffee, and civilization in general.

TEAM IS IN BEST CONDITION OF THE YEAR

Little Known Of West Virginia's Strength.

SECOND HOME GAME

Team Has Been Drilling Hard In Past Week.

The Highlanders will make their second appearance of the year before local foot ball fans when they encounter the football team from Bluefield College, West Virginia.

Little is known of the strength of Bluefield. Near the opening of the season, Bluefield held Tusculum to a scoreless tie. As fans will remember Maryville triumphed over Tusculum 19-0 last Saturday. Whether or not this reveals Bluefields strength cannot be said. But to much dependence is not to be put in dope for the "dope bucket" is frequently upset.

Maryville has been hard at work this week, preparing for the game. The coaches are not taking the game lightly, and the only thing for them to do is to have their charges ready for the occasion of the enemy. From the way they have been scrimmaging this week they surely are ready, for, as someone remarked, "If the ball were painted white, maybe they could see it." When the coach can no longer see his pupils, it is then, and only then that he calls a halt to practice.

Coach Honaker, in talking of the condition of his men, said they would be in better condition for this game than any game of the season. J. Davis, Bonds, and Hunt have returned to practice and will be seen in action Saturday. Stone and Taylor are the only regulars who have not reported for practice this week. Their getting into Satuday's game is doubtful.

BULL DOGS BEAT EVERETT

The pupils of Coach Thrower, commonly known as the Bulldogs, are showing themselves to be apt pupils of their instructor. Last Friday they pleased their teacher by trouncing the strong Everett High school to the tune of a 12-0 score.

This victory marked the second successive triumph over a strong High school team. Only two weeks ago Walland fell before the hard-during Bulldogs.

Taggart and Johnson were the individual stars of the game. Johnson was down the field on every play. Taggart made both touchdowns.

A pass from Jarvis to McConnaughbay for 30 yards was a feature of the game. Jarvis' punts averaged 35 and 40 yards.

The line-up:

Maryville	Position	Everett
M. Davis	L. E.	Henry
Biggs	L. T.	Watson
Headrick	L. G.	H. Patterson
Storey	C.	Chamberlin
Morton	R. G.	Clabough
Whitehead	R. T.	Harrison
Johnson	R. E.	Large
McConnaughbay	Q. B.	Bean
Taggart	L. H. B.	Hall
Jarvis	R. H. B.	Morton
Scott	F. B.	Young

Score by quarters:

Everett	0	0	0	0

Substitutes: Everett Mill, E. Patterson, Atchley.

Maryville: Watkins, Burrell, Hitch Carper, K. L. Davis, R. Crawford.

A QUESTION

Why is a literary society?

We were recently walking among the cedars on this hill top and observed several posters proclaiming the advantages of each society. And we wondered what the reason was for each society.

Do the societies exist for the entertainment of its members or for the development of its members? The ideal society would, of course, entertain its members while developing their latent literary ability. But does one phase of its work crowd out the other?

This is a question that needs to be considered. The societies have given pleasure to their members with weekly programs, and to the whole college and community with midwinters. But is there a possibility that the societies exist for the program and midwinters? Or are these but expressions of their development of their members?

There are a favored few who by reason of their talents are called upon to appear often before the society audiences, and we enjoy them. But every man and woman on this hill speaks the English language and thereby possesses the medium of expressing himself to the outside world And the work of the societies lies in encouraging every member to so develop and express himself that such expression will be a source of enjoyment.

Are the societies touching both phases of their work, or are they neglecting one phase, the phase of developing every member?

In last week's Echo credit was given for the band at the Tennessee Wesleyan game to the wrong party. The band was composed of Maryville Kiwanians. The team and students certainly appreciated their presence on that occasion, and invite them, at any time, to appear at the games.

New girls, here's your chance to learn what Y. W. hopes to do for every girl on College Hill. Sunday at 1:15, in Thaw Hall, the old girls are going to tell you what they hope Y. W. will mean to you while you are here at Maryville. They are planning a fine program and expect each of you to be there. You new girls will have a chance on the following Sunday to tell us how you think Y. W. can mean most to every Maryville girl. So come out and hear the program and decide upon your reply.

A dainty bit and airy;
It didn't show dirt a bit,
But, gee, how it showed Mary.

M. C.

Inquiring Motorist (in remote section of Arkantha): How far is it to the next town?

Thammy: "Wa-al, I don't rightly know, but I'll call Eph. Eph'll know He'th traveled all over. He'th got thoeth."

M. C.

Dean Barnes: "What is a psychologist?"

Cross: "A psychologist is one who can get away with being lazy by calling it a complex."

M. C.

Farr was telling Deford the other day that he liked Maryville very well but said, "That new fangled light kept me awake nearly half the night."

"Why didn't you put it out?" asked Deford.

"I did nearly blow my brains out, but the blamed thing was in a bottle."

M. C.

Pierce: "Your wife has such a soft, liquid voice."

Geist: "But it is hard to stop the flow."

M. C.

Campbell: "What makes you eat your pie before the rest of your dinner?"

Coughlin: "Well, my stomach is upset, so I eat my meal backwards."

M. C.

Niles 1: "Did you hear about the cruel night-watchman?"

Niles 2: "No, what did he do?"

Niles 1: "Cut off a burglar's retreat."

Sayings Of The Wise

Adam: I've fallen for it.

Plutarch: I'm sorry that I have no more lives to give for my country.

Samson: I'm strong for you kid.

Jonah: You can't keep a good man down.

Cleopatra: You're an easy Mark, Anthony.

David: The bigger they are the harder they fall.

Helen of Troy: So this is Paris.

Colombus: I don't know where I'm going, but I am on my way.

Mary Queen of Scots: Don't lose your head.

Nero: Keep the home fires burning.

Solomon: I love the ladies.

Noah: It floats.

Pearce: "What's the matter with your nose?"

Wilbur: "Shut up!"

Banks: "I had a job in Detroit last summer."

Clemons: "What doing?"

Banks: Painting whiskers on Fords to make them look like Lincolns."

M. C.

Ed: "Does that smile mean that you forgive me?"

Eva: "No, I was just smiling to rest my face."

KENTUCKY CLUB ENJOYS AFTERNOON IN WOODS

Beautiful weather a jolly crowd, a congenial chaperone, and last, but not least, a hot fire and delicious eats, combined to make the Kentucky club party of last Monday afternon a huge success. Although no moonshine of the "wet" sort was in evidence, all the members seemed to be in hilarious spirits and plenty of the "Maryville Special" brand was on hands.

We are planning for an open party in the not very distant future, so Kentuckians, watch for announcements of our club meetings.

ATHENIAN

Anyone who heard the extemporaneous program presented at the Athenian last Saturday evening will certainly not want to miss another program. That was a good example of what Athenians can do extemporaneously; just think what the same ones can do when they have time to plan the program. The program for Saturday night has been deliberately planned, and it will certainly be planned, and it will certainly be worth hearing. Nobody knows just what it will be, but we do know that it will be given by the boys from Kentucky. When we remember that Kentucky sends us men who can pick the banjo as Gene Gabbard can and men who can speak as Florian Hopkins can, we get an idea of what the Kentucky boys will give us. We are expecting a full house. Come early so you can get a seat.

MARYVILLE FELLOWSIP CLUB MEETING

The Maryville Fellowship club held its regular weekly meeting last Thursday evening. Sept. 13, in Bartlett Hall auditorium. A most enjoyable program had been arranged. The meeting was opened by the singing of the Alma Mater song. Following this was a vocal solo by Karl Watson, who was accompanied on the piano by Miss Marion Johnson. The next number was a violin solo by John Chestnut which made us all sprout ambitions to become violinists. After this the president, Mr. McClellan, appointed a program committee for the next meeting to be held Thursday night, Oct. 20, in Bartlett Hall directly after supper.

At the meeting previous to this Dr. Stevenson was present and gave a short talk that was of great interest and benefit to all.

Every freshman and new man that is not getting out to these meetings of the Fellowship Club is really missing something and all of them are cordially invited and urged to come to the next meeting. The program is going to be unusually good and well prepared.

Mary Ella Sullivan and Wilma Dixon spent the week-end at their home in Cleveland.

Professor Howell who has been analysing home brew for alcholic content in behalf of the County Law Officials, when asked how home brew was made gave the following answer:

Chase wild bullfrogs for 3 miles and gather the hops. To them add 10 gallons of tan bark, 1-2 pint of good shellac and one bar of home made soap. Boil 36 hours and then strain thru an I. W. W., sock to keep from working. Add one grasshopper to each pint to give it a kick. Pour a little into the kitchen sink; if it takes off the enamel it is ready for using.

Maryville opened a strong offense for a hurried first down only to lose the ball to Tusculum. Moreno, Tusculum's star backfield man failed to penetrate Maryville's defense for a first down and was forced to punt. Maryville took the ball on Tusculum's 40 yard line and with Bird and Clemens carrying the ball marched over the goal line for the first touchdown. Clemens was carrying the ball when the touchdown was made.

The second quarter opened with Maryville in possession of the ball. Being unable to make first down Bird punted. Tusculum, likewise, could not make first down and were forced to punt from behind the goal line. Bird blocked the punt, and recorded the ball for Maryville's second touchdown. The extra point was good. The half ended with Maryville leading 13-0.

In the third quarter Billy Crawford began a determined march toward the goal line. He was thwarted in his efforts temporarily when Tusculum intercepted a Maryville ball. But Crawford was not to be denied a touchdown and in the beginning of the fourth quarter plunged over the line for Maryville's touchdown.

The game ended with the ball in Tusculum's possession on Maryville's 30 yard line.

The line-up:

Maryville	Position	Tusculum
Proffitt	L. T.	Mar
Gann	L. G.	Goldberg
Stone	C.	Lapsley
M. Dunn	R. G.	Russo
Young	R. T.	Owens
Brock	R. E.	Lightfoot
Sneed	Q. B.	Barbarson
Clemens	L. H. B.	Moreno
Bird	R. H. B.	Dittie
Morrison	F. B.	Hughes

Score by quarters:

Tusculum	0	0	0	0	0
Maryville	6	7	0	6	19

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The regular weekly meeting of the Ministerial Association was held Wednesday evening in Athenian Hall. There were twenty four men present. The organization continued in growth as three new men were taken in as active members.

Mr. Paul King in leading devotions read some inspiring Scripture and offered a wonderful prayer.

A musical program was rendered consisting of two talks by McDowell and Clouser on the subject "My Favorite Hymn" a piano solo by Copley and a violin duet by Conrad and Bowles. The entire program was rendered impressively.

The Social Committee reported the Association had a successful party Monday afternoon in the College Woods. It was reported that Miss Molly, the chaperone stated that the Ministerial Association had a fine bunch of boys. Thanks to you Miss Molly.

A program on our motto "A job for every man" is being planned for next week.

BAINONIAN

"No wonder" everyone is coming to Bainonian Saturday night for we are going to have an Irving Berlin program. And who doesn't love Irving Berlin? Come expecting to hear everything from his dreamy, drippy songs like "Always", "Remember," and "Because I Love You" to the snappy "How Many Times" type. Some songs will be produced by the dreamy violin, and others by the laughing, wailing saxaphone, to say nothing of solos and choruses. Still other songs will be acted in pantomime. So you see, Bainonian, you can't afford to miss this evening of real enjoyment afforded by this unusually good program.

Don't forget that the prize is to be awarded for the best reason "Why Girls Go Back Home," which was handed in last Saturday night.

STUDENT COUNCIL IS ORGANIZED

The student council met Tuesday night for the election of officers and plans for the year's work. The following were elected:

President, Betty Griffes.

Secretary-treasurer, Fancher Smartt

The council voted to have a regular meeting every other Tuesday night, with call meetings when necessary.

The date for the mountain hike was selected, and possible places discussed.

FLORIDA CLUB

The Florida Club held its first meeting Wednesday, October nineteenth. The old members were pleased to find several new Florida boosters who are going to do a lot toward making this club the best on the Hill.

The following officers for the new year were elected:

President, Mary Chris Bena.
Vice President, Elizabeth Post.
Secretary-Treasurer, Jack McGinley.
Editor, Elizabeth Murphy.

Plans were made for a breakfast hike which will be held in the near future.

Our club intends to let everyone know that Florida is still very much on the map in spite of Real Estate and Hurricanes. Hurrah for the crackers!

The Frosh Put Out!

FRESHMAN EDITION

VOL. 13 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, OCTOBER 28, 1927 NO. 7

Intelligence Of Frosh Is Weighed And Found Wanting

FREAK ANSWERS SHOW LOW MENTALITY

Fronie French, Junior, Captures High Score.

FEMININE MIND PROVED OF HIGH QUALITY

The intelligence test is over. Our hearts have practically recovered from the nervous palpitations which were caused by this test. Our finger nails have almost reached their normal length again, in spite of the fact that they were gnawed, yea, literally torn from their places a short time ago. We have almost forgotten the dreadful feelings we had, as we tried frantically, to give intelligent answers, dreading every second the horrible jangling of the "stop" bell. Yes, intelligence tests for this year are a thing of the past.

The high scores of this year's intelligence test were captured by two new girls of the upper classes, but a freshman came close on their heels. A score of 363 was possible, and Fronie French, junior, made the highest score of 225. A sophomore, Vera Boyd, followed with the score of 213, the same score also being made by Sidney Mills, a freshman!

We are proud of the intelligence that our class has displayed. We know that those who graded the books feel greatly indebted to us for the vast amount of knowledge they have gained from these papers.

(Taken from the completion test papers.)

A man-eater is any animal that devours its own kind.

A disobeying is a gross violation of human law.

A Charley is the natural height of a man. (Alas! Which Charley?)

A salesman is a foot traveler, (Sad, but true in most cases.)

Three versions—Intelligent? Oh Yes (?).

A cow is a kind of heavenly body having a long nebulous train or tail. (This must have been the one that jumped over the moon.)

An angel is a kind of heavenly body having a long nebular train, or tail.

FRESHMAN EDITION

This week's Echo has been turned over to the freshmen. There seemed to be plenty of news about our new little brothers and sisters and the freshman staff quitted themselves like veteran reporters in chasing down the news. We think they put out a pretty good line. It also appears that Maryville has acquired an interesting and wide-awake freshman class. The Class of '31 is coming into the race for leadership.

SPOOKY ENTERTAINMENT PLANNED FOR PARTIES

Hallowe'en ghosts and goblins will be quite busy next Monday night, as there are to be three class parties to attend.

The Freshmen are having their first big get-acquainted party on that night in the gym at seven-thirty. All freshmen are urged to be present, for they are promised a big time and good eats.

The Sophomores are planning to give a party at the Presbyterian church at seven-thirty.

The Juniors—well yes—they're having a party too, but the time and place are as yet a dark secret.

THETA

Ghosts! Spirits! Witches! Doesn't that suggest Hallowe'en girls? They'll all be present in Theta Hall Saturday night at seven-thirty. The spookiest kind of a program has been prepared, and there'll be a black cat in every corner! Be ready to meet your fate. All Thetas old and new, don't forget.

TWO FRESHMEN HAIL FROM FOREIGN LANDS

Philippines and Greece Send Students To Maryville.

The freshman class is lucky enough to number among its members two interesting foreign students. Panfila Babista comes to Maryville from the Philippine Islands. She is the little black eyed girl with hair in black shiny braids who wanders about the campus observing us as we, perhaps, have never been examined before. Yervant Topalian left the shores of his native Greece last summer and came to Maryville. His brown eyes and white teeth flash when he smiles, which he does frequently. He seems to find Maryville an amusing place.

From Topalian we learn that the average young man of Greece does not come to the United States for his education, but attends the gymnasia and if higher education is desired, the University of Athens. These young men are educated for one of three purposes, to be doctors, lawyers or politicans. If, when they are graduated from the University of Athens, they desire to know more about their profession they go to France or Germany, seldom to England and more seldom to America. For three years there has been no kind of American education in Greece. Those Greeks who are interested in the educational system of America usually come from Asia Minor where missionaries have established preparatory schools and colleges. In these schools a desire for higher education is created within the Greeks and they are taught to appreciate America's educational system. From those who have attended both the schools of America and France we learn that they are able to obtain more practiced knowledge from the Original Program For Lyceum Is Announced

FAMOUS VIOLINIST PRESENTS FIRST NUMBER

Elaborte Costuming Accompanies Two Programs.

"ABRAHAM LINCOLN" STAGED BY ABLE CAST

The Lyceum Committee of the Y has arranged for the students a varied and interesting lyceum program. The numbers of the lyceum are the most instructive of the year and will be well attended by the students.

The first number, presented on December 1st, will be a violin program by Estelle Gray-Lhevinne, hailed as the outstanding violin personality of the hour. She has played on her famous Cremona in New York, Berlin, Dresden, Paris, and London. The students of Maryville who like to hear violin solos will find their hearts' desire in this program.

The play "Abraham Lincoln" by John Drinkwater will be the second number, presented on December 13th. The play was written by an Englishman and the first performances given in England, but America has welcomed the play and its author. The homely wit and essential nobleness of Lincoln are the high spots of the play. Each scene in it is historically accurate and vividly portrayed.

Next semester the last two numbers of the program will be presented. On February 21st, the Patton Artist Trio will entertain Maryville students with their evening of "Dramatized Musical Impressions." Each number is sung in costumes and such numbers as "Russian Impressions", "Japanese Impressions" and "Operatic Impressions" promise a variety of original costumes.

The concluding number will be a unique novelty costume recital by Suzanne Keener coloratura soprano Miss Keener, judging from her pictures, is a dainty and beautiful young person. Her voice is likened to that of a canary and a nightingale Altogether, she is a very charming performer who will close the lyceum program for 1927-28.

HIGHLANDERS ROMPED ON WEST VIRGINIANS

Bluefield Fought Hard, But Maryville Ran Wild With 73-0 Score

By Adelbert McKenzie

Outplaying the much touted Bluefield Aggregation in nearly every department of the game the Highlanders smashed, crashed, and dashed their way to an impressive 73 to 0 victory Saturday on the home field. It took exactly two plays to turn a supposedly respectable battle into a mad, one-sided deluge of touchdowns. A lad named Clemens sneaked through a goodly portion of the West Virginians to ring up the first counter and the riot was on.

Scoring almost at will the Highlanders rode to a 27-0 score for the initial quarter, at which point they withdrew in favor of the entire sec-

FIRST HOME ECONOMICS CLUB IS ORGANIZED

The first Home Economics Club that Maryville College has ever had was recently organized by the advanced Home Economics girls.

The following are the officers of this club:

President, Mary Swaim.
Vice Pres., Frances March.
Secretary, Beuna Hixson.
Treasurer, Reta McCall.
Editor, Mary Fant.
Program Sec., Fronie French.
Entertainment Ch'm., Lois Smith.

A very interesting program was given on Monday night, Oct. 17th. It consisted of a report given by Ethyl Proffitt on "What Other Home Economics Clubs are Doing" and of a demonstration of draperies for various rooms by Ada Bell Campbell.

Definite plans were made toward cleaning and fixing up the room in which the club is to hold its meetings.

MUSIC STUDENTS TO HEAR MARION TALLEY

Entire Department Will Journey To Knoxville For Concert.

Did you ever stop to think that the four most necessary things at Maryville College are food, shelter, clothing, and music? You may question this fourth item, but just think it over a little.

No savage is so primitive that he dosen't demand some kind of music. For civilized human beings as the students here at Maryville are supposed to be, we freshman excepted, music literally accompanies us form the cradle to the grave.

When we were babies, we cried for music, when we were children, we danced to the music in the expression of our joy and of our sorrow. It helps us to work, and it is the accompaniment of our play. On Mondays some of us "moonshine" to music. We will be married to music (if we get that far,) and our friends will see that we have it at our funerals.

In order to satisfy the natural craving of those of us who have an "ear for music," the musical departments of the college under the general supervision of Miss Hale are preparing a series of musical festivities that will help to wash away fom the soul the dust of everyday life.

On Saturday morning of this week the musical department is going to charm us with some bewitching vocal and instrumental numbers so prepared as to entrance our thoughts with visions of elves and fairies, giants and dwarfs, and ogres and dragons thta, it is claimed, visit us

Honaker's Eleven Meets Tornado Tomorrow

BATTLE WITH KING TO BE FOUGHT AT BRISTOL

Coach Puts Emphasis On Speed In Steady Practice.

PLAYERS SHOWING MORE PEP THAN EVER BEFORE

The Maryville College Highlanders will meet the King College Tornado in the annual battle Saturday at Bristol.

The Highlanders will be primed for the fray as the Bluefield game left the players in good condition. The track meet with Bluefield tested the ability of the players in speed and not in blocking and tackling. The game was less terenuous than an afternoon's practice.

All of the Highlanders have been reporting for practice except George Taylor, regular end, who has an old wound acquired in the Tennessee-Maryville game.

The players are exhibiting more light and pep than they have shown this year. They are constantly doing something worth while on the field. The coaches have little to worry about so far as keeping the boys moving is concerned. Passing, punting, blocking, tackling, running, constitute the preliminaries. This conditions the men for the scrimmage which is long and trying.

The following men will probably make the trip to Bristol: Stone, Bird, G. Crawford, J. Davis, Gann, Hunt, Sneed, McDonald, Williams, DeLaney, Young, Clemens, Proffitt, Hope, Rogers, Morrison, Watkins, Harris, Bonds, M. Dunn, G. Dunn, Brock, B. Crawford.

PUNTS AND FUMBLES

Horace Clemens set an unofficial record in collegiate circles Saturday by making two touchdowns on the first five plays of the game and, also by making three touchdowns in one quarter.

"Doc" Feeman, a former Maryville coach, watched Saturday's game from the South side bleachers.

Bird made a total gain of 120 yards on two successive Bluefield kick offs.

The Orange and Garnet of Maryville waved triumphantly after the dust had cleared from the field of battle, while the Blue and White of Bluefield fell by the wayside and soon sank into oblivion.

Thrower's Bulldogs managed to hold Bluefield scoreless in the second quarter, and at the same time pushed over the touchdowns.

The class of 1929 is to be commended for decorating the field in such an artistic manner. The large Maryville, on the East end fence added much to the decorative scheme.

Maynard Dunn enjoyed the game from the bleachers during the second half.

The soccer game, staged between halves, created much excitement and stirred up plenty of dust. The boys showed a willingness to learn the game and from all indications the game is going to take well with the fans.

Josh Proffitt played brilliantly at

STICK IT

The novelty of the first days on the Hill has gone and the monotony of the daily routine is taking its place. This is the time when the voice of the frosh is raised in the land, and there is much weeping and gnashing of teeth.

Assignments have piled up, notebooks are coming in late, study periods are interrupted, committee meetings come thick and fast, and dates must be arranged for the freshman party. As the saying is, we extend our heartfelt sympathy to these harassed freshmen.

And now when the urge is on them to give up, fling the old books out the window and take the next train home, we are standing by with the old advice meted out to us in more anxious days, "Stick it!"

"Stick it!" That's the test of an athlete, a scholar, a man. Anyone who is anybody in this world has stuck to it when the other fellow gave it up as a bad job.

Maybe that notebook is weeks behind, but stick to it long enough and it will be written. Maybe no ideas are forthcoming for that theme, but stick to the job long enough and you'll rout out something resembling an idea. Maybe you're a dub at tackling, but stick to it long enough and Coach will pat you on the back.

"Impossible? Do not name to me that blockhead of a word!" roared old Mirabeau. He had the right idea. He stuck to it, and so can any of the class of '31.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, God, in His infinite mercy and wisdom, has seen fit to call unto Himself the mother of our beloved friend and class mate, Mary White, be it resolved that we, the members of the Junior Class, assure the bereaved family of our heartfelt sympathy and prayers.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be read in Chapel, a copy printed in the Highland Echo, and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

165 Freshmen from Tennessee
30 Freshmen from North Carolina.

Y. W. has certainly done her part for the new girl. She has given big sisters to all of them and entertained them in various ways. Last Sunday afternoon the new girls learned just what Y. W. is expecting of them.

And so the program for next Sunday will be in the hands of the "little sisters." The subject for discussion is "What Y. W. Means to the New Girl." The new girls have entered heartily into the spirit of the organization and it is hoped that their new ideas and added inspiration will mean a bigger and better year with the Y. W. C. A. on College Hill.

The Y. M. C. A. service for next Sunday afternoon is in charge of the Fellowship Club. This organization has been one of the greatest aids in making the new students feel at home in Maryville. The program follows:

My Impressions of Maryville, and changes I have noticed, Russell Gilmore.

Solo, Alan Grinstead.

How can I serve the "Y"?, Stewart James.

Violin Duet, John Chestnut and Yervant Topalian.

What's wrong with the "Y" as I see it, Jack Coughlin.

My contribution to a better and bigger Maryville, Douglas Marsh.

PERSONALS

Wanda Bell had as her guests Sunday her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Murrell of Knoxville.

Chettie Hughes has been ill for the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Bewley of Greeneville, Tennessee, visited their niece, Marguerite Bewley Sunday.

Allen Chadwick spent the week-end at his home in Spring City.

Elizabeth Knight and Marie Elmore spent the week-end at Tapoca, N. C.

Gretchen and Hazel Bowers' mother has been visiting them.

Ula Butler's parents visited her Sunday.

Nell Garland was out of school some days last week on account of illness.

Mr. Harry Warwick visited his sister, Anne, last Saturday.

Mary Louisa Rodgers and Wilma Dixon spent the week-end at their homes in Cleveland.

Miss Mauvine Howard, of Hiwassee College was the guest of her sister, Margaret, last week-end.

Miss Beatrice Ewing of Sweetwater, has been the guest of Margaret Goodwin.

Luther Hammond spent the week-end in Chattanooga.

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Henry visited their daughter, Lucille, Sunday.

Roy Cortner visited his sister, Frances, Sunday.

Miss Kathleen Hunnicutt '27, who has been visiting in Maryville for the past two week returned to her home in Sylvan Hills, in Atlanta, Tuesday afternoon.

Wilbur Franklin says that he did not mind that Betty Griffes got the rep of being president of the Student Council and left him out in the cold, but Betty wishes to remind us that she is vice-president and Wilbur is Mr. Chairman.

MEN OF THE MYSTERIES

Before Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, in his book of the above title, can tackle his task of discussing the duties of men as "Stewards of the Mysteries of God," he has the by-no-means-small task of putting science in its proper frame, indicating the confines of religion, and then harmonizing the two without seeming to avoid the issue, apologize for religion, or rationalize faith out of existence. This he does very dexterously, at the same time clearing away much of the debris that is keeping men from realizing that there are "Mysteries of God." The unexpected figure in this debris he treats in his chapter called "Man's Giant Shadow."

Dr. Sockman's treatment of mysticism—the realm of values beyond the senses, beyond science, beyond nature—is the sort of treatment that causes many of the unclean accretions to slough off and leave the word its essential crystal quality.

The last section of Dr. Sockman's book is obviously though inoffensively, an outline of practical methods for reinstating the sense of mystery which religious life in the Occident has lost.

The book is written in an easy, vivid style, with particularly apt quotations and illustrations. It may be obtained from The Abingdon Press, Publication and Sales Department, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York, price $1.25.

BAINONIAN

The New Girls' Program has been postponed for a week in order to give our new girls more time to practice for the play they are going to put on. So this Saturday night Bainonian is going to have a real, old-fashioned Hallowe'en program with spooks, witches, cats, broom sticks, 'n everything, and best of all, the famous dwarf is going to make his appearance. Bainonians, bring all your grit and courage, and come prepared for an evening of fun and thrills. Your hair may stand on end, and lots of shivers may run up and down your spine, but think of the fun you'll have and besides Hallowe'en comes only once a year.

FRESHMAN CELEBRITIES

Folks, we want you to know the who's who of the class of '31. First comes our president, J. Stuart James, familiarly known as "Jesse James." The "J" in his name is still a mystery, so some vivid imagination has decided it should be "Jesse". J. Stuart's highest ambition is to have a monopoly on the cleaning and pressing companies here at Maryville so he may yet do abundant honor to his famed namesake. Mabel Dickerson of Chattanooga is our Vice-President, small friendly with pretty brown hair. Mabel hopes to be a school teacher some day but we predict that she will yet receive a M. R. S. degree Another Tennessee girl, Frances Cortner, is our secretary. Attractive, a friend of all the girls (and the boys, too, we hope). Bob Davis is intrusted with the class treasury, what little there is of it so far. Bob is one of the most cheerful, tactful, curly haired young men imaginable but all this won't raise money for Freshman party Halloween night. Another Bob Houston, from the wide open spaces of Iowa has the task of arranging the homely countenances of the boys, and sweet features, of the girls, for the Chilhowean. Now as to the two prettiest freshman girls. The fellows couldn't decide whether gentlemen really do prefer blondes so they compromised by selecting a blonde and a brunette. The blonde is Louise Goodson, the brunette is Conchita Burtram. Both are "Georgia Peaches."

Alan Grinstead and Porter French are our two boy council representatives. They are also two of the four feshman in the Glee Singers this year. Alan is from Orange, New Jersey. Porter French is a two gun man from the wilds of Kentucky. Just look for the lightest haired boy on the campus and you will find Porter. Carol Cushman and Waurena Jacoway are the two girl council representatives. Carol is from Florida while Waurena is another Chattanooga girl. Both have unusual ambitions. Carol's is to someday swim the Catalina channel, and Waurena hopes to be that tight rope walker in Barnum and Bailey's circus.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION

The Ministerial Association held its regular weekly meeting Wednesday evening in Athenian Hall. There were twenty-two men present.

Roy Reese led the devotions. Both scripture and prayer had a bearing on the subject of the program, "Means of Service."

The program of the evening consisted of talks by different men on various lines of activity being now carried on by the association. Hayden Laster presented country church work. Albert Tull presented the jail work. Ed Dehaven spoke on a new field of activity. He told of a county alms house where there was no church service committee ordered to investigate the possibilities of rendering service. President Tull read an interesting letter written by one of our members who will be unable to attend our meetings as he is actively engaged in work at Battle Branch. We all join in thanking Ed Conrad for his suggestive letter.

Rev. Leonard closed our program by giving us a few helpful suggestions. Rev. Leonard is a mountain missionary and a graduate of Maryville.

Let each member show his interest in the association by being present next Wednesday evening.

ROMPED ON WEST VIRGINIANS

ond string eleven.

The lesser lights eager to prove themselves worthy of the honor pulled a few miscues that almost brought on disaster. But the understudies handled themselves with the grace of veterans and boasted the count to 47 at half-time.

Resuming once more the struggle that was rapidly developing into a good-sized massacre the main crew continued their relentless drive of the first quarter rolling back the slow-moving Bluefield Cohorts in the quest for more touchdowns. Off tackle smashes and sweeping end runs executed with machine-like precision were successfully directed towards this end, garnering three tallies in all.

In spite of the classy performances turned in by Clemens, Bird, Davis, and others it was no less than eleven men who piled up the amazing total of 78 points. Aided by interference that functioned as such the ball rode to 17 first downs in the hands of Maryville. Bluefield barely pushed it to 7 "First and Ten" accomplishments.

Goaded to desperation the humiliated Troops of Blue time and again launched reckless attempts to stop the plays that could not be stopped; to block the men that could not be blocked; and to tackle the men who would not be tackled only to be thrust rudely to one side as the machine marched on.

Assuming the well-known last stand the despairing Virginians opened up with a pretty passing attack in the last quarter that was extremely effective while it lasted. In this department Bluefield showed its mettle by successfully hooking up seven out of sixteen tries throughout the game. However, six of the miscues found their way into hostile hands to offset any advantage gained via the air.

In the final stanza the Highlanders, displaying little regard for the finer sentiments of the visitors, coolly waded in and smeared most decisively this over-head game. Intercepting a pass and showing his heels, a familiar sight to the Blue and White tollers, Harris went over for the final counter of the day.

Ed Harper called it quits with the ball in the hands of Maryville well on its way to another touchdown.

Rehearsals have started for the Fall Festival of music, the opening annual musical event of the college, November 7th.

The college authorities have graciously granted permission to Miss Hale to take students of the Music Department to a series of concerts in Knoxville. The first of this series comes on this Saturday evening, October 29, when Marion Talley will make her appearance. Thus far more than seventy students in the various departments of music have availed themselves of this rare privilege to hear the girl with the "cathedral voice."

The readers of the Echo will be particularly happy to know that the musical department has taken timely heed of the editorial, appearing recently in these columns under the caption "We Want a Band." The boys have already had two rehearsals and are getting things into shape nicely. Uniform sweaters have been ordered and the boys are delighted over the prospects of the venture. They hope to have the band in nice shape for the home game on November 5th.

schools of America than those of France.

In an interview with the Philipino girl we learn that great and rapid progress has been made in the Philippine Islands under American control. Until America got control there was no education for the mass but for the few. There was only one school of any importance and it was for the wealthy class. Now, in the public schools that America has established all over the islands there are 100,000 children studying English. We do not know how many of this number of children may some day be missionaries to their own people, because young men and women are coming every year from those islands to our schools to learn more about our educational system so that they may teach their own people.

tackle.

McDonald looked good at center. Looks as if he might be a second "Jimmie" Holland, good at two positions.

Capt. John Stone was the only Maryville man, who was in uniform and didn't get into the game.

Fans were pleased to see John Davis return to the line-up after a forced vacation of three weeks duration.

Capt. Stone didn't play in the game, yet Capt. Stone did play, for Bluefield's Captain was named Stone and this Capt. Stone wore number 18 on his sweater, the same as Captain Stone of Maryville. But Stone of Bluefield was a guard and not a center as the Maryville Captain is.

MARYVILLIANS IN NASHVILLE

It has often been said that the Maryville Spirit never dies. One instance that helps to prove this statement occured in the Y. M. C. A. Graduate School Building, Nashville, Tennessee, Friday night, October 21, 1927, when a group composed of the following Maryvillians: Edgar Cathey, T. B. Cowan and wife, Anderson Puryear, Logan Mount, Robert Johnston, Esther Hornbeak, Mary Elizabeth Johnson, Christine Williams, Young Williams, Mary Lewis Collins, Jimmie Kng,, L. E. Miling, and Ed Martin met and organized a Maryville Club.

The party opened with gossip which was sufficient to acquaint every one present with the latest news of our class mates, of the Faculty, and the present student body. After this a tour of the new Y. M. C. A. Graduate School building was made. The swimming pool was inspected and a visit paid to the three gymnasiums and the class rooms. Following the tour Bob Johnston entertained the party in the lounge room with a few selections on the piano. Then to the court where the gold fish were playing and refreshments awaited the group. The remainder of the progam was given in the lounge room where Logan Mount rendered two whistling solos, and Scotty Cowan took us back to the time "When I was Twenty One."

ATHENIAN

Since we came back to the hill in September we have heard a great deal about the new men, and on some occasions we have had opportunity to learn something of what the new men can do. We are not satisfied, however, with what we have seen so far, because we are persuaded that there is some really great talent among these men who have come to us this year for the first time. Saturday evening will be given over to the Freshmen and other new men, and we know from what we have already seen that they will not disappoint us. Let's all be there expecting a really superior program. The Athenian hall has been the scene of many worthwhile literary programs. This one will not be an exception.

Team In Good Shape For Three Final Games

ATHENIANS WILL PRESENT "ROMEO AND JULIET"

CAST OF FIRST MID-WINTER BEGINS PRACTICE

Betty Jane Sharp and Walter Courtenay Play Title Parts.

SPLENDID PERFORMANCE IS EXPECTED

The Athenian Literary Society has always been commended for its high dramatic standards but never has Theta Alpha Phi more heartily sanctioned its choice than for its coming midwinter —Shakespeare's immortal love tragedy, "Romeo and Juliet!" Without a doubt this will be the outstanding dramatic production of the year; both from the point of view of the high worth of the drama itself and the unmistakable ability of the carefully chosen cast.

Love forms the ground work of the drama. Juliet becomes the personification of Love—it is the soul within her soul; the pulse within her heart. And yet contrary to the conception of the modern mind "Romeo and Juliet" is not a tale of anguish and terror for all the "pain and sorrow is lost in the tenderness and poetic beauty of the picture;" for indeed, they must die. Their destiny is fulfilled—they have quaffed the cup of life in one intoxicating draught.

Walter Courtenay is cast for the part of Romeo and Betty Jane Sharp plays opposite as Juliet. Those of us who saw "Friend Hannah" last year can not forget Walter as the master at the art of truly dramatic pantomime. Betty Jane Sharp carried a major part in "The Show Off" admirably and we can not help but look forward with great anticipation to her portrayal of the lovely character of Juliet.

Anyone who is at all acquainted with mechanics of staging realizes the prime importonce of securing a capable stage manager. The Athenian committee has done well in placing Jesse Pierce in charge. The entire cast follows:

Romeo .....Walter Courtenay
Mercutio .....Wilbur Franklin
Prince Escalus .. Forrest Robertson
Paris ..... Jack Cotton
Montague ..... Roger Rusk
Capulet ..... Stirl Rule
Benvolio ..... Arthur Young
Tybalt ..... Bob Anderson
Friar Laurence .... Hayden Laster
Peter ..... Walter Buchanan
Balthasar ..... Arthur Sargis
Apothecary ..... Stanley McCool
Juliet ..... Betty Jane Sharp
Lady Capulet ..... America Moore
Nurse ..... Roberta Hickman

POINT SYSTEM IS ADOPTED FOR CO-ED ATHLETICS

No Regular Varsity, But Every Girl Gets A Chance To Win A Letter.

A new system has been worked out this year for coed athletics. Next week the outline of the point system of athletic awards for women will be published in the Echo. The points have been carefully worked out, and any girl who is willing and eager to make a Maryville M will be able to do so in one year. The points will not carry over from year to year.

Some people are disappointed at the idea of having no varsity girls' basket ball games this year. But there will be class games which we hope will create more spirit. The best players from each class will form a group that will be called the varsity, and they will help coach the class teams. The varsity will be coached as a separate group. This will not only enable the girls to play, but will give them practice in coaching.

The other sports are coming into prominence. Things were merely started last year; this year real work for letters in their own fields of work is going on. By using this point system more girls are able to athletics. They will be kept busy not only during basket ball season, but throughout the school year. In short, coed sport prospects are very promising.

CLASS OF '26 PUBLISHES INTERESTING BULLETIN

News of Class Members and Of Maryville Included.

The Class of '26 is to be congratulated on their interesting bulletin just sent out. This class goes on working for old Maryville even though its members are scattered. An enduring monument to their interest in College Hill is the strip of pavement from Court Street to the Lamar library.

The bulletin contains news of almost every member with their addresses. A good many of the girls have decided that keeping house for one man is enough of a job for them, others are teaching English, dramatics, or home economics, and several are working toward a degree. One young man is teaching in Hawaii, another in Cuba. Several of the men are Y secretaries, some are superintendents or principals of high schools, one is taking charge of a dairy, and one is studying for opera. The field of service in which the Class of '26 is engaged is wide and we wish to hear more of them. Good luck to you, '26!

PROGRAM FOR ARMISTICE INCLUDES PARADE, GAMES

AMERICAN LEGION PLANS GREAT CELEBRATION

T. M. I. Cadets Will Give Exhibition Drill.

The Captain Emerson J. Lones Post No. 13, American Legion, is planning the biggest celebration in its history, for Armistice Day, November 11th.

The program for the day is as follows:

Parade, 9:30 A. M.
Cadet Drill (T. M. I.) 10:30 A. M.
Taps, 11:00 A. M.
Speaker, 11:01 A. M.
Games and Contests 1:00 P. M.
Football Game, 2:00 P. M.
Play, 8:00 P. M.
Picture Show, All Day.

The parade will be made up of the 178th Field Artillery and its equipment, floats, decorated cars, school children, horse-back riders, fraternal organizations, civic organizations and World War Veterans and the city officials of both Alcoa and Maryville. The parade will start moving at 9:30 A. M., from Washington Avenue and turn into Main street and cross the new viaduct and proceed up Main street to the Maryville High school grounds.

The T. M. I. cadets, 125 strong, will also be in the parade and will give an exhibition drill on the Maryville High school grounds immediately following the parade.

Mr. T. Russ Hill, from Middlesboro, Kentucky, will be the speaker of the day. Mr. Hill is well known in East Tennessee and his address will be interesting and enjoyable.

Games and contests for the children will be held in the afternoon.

The football game, on the Maryville High school grounds will be between Maryville High and T. M. I. This will be one of the best games of the season.

The play, "The Lucky Break" given by the Maryville College Players will be presented in the Maryville High school auditorium. Miss Jennie Edwards and the cast of 16 characters are working hard on this play and those who have watched the rehearsals are unanimous in their opinions that this is to be the best play ever given by the Maryville Players.

The Picture Show at the Princess Theater will be under the auspices of the American Legion and a good clean show that will be most enjoyable will be shown all day.

MARYVILLE PLAYERS PRESENT "LUCKY BREAK"

MARYVILLE DOWNS KINS WITH 33-0 SCORE

Substitutes Take Important Place In Game.

Showing something of the power that held Kentucky to a 6-6 dead-lock and Tennessee to a single touchdown victory, our Highland Highlanders plunged, ran the end and passed their way to a 33-0 victory over King college at Bristol Saturday.

It was a great Highlander team that played King but not as great a team as the one that beat King 42-0 on Wilson field last year. Instead of McCall as a threat we used Bird, Davis and Crawford to hit the line.

CLASS PARTIES

Monday night was an evening of festivity to students and townspeople. Three classes celebrated by attending three hilarious parties. The freshmen stuck to the Hill and pulled off a big party in the gym. Some of the girls arranged themselves in fantastic and beautiful costumes and added a touch of color to the Hallowe'en decorations.

The sophomores have not yet recovered from laughing over a farcial production of "Romeo and Juliet" or from dreaming of the highly delightful "Witches' Brew" which they imbibed.

The juniors were entertained during the course of the evening by several musical numbers and by a pathetic play of two sailors in Spain.

PAGEANT OF THE TRENCHES TO BE GIVEN

Y's Sponsor Play Celebrating Armistice Day

November 11th, 1918. Who could forget such a date? That date, saturated with happy memories, remains in our minds as the end of the greatest war the world had ever seen. Whistles, horns, bells and band instruments of various kinds all raised the signals that at last peace had dawned after a night that had lasted for us two years, but for the Allies four. What did we mean when we said peace had come? Look around you; have all the traces of war been erased?

In the pageant Sunday night we will be carried to France to a front line trench. It is the zero hour. The enemy is expected any moment. The boys crouch in the trench talking calmly over the things of life. The attack begins and one of the boys goes west. "What Price Glory?"

In the second scene of the pageant we go to Washington, the Heart of America, and there visit the grave of the Unknown Soldier, the "tear stone" of America. What did peace bring?

Besides this two act pageant there will be solos, readings and chorus singing. You can't miss this and say you observed Peace Week. Every body out to the chapel Sunday night at 7:00 P. M.

There will be no Y. M. C. A. meeting Sunday.

FALL FESTIVAL OF MUSIC MONDAY NIGHT

Faculty and Students of Department On Program

Conforming to a custom in many of our colleges and universities, Maryville College has established as an annual affair a Fall Festival of Music, given by the Music Department of our school. Last year's program proving successful the music lovers on the hill and in Maryville are looking forward with great interest to the second annual performance of this kind, which is to take place on Monday night, November 7th at 8:00.

A number of people from the Tuesday Morning Music Club of Knoxville are expected to be present, as well as other friends of the department from Knoxville, and it is hoped that the student body here will cooperate with Miss Hale and the Music Department by being present Monday night at 8 o'clock, to enjoy an evening of worth while entertainment.

LENOIR-RHYNE OPPOSES MARYVILLE TODAY ON HOME FIELD

NORTH CAROLINIANS OUTWEIGH HIGHLANDERS

M. Dunn and Taylor Only Regulars Not In Trim.

CARSON-NEWMAN LAST ON SCHEDULE

As time passes so does the football season. Six games have gone down into history. What the outcome of these games may have been has been recorded. These results have been fixed upon the minds of the students of Maryville College. But the season is not over. The real test of the strength of the team is yet to come when three of the strongest college teams in this section will be met by the Highlanders.

On Friday of this week the strong Lenoir-Rhyne team from North Carolina will be here. Lenoir-Rhyne has an impressive record, having triumphed over two of the Highlander's opponents, King College and Carson-Newman college. As a team the Lenoir-Rhyne team will out weigh Maryville.

Thursday, Nov. 10 will find the Highlanders battling the strong Cumberland University team on Alumni Field. Last year Cumberland brought a team to Maryville that was the equal of the powerful Highlander team and when the game was over the Highlanders had gained a one-point victory, the final score being 14-13.

Then the last scheduled game of the season will be the classic game for the football fans of East Tennessee when Carson-Newman and Maryville meet in their annual battle at Knoxville.

In a thrilling game of football Maryville triumphed over Carson-Newman last year with a 10-6 score. The struggle this year promises to be as thrilling and exciting as the games of former years.

All of the regulars, except M. Dunn and Taylor, are in fighting condition for the final grind. Both of these men are suffering from old injuries received earlier in the season. However, they are both anxious to return to the line-up as soon as possible and help Maryville close a successful season.

NO ECHO NEXT WEEK

There will be no edition of the Echo next week. Since there are only thirty editions of the paper, some weeks have to go by without a number of the Echo.

BAINONIAN

The new girls are keeping pretty quiet about their big program in Bainonian Saturday night—and their secrecy of course means that they are working hard on a mighty good entertainment. They have told us this much, that they are going to put on a lovely colonial play and there will be vocal and instrumental music.

New girls, the old Bainonians are back of you, for we know you are a talented bunch, now show us your stuff.

Everybody out Saturday night to support our new girls in their first program.

WHAT ABOUT THE LIBRARY

This glorious autumn weather which has enabled most of us to spend the greater part of our spare time out of doors will soon be gone. With the advent of gloomy days and bad weather, many of us are asking, "How shall we spend our spare time?" To those who seek an answer to this question we would suggest, "How about our library?"

Considering the total number of students here and the wealth of reading matter contained in our library, the small number of students who spend their time there is suprrising. You can go over there almost any afternoon and find only a few people scattered around over the room. And the greater number of these are usually engaged in the preparation of some lesson which required that they come to the library to look up references. All the while, the great mass of reading matter goes practically untouched.

We wonder how many students are acquainted with the contents of our library. Most of us are familiar by now with the technical reference books, such as encyclopedia, dictionaries, and standard text-books. But very few of us avail ourselves of the opportunity of reading for pure pleasure. We have in our library a wide variety of modern novels, travel, biography, and poetry. Recently, an addition was made of five hundred dollars' worth of new books, among them several volumes of new poetry and novels.

Besides these books, there are a number of current magazines, about ninety in all, ranging in degree of excellence from the ever-popular Saturday Evening Post to the "high-brow" Atlantic Monthly. There are also a number of technical and special magazines, such as the Scientific Journal, Psychological Review, and Nature Magazine.

Surely in such a variety as this there is reading matter to fit every taste. In case you are uncertain as to just what you do want to read or where to find what you want, the librarians are always at hand to help you in every possible way.

It has been said that wide reading is one of the best ways of gaining an education. Most of us are here in college for the purpose of gaining an education, so here is one of our best opportunities. In the employment of our spare moments, by all means let us not neglect our library.

UNIVERSITIES WON'T FLOAT

Insufficient enrollment has resulted in the cancellation of the proposed round-the-world cruise of the co-educational floating university, the Aurania. The 214 students who had registered for the tour, which was to have started October 15, must find other educational opportunities for the year. Despite the abandonment of the tour this year, plans are being made to carry out the program next year. A. J. McIntosh, in charge of the cruise, reiterates his faith in the value of ehe co-educational university.

The cruise for men only, aboard the Ryndam, fared little better, and its promoters have announced that it, too has been abandoned. The reason given is that a late start made it impossible to fill the student quota. The debate on the relative values of "stag" or co-educational cruises therefore remains open.

How will your office look?

Not like this, of course

Yet you will find in it a dozen jobs that can be done more quickly and effectively by electricity—and done so quietly as to be practically unnoticed. In fact, electricity has completely revolutionized many office methods.

TO-DAY in a modern office you will find these electrical aids: Addressing Machines; Dictating Machines; Adding Machines; Multigraphs; Check-writers; Calculating Machines; Cash Registers; Interior Telephones; Card Recorders; Card Sorters; Time Recorders; Accounting Machines; Time Stamps; Clocks; Mailing Machines; Typewriters; Fans; MAZDA Lamps, and many other electric devices.

This familiar mark appears on many electrical products, including motors that drive time- and labor-saving office machines.

YOUR FATHER probably will recall the days of high stools, eyeshades, and evenings overtime.

But visit a modern office! A thousand letters to go out by four o'clock. A new price list to all customers in to-night's mail, without fail. Enter electricity. Two or three people turn switches, and the finished letters come out of an ingenious machine. Another motion and they are sealed and stamped. Only electricity could get that job done.

Here's a statistical job. The reports are in; thousands of figures to analyze. Looks like overtime for fifty clerks. "Certainly not," answers electricity, as a button starts the motor-driven sorters and tabulators. Key cards are punched with lightning fingers. Electric sorters devour 24,000 cards an hour. Tabulators add quantities and amounts in jig time, and print the totals.

Go to almost any bank today. Hand in your account book. Click, click, click, goes the electric book-keeping machine and back comes the book to you. Five operations performed in that brief moment. Everybody saves time,—you, the clerk, the bank,—when electricity is the book keeper.

In the office of to-morrow you will find "electrical fingers" doing more work than even to-day.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The Chemistry Club gathered for its second regular meeting of the year on Thursday evening, October 27. The program was varied and in the subject: Pasteur as a Chemist, Anaesthetics, and Gas Warfare, showed excellent preparation and offered very valuable information to all. Scientific current events posted developments in chemical circles. With the idea of saving the best till the last, the closing number on the program consisted of peculiar ideas and odd bits of information gleaned from the notebooks of our freshmen chemists.

The meeting was well attended and the interest shown by those present seemed to indicate that the Chemestry Club is to be one of the most active clubs this year.

RAULSTON TAILOR SHOP INSTALLS NEW CLEANING PLANT

The Raulston Tailor shop has built a new building, located behind the bank of Maryville, and has installed a new and up-to-date cleaning plant with which they are going to be able to give one-day service.

We congratulate Mr. Neil A. Raulston proprietor of the Raulston Tailor Shop in his further endeavor to give the people and students of Maryville the best of service that can be had.

ATHENIAN

For a great many years the Athenian Literary Society has taken a great part in the athletics of Maryville College. The Athenian has been and is well represented in every branch of athletics on the Hill. Truly we may say that the Athenian is deeply interested in this very important part of the development of college students.

Saturday night there will be presented at the Athenian an athletic program. No one who is interested in athletics can afford to miss this program, and, since Coach Honaker, the man who has developed such teams as those which have been representing Maryville College for several years, is to be there and speak to us, surely, no one will want to miss it. At the Athenian Hall, Saturday evening, November 5th. Be there on time.

B. Y. P. U. ON THE HILL

Have you been wondering where the Baptist girls have been going at four o'clock on Sunday afternoon? I asked one of them and learned these facts.

Since the Baptist girls on the Hill cannot attend church B. Y. P. U. services at night they have organized a college B. Y. P. U. This is a branch of the General B. Y. P. U. of the Baptist church of Maryville. A group of girls met on October 2 and the following officers were elected:

Eunice Hicks, President.
Mary Kelly, Vice President.
D. Eliza Beam, Recording Secretary.
Mildred Yarnell, Corresponding Secretary.
Constance Fitzgerald, Quiz Leader.
Clarice Percell, Chorister.
Mary Fitzgerald, Pianist.
Estalena Williams, Treasurer.
Mary White, Group Captain.
Ada Williams, Group Captain.
Reba Millsaps, Editor.

Any girls interested meet with us next Sunday at 4 o'clock in Baldwin Parlor. The topic for discussion is "Give Me A Thankful Heart."

MIDDLE TENNESSEE CLUB

Club was last Wednesday evening, October twenty-sixth. There was a large and lively group present.

The following officers were elected:
President, Rheuben Crawford.
Vice President, Frances Cortner.
Sec.-Treas, Josephine Parker.
Editor, Travis Hitt.

The members all desired a breakfast hike, which will be held in the near future.

VAUDEVILLE AT PALACE NEXT WEEK

The students of Moryville will be very fortunate in having a chance to hear a real vaudeville show at home.

The Dermond's New York Roof Gorden Revue made up of seventeen people, will be here all next week, with a complett change of program daily.

MARYVILLE DOWNS KING WITH 33-0 SCORE

run ends and pass our way to victory.

Superior at the start of the game because of a line as strong as King's on defense and more powerful on offense, and a fast set of backs who harried the King linemen until they were ragged, Maryville increased her advantage by playing her famous substitutes from time to time during the game. Coach knew the strength of the team and used it by alternating regulars with substitutes.

Maryville made 13 first downs, one of them on a penalty, to 3 for King College.

Cash Drug Store
BIG PRICE REDUCTION

This is to advise you of the fact that on and after November 5 the Birchfiel & McMahan Drug Store will change its policy of operation. After due consideration we have come to the conclusion that a town the size of Maryville should have at least one Cut Rate Drug Store operated strictly on a Cash Basis. Observation of the patronage of tthe Cash-Carry Grocery Store receives, is abundant evidence that a large per centage of our frugal citizens would appreciate an opportunity to buy their Drugs on the same plan, with a corresponding reduction in the price of same. Consequently, on and after the above date our Drug Store will be on a strictly cash basis.

Just a short list to show you that our prices are cut. Buy at these prices and start a bank account with the difference.

THE PLAYERS PRESENT ROLLICKING COMEDY MONDAY, NOV. 21st

Parker and Anderson Head Picked Cast in "The Lucky Break"

For a good cleverly written comedy it would be hard to find one better than "The Lucky Break." It is to be presented by our own Maryville College Players, Monday the 21st at 8 o'clock.

Josephine Parker and Bob Anderson carry the leading roles admirably well. Their portrayal shows what good hard work and dramatic knowlege can achieve. Emily Minton as the hotel keeper is exceptionally good. It would be impossible to do justice to the entire cast and yet we must mention the clever work of the character artists. The audience will not be able to forget the character of Elmine Ludine as portrayed by Betty Jane Sharp, or the two spinister sisters who are as thrilled over their lessons in esthetic dancing— Marjorie Frey and Geneva McDonald. There is also a super-salesman who is interested in phrenology—Wilbur Franklin. Nor can we fail to mention Gordon Jeffries and Ellen Cowan as the lovers who—but we must not give it away for the mothers worried enough as it is. Here is the entire cast:

Martha Mullet ..... Emily Minton
Nora Mullet ..... Josephine Parker (her daughter)
John Bruce ..... Bob Anderson
Claudia Barrett ..... Ellen Cowan
Tommy Lansing .. Gordon Jeffries
Mrs. Barrett.... Dorothy McCulloch
Abner Ketcham ..... Stirl Rule
Benny Ketcham .. Wilbur Franklin
Elmine Ludine Smith Betty Jane Sharp
Alphecca Spinster.... Majorie Frey
Alchiba Spinister. Geneva McDonald
Charles Martin .. Luther Hammond
Jura Charente..... America Moore
Var Charent .... Forrest Robertson
Bella McWatt .. Ada Belle Campbell
Spivens ..... Hayden Laster
Stage Manager, Ada Belle Campbell.
Business Manager, Marjorie Frey.
Property Manager, Geneva McDonald.

Y' Gives International Tea Next Monday

On Monday afternoon in the Y. W. Reading Room in Thaw Hall many of the nations of the world will be represented at an international fellowship tea. This is the first affair of its kind that many of us will ever have attended, and we may all look forward to an unusually interesting entertainment.

There will be several tables, each table representing a nation of the world, with students at each table in the characteristic dress of that nation. Refreshments will be served at each table, and a silver collection will be taken, each person being asked to bring with him the amount that he is willing to give. The purpose is to raise money to send delegates to the Detroit convention Dec. 29 to Jan. 2.

We may look for a gay time with lots of music, pretty decorations and students brightly bedecked in costumes of all kinds. Everybody is invited to come and enjoy this international tea.

Watch for posters for further information.

BAKER AND PIERCE WILL PUT OUT '29 CHILHOWEAN

The Sophomore class met on Tuesday in the Y. W. auditorium for the purpose of electing the editor and business manager for the 1929 Chilhowean. Frank Baker and Jesse Pierce were chosen, respectively. From the past record of these two able men, a splendid annual may be expected.

AMENDMENTS FOR ECHO SOON TO BE PUT BEFORE STUDENTS

Regulations Approved by Faculty and Council

For many years those who were interested in the management of the Highland Echo have been convinced of the necessity of amending the original Constitution in order to produce a better paper. Last May members of the faculty committee on student publication and the incoming and outgoing editors met and adopted seven admendments to the Constitution of the Highland Echo. These amendments have been approved by the faculty and by the Student Council and will soon be presented before the student body for rejection or approval. On that occasion the president of the Student Council will explain the amendments but they are here printed in order that the students may study for themselves the advisability of the measures.

There are three main divisions of the new amendments. The first division regards the Editorial Staff and its selection. Heretofore, the editor-in-chief has been elected by the student body from among several students of junior and senior classification who have been approved by the faculty of the English department. The selection of the staff has been left to the personal wishes of the editor. At best, such a scheme is a haphazard one. The amendments concerning this first division provide for the selection of a trained staff, and for the election of the editor-in-chief by the staff which will work with him.

The second division concerns the election of business managers. Heretofore, one man has taken the business part of the paper, providing no training for one to follow him. The new measure puts the business administration on a sounder basis.

The third division of the new measures concerns the compensation of editor-in-chief and business manager, The editor-in-chief has been rewarded in past years by three semester hours' credit in English. The new amendment specifies that the editor-in-chief receive half the earnings of the paper up to $150. After having discharged his agreements the business manager of the past has received 100% of the first $100, 80% of the second, 60% of the third, and 40% of the fourth $100. Under the new ruling he will receive

Bainonian - Athenian Hold Joint Meeting

Everybody out to the big joint meeting of Athenian and Bainonian Saturday night in the Chapel. We're going to have a snappy program of songs. Oh, that Glee Club quartet, peppy instrumental music, readings, and perhaps a clever stunt or two just to round out the program. After that there will be a social hour when you can get well acquainted with your date. Lastly comes the big attraction of the evening, food! Marvelous food that is more than worth the admission price of fifteen cents.

So all you Bainonians and Athenians, don't forget the time, 7:30 Saturday night, the place, the Chapel, the girl, well that's up to you!

CARSON NEWMAN, CUMBERLAND, LENOIR RHYNE BOW BEFORE HIGHLANDERS

THREE TOUCHDOWNS SCORED AGAINST CUMBERLAND

Stone, Young and Harris Presented Strong Line

The Maryville College Highlanders played their last home game here November 10, and emerged victorious over the Cumberland University Bulldogs with an impressive 23-0 victory. The victory was all the more impressive for Maryville as Tennessee Wesleyan, who defeated Maryville 13-0 earlier in the season, and Cumberland had played Tennessee Polytechnic Institute, the former winning 19-0, and the latter winning 26-6 with the reserves playing the second half after their big brothers had run up a 20-0 score in the first half.

The game was featured by the sensational open field running of G. Crawford, Maryville halfback. After a sustained drive down the field in the first quarter, secondary defense he raced through an open field for 20 yards and Maryville's first touchdown. In the second quarter Clemens intercepted a Cumberland pass on the 50 yard line and ran around Cumberland's left end, behind good interference, for Maryville's second touchdown. Early in the third quarter Crawford repeated his first play by plowing through a big hole in the line, dodged Cumberland's safety man, and sprinted 25 yards for the last touchdown of the game.

Sneed, with Clemens and Harris running almost perfect interference, made a beautiful run for a gain of 45 yards in the third quarter. He was run out of bounds on Cumberland's 25 yard line when only the safety man stood between him and a touchdown.

Capt. Stone, Young and Harris played the best game in the line for Maryville. Young and Stone broke through Cumberland's line continually and threw their ball-carriers for loses. Harris played best by getting down the field on punts and holding Cumberland for little or no gain.

Davis, who retired from the game early on account of a fractured rib, and Bird and M. Dunn, who took up the punting duties, out punted Kern, the big Cumberland fullback.

Farrow, Cumberland's defensive end and offensive halfback was one of the best players seen in action here this season. He carried the ball often and was hard to stop. Other outstanding players for the visitors were Humphries, Brooks, and Kern.

Maryville made fourteen first downs to the visitors 7. Both teams took to the air often but were unsuccessful, each team having eight incomplete passes.

Capt. Stone, Brock, G. Crawford, Gann, M. Dunn, and Sneed took part in their last home game. Before the game these men with asistant coach McCall and Manager Mischlich were presented souvenier footballs by the Senior class in recognition of the valuable service they have rendered during their stay at Maryville.

The line-up:

Maryville	Position	Cumberland
Hunt	L. E.	Spence
Proffitt	L. T.	Cook
Gann	L. G.	Smith
Stone (c)	C.	McArthur
M. Dunn	R. G.	D. Robinson

PARSONS ARE DOWNED IN GAME FIGHT 26-0

Six Letter Men Play Last Game for Maryville

WHOLE TEAM PLAYS WELL

Stone, Sneed, Crawford, and Clemens do good work

Too much Clemens and Crawford spelled defeat for Carson-Newman in the annual battle between Maryville and Carson-Newman at Caswell Park, Knoxville, November 16, the final score being 26-0.

Maryville played brilliantly and was never seriously threatened by the opposing team. The line was like a stone wall and the secondary was functioning well. Only a few good gains were made through the Maryville line, Ward and Phillips being the only Parsons to make any gains through the line. And these two were accounted for the four first downs made by Carson-Newman. On the other hand, Maryville was fairly consistent in gaining through their opponents line, a majority of the seventeen downs being made through the line. Carson-Newman had a good line but Maryville had a better one.

Capt. Stone never played any better than he did in this game. An injury in the last quarter almost put him out of the game but he showed the right spirit by staying at his post until the game ended. Gann, M. Dunn, Proffitt, and G. Dunn played well at guard, the first pair starting the game and were replaced by the last named men. Hope and Young played the tackle positions in good fashion and McDonald, who replaced Hope, showed to the coaches and fans that he will be heard from next year. Hunt and Taylor were obstacles in the way of Carson-Newman's end runs. This was Taylor's first full game since the Tennessee game having sustained an injury in that game. Harris replaced Hunt at end in the middle of the third quarter and

Snappy Program For Thetas And Alpha Sigs

"There goes Theta Epsilon."
"There goes Alpha Sigma."
"I wonder where they are all going?"

"Oh sure, tonight is the big night. The two societies have a joint meeting."

That is what is going to be chatted over the campus on Saturday evening when Miss Theta goes out to meet her brother, Mr. Alpha. The joint meeting between these societies is one of the greatest events on College Hill. We dare not miss it.

"But, I don't know my brother," some fair Theta may whisper. What could be a better and a more proper place to meet than on Saturday evening, November 19, in Thaw Hall, at 7:30 P. M.

Plan for a big time.

The outstanding attraction on the programme for Saturday is a play entitled, "The Love Pirate."

There will also be refreshments. Keep in mind the date, the place, and the time. Go it Theta!

WHAT'S HAPPENING TODAY?

The mayor of Chicago has brought charges of disloyalty and lack of patriotism against leading American historians. He says that the text-books used in our schools, particularly those of his own city, tend to favor the British in regard to the American Revolution, and should therefore not be placed before young America. These charges have brought down on the head of "Big Bill" Thompson a great number of counter-charges. some of them slyly insinuating as to his own patriotism and loyalty. But it is not with the reasons, political or otherwise, of Mr. Thompson's attack, but with the charges themselves that we as college students are primarily concerned. In them is involved a whole question of prejudice against fair mindedness.

It has been our own experience in college courses of the very study which "Big Bill" is so vigorously challenging, to unlearn a number of the lessons we learned in elementary and secondary schools. Happy are we, if in unlearning these lessons, we have also learned always to face facts without prejudice. We could wish that the pupils in our public schools today, many of whom will never attend college, might learn the same lesson. Therefore, we honor the fair minded historians whom Thompson attacks.

The spirit of bigoted provinceialism manifested in these charges is the same that keeps alive the belief that the Germans bayonetted babies—that labels as foreigners beneath our notice all those who happen not to have been born in our "land of the free and home of the brave."

We shall await with interest the outcome of this conflict.

half of the earnings of the paper up to $150 and 80% of all over $300.

Any points not made clear will be willingly explained by Dr. Hunter, the chairman of the committee on student publications or by the editor of the Echo.

Amendment 1: To Omit Section II of the present Regulations and substitute for it the following:

SECTION II

The Editorial Staff and Its Selection

Article 1. The editorial staff is to consist of four Staff-Editors of junior or senior classification; of two Associate Editors, juniors; of six cubs, sophomores; and of ten apprentices, freshmen.

Article 2. The freshman Apprentices are to be chosen in competitive try-out under the direction of a joint committee made up of (1) the four Staff-Editors, (2) the Faculty Committee on Student Publications, and (3) a committee of the Student Council. This try-out is to be held during the third and fourth weeks of October notice having been given to all freshmen through the freshman English classes as early, at least, as October 1.

Article 3. The sophomore Cubs are to be chosen from among the Apprentices of the preceding year on the basis of their work as members of the staff by the same committee on selection as in the case of the Apprentices. If, however, there are other sophomores than those who served apprenticeships, who in a competitive try-out show sufficient ability to challenge the right of any of the first six Apprentices to become Cubs, as many as two Cubs may be selected from these competitors.

This additional try-out for Cubs is to be announced as early as March 1, and is to be held during the last two weeks of March.

Article 4. The junior Associate Editors are to be chosen from among the preceding year's Cubs who do not become regular Staff-Editors. If there are not sufficient eligibles of proved ability to supply these places, one or both of the Associate-Editor positions may be permitted to lapse in any given year at the discretion of the Staff Editors and the Faculty Committee on Student Publications.

Article 5. The Staff-Editors are to be chosen by a joint committee consisting of the Faculty Committee on Student Publications and a committee of the Student Council from among the Staff-Editors remaining, the Associates, and the Cubs.

Article 6. In the committees on selection of the various grades of staff members as indicated above, there must be concurrence of a majority of each of the interests represented before there is a selection.

Article 7. The selection of Cubs, Associates, and Staff-Editors is to be made between April 1 and 15.

Article 8. The Editor-in-Chief is to be elected by a secret ballot of the new staff with voting power distributed as follows: Staff-Editors, five votes each; Associates, three votes each; Cubs, one vote each. There must be a majority of the potential voting strength of the entire staff in order to elect.

Amendment 2: To omit Section III of the Present Regulations and substitute for it the following:

Section III

The Business Managers and their Selection

Article 1. The Business Manager and Assistant Business Managers shall be selected according to the following plan: A committee of three members of the Student Council and of three members of the Faculty. including the Faculty Auditor of Student Accounts, the Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Student Publications, and one other, shall, during the last two weeks in April receive applications for the positions of business manager and assistant business manager. These applications are to be accompanied by statements and evidence regarding the applicants' business experience. On the basis of this material submitted, the committee shall select the most suitable candidate to be business manager and the next three in point of suitability to be assistant business managers.

Article 2. After the year 1928-1929 in the selection of business manager, the assistant business managers are to be given first consideration in selecting the next year's business manager, unless they give to the committee written notice of their withdrawal from candidacy. They are to receive consideration on the basis of their work on the business staff and may, if they wish, submit additional evidence of their business experience and fitness. In a similar way, assistant business managers will be looked upon as candidates to succeed themselves as assistant business manager unless they give written notice of withdrawal. Other candidates will receive consideration in their turn for the business managership and assistant business managerships.

Article 3. Majority approval of each party to this joint committee on selection is necessary to constitute a choice.

Amendment 3: To add the following aritcle to Section V of the present Regulations:

Article 4. The editor-in-chief shall have the power to organize the editorial staff and make assignments of duties to the respective members of it. He shall also keep a detailed record of the performance of each member of the staff which shall be open to the inspection to any and all of the committees on selection of staff members.

Amendment 4: To add the following article to Section VI of the present Regulations:

Article 6. The business manager shall have the power to delegate to his assistants their duties in connection with the paper; he is to keep as detailed a record as is possible of the work done by each of his assistants and this record is to be open to inspection by the committee on selection of business manager.

Amendment 5: To omit Article 2 of Section VI and substitute for it the following:

Article 2. Matters of detail in regard to the make-up of the paper; such as, size of the sheet, quality of paper stock, number of columns to the page, are to be determined for each year at the beginning of the year by the Faculty Committee on Student Publications, the Editor-in-Chief, and the Business Manager.

Amendment 6: To omit Section VIII of the present Regulations and Substitute for it the following:

Section VIII Credit and Compensation For the Editorial Staff

Article 1. The Staff-Editors are to receive two semester hours of credit for each year of service as Staff-Editor, except the Editor-in-Chief who receives no credit for his year as Editor-in-Chief.

Article 2. The Editor-in-Chief is to receive half of the earnings of the paper up to $150.

Amendment 7: To omit Section IX of the present Regulations and substitute for it the following:

Section IX Compensation of Business Manager and Assistants

Article 1: After having discharged all his contracts and agreements the business manager shall receive half of the earnings of the paper up to $150 and of all over $300 he shall receive eighty per cent.

HIGHLANDERS DEFEAT LENOIR-RHYNE TEAM

In a game, far more interesting than the score would indicate, Maryville downed Lenoir-Rhyne with the top heavy score of 45-6 at Maryville November 4.

Except for the fact that the Maryville players wore the same suits in this game as they had in previous games one would not have suspected that these men were the ones who fell before the onslaughts of Tennessee Wesleyan earlier in the season. The more touchdowns they made the more they wanted to make. And they made a few for Clemens crossed over Lenoir-Rhyne's goal line four times. Hunt sprinted over for one touchdown. G. Crawford twisted through the line for his first touchdown of the season, and Bird bowled over the line for six points.

Much credit must be given to Lenoir-Rhyne for the fighting spirit of their team. They never gave up but continued to be a menace throughtout the game especially via the air-route. Maryville was fortunate in grounding or intercepting passes. Lenoir-Rhyne centered their passing attack in Jones, fullback, who threw passes far and wide. He threw two passes in succesion that netted a total of seventy yards and paved the way for their lone touchdown.

But Maryville uncovered a real football passer in DeLaney. DeLaney threw two passes to Hunt, one of which traveled thirty yards and Hunt carried the ball an equal distance, the other pass was good for forty yards and a touchdown.

Honor must be given to every Maryville man who took part in the game. The players worked hard and deserved to win. John Davis never ran better interference for his teammates than on this occasion. John Stone ripped through the line continually and threw the visitors for a loss. Proffitt, McDonald and Young were throrns in the flesh when it came to tackling for they hit hard and often. Brock, Hunt and Harris showed up well at ends. G. Dunn. Gann, Hope, Storey and Rogers did not loaf on the job. The entire backfield looked good with either Davis or Sneed as quarterback. Clemens, B. Crawford, G. Crawford and Bird gained ground consistently. Williams showed his heels for some nice gains. Others who were in the game and played well were Bonds, Watkins and Johnson.

For Lenoir-Rhyne, Bean, Owl, Jones and Paysour were the outstanding performers.

broke up many plays started around his end of the line. In the backfield all of the men looked good. Bird punted on the average about forty yards. Sneed ran the team well, selecting the plays that usually netted long gain. Davis entered the game near the end of the first half but an old wound bothered him and Sneed came back to quarterback at the beginning of the second half. G. Crawford and Clemens could not be stopped until long gains had been made. Crawford made one touchdown while Clemens added three to his already large number of touchdowns for the season. DeLaney, B. Crawfor and Bonds replaced Sneed, Bird and Clemens near the close of the game and gave a good account of themselves.

Carson-Newman offered as their main threat in the line McNabb, center. Other good linemen were Snyder, Dillon, Ballard and Lowry, who did the punting, punted long and high and placed his kicks well. Phillips and Ward were the backfield threats. Both of these men were fast and had plenty of drive to carry them forward for good gains.

Maryville did not score in the first quarter, but Clemens put the ball on the one yard line early in the second quarter from which position Crawford leaped both lines for a touchdown. The extra point was made by Bird on a place kick. At the beginning of the third quarter Sneed passed over the line to Clemens for the second touchdown. Another touchdown was made in this quarter when Sneed passed to Clemens, the latter carrying the ball for twenty yards and a touchdown. Bird made the try for goal good. Clemens went for a gain of twenty yards on a fake play early in the fourth quarter and crossed over the white mark for the last touchdown of the season.

Capt. Stone, a four letter man, G. Crawford and Brock, three letter men, M. Dunn, Sneed, and Gann, two letter men closed their football career at Maryville with this game. Brock was injured and had to be content by watching the game from the bench. The other men were in the thick of the fight and played hard to close their gridiron careers with colors waving high. These men have represented Maryville on the gridiron and have been successful. The wish of every Maryvillian is that they may be as successful in life as they have been on the gridiron while playing under the colors of their Alma Mater.

Concert Monday

VOL. 13 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY NOVEMBER 25 1927 NO. 10

JOINT CONCERT MONDAY BY SINGERS AND ORCHESTRA

New Instruments Add Much to Performance of Orchestra

NOVELTIES IN PROGRAM

Lights may be darkened; come and see what happens

For the first time in Maryville College history, the orchestra is to appear with the Glee Singers in a home concert. This program is to be given Monday night at eight o'clock at the popular price of seventy cents for two.

The orchestra has been steadily improving for the last few years, but this year a new clarinet to help Professor Davis, new violins, and a good trombone add brilliance to its playing. The Glee Singers have been practicing consistently four times a week and are well prepared for this initial concert.

Novelties in Program

The program for Monday night is to contain many novelties. These effects range from the heart appeal and comedy type, to a scene calculated to make the blood run cold. It may be necessary to darken the auditorium for this scene. If so, in order to avoid embarrassment, ample warning will be given before the lights come on again. The program has been arranged as follows:

Viking Song—Coleridge.....Taylor
Bells of St. Mary's .....Adams
Glee Singers and Orchestra
March Militare No. 1.....Schubert
Les Adieux Melodie.....de Sorasote
Mazurka .....Schmidt

FIRST LAW CLUB AT M. C. ORGANIZED

Plan for interesting programs in future

The men interested in law met last week in Carnegie Hall and organized a law club. The following officers were elected:

Arthur Young, President.
Forrest Robertson, Vice President.
James Tweed, Secretary and Treasurer.
Otis Peterson, Program Secretary.
Wilkinson, Sargeant at Arms.

Good literary programs are to be given, including addresses by prominent local attorneys and literary activities by the student members. We advise and encourage any student interested in this study of law to join the club.

FIRST LYCEUM PRESENTS FAMOUS VIOLINIST DEC. 1

Estelle Grey-Lhevinne will perform on Mozart's Violin

Thursday evening, December the first at eight o'clock the world's greatest woman violinist will appear on the stage of Voorhees Chapel. Never before have Maryville audiences had a better opportunity to hear the best that the world of music has to offer in the way of entertainment and education.

Proclaimed as the most fascinating and popular violinist of the world Estelle Gray-Lhevinne is an artist that no Maryvillian can afford to miss.

The Annual Lyceum season of Maryville college is to be opened with a rare treat. Maryville is indeed fortunate to have the great privilege of listening to the inspired playing of such a world renouned personality as is Estelle Gray-Lhevinne.

Press Notices Enthusiastic

The press this season has been full of glowing accounts of the playing of this famous violinist. From the New York Tribune comes the following quotation: "The most charming violinist in the world played with fire and dash, grace and tenderness, brilliant, but, above all, subtle."

The Daily Mail of Hagerstown, Maryland in reviewing two concerts said, "She is the world's foremost violinist, she does queer things to her audiences emotionally. The spell of the violinist is so great that at the end of each part of the program one is not let down to earth. With the first full sweep of the Gray-Lhevinne bow, earthly walks fade out and are replaced with enchantment and the witch. The expression of a great soul thru a great instrument." Not only is she famous in this country but in other countries too, her playing is highly praised. In speaking of her a Paris paper is quoted as saying—"Her bowing attracted attention from the first. She has a

Dr. May, Class of '11 Distinguished in field of phychology

Did you ever stop to think how many of Maryville's graduates are succesful in their life work? Maryville has reasons to be proud of many of her alumni. Perhaps we should be proudest of a member of the class of 1911, Mark Arthur May, who has been appointed professor of educational psychology at Yale University. Besides his B. A. degree from Maryville, Dr. May has received degrees from the University of Chicago, Columbia University and a diploma from Union Theological Seminary. He has been professor of phychology at Syracuse University since 1919 and has been on a leave of absence since 1924, with the Character Education Inquiry at Columbia Teacher's College. He has written many articles on problems in psychology and is a member of the American Psychological Association, the American Association for the advancement of Science, and the committee of juvenile delinquency of the Social Research Council.

Dr. May attended Tusculum College before he came to Maryville. During his senior year here he was

Varsity Basket Ball Men Are Out For Hard Practice

Capt. Marion has three two-letter men to form team

GOOD FROSH PLAYERS FOUND

Johnson Bible College first opponent, Dec. 16.

Football has had its day and has passed on and will be no more at Maryville this year. But basket ball is rapidly coming to the front. Practice has been going on for several weeks under the watchful eyes of Capt. Marion. He has had a flock of candidates practicing three times each week for some time. Capt. Marion has been assisted by Lewis Reed, a letter man of 1924 and 1925.

The men who answered the first call are rapidly rounding into shape and are going to make the choosing of the varsity difficult. Many good basket ball players have been found in the freshman class and they will make some of last year's squad hustle for a position.

Coach Honaker issued the official call for candidates Tuesday of this week and will begin to get the squad into condition for the opening game with Johnson Bible College, here Dec. 16. Coach will have as a nucleus for his team Capt. Marion and Bird, forwards and Davis and Reed, guards. Any of these four men can play center and there is a possibility of one of them being sent to the pivot position and a new man trained for the vacant position which would be made by the transfer. These four men are two letter men and are eligible for two more years playing on the hardwood floor under the colors of the Orange and Garnet.

Manager McConnaughhay is arranging an attractive home schedule and will be ready to announce it in a few days.

HOT FROM THE TOASTER

George Fiegal—Says he's found a wonderful opportunity for a life's vocation—selling smoked glasses during eclipses of the sun.

Horace Ray—From a big town; addresses his envelopes to "Dear Marcella."

Vincent White—Thinks "hallucinations" are something one cures with listerine.

Ray McCall—When Miss Clemens accused him of handing in the same theme on "Our Dog" three times, Ray answered: "Yes ma'am, but it's the same dog."

Those Seniors who made "A" on Theism Tests.—

"Boby" Dance— The fellow who could sell one a suit with two pairs of trousers to bury his best friend in.

"Doc" McCulloch—Say's he enjoys driving with one hand—and eating apples with the other.

Prof. Kiger—Rushed into the office crying "I'm a father." "So's your Old Man," answered Hiro.

SOPHS ARE VICTORS IN INTER-CLASS BASKET BALL

COLLEGE WIDOWS ARE HERE DESCRIBED

Conduct of faithful ones is a credit to the dear departed

Some there are who two-fold pins and daily letters carry, and who wonder about the campus in consciously solitary state. They are the oracles of wisdom in matters pertaining to the heart; they have lived—they are the "college widows."

The college widows are all ladies of experience—don't under-rate them. They are the ones who have come, seen and been conquered. Though, now, most of them are models of abstention, they have all been models for the ardent moon-shiner in years past. Now that their better two-thirds have graduated, it is their lot to exemplify the famous quotation, "they also serve who only stand and wait."

Freshmen Not Eligible

All genuine C. W's. are ladies of the upper classes. Freshman girls who enter in the "preserved" state are not eligible for membership. Most of the widows are either juniors or seniors, because, it seems that the difficulty in holding a C. W. degree increases as the cub of the time in service.

Several senior members have had enjoyable furloughs from duty in the near past on account of the return of their dear departed. One or two junior members have had similar happy visitations. Others fare not so well. Two members must keep the heart fires burning by reading letters, at the table, from would-be-doctors who joyfully describe their explorations and discoveries in the corpus humanus. Indeed, letters seem to play a large part in the lives of these young ladies.

For the benefit of the concerned members of the alumni, it may be truthfully said that most of the C. W's are remaining quite loyal to them—unnecessarily so. Yet a few are leading a gay and riotous life in their new-found freedom. There is little danger, dear alumni, for the most stubborn opponents will eventually be humbled by oft-repeated songs of praise concerning you.

What of Those Gone On?

The conduct of the college widows is largely common gossip to everyone, but who can answer for the men in the great world beyond? Are they, too, counting the minutes until June while living a life of seclusion? Well, maybe they are, but—?!

What is the moral of all this? Very simple: freshmen girls, ask him what class he is in before drawing him on too far. Tomorrow it may be too late! Better are two A. B's at once than an A. B. now, a consequent C. W., and a somewhat doubtful A. B. later on.

Hold Championship Title For Second Year

New Men Play Seniors and Juniors, downed by Sophs and Frosh

Under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. the annual inter-class basket ball teams meet was held in the Alumni Gym. The Sophomores, the second consecutive year won the laurels because of good team work. Some good basket ball was displayed on the hard-wood at different stages of the game, also some good variety material showed up. The tournament was played off by the seniors meeting the Freshmen, the Juniors meeting the Sophomores, and then the Sophs meeting the Frosh.

In the first game the freshmen defeated the Seniors to the tune of 24-16, in a game which was without any spectacular playing. The passing of the freshman team proved the winning factor. For the Seniors, Sneed and Keys were the outstanding men, and Riley, Parks, Crawford, Scott, Bonds and Davis showed up well for the Freshmen.

Seniors 16		Freshmen 22
Keys	F.	Parks
Sneed	F.	Davis
Chandler	C.	Peterson
Sargis	G.	Riley
Young	G.	Kinkpatrick

The Sophs won a hard fought battle from the Juniors, this game was hotly contested until the final whistle. Mann was the individual star for the Juniors, Stribling was the flash for the sophs, and in him the sophs had the winning punch. Hunt and Waddell worked the floor well.

Juniors 14		Sophs 28
DeHaven	F.	Stribling
Cross	F.	Hunt
Mann	C.	Waddell
Crawford	G.	Chenny
Headrick	G.	McMillan

The sophs won a prolonged game from the freshmen in the final encounter 28-12. The first half ended with the sophs leading only by the score of 12-8, but at the beginning of the second half they opened a barrage of long shots which went true to the basket. Stribling was the star of the game, scoring the majority of the soph's points. The entire quintet exhibited some good team-work. The Freshmen had no outstanding men on the floor, but Parks, Davis, Young, Crawford and Storie worked together.

EIGHT TO BE INITIATED INTO THETA ALPHA PHI

Dramatic Fraternity holds Fall Initiation tonight

The Y. W. reading room in Thaw Hall is to be the scene Friday night of the fall initiation of members in to Theta Alpha Phi, the National Honarary Dramatic Fraternity, a chapter of which was organized on our campus last year. Maryville feels very proud to have this organization represented on her campus, because it is composed of men and women all over the United States who have and are doing commendable work along dramatic lines to further the cause of dramatics.

Of the twelve who were initiated last year, five are on the hill this

ARE WE ATTEMPTING TO KNOW WORLD AFFAIRS?

Theoretically, we come to college to broaden our viewpoint and enrich our lives. Yet it is to be wondered if we very often realize this aim. We are suddenly dropped down into a fascinating little world, of which we soon become an integral part, and before very long we are so absorbed in its various happenings and affairs, we forget that just outside there is a greater, wider world of which we are just as much a part.

If we are ever going to learn to take the proper interest in world affairs, now is our time. We are constantly having our minds stimulated along new lines, and are having fresh viewpoints presented to us. How better could we apply the new knowledge gained through our college training than in an effort at comprehending world problems?

The world is getting smaller every day, as nations are growing closer together in understanding. A problem in far-off China is vitally a problem of America. Therefore, it is up to the educated American citizen to understand the problems of China, and not only of China, but, at least in a general way, of every other nation on the globe. It has been often asserted, but is none the less true, that one can no longer afford to be provincial.

Of course, every student should be interested, even primarily so, in the happenings of his own school; he is a poor exponent of school spirit who is not. But along with our interest in our school, let us try to develop a comprehensive, understanding interest in the world outside.

A few days ago, at the White House, a luncheon was given at which fifteen or sixteen of the world-famous fliers were present, and at which the pioneer of them all, Col. Charles Lindbergh, was presented with the Hubbard Medal. It must have been a unique gathering—all these heroes of the air brought together in one assemblage. Those who are inclined to complain of the lack of romance in this our material age, might well consider this. Every honor guest at that luncheon had gone through an experience of which the wildest romanticists of a century ago would hardly have dared to dream. No age is utterly devoid of romance in which human power thus conquers the forces of the air, and in which men and women alike brave manifold dangers in a pure spirit of adventure.

PURPOSE IN TEACHING RELIGION

The new book by George Walter Fiske called "Purpose in Teaching Religion" has a two-fold purpose. The first is to show the great need of a definite purpose in teaching religion as in teaching any other subject. The second part shows where our present purpose is leading us.

In his discussion of the need of a definite purpose he measures our methods to our goal and compares them with historic aims and principles. His discussion of the second part takes up the questions of graded curriculum, graded worship by departments, church dramatics and programs on world Fellowship and service, giving the reason for having each one and the wisdom and advantage gained by using them.

His style is such that one gets very much interested in the book and is surprised to find that he does not want to stop reading. His use of illustrations is peculiarly fitted to his subject. Teachers of religion will find this book a great help, but it will be just as helpful to those who do not teach.

This book may be secured at the Abingdon Press, Publication and Sales Department, 150 Fifth Avenue, New York. Price $1.75.

Whenever we are presented with the opportunity of bringing beauty out of ugliness, harmony out of conflict, good-will out of hatred, potency out of sterility, intelligence out of ignorance, in short whenever it becomes possible to add a new quality to experience, we stand in the presence of creation.

NEW LAMPS FOR OLD!

Did you ever think—may I invite you to think now?—that perhaps this is the process by which new principles become translated into new ways of thinking and hence into new ways of acting? First, one hears something that is startlingly different, contradictory even, to the theory, half-formed, second-hand upon which his actions had been based. Perhaps this something is just a vital reverbalization of the old. If you outgrew your youth too soon, you may resent the shock of this contact with a new idea, and it may not even jolt you into an admission of possible rightness in the new and wrongness in the old. You may be utterly imprevious to any intimations that that old theory is supposed to motivate action after all, rather than being admited as true and acted upon inversely.

Having been jolted (i.e., if you are the still-young type; and chronological age often has nothing to do with the matter,) you become enthusiastic about experimenting with the new theory. You may, by further contact with it, become thoroughly convinced of its soundness, and yet when the opportunity comes for putting it in practice find yourself still acting upon the old.

Finally, after more intimate association with the idea, you have a cussessful attempt at experimentation, and you become aware that the new theory has become the motivation of action. The whole plan of life has become a little different, perhaps a great deal different, because of the change.

And such a lot of old lamps we have to be exchanged for new! Some of our funny, chilish ideas about the stuff of which patriotism is made; the primitive origin of our national, racial, class and personal antipathies and prejudices; the inconsistency of a religion which does not motivate all of life. New lamps are constantly being cried, especially by the youth of the world. If this is not the way the exchange is made, certainly it is a way.

HIGH TRAILERS HOLD CHURCH SERVICE

Maryvillians may well be proud of the fact that every organization on the Hill tends toward promoting better Chrisian spirit.

One of the purposes of the High Trail Club is to carry the Word to others. This is the paramount duty of every Christian, and only by doing this can the world ever become evangelized We follow the trails that lead high over the peaks of the Smokies, but we also follow the trail that leads unto the High Throne.

At a meeting of the club a short time ago the following men were unanimously elected to membership: Billy Crawford, known as, "The Gift to Women", Hayes Williams, "Mercury Incarnate" and John Taggart, "Maryville Flash." These are all mighty fine fellows and we expect great things of them.

On last Sunday the club went to Mt. Tabor and held church service. The church was full and the fellows did their best to make their coming to church worth while. The program was as follows:

Scripture Reading, Billy Crawford.
Prayer, Maynard Layman.
Violin solo, John Taggart
Duet, Courtenay and Milling.
Sermon, "God", W. R. Courtenay.
Pianist, Corky Crawford.
General Amusement, Brute Crow.
Deserter Apprehender, Hayes Williams.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED FOR ALPHA SIGMA

The program last week was devoted to the election of officers. The following were elected:

President ..... William Crowder
V. President .... Maynard Layman
Recording Secretary .... F. Geist
Ass't Recording Secretary P. French
Program Secretary .... J. Taggart
Ass't. Program Sec. ..... Shaw
Censors .... Spouse, Conrad, Baker
Editor ..... Herdman
Sergant?at-arms ..... Pickle
Janitor ..... J. Gordon Jeffries

With such a group of officers, Alpha Sigma looks forward to another successful quarter. Let's every man be out at every meeting and back these officers and work for old Alpha Sigma.

There will be no regular meeting this week but there wil be the joint ueeting of Alpha Sigma and Theta.

Nothing need be said of the work they have done in our dramatic department, for we are all familiar with it.

We wish to congratulate these old members, and also the eight new members—that is, those who will be made members Friday night. By hard work they have proved themselves worthy of the honor of being members of Theta Alpha Phi.

Two of our faculty are to become honorary members. These are Dr. Hunter and Mrs. West. The six others to be initaited are Jess Pierce, Lillian Robinson, Nellie Caldwell, Albert Tull, Luther Hammond and Gordon Jeffries.

Maryville Orators Will Debate Teams From Ga., Fla., Tenn., and Ohio

Protection of Foreign Capital Is Pi Kappa Delta Question

VARSITY TRY OUTS

Freshmen Will Debate U. T., Tryout Scheduled For Jan 16th.

Pi Kappa plans are becoming more definite and the outlook is decidedly promising. The national Pi Kappa Delta question has been chosen, and the debate students are working on it now. The question is: Resolved that the United States should cease to Protect Capital Invested in Foreign Lands except after Formal Declaration of War.

The home debate season will be from February 17th to April 10th. A number of home debates for the boys' varsity have been scheduled, though the dates are not definitely known as yet. There will be two triangle debates; one with King, Tusculum, and M. C. participating, and one with L. M. U., Emory and Henry and M. C. included. Then there will be a dual debate between Maryville and Berea, and the University of Florida and the University of Chattanooga plan to meet us here.

While on the trip to the national Pi Kappa Delta convention at Tiffin, Ohio, April 3rd. April 6th, the boys' team will also debate Center, Miami, and probably a number of Ohio Colleges. All the boys varsity teams will debate the Pi Kappa question.

There are four dual debates scheduled for the girls' varsity, with Berea, Asbury, Carson-Newman and the Teachers College of Johnson City. The girls trip team will probably debate a number of schools in Georgia and Florida. The girls have two questions for debate; the Pi Kappa question and the question of free trade.

Preliminary tryouts for both boys and girls' varsities will be held January 9th. Six or eight girls will be chosen; eight or ten boys.

The freshmen will tryout January 16th. The freshman subject for debate is: Resolved that Intercollegiate Athletics should be Abolished. The boys will debate U. T. The girls have no contest scheduled, but there are several possibilities.

Everyone on the hill who is at all interested in forensics is surely looking forward eagerly to the opening of 1928's debate season.

FIRST JOINT MEETING WELL RECEIVED

Quartette And Ghost Scene Are Novelty Features

We came away from the joint concert last Monday night patting ourselves on the back. Yes, we're immensely proud of our top-notch Glee Singers. They were very handsome and melodious. We could feel the sea-wind whipping our faces when we heard the "Viking Song", and we were sorry we weren't a true love coming from the sea when they sang "The Bells of St. Mary's." The harmony and swing of their rendition of this number was delightful, while we held our breath until they came to the glorious outburst of the final chorus. "Oh Italia" is another number that we have classed in our affections with "The Bells of St. Mary's."

The novelty quartet must have done some fire-brigade stuff in changing costumes. We were disappointed in them—they didn't give us enough encores.

But the ghost scene takes the cake.

OXFORD DICTIONARY IS ADDED TO LIBRARY

Newest Addition is Valuable Contribution; Last Volume To Be Added Soon.

IS A HISTORY OF WORDS

Library Fund Will Place Many In Hands of Students

One of the richest of the first fruits of our recently imposed library fund is the Oxford English Dictionary which has just been added to the reference resources of the library reading room. The ten large red-bound volumes on the table between the main entrance and the delivery desk cover the vocabulary from A through U. The final volume will be ready probably by January.

The distinctive value of this work lies in the fact that it is a dictionary "on historical principles." In the long process of the making of the dictionary, practically everything written or printed in English in England, and much that has been written or printed in English elsewhere was read, and significant instances of the use of each word in the book noted so that material might be had for giving as nearly as might be discovered the first literary use of each word ,and then at intervals of half a century or so instances with quotations of the use of the word with liberal quotations showing changes and progressions in meaning.

If the word has passed out of use, or if any of its meanings has lasped, of course, the dictionary undertakes to cite the last instance of its use or of the last use in that particular meaning. While it is of course, an invaluable guide to spelling, pronunciation, and meaning it is a historical aid that it serves its greatest use.

Although the original conception of the idea of this dictionary goes back to Archbishop Trench and 1857, the actual work of compiling it began in the 70's of the last century. The first volume, A-B, appeared in 1888. The work has gone steadily forward and the last volume will be issued late in the present or early in the coming year. From the time of the first volume on, four great scholars have served in succession as general editor: Sir James A. H. Murray, Professor Henry Bradley, Mr. C. T. Onions, and Professor W. A. Craigie. Professor Craigie is now a member of the English faculty of the University of Chicago, and is getting under way the making of a Dictionary of American English on Historical principles.

Take time when you are in the reading room to take down one of the big red volumes and spend fifteen minutes giving it the "once over." Look up, for example, set, the prefix un, mister, bead, or any other word, dead or alive.

PRACTICE OE MID-WINTERS IN FULL SWING

Rehearsals On Several Plays Going Forward Amid Mishaps And Amusing Situations.

Mid-winter season is in full swing—everywhere in society halls, in the chapel, in private practice rooms we hear voices going over "lines" "Oh, Romeo! wherefore art thou Romeo!" "No use crying over spilt milk, for there's enough water in it already!" or perhaps an attempt at a character-

LOUIE REED

We wish to introduce to the underclassmen a former basketball and track performer. This is none other than "Smiling Louie" Reed, who cavorted on the basket ball court and the cinder oval, for Maryville back in the dim ages of 25-26. Louie hails from Loraine, Ohio, where he played with the reputed team of that high school, which is always near the head of the interstate tourney lists. He goes the celebrated "Red" Grange one better in training. Instead of the mere delivery of ice, he delights in releling in the icy waters of Lake Erie as a life guard. We predict that Louie will save the life of many a gamethis year, as he has saved the life of many a fair maiden on the ebach at Cedar Point. We're with you Louie!

THREE HIGHLANDERS ON ALL CONFERENCE TEAM

Line-Up For Conference Team Completed; Maryville Only College to Have Three Players.

Dr. J. H. McMurray is Elected For Next Year.

Capt. John Stone, Horace Clemens, and Lowell McDonald were chosen for places on the mythical ail Smoky Mountain Conference team at a meeting of the Coaches and representatives from the various schools that constitute the membership of the conference. Maryville was the only school to place three men on the team, Carson-Newman, Milligan King and Tusculum placed two men. Emory and Henry was the only team that failed to place a man on the team.

Sackett, of King, gained the full back position over Bird, of Maryville, after the vote had been tied and the deciding vote was cast by an individual who had not seen Bird in action. Other Maryville men prominently mentioned were Davis, quarterback; Proffitt, tackle; G. Crawford, half back and Hunt, end.

Other men who had played good ball during the season but failed to make the all-conference team were Ward, McNabb and Ballard of Carson-Newman, and Gunn of King.

The All-Conference team:

Dillon,	L. E.	Carson-Newman
Fincher	L. T.	Milligan
McDonald	L. G.	Maryville
Stone	C.	Maryville
Snyder	R. G.	Carson-Newman
Lightfoot	R. T.	Tusculum
Hammontree	R. E.	King
Moreno	O. B.	Tusculum
Humphries	L. H. B.	Milligan
Clemens	R. H. B.	Maryville
Sackett	F. B.	King

The officers for the Smoky Mountain Conference for the ensuing year are: Dr. J. H. McMurray, of Maryville College, president; Dr. E. R. Naylor, of Emory and Henry College, vice-president; Professor O. R. Post, of King College, secretary-treasurer; W. O. Lowe, of Knoxville will serve for another year as commissioner.

Highlanders Getting In Shape For Good Basket Ball Season

Four Letter Men Return—Captain Marion, Davis, Bird, And Reed

LARGE SQUAD PRACTISING

New Material Showins Up Well; Coach Pleased.

Maryville prospects on the hard wood arenas look very bright this year. With four experienced men on the roster, Coach Honaker has ample reason to expect much of his proteges. The boys with the experienced eagle eyes, are Captain Marion, Bird, Davis, and Reed. With ample competition furnished by the remaining men of last years squad it will be to the advantage of the elder basketeers to "put out" if they wish to maintain their positions in the limelight of stardom. The prospects are what are called "prosperous" even in the fastest circles. Many a coach has become gray around the temples over the outlooks of his teams, but if matters continue as at present, we will have a youthful, smiling Lombe for some decades to come. Coaches make teams, and teams make coaches. This year we hope to see the proper reciprocation from both sources. For the fifth position, and be it far from us to state that any four are cinched, will be filled by a process of eliminations from the many other disciples of the bounding dribble. There are several likely looking youths from the last years squad, among them being, Mann, Cherry, Stribling, Waddell, Hope and Hunt. "Speedy" Mann has hit his midseason stride rather early in the year. If this elongated specimen is able to hold up his pace without staling, someone is going to have to step his stuff to hold the midrift position. The freshmen are best described as being yearlings. Few of them are favoring the "Honaker" System strongly as yet, but may be expected to fall in line as the workouts progress. However, do not expect any of the freshmen flashes so popular to colegiate fiction. That will take time. Merle DeLaney, former Maryville High star, and an ex-teammate to John Davis, looks like an eventual blue ribbon candidate. Andy Harris, formerly of Porter High, and Maryville Polytechnic is living up to the reputation of a past running mate to Harold Bird. Other new greenlings are Parks and Davis, minature forwards, who should make fast strides with careful utoring. Riley and Hannah new men to Maryville, are there with the goods, and are living up to their reputations as established at their former colleges. We predict a great season for the short-trousered athletes. Come on you rooters.

ALPHA SIGS' CHOICE IS "SO THIS IS LONDON"

Gordon Jeffries and Nelle Caldwell Take Leading Roles.

TO BE PRESENTED JAN. 16

Many Old Favorites of Maryville Audiences Will Take Part.

The Alpha Sigma Literary Society has chosen "So This is London" by Arthur Goodrich for their dramatic production to be presented the 16th of January. Rehearsals have just been gotten under way with Albert Tull, stage manager, in charge. Alpha Sigma also boasts of having an all-star cast, including four members of Theta Alpha Phi. Gordon Jeffries and Nelle Caldwell take the leading roles as the young lovers, the one a typical "gum-chewing American" (!) the other a loyal "daughter of Johnny Bull." The feeling between these two nations is cleverly portrayed by their parents; The Americans, Hiram Draper and his wife, are played by Maynard Dunn and Dorothy McCulloch. They are contrasted with the English family: Sir Percy and Lady Beauchamp. Ed Sprouse and Mary Eleanor Welbon. While Evelyn Sherrod as Lady Ducksworth pours the oil upon the troubled waters. The entire cast:

Hiram Draper Jr., Gordon Jeffries
Elinor Beauchamp, Nelle Caldwell
Lady Amy Ducksworth, Evelyn Sherrod
Hiram Draper, Sr., Maynard Dunn
Mrs. Hiram Draper, Dorothy McCulloch
A flunky at the Ritz, Frank Baker
Sir Percy Beauchamp, Ed Sprouse
Lady Beauchamp, Mary Eleanor Welbon.
Thomas, a butler, John Taggart.
Alfred Honeycutt, Paul Everett.
Tennings, Lady Ducksworth's butler, Reggie Voorhees.

BOARD VOTES LETTERS TO 21 FOOTBALL MEN

Twenty-One Players And Manager Receive Coveted "M"; Hoyt is Manager For 1928-1929.

At a meeting of the Athletic Board of Control, Tuesday of this week football letters were voted for the following men, signifying the fact that all of the men had played fourteen or more quarters, which is the minimum number of quarters needed to make a letter. The men who lettered were Capt. Stone, four letter man in football, Proffitt, Brock, Davis, Clemens, G. Crawford, and Bird, three letter men in football, M. Dunn, G. Dunn, Gann, Hunt, Taylor, Young and Sneed made their second letter. The men lettering for the first time were McDonald, Hope, Harris, Morrison, Williams, B. Crawford, and DeLaney. Clyde Mischlich was voted a managers letter.

Assistant manager, James Hoyt, was elected manager of the football team for 1928-1929 season.

The election of next year's Captain will be held at the annual football banquet which will take place soon, the date of which has not been definitely decided.

Of the twenty- one men who earned the coveted football "M", six of them will be lost to the team through graduation.

With fifteen letter men as a nucleus, Maryville should sport another flashy aggregation next year.

HIGHLANDERS GUESTS OF VOLS TUESDAY

Will Return Banquet After Christmas.

Football season is now in the annals of memory, but the fellows that made that greatest of sports dear to us are yet with us, They too, will pass into the 'has-been' stage of life, but at present they are in our midst. They worked hard to win for the school; they played fair and square with their opponents and so their season was a beautiful success. Captain Stone will always be one of our favorites and the team he lead will be a ribbon winner in the hall of our fame.

The old adage, "Spread joy and flowers all along life's road" is a good one, so next Tuesday night the

WHY WE ARE FOR THE ECHO AMENDMENTS

In two student meetings during the last few days the amendments to the Constitution of The Highland Echo were approved by the student body. The staff for next year will be organized according to these new regulations. We believe that these amendments point the way to a bigger and more interesting newspaper for the students. We rejoice that they have been carried. But we do not say that they are perfect, that there are no flaws. Such flaws will, we hope, be discovered and remedied as soon as possible. But there are three significant reasons why we approve of the new method.

The staff members will be chosen according to their ability. The committee from the Student Council and the faculty committee on Student Publications will select each year those who have proved themselves capable of carrying responsibilities. Those who in the past have proved their ability will retain their positions, or be advanced, while idle or inefficient members will be eleminated. Hither to the selection of the Staff has been a one-man job, the editor selecting those whom he thought capable, going on the best advice he could get, but inevitably rejecting several whose abilities he did not know.

The election of the editor-in-chief will be because of ability. He will not be chosen by piling up a large vote because of popularity or the chances of voting, but will be chosen because of his executive ability by those members of the Staff who are to work with him.

The Editors will receive more adequate compensation. The editor-in-chief has been in the past, and probably will be, one who does not need the three semester hours' credit to add to his graduation total. The credit received is inadequate in return for the work attending the position. In future the success of the paper will give him well-earned financial returns such as the business manager receives. The staff editors will receive semester hours' credit for the successful accomplishment of their work.

These three advantages over the old system convince us that the new method will give better satisfaction to those interested in the welfare of the Echo.

It might be well to state, in order that the fears of some will be put at rest, that the amendments are not an attempt of the faculty to dominate the student body and ake away any privileges. As before, a faculty member will not be present at the election of the editor-in-chief; and student representatives will cooperate with the faculty in selecting staff members, not according to their docility to school policies, but according to their ability as newspaper workers. Neither have the amendments been rushed through by the Student Council. That body gave the matter serious and deliberate consideration before it gave its approval.

In future, we hope to see the new method accomplish in the Echo all that the editors of the past have wished.

When Xerxes wept

THE great Persian ruler gazed from a hill-top upon his vast army of a million men. It was the largest army that had ever existed. And he turned away with tears in his eyes because in a hundred years all trace of it would be gone. That army was a symbol of power, destructive and transient.

Today in one machine, now being built in the General Electric shops, there is combined the muscular energy of two million men. This great machine, a steam turbine, is also a symbol of power—a new power that is constructive and permanent.

Its unprecedented size, a record in construction of such machines, is a pledge to the people that the electrical industry is on the march, ever on the alert to supply plenty of electricity at a low cost to all.

This mammoth steam turbine with a total capacity of 208,000 kilowatts (280,000 horse power) will be installed in the new station of the State Line Generating Company near Chicago. What a striking contrast between this huge generating unit and the group of home devices it operates—MAZDA lamps, fans, vacuum cleaners, and many others. Yet General Electric makes both.

STEVENSONS ENTERTAIN Y. CABINET

Say, have you ever wished for a cozy fireside, beautiful furniture pictures, books and all the other comforts of home and then unexpectedly your wish is granted? Well that is the way the Y. M. C. A cabinet feels. After some months of dormitory life and Pearsons, we longed for the home life, especially as Thanksgiving was drawing near. Then, Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson, always up to the minute in pleasant surprises, invited us to dinner on Wednesday. Well, we went!

For an hour we sat around the fire and talked of our 'Y work and campus conditions. Reports were given by the different chairman. It was not a dry meeting, but one filled with plenty of pep and action. Then came dinner.

Lady, please be quite! Yes, we cleaned house! Dr. Stevenson said he would be hurt if we left anything and Mrs. Stevenson added to our misery by supervising a continual stream of good things. Even 'Jonah' Tull and Ingram Fell, "the Faster," will admit that they were defeated in their efforts, and I congratulate the gentlemen out on their gallant endeavors, and had to stop before the ebb tide. It was a great treat and will long be remembered by the fellows.

Twice this year the college pastor has opened his home to us, and we are grateful to him. We know we have been broadened physically and spiritually by our visits.

A class at George Washington University recently waited fifteen minutes for an instructor and then dispersed. The next day the instructor claimed to have been in the class because he had left his hat on the desk. On the following day upon entering the classroom he was greeted with rows of chairs occupied only by hats, but not one student. Our informant does not state whether or not the instructor left his hat and went home.—The New Student.

COMMENT ON WORLD NEWS

Once more there is trouble brewing in Europe, in the controversy between Poland and Lithuania. The League of Nations, which held its opening session on November 30, will attempt to settle the case. The outlook is not very promising, although there is some hope that the League may succeed in settling the dispute.

The Communist Internationale of Russia is offering its aid to the revolutionists in China. We may be alarmed at this turn of events, but we can at least try to get the Russian point of view, which seems to be that the Internationale proposes to offset the exploitation of China by other countries by an attempt to help the mass of the Chinese people. Just how much real help to the people will come through the propagation of communistie ideas remains to be seen.

The two year strike in the Pittsburgh coal mines continues. And with the coming of winter and bad weather conditions, the housing and food situation is becoming acute. As usual the women and children are the chief sufferers.

In the coming session of Congress, four women will sit in the House of Representatives, more than have ever take ntheir place in Congress in the nation's history. It gives a gleam of encouragement to those who realize that, in spite of all the talk and twaddle, women nave not yet been granted the position to which they are entitled. (Note: This was written by a Co-ed.)

More encouragement: A woman has been granted, for the first time in its history, the Nohel prize for achievement in literature. The author is Grazia Deledda, an Italian, and the book which entitles her to the prize is "La Madre." (Note: Watch your laurels. boys.)

SNOOPIN' AROUND

They say that Prof. Queener spends most of his spare time reading a History on the Lives of Famous Women. Naughty, naughty.

Two co-eds were taiking between classes the other day. Said Jane Thrower, "What are you going out for this year?" Replied Vera McCoy, "for a full back, I beieve."

Do you remember last year when "Pesky" Bernard was in the hospital with an infected leg. Well, murder will out! It happened this way: After pressing a pair of trousers the doughty youth in question, found that a lengthy portion of thigh did not hold the crease right, so he forthwith remedied the matter by pressing a crease. No, nothing wrong about that, but he didn't bother to take the panties off to do so.

We wonder why some of the dashing shieks who have girls out in town are so inconsiderate to procure the two choice seats in the gallery for the Lyceum numbers. I ask you in all fairmindedness, is that right?

Several of the boys in the dorm have expressed in actions and words that they are either from New York or are going there.

There are two reasons, says Freshman Gay, for Co-education. Both of them wear dresses.

Gussie says: Marriage is like a railroad sign. When you see the girl, you stop; then you look; and after you're married, you listen.

White says that he doesn't want them to be fair to him. He wants them to be fair and warmer.

BAINONIAN

Last week Bainonian elected the following officers for the new term:
President, Nell Watkins.
Vice-President, Emily Minton.
Secretary, Isabelle Cannon.
Program Secretary, Sue Spencer.
Critic, Mary Clopton.
Editor, Marion Johnson.
Sargeant-at-Arms, Elizabeth Cannon.

Saturday night these new officers will be installed. Following the installation a real trash-edy will be staged. We will see a Dempsey-Tunney fight as the Black Knight and the Green Knight would have fought it in the good old days. Of course there is a woman in the case, and may the best man win her.

Bainonian feels confident that the new officers will "carry on" successful.

MARION DAVIES IN "THE RED MILL" AT PALACE MONDAY AND TUESDAY

Marion Davies Hollandaise, a piquant foreign creation that is alluringly new—that's the new Marion Davies in "The Red Mill," new Cosmopolitan spectacle playing at the Palace Theater Monday and Tuesday. The much-heralded adaptation of the famous stage hit scored instant popularity with its quaint settings, a spectacular winter fete, dramatic intensity intermingled with lightsome comedy—and Marion Davies' faultless acting of a role unlike any in her entire career.

istic well-bred English lnngs from So this is London. And so it goes.

Since "Romeo and Juliet" is the initial midwinter it might be well to give a few interesting facts concerning its progress. Beautiful costumes have been ordered. Jesse Pierce is making or staging effects that are destined to play an important part in the progress of College Dramatics. Seven different sets of scenery are being painted. The workers are so busy planning their effects that it is impossible even to get them to take time to explain what is being done.

The cast are realizing their task and real concentrated hours of labor are being put in in order to create the elusive characters so sought after.

The date is the 12th of December, barely two weeks. No one can afford to miss the outstanding dramatic production of the year.

To see ghosts appear from nowhere to gather unto themselves the soul of the one who died for Annie Laurie, to see the corpse rise in the air of its own accord—whew! When lights were flashed on, we settled back in our seats and laughed—but it was a shaky laugh. And how, we ask you, did the corpse rise so quickly and take its place in the ranks of the singers? We ask you.

The orchestra gave a splendid accompaniment to the songs and did well on its own hook. Personally, we like to hear the blares of the trumpets, or horns, or whatever was sounding forth. Also, personally, we would have preferred a few more of such rousing numbers as the "March Militaire."

Yes, our date said she had a good time. She's a real nice girl and has quite an ear for music. 'Believe I'll get out my sax—Oh, pardon me.

principle involved in this epithet will be put into actual proof. The football squad of the University of Tennessee will entertain the Maryville squad at a dinner to be held in the First Presbyterian Church on State Street at 6:00 P. M. We had hoped to return the dinner sometime before Christmas, but we find this will not fit in with the plans of Tennessee.

This is the first of such fellowship, but we hope it will not end there, but will be continued in the years to come. By such a 'get-together' we hope to better the spirit between the two schools, make better friends out of the fellows and so mutually advance the respect which we have for these two great institutions.

A buss will leave the hill, Bartlett Hall at 5:15 P. M. Tuesday. All football lettermen please be on hand. Everybody out for the big event. Alma Mater live for ever.

Curtains Of First Mid-Winter Will Rise On "Romeo And Juliet"

CAST IS WORKING HARD FOR MONDAY NIGHT

PRESENTED BY ATHENIANS

Is First Shakespearian Play to Be Produced in Several Years

When the velvet curtains rise at 8 o'clock Monday night a full house will see the rapid flash of deadly steel and the age-old feud between the Montagues and the Capulets will be again underway—for upon that night Athenian's midwinter "Romeo and Juliet" will be presented.

Are we tired of our every day college life? Are we too busy to take time to read poetry and so fill our minds with quietness and beauty? Then we must come to Voorhees Chapel Monday night and be transported into the Golden age; let your imaginations be steeped in loveliness with all that is beautiful in nature and in art: soft and delicate images, divinest voices and entrancing melodies—gleams of sunnier skies—Italian moonlights! rapturous love! Here we are asked to tread within the inmost sanctuary of Shakespeare's genius. Here we see the matchless personification of Divine Love.

The Athenian cast is doing a work in character presentation that borders on the professional. We all know that characters of a different age are extremely difficult for amateurs. In listening to one of the latest rehearsals I was struck with the realization tha hese characters are alive—not lifeless dolls. A famous dramatic critic once said that "the life in all of these characters is the life of youth." It seems to me that our cast has not failed in their interpreation.

Romeo and Juliet themselves are thrilling with the love o. youth and life. Betty Jane Sharp and Walter Courtenay in these title roles are accomplishing some of the most difficult pieces of work ever seen on the Maryville stage. Both have excellent interpretation of Shakespeare's loveliest characters. Betty Jane Sharp's work is exceptionally well-done. Probably her most finished piece of work is her potion scene. Sympathetic listeners can almost see "bloody Tybalt festering in his shroud." Walter Courtenay's interpretation is without a doubt exceptionally high-grade for an amateur. His pantomime work is outstanding all through the play. His best work is in his last scene. The way in which the beauty, tenderness and

"ABRAHAM LINCOLN" IS SECOND LYCEUM ATTRACTION TUESDAY

Drinkwater's Play to be Presented by cast of New York Actors

IS A TRUE HISTORY

Pathos and Humor of Lincoln Are High Notes of Play

One of the outstanding dramatic sensations of the decade will be presented on the local Lyceum course next Tuesday evening when John Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" is brought here. This great play will be presented by a splendid cast of New York actors chosen especially for their peculair ability to fit into the historical characters they portray.

In this famous play Abraham Lincoln lives again, and the epoch-making chapters of American history through which he moved are re-enacted with tremendous and touching vitality. Here is drama, stark, powerful, compelling. The story of the Great Emancipator, a story which reaches the deepest chords in the heart of the American nation, is vividly and beautifully told.

The play is arranged in six scenes. The first scene pictures Mr. Lincoln at his home in Springfield at the time he is notified that he is the chosen candidate for the Presidency. There is a scene showing him and his Cabinet at the Declaration of War; then. an incident in his home life in Washington, and a second meeting of the Cabinet at the order of the Emancipation Proclamation. There is a scene dealing with the surrender of Lee at Grant's headquarters and another portraying the final tragedy at Ford's Theatre. Each of these scenes is historically accurate, and vividly and beautifully portrayed.

The greatest writers and critics in Europe and America have lavished

Both Teams Guests of U. T. Y. M. on Tuesday Night

Last Tuesday night about thirty Maryville football men were the guests of the Tennessee Y. M. C. A. at a banquet given in their honor at the First Presbyterian church. Members of both squads were heard to say that they thought that the evening was profitable as well as very pleasant.

This banquet was arranged by the Y. M. C. A. with the hope that it would create a spirit of friendship and promote cleaner athletics between these great institutions. If the present plans materialize the University athletes will be our guests soon after the holidays.

The program of the evening was furnished by members of the Maryville squad. The following program was rendered:

Songs and guitar, Mr. Gabbard.
Toast to Tennessee, Mr. Stone.
Response, Mr Barnhill.
Chalk Talk, Mr. Crawford.
Sweet Potato Duet, Messrs Buchanan and Cotton.
Songs quartet, Messrs Bowles, Buchanan, Cotton, Courtenay.
Talk, Coach Honaker.
Master of Ceremonies, Mr. W. M. Crawford.

THE WORLD OUTSIDE

In the heart of Moscow there is a university known as "The University for the Laboring Masses of China," which holds a special interest for those of us who are interested in foreign students. Though holding as its chief purpose the implanting of the theory of Communism, it offers us a valuable lesson in democratic student government. The students are completely organized and have representatives on every commission appointed by the University authorities. Three hundred students leave it yearly to return to China, where, in spite of the Communistic slant of their education, they will likely prove of real value to their troubled country.

Russia seems to be staging a comeback as a nation. At the disarmament commission of the League of Nations, the Soviets dominated the meeting by challenging the other nations to immediate and complete disarmament as a provision against future wars. It is said that Russia is now in a better position diplomatically than she has ever been before.

Turkey also is coming back into friendly relationship with other nations. On Tuesday, the President received at the White House, for the first time since 1917, the Turkish ambassador. Mr. Coolidge welcomed him as the first representative of the Turkish republic and expressed the hope that friendly relationship between the United States and Turkey will continue.

At the meeting of the seventieth Congress this week, there were over 5000 bills presented. These pertained to such matters as taxes, prohibition, farm relief, flood control, immigration, aviations, and national defense. It stems almost incredible that one body of men can settle wisely such vital and varying questions. And yet the problems of our country have been so solved in the past, and there is no reaon to suppose that they cannot again be wisely handled.

There is no problem before the United States today which commands more interest than that of flood control. Recently, the War Department has drafted a flood control plan which has been placed in the hands of Secretary Davis. The summary its proposals has not been made public, but it is said that it will embody exhaustive reports and much engineering data assembled by the the various engineer boards. We hope that this plan will prove of real and practicable benefits to those states which are so sorely in need of flood protection.

New Men are Learning Rapidly; Can Handle Ball

The basketball squad is rapidly rounding into shape for the opening game of the season with Johnson Bible College, here December 20. The coaches are working hard on some of the new boys who look like they might be developed into hot basketball men. There are several large fellows who will probaby thrive upon a concentrated diet of heavy coaching The old fash-woman's pass, and the rowboat heave are being slowly but firmly eradicated.

Most of the new men are learning rapidly and are taking coaching well.

One of the finds of the season is Kemp Davis. He is a speedy youth; has a good eye for the basket; handles the ball well and can take coaching. A man with these qualities will bear watching. From early season indications the youthful Davis, Capt. Marion, and Bird will have a merry battle for the forward positions. Reed and Mann are competing for the center position. John Davis, DeLaney, and Harris are scrambling over the guard position. McMillan, Stribling, Hannah, Keys, Candler, Waddle, Bonds, and Scott are working hard for positions.

Here's the dope on the boys:

Lyceum Concert Of Brilliant Violinist Was Much Enjoyed

Personality and Voice of the Performer Added to Program

Thursday night an unusually attentive audience was entertained with one of the most thrilling and most extraordinary concerts ever presented to a Maryville audience. Mme Estelle Gray-Lhevinne, accompanied by Mr. James Gray, displayed wonderful skill as a violinist, showing remarkable ability in her technique as well as her interpretation astounding us with her contrasts between brilliant, dashing, passages and those light lovely ones which seemed to have in them the soul of the artist.

Madame Gray-Lhevinne played on two violins, the first was made in 1675 from an old cathedral altar by one of the old violin makers of Cremond, Italy. The other violin was made in 1715 also in Cremona. For twenty-five years it belonged to Donizetti, who played many of his melodies on it when he composed his operas. Then it belonged to Mozart. He played it before he was two years old. Madame Gray-Lhevinne played some of the same numbers on it for us which Mozart very probably played.

One of the most fascinating characteristics of the artist last night was her informal attitude toward her Manager McConnaughhay has arranged an attractive home schedule for the devotes of basketball. The opening game will be with Johnson Bible College, here, December 20, instead of December 16, as previously announced. At least one, and possibly two road trips will be booked The arrangements of the road schedule is not yet complete. Only one game will be played with University of Tennessee, due to a recnt ruling of the Southern Intercollegiate Conference, of which Tennessee is a member which prevents them from arranging games with non-conference teams away from home except when they are on road trip and have an open date. This new ruling is greatly regretted by Maryville fans.

The schedule to date is as follows:

Details of Brown Case Will Be Put Before Jury

Hiram Brown's frequent week-end trips have come to an end. Mrs. Brown has engaged counsel. Mr. Brown is in custody of the law, the jury has been picked. Everything is in readiness for the trial up in Alpha Sigma Hall, Saturday at 6:15, when Mrs. Brown will seek divorce from Hiram on the grounds of desertion. Be sure to be present at the trial to hear the most intimate details of the case.

The first midwinter of the season will be presented at Bainonian Saturday night. "Not Quite Such a Goose" is a comedy full of fun for everyone. Some dandy instrumental music is being prepared by our new program secretary who seems to be full of interesting and peppy ideas. Everybody out for the first program under our new officers.

Recently, a freshman boy (he was not a ministerial student, either, by the way) was discussing with one of his teachers the matter of signing the honor reports. "I didn't go to Sunday school or church Sunday," he remarked," and the fellows said just to sign up anyway. But somehow I, I couldn't sell my honor that cheap."

This is not a discussion of the matter of going to Sunday school and church. What you think about having to go does not matter particularly. The fack remains that this is one question of your complying with school requirements which stands entirely upon your own statement. The faculty has absolutely no way of checking up on you. So only your written word is taken as the absolute basis for judgement.

The difference between a high sense of honor and the lack of it is shown in your attitude toward just these little things which no one knows but you. If every student possessed the personal standards of honor displayed by that freshman boy, those troublesome questions of honor systems, student government, and the like, would automatically take care of themselves.

Here are a few answers to this question Because the author has a deep practical knowledge of the subject, because he had the wit to select for his hero one of the world's greatest and finest characters: because he had the audacity to select a gigantic theme, and to handle it with simplicity: because he had the courage of his artistic and moral convictions, and also because he had a genuine dramatic gift."

Every minor personage is animated with the spirit of youth, also. Old Capulet (Stirl Rule) is as hot-headed as young Tybalt (Bob Anderson) and so is old Montague (Roger Rusk). The young men of the play flash into merriment or fighting with equal joy. Benvolio's quiet nature is portrayed by Arthur Young; Mercutio's good spirits overflow with the sap of youth. It is not difficult to see Wilbur Franklin in this role. Jack Cotton, as the handsome rejected suitor, Court Paris completes the picture. The sword-fighting done by these men is one of the high points of the play. Old Friat Lawrence with his gentle sympathy for the young lovers is admirably portrayed by Hayden Laster. It is impossible to take the space for a full account of this all-star cast but we must mention Roberta Hickman as the garrulous old Nurse, and her man servant Peter, played by Walter Buchanan. They lend the needed touch of humor to the play; Betty Niles as Lady Capulet proves her dramatic worth.

Not one of us can afford to miss Romeo and Juliet with the beautiful lighting effects, marvelous staging, and real, live characters. Forget your troubles and thrill to the beauty of Shakespeare's genius.

audience. Before each number she explained what she was to play, telling an intersting bit of her life connected with some of the numbers, which aided her audience in understanding and appreciating the music.

To many of us, one of her most interesting pieces was the "Song of the Volga Boatmen." We could picture in our minds very vividly those men as they towed their boats on the Volga.

All of her numbers were beautiful; all of them having in them the soul of the artist.

The personality of Mme Gray-Lhevinne attributed much toward making the evening one of unusual charm. Her informal manner made us like her, and her ability to play was wonderful. Madam Gray-Lhevinne and her accompanist made the program half an hour longer last night because of the unusual attention the audience gave them. This was a fine offering, and we are sure that we were more than repaid for our attention.

VAGABONDING

Among the accusations frequently brought against the student group of today is that of unscholarliness. We are accused of coming to college for the increased earning power it will give us and for the higher social standing we attain thereby. Our accusers say that we are interested primarily in the degree and not in learning itself, and that independent thinking is much too strenuous for us. No doubt some of these accusations are deserved. And yet when students choose to do the sort of thing recently started in Harvard, we long to believe that there are still some adventurous, learning-lover souls among us. This particular stunt is called "vagabonding," and we pronounce it "vagabondage" of which any faculty could approve. The students who indulge look up classes in which they are not enroled, find those that meet at periods when they are free, and "sit in" on some of those in which they are interested. They sample, so to speak, various lectures for the sheer intellectual pleasure of doing so. Of all the sports developed by our modern student life, this is one of the few that can be called intellectual. And it does prove that there are students, at least in one school, whose interest goes beyond the mere earning of academic credits. The popularity of "vagabonding" should increase wherever there are students who are more than degree-chasers.

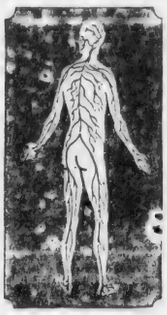
Turner, class of '18, lawyer of Chicago. Mr. Turner was editor of the Echo while he was at Maryville, he was also a football star. Richard C. Samsel, class of '07, lawyer of Chicago; John J. Myer, class of '27; Charles Veech; J. raul Barker; Beatrice Walker Pitt; Mrs. Estelle Walker Prichard and Rev. Tom Fred Campbell, class of '07, who came from Iowa to attend the meeting.



The rest of the program besides Dr. Wilson's talk consisted of: The singing of the Alma Mater; Yells led by Tom Fred Campbell, former Maryville Cheer Leader and a report by each member about himself.

Dr. Wilson rtports having a delightful meeting, and everyone must have enjoyed it for it lasted from about 6:30 until 10.

"ANNIE LAURIE" A HUGE AND COMPELLING DRAMA

The Prince of Wales, heir to England's throne, has contributed to the making of an American motion picture.

This is one of the odd facts in connection with Lillian Gish's new starring vehicle, "Annie Laurie," a spectacular romance of the Scottish Highlands, based on history, and coming to the Palace Theater Monday and Tuesday. For the herd of Scotch cattle, a strange hybrid variety of animal heretofore seen nowhere else save in Scotland, took part in the picture solely because the Prince imported a herd to his ranch in Canada and started raising them there.

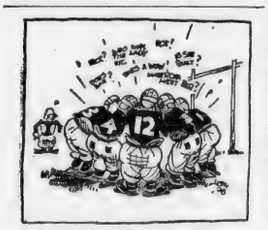
Bainonian Mid-Winter Is A Rollicking Comedy

NELLE WATKINS TAKES ROLE AS THE SPARKLING "PATSY."

Play Has Scored Tremendous Success in New York and Chicago.

SENIOR RULES FOR "GET YOUR MAN" ARE EXPOUNDED; WHAT ARE THEY?



"The Patsy," one of the most charming plays ever presented to a Maryville audience will be given Monday night by Bainonian. It is a comedy full of sparkling fun and humor which keeps the audience spell-bound from the rise of the of the curtain to the last words.

Patsy Harrington, the heroine of the play, derives her name from the fact that she is the drudge or "Patsy" of the family and makes her appeal by her ready wit and humor. We know of no one that could more ably portray this character than Nelle Watkins. Nelle is "just that type."

Jesse Pierce takes the part of Mr. Harrington, the only member of the family who can understand the fun-loving Patsy. Mrs. Harrington, the weeping mother, played by Alice Gillingham is extremely partial to the sophisticated older daughter, Frances—Lillian Robinson.

Ed Driscoll, playing the part of Tony Anderson, thinks he is in love with Francis and turns to Patsy for comfort when Francis refuses him for Billie Caldwell (Leland McDonald). Tony does not know that Patsy is madly in love with him and he teaches her the seven ways to

CHRISTMAS CANTATA TO BE GIVEN BY CHOIR

"The Manger and the Star" Begins at 7:00 in the Chapel Sunday Night

On Sunday evening, December eighteenth, the Vesper choir will present a Christmas Cantata, "The Manger and the Star," by Stults. This will take the place of the regular Vespers service. Everyone enjoys music given by the choir throughout the year, and all the music lovers on the hill are looking forward to Sunday evening's program. The Cantata will be in two parts, and Dr. Stevenson will give a short talk between the parts. Numbers by a mixed chorus, a mixed quartet, and a men's chorus will be included, as well as a number of solos and duets. Lucy Horton is directing the Cantata Everyone who appreciates the work of the choir and of the music department which should include all on the hill, will want to be at the chapel at 7:00 P. M. Sunday evening for one of the big musical events of the year.

FENCING WILL PROBALY BE ADDED TO ATHLETIC PROGRAM

One more form of athletic activity is to be added to the college curriculum, if enough students desire it. The new activity is fencing. Coach Honaker has given his approval to this new program and promises to make it free and non-compulsory.

Jack Coughlin has offered to coach the fencing classes. He coached the fencers who displayed their skill in the performance of "Romeo and Juliet."

Fencing is offered in the curricula of most of the big eastern colleges and universities. Several women's institutions include it in their courses. These institutions believe that fencing is unexcelled in developing grace and skill of eye and hand.

Men and women of Maryville should be interested in this sport. It is as ancient as weapons, but has been recently revived as a part of modern athletics. If fencing is begun here next semester, Maryville will be the first college in this section of the country to take it up.

Foils, the only necessary equipment of the sport, will be provided by the college as soon as the number of students desirous of taking fenc-

RECORD OF GAMES SHOWS SPORTMANSHIP AND HARD PLAYING

The cleated shoes have been put away; the moleskin pants are out of style; the wool shirts with large numbers on the backs are no longer worn; a collegiate cap or hat has become more stylish than leather headgear. Sprained ankles, bruised shoulders, broken ribs, torn ligaments, are a thing of the past and all because King Football has mrached on and with him went the hard labors and many bruises that are only a part of football.

When the football call was made by Coach Honaker Sept. 1, there was much speculation as to the type of a team Maryville would have on the gridiron. Some of Maryville's most ardent supporters were not very enthusiastic about the outcome with

MEN'S SWIMMING SQUAD HAS BEEN CHOSEN FOR THE YEAR

The swinmming instructor, Jack Coughlin, reports a "swimming time" in aquatic circles. The swimming squad of men to represent the college has been chosen. Schedules for meets with nearby colleges are in the making, and the girls are showing improvement in their classes.

Those who made the squad are: Paul King, George Fiegel, Walter Buchanan, Ed Sprouse, Porter French, Ed Buchanan, "Red" Watkins, and Gene Dunn. Dunn is a good diver and King is the fastest man on the squad. These men may be expected to give some exciting races and stunts in the water.

Schedules with Carson-Newman, Tusculum, and other nearby colleges are in the making.

Of the 366 girls taking the swimming course, only 69 were able to swim before they enrolled. At present 50 can swim twice the length of the pool and 126 can swim half that distance.

It is hoped that needed improvements will be begun soon on the pool. The swimming pool should be an important part of college athletics, and such improvements will help materially in putting it in its rightful place.

FIFTY-SECOND SERIES OF MEETINGS START FEB. 7

The Fifty-Second Series Meetings will be held on February 7 to 17, 1928. The leader will be Rev. Waldo Loyd, cass of 1915, and now pastor of the Edgewood, Pittsburgh, Pa., Presbyterian Church. This statement will be hailed with approval and delight by hosts of friends of Mr Lloyd and of the February Meetings.

Mr. Lloyd himself began his definite Christian life and service in the February Meetings, and has always cherished pleasant "memories of the earnestness, common sense, and devotion to Christ which have always pervaded these weeks in February." Now, thirteen years after his graduation, he deems it a privilege to take part in these meetings as their leader.

Ralph Lloyd was an enthusiastic student, and took his part successfully in many college activities; indeed, no student did so more creditably than di he. He was an honor student in his scholarship during the two preparatory years and the four college years that he spent on the hill. He was of Cum Laude rank. While he participated in almost every form of student activity, he preserved throughout his entire course a high standing in his classes. He was laboratory assistant for one year in Physics and for two years in Physioligy.

He was a leader in college athle-

Christmas Play Will be Given In Chapel Sunday Afternoon

A dramatization of Henry Van Dyke's story "The Other Wise Man", will be presented in Voorhees Chayel Sunday afternoon at four as the annual Christmas play sponsored by the Christian Association. For several years it has been the custom of the Y. M. C. A., and the Y. W. C A to present a play during the pre-holiday season. This year the committee at work on the play has selected Henry Van Dyke's widely known story and Sarah Moore has arranged it very successfully for portrayal on the stage.

The cast includes Walter Courtenay as the Other Wise Man, and Wilbur Franklin, Alan Grindstead, and Lamar Milling as the "Three Kings of the Orient." The scenes of the play will be interspersed with Christmas music, well known carols and also songs which are not so familiar.

Already the Christmas spirit is felt on the campus, and the play, "The Other Wise Man," promises to be a part of the pre-holiday activities which no one can afford to miss.

ORANGE AND GARNET WARRIORS LEAVE BEHIND THEM A SPLENDID RECORD FOR SEASON OF 1927

The first few weeks of practice passed rapidly and hardly before it was realized the boys were on their way to the "Dark and Bloody Ground" of Kentucky with the plaudits of their school mates ringing in their ears. The boys left Maryville feeling that they were going to give a good account of themselves against the University of Kentucky. And after the game was over the score showed that their lead for Maryville had held the mighty Kentuckian to a 6-6 tie. And up in Kentucky to this day the name of Horace Clemens is spoken in a soft tone for it was Clemens who dashed around Kentucky's end, with John Davis running perfect interference, and raced twenty yards for a touchdown that tied the score and left Kentucky dumfounded.

But the glory of the Kentucky victory was short lived for, either from over confidence or some unknown cause, on the following Saturday Maryville met defeat at the hands of Tennessee Wesleyan. Tennessee Wesleyan had everything to gain and nothing to lose and when the game was over they apparently hadn't lost anything for they had handed Maryville a 13-0 drubbing, due to the playing of the brilliant Walden, Thomas, and McCray.

The sting of defeat did not linger long but was soon forgotten and all eyes turned toward the next game, the annual game with Tennessee. A 6-0 defeat at the hands of the Tennessee Volunteers was fresh in the memory of all who had witnessed the thrilling game of last year. Much was said concerning the game but actions speak louder than words and the Tennessee people are proud that they managed to win by 7-0 for they saw one of the best lines in the South in action on that day, a line that stood off the mighty Tennessee backfield men. Capt. Stone rose to almost unsurmountable heights on that occassion when he broke through the Tennessee line, time and again, to throw the ball carriers for losses. The men played their best and gave all they had for the school they owed much to and to the school that had meant so much to them.

After the Tennessee game only one pair of shoes trod behind the Maryville goal line and that one touchdown was made by Lenoir-Rhyne college. But in the mean time Maryville was scoring many points. In the annual game with Tusculum the Highlanders emerged victorious by 19-0 score. Blue field was smothered under a top-heavy 73-0 score on the following Saturday. Then the ancient rival King College, was met at Bristol. In years gone by King reigned supreme over Maryville in football but such was not true this year for they went down with a 33-0 defeat ringing in their ears. Lenoir-Rhyne managed to hold the Maryville boys to forty-five points while they trod behind the last white line for six points and a touchdown. Cumberland University came with an all-star team but they showed a similar fate to those who had preceded and when the armistice was signed that eventful afternoon one of the articles read "Maryville 18 Cumberland 0."

The champaign had almost drawn to a close. Only one more game remained on the schedule and that one was with Carson-Newman College, a rival of Maryville's for many years. Maryville was doped to win by two touchdowns but when the last shouts had died down at Caswell Park Carson-Newman trudged homeward bearing with them a 26-0 defeat. Horace Clemens could not be stopped that day and as it was this same lad who crossed Kentucky's line for the first touchdown of the season, so it was the same fellow who closed Maryville's season with the last touchdown. Closely akin to the playing of Clemens was the playing of George Crawford. George was playing his last game for his Alma Mater and no one took more punishment than he for he was called upon to carry the ball often. But it was with much regret that the Maryville fans turned their faces homeward for they had watched Capt. Stone, G. Crawford, M. Dunn, Gann, Brock, and Sneed perform on the gridiron for the last time.

In brief, the season was a success. Maryville had a good team. Fond reteam that tied Tennessee in 1923 membrance of the season's games will linger long. Maryville had a great team and deserved to win. Head Coach Honaker said "There is no doubt but that we had the greatest team we have ever had. Not as flashy in places as in other years but more consistene as a team, both on the offensive and on the defensive."

Line Coach Thrower, in speaking of the line, and it must be remembered that Coach Bob played in the line for four years and was on the team that tied Tennessee in 1923 said, "The line this year was as good as any line we have had since 1921."

Assiseant backfield coach McCall who was one of the fastest backs Maryvile ever produced, said: "Maryville had the best running offense this year that she ever had. All of the men were fast and good ground gainers."

Senior Heroes Of The Field

GEORGE CRAWFORD

"Corky" found himself about the third game of the season, and certainly did impress the opposition and others with his "Grangelike" exhibitions. Any time that an extra yard was necessary, there was this youth, ready to plunge or to run capable interference. We will miss this artistic warrior, for beyond that he is a "gentleman and a scholar, and—". His smile, and soft greeting will long re-echo over the cedared hilltop.

MAYNARD DUNN

The Nick Altrock of Maryville played consistent ball thruout the season, despite an injured shoulder. The fans will long remember his scrappy game against Tennessee. Not only did he perform unusually well, but he proved an invaluable asset to the team from a psychological side. Given ten minutes with the team, they forget their troubles entirely, and lost the self-consciousness which becomes at times an ennui. A capable comedian he is, and being highly successful in that line we predict the same in whatever he may do.

TOM GANN

worthy of the coveted "M." Handicapped by painful injuries he still excelled in the fighting game that the Highlanders have long been noted for. When a man is willing to pay the price of injury after injury for the glory of the school and the game let it be known tha praise is in order. So be it. Tom!

PETE SNEED

"Pete" Sneed, the Whispering Baritone, has cavorted long upon the Maryville turf, and his cleats has combed practically every square inch of the east of Bartlett Hall, as has his spikes, for he is a mighty lord of the diamond as well. When a quarterback was a crying need almost "out of the stillness" came our diminuitive ball toter. Another laurel wreathe, Gustav! Here's to you Pete.

JAMES BROCK

Jim proved to be a very versatile grid man this year, as we predicted. While the student body were bewailing the absence of varsity end material due to injuries, this husky lad was awaiting his debut with anticipation. He not only filled the position acceptably when called upon, but played the position is a stellar fashion. Always plowing thru the interference of his opponents, and proving surprisingly fast in going down on punts. He is also a track man of note, doing the winged "M" full justice in the half mile, and the distances.

CAPTAIN JOHN STONE

Four years a letter man, Captain the acme of every gridder's ambitions. the acme of every gridders ambitions. This summarizes in mere words a few of the accomplishments of our respected leader. With a clear vision he has directed the workings of the Varsity "M" and may be trusted as a capable general. "Stein" has excelled as well on the diamond, and from present indications will go far in the realm of the ashen cudgel. As a javelin hurler, he won his laurels on the track squad. He has made an indelible imprints upon Maryville, so let it be said of him: "There, is a man."

Reserves Take Many Hard Knocks

Never Mind, He'll Grow Up And Be a Man, if He's Good

All of you have heard that old saying "a varsity team is no better than its reserves." This year Maryville had a good team and there were several hard working reserves that did a lot in making that team. A man who goes out for football every day and practices as hard as any varsity player for one or more years is called a "Scrub," or more properly, "reserve." It often happens that a good player gets hurt during the first few weeks of traning and he is unable to scrimmage hard for a long time and he is therefore called a scrub.

A reserve is used for many different occasions.

Some days the team is not going so good and the Coaches in finding out the trouble see some Reserve that is not doing his full duty. This man is immediately told how punk he is and corrected if he doesn't do what he is supposed to do. The next few plays he is given five or more laps around the track to warm up his brain.

After some rather easy game that the men didn't tackle as good as the Coach thought they should he gives them a little practice on the Reserves. The varsiy line is lined up in a V-Shape and the Reserves are told to run through them if they can. This kind of practice gives the Reserves a hard life.

Probably the most important use of a Reserve is to use him in scrimmage. A Reserve must always be ready to scrimmage as soon as the Coach calls for him no matter how cold he is or how long he has been standing on the side line.

The Reserves had a good season although they didn't play but two games. During these two games they weren't scored on. For the last four years the Bulldog goal line hasn't been crossed. During these four years they have had games with the best teams in his section of Tennessee. This year they played Walland High School at Walland and

Backfield of this Year Will Be Present Except for "Corky"

Such gridiron heroes as Stone, Sneed, Crawford, Gann, Brock and Dunn are not to be forgotten in years to come but they have played their last for Maryville and Maryville's destinies in the future must rest upon oher shoulders than upon the shoulders of those who have gone before. Tradition will not win foot ball games.

The question is asked, What will Maryville have next year in the way of a foot ball team?" and the answer rolls back in thunderous tones "as good a team as she ever had." In the back field will be the same men who played this year except G. Crawford. There will be J. Davis and DeLaney for the quarterback position, Clemens, B. Crawford, Williams for the halfback position, and Bird and Morrison at fullback. With these letter men as a nucleus for the back field along with other men like Bonds, Jarvis, Scott and others fighting for a regular position Maryville should have the best backfield next year that she has ever had. In the line some good men have been groomed to take the places of those lost by graduation. The end positions will be taken care of by the three letter men Hunt, Taylor and Harris. At tackles three regulars, Hope, Proffitt and Young will return for another year on the gridiron and will have strong opposition in Whitehead and Rogers, two reserves of this year's team. G. Dunn will be the only guard who will be back next year but some good men are available for the other position. Storey, Biggs, Burrel, and Morton will be fighting for a regular berth. The center position will be taken care of by McDonald who was the find of the past season.

So, football fan, look to the future wih much optimism for it holds much in store for you. Maryville will have a team next year that will make you proud that you are a follower of the "Orange and Garnet."

Reserves Takes Many Hard Knocks

Everett High school on their field.

The Reserves beat Walland 6-0 in a hard fought game. This was the first game of the season and the Reserves hadn't had much practice together. Jarvis and Goddard were the stars of this game. Jarvis made a sensational play when he ran through the Walland team for forty yards for the lone touch-down of the game. Goddard ran the team in perfect order, which was really the reason why the Reserves were victorious. The Walland High school claims the high school championship of Blount county.

The last game of the season was played with Everett High school. In this game several of the Reserves were trying to show the coach something. Taggart was the star of this game, he made both of the touchdowns on long end runs. Besides the two long runs he made consistant short gains. "Red" Johnson was the star in the line. The High school players were unable to keep him from making tackles behind their line. John McConnaughty made several good gains thru the line. The reserves won by the count of 13-0.

There are several good players on the Reserve team this year and they will give some varsity men a fight for a place on the team next year. Here's hoping that every Reserve has a good year next season.

WE GIVE YOU THE HIGHLANDERS

It is with pleasure that we give this edition of the Echo to the football team of 1927. We are proud to know them, to belong to the College which they have represented so well. They are brainy and gritty players. Some of them will not again play for the Orange and Garnet, others have only begun their football career. They have played the game, they have stood the gaff, and they deserve our praise and loyalty.

Here's to the Highlanders!

MERRY CHRISTMAS

If you are one of the fortunate ones who spend Christmas at home with the family, Merry Christmas! If you stay on the hill, and you'll be surprised at how merry it really will be here, then Merry Christmas! If it rains, if it blows, if it sleets, if it snows, still Merry Christmas! And if the sun shines, then very Merry Christmas.

May the presents that you get be the ones that you want; but, best of all, may you value rightly the love and kindly thoughtfulness that prompted the gifts. May you yourself live in your giving, making your gifts an expression of your affection.

May your vacation days be joyous and free, unhaunted by memories of unfinished school work. May your pleasures be wholesome, your eating moderate, and your sleeping profound.

May we all understand anew that the spirit of Christmas is the spirit of unselfish devotion to he happiness of ohers.

A joyous, happy Christmas.

HATS OFF TO OUR COACHES

All of us are proud of our foot ball team this year—and we have good reasen to be proud of it. It has certainly well represented our Alma Mater during the season that has just passed. It takes more than a bunch of men to make a football team, however, a team without a coach could not be a team and the quality of a team's playing depends largely on the coach.

A good coach must know the game and to know the game he should have played the game for some time. He must be a man whom the players respect, admire and believe in. He must be rather hard-boiled, at times, in order to remind everyone of his position.

Coach Honaker has all of these attributes and more. Maryville College is indeed fortunate in having so good a coach. He is one of the few southern college coaches that we know in the North. He has succeeded in putting out a good football team every year since he came to us in 1921. He came with considerable coaching and playing experience and has been putting out winning teams ever since his arrival. His formula seems to be "work, learn the fundamentals, then-work some more." Ask any squad man who has attended his football or coaching lectures if you wish to know about his general football knowledge.

Bob Thrower, alias Prof. Thrower, is our first assistant coach, whose specialty is running linemen through their tricks and wallowing the bulldogs. Bob graduated here in 1925 after having gained himself the renutation of being one of Maryville's best linemen. He is good when it comes to making one of those famous "hot lines."

"Shorty" McCall, our other assistant coach this year has been greatly missed on the team by all those who saw him play last year and years before. He is scheduled to graduate this year, but his football time expired last year. It is not often that one sees so good a player as Shorty. His coaching this year has helped a lot in developing our backfield.

FORMER MARYVILLE ALUMNUS DIES IN IDAHO

Rev. David L. Clemens, aged 71 years, formerly of Blount county, died at his h me in Caldwell, Idaho, Wednesday. He was graduated from Maryville College in 1885. He had been pastor of the Caldwell church for many years, holding that office when he died. He is survived by his widow and nine children, also two sisters, Misses Alice and Ella Clemens of Maryville.

FRESHMAN SEES JAPANESE EARTHQUAKE

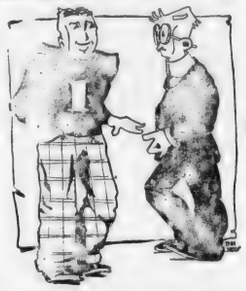
Those of us who heard Dr.Hereford last Sunday morning were much amused to hear of his experiences in the Japanese earthquake of September 1, 1923. We shuddered to hear his account of the awful fact of over thirty-three thousand people in Tokyo, who after taking refuge in an open park in the center of the city were all burned to death by the fires which closed in on them from all sides after the earthquake. Hearing about this catastrophe from one who has seen the place makes Japan seem unusually close to us.

In case some of us might still think of Japan as being practically infinitely remote we should know this: One of our freshmen was in Japan at the time of this earthquake and experienced a few thrills every bit as exciting as those Dr. Hereford spoke about. This freshman is Edwin Buchanan. or, Little Buck, the Lesser. (No, he isn't a Japanese, girls—his parents are missionaries.)

At the time of the quake, Buck was at Ninooka, a small summer resort at the foot of Mount Fuji. This is the same place at which Dr. Hereford had his quaking expesiences.

Buck had just set out to deliver a package to a neighbor's home. At one minute before twelve he was walking along a gravel road, about two blocks from his summer home. Then come the first quake. He and his walking partner, a Russian, were immediately forced to substitute sitting or crawling for walking. Even then there was a decided lack of stability in everything. About eight feet in front of the two earth-tossed victims a large crack opened in the road, plenty large enough for a human body to fall into. In fact this was one cause for anxiety since motion along the shaking ground was guided more by chance than by individual volition.

The first quake stopped after a few minutes. When the next one came, Buck had gained the shelter of a forest. Forests are pretty safe places in an earthquake, and the ground is softer to roll on than a gravel road. The second shock was as bad as the first and continued the work the first had begun.



Houses were put out of condition, so temporary shelters had to be erected. That night Buck slept with fourteen others in a twelve foot square space. Because of the continued small shocks which still shook the ground and because of the close proximity of Russian feet, Buck slept very little that night.

To make matters worse, Buck knew that his parents were due to arrive in Tokyo (seventy miles to the north) that day at about the time that the earthquake took place. Rumors of dreadful destruction which came in the next few days gave him ample cause for worry. It happened, however, that his parents were safe, but Buck heard nothing from them for seventeen days.

Richard Rowden, of Columbia University, claims to have the most novel way of earning one's way through college. Rowden is the official worm supplier of the zoology department, and sells the students angle worms at 20 cents a dozen.

PALACE
WHERE THE PEOPLE GO

PRAISE TO WHOM -- PRAISE BELONGS

Interior decorating should be added to the curriculum at Maryville. Why, you ask? It stands to reason that when a body of lay students can make a barren football field look like the Mardi Gras in full session, that something more should be done than mere comment. Well, such as this is as compensation, we freely donate to those worthy persons who from time to time dressed our gridiron in gala colors, and then like Arabs turned down their cuffs and quietly stole away. One of the visiting palyers commented upon the manner in which the field had been festooned, and said "No wonder that Maryville has such a team, with such a student body behind it as this." The Maryville men themselves have been grateful for the appreciation shown them in such befitting guise, and may be placed on record as stating as much. Well, the custom has been inaugurated and with the momentum that it now has should become a time-honored affair at our college. Let's "Hats Off" to those to whom laud is due. Well done, mates, well done.

Also, hats off to those individuals who conceived the notion of putting on stunts between halves to relieve the tedium of waiting. The wild west melo drama, the freshmen races, the soccer games still bring a smile. And no one can forget the exhibition of the game as it will be played in 1937. We hope to pass out of this vale of tears before that time if football comes to such a pass. Credit should be given to the inventive but pessimistic prophet who started it.

Who has been responsible for all these diversions and amusements that have added so much interest to the game? The Pep Committee stands accused. Then three cheers for the committee, long may it pep! Its members have labored long and hard and we wish to thank them all—Ed Driscoll, Nelle Watkins, Frances Easley, Elizabeth King, John Taggart, Maynard Layman, and Billy Rodgers.

A word for the cheer leaders— the most vociferous members of the committee. Ed had a pretty hard time watching three important things, the game, the gab, and the—(excuse us.) Paul Everett, inadequatetly dubbed "Apollo," but adequately "the monkey" has quite a gift of gab. As one would say, he can jolly well talk. He's a jolly good cheer leader. Now about Jesse—he's that earnest guy out front who's always begging some body to please tune up "Alma Mater" Certain renditions grate on his ear—also on ours. Occasionally Jimmie Cox bounces in front of the bleachers and leads some rousing good yells. and Bob Davis is coming on—he's got the voice. If yelling could win some games these cheer leaders would certainly carry the ball for Maryville.

A BIG HOW-WE-HOW FOR THAT TEAM THEY SURE DID DO THEIR STUFF THIS YEAR AND WE ARE VERY PROUD OF THEM

But now our thoughts turn to Christmas, which is only 17 shopping days away. And our store is filled with gifts that are sure to please

He was a member of our debating teams; he held the presidency and secretaryship in his literary society, he was an officer in the Y. M. C. A.; he was president of his class, business manager of The Chilhowean, manager of the Lyceum, and manager of one or more of the athletic teams; indeed, he was one of the most useful and energetic of the students. His nickname was "Rabbi."

After graduating at Maryville he was a professor in Westminister College, Salt Lake City, for two years. During this time he also served as coach of the athletic and debating teams. He served in the national army during the World War, being a First Lieutenant of Field Artillery when the war ended. After the war he assisted the president of Westminister College for one year in a financial campaign conducted in the East; and then he was in business with the Fulton Company in Knoxville, Tennessee, for two years.

In 1921 he entered McCormick Theological Seminary to prepare for the gospel ministry. This fellowship provides a year's study in some foreign institution approved by the faculty. Murphyboro Presybterian church in Illinois, which church he served from 1924 to 1926. He was at Murphysboro when the town was destroyed by the tornado of 1925. He gave a very interesting account of that disaster when he spoke at our college chapel not long after it occured. In the summer of 1926 he accepted a call to become pastor of the Edgewood Presbyterian church, located in a suburb of Pittsburgh.

Mr. Lloyd is in the prime of life, being only thirty-five years of age.

Mr. Lloyd's parents were East Tennesseans, with their old home at Friendsville in Blount County. His father Dr. H. B. Lloyd, was for many years a surgeon among the Indians in Utah, with headquarters at Fort Duchesne and Whiterocks. All five of the Lloyd children, Ralph Carl, Glen, Evangeline, and Hal, were students in Maryville College Ralph and Glen graduating here, in 1915 and 1918, respectively. Hal died at college in his Freshman year.

such luminaries as McCall, Cartwright Holland, J. Crawford, and Harvey who passed on into history as those who had done their best for Maryville. Some of the admirers, however, were more optimistic and predicted a great season for Maryville. While the game was being played in the drug stores and on the street corners Head Coach Honaker, Line Coach Thrower, and Assistant Backfield Coach McCall were driving their charges at a furious pace. The gait was too fast for many and they fell by the wayside as those who had run and failed. Out of a squad of more than fifty men about thirty-five survived the gruelling to which they were subjected.

Now we will take "time out" to discuss the matter of Freshman Caps!

"Shorty" McCall should offer his abilities to the match factories, for he sure did perform on those switches in the intense moments of the game.

We are still chuckling about that freshman that always ran past the ticket chaser. Don't blush Clouser.

"Who is that handsome chap with his back toward us?" asked a visiting femme. "Oh, that's Maynard Dunn, wait till he turns his face this way."

"Oh, no, that isn't he sub quarter, it's merely "Brute" Crow going after more water."

"One-two-chee," and the Bluefield game begun. (Track meet, pardon me.)

BRITISH AND AMERICANS AT WAR AGAIN IN PLAY

Alpha Sigma Mid-Winter Shows Entertaining Situation

PLAY IS A GOOD COMEDY

Cast of "So This Is London" Is Working Hard

In the play "So This Is London," presented by the Alpha Sigma Literary Society on January 16, the audience is introduced to an American family, the Draper's visiting England, and an English family, who in the course of the play are thrown together by the boy of the former and the girl of the latter family, who have fallen in love. The complications resulting from the "English" behavior of Sir Percy and Lady Beauchamp towards the unspeakable plebian Americans, and the "American" behavior of the Draper's towards the hightoned English aristocracy is almost too much for Lady Duckworth who, understanding and loving both America and English, finally succeeds to bring the two families together in peace. Junior and Elinor, of course, profit from the understanding and "live happily ever after."

This play, a comedy written by Arthur Goodrich, makes exacting demands on the cast because of the variety of types of characters; but the excellent cast under the supervision of Mrs. West, is overcoming all difficulties, and the play promises to be one of the events of the year not only as an entertainment but also as a production of dramatic art. This is guaranteed by the fact that several of the actors are graduates of the expression department and that most of the actors have had previous stage experience.

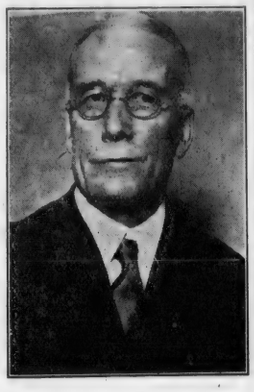
Rev. Stringham Will Be February Song Leader

Accepts Invitation to Return to Maryville for Meetings

The College has been very fortunate in the character and the efficiency of the men who have delivered the addresses and led the song-services of the February Meetings. While we are rejoicing over the good providence that has secured the services of Rev. Ralph W. Lloyd as the preacher during the coming meettings we have another mighty reason for rejoicing in the fact that our friend, Rev. Sidney E. Stringham, who has led our singing for the last five successive February campaigns, has accepted the invitation to lead also the singing of the sixth successive series of meetings. We are greatly indebted to the Auburn Methodist Episcopal Church of Auburn, Illinois, not which church he is the honored pastor, for their fraternal spirit in giving Mr. Stringham leave of absence during the two weeks of February in which the meetings are held.

Mr. Stringham is a remarkably kindly and tactful man, and he has won all hearts in every one of the series of meetings. He is a great singer and a great leader and a rare personal worker.

That he is a successful pastor may be inferred from the fact that he has received over one hundred persons into the fellowship of the church during the past twelve months.



Mr. Stringham's letter of acceptance is as follows:

My dear Dr. Wilson:

Your letter of October 29 is before me. Your very kind invitation to assist in the February meetings was brought before my official board today, and a unanimous vote taken to grant to me a leave of absence for this engagement. I cannot tell you how greatly I prize the privilege of again directing the music in another campaign with you, and for the associations with your

Dr. Robert E. Speer

DR. SPEER WILL SPEAK HERE SATURDAY MORNING

Is Secretary of Presbyterian Mission Board.

A LEADING CHRISTIAN STATESMAN

Usual Chapel Hour is Changed to 9:40

Dr. Robert Elliott Speer, Moderator of the Presbyterian General Assembly and Secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, will deliver an address at Voorhees Chapel on Saturday morning at 9:40 o'clock.

Dr. Speer is one of the world's leading religious statesmen. He has personally visited many mission lands and has been affiliated with international and interdenominational Christian movements. He has been President of the Federal Council of Churches. He is the author of many books concerning religion.

For thirty-seven years Dr. Speer has been an active worker in the service of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions. He received the degree of Doctor of Divinity from the University of Edinburgh, and the degree of L.L. D. from Rutgers.

Dr. Speer speaks from experience and enthusiasm in his work. He is a powerful and interesting speaker. Maryville is fortunate to have the chance of hearing him.

The usual chapel time has been set aside, and it is hoped that many town people will avail themselves of this opportunity. The program of recitations for Saturday morning follows:

1st hour recitation, 8:10-855.
2nd hour recitation, 8:55,9:40.
Address by Dr. Speer at Chapel 9:40-10:40.
3rd ohur recitation, 10:40-11:25.
4th hour recitation, 11:25-12:10.

The afternoon classes will meet as usual.

GIRLS WILL COMPETE FOR BATES PRIZE THIS YEAR

Subjects are Announced. It Is Hoped that Many Will Enter Contest

The subjects for the William H. Bates Oratorical Contest have been announced. The contest this year is for junior and senior girls. It is hoped that a number of girls will compete. This contest is looked forward to each year as worth while orations are always delivered. Last year the junior and senior men competed, William Rogers securing the prize.

The list of subjects announced should make this year's contest highly interesting. The subjects are:

Contemporary Heroisms
The Breakdown of Justice
China Tomorrow
What is Patriotism?
The Victories of Peace
The Decreasing Emphasis on the Cultural in Higher Education.

BUSINESS MEN TENDER BANQUET TO HIGHLANDERS

DAVIS IS ANNOUNCED CAPTAIN

Tokens Are Given to the Senior Letter Men

On Monday evening, Dec. 19, 1927 the business men of Maryville tendered a banquet to the football squad, at Reagan's Cafe. Eighty-five men were present, including the business men and the senior members of the local High School squads.

After a bountiful dinner a few brief remarks were made by Dr. Wilson, Judge Gamble, and Coach Honaker. D. W. Proffitt served as toast master. Gold footballs were presented to the five senior letter-men of the football team: Captain John Stone, Maynard Dunn, "Corky" Crawford, Thomas Gann, and James Brock.

At the conclusion of the program the vote of the lettermen was announced and it was found that John Davis was elected captain of next year's team. Captain-Elect Davis thanked the members of the team for the honor they had bestowed on him and pledged to give his best efforts in helping produce another crack football team.

The football squad of 1927 thank the business men of Maryville for the banquet and those who have partaken of the last one will always remember the fellowship and support that the town men have always tendered to the fellows. The men returning for next season promise their best work for Maryville College, and those who love her.

MARYVILLE CAGESTERS ARE EAGER TO TRAVEL

Will Carry Fame of Alma Mater in East Tennessee and Virginia

NEXT HOME GAME JAN. 17.

Birmingham Southern, Here Jan. 19 to be Stellar Attraction

The Maryville College Highlanders are not to be content with home games during the current basketball season but are anxious to travel and see part of the world, at least a greater portion of East Tennessee and South Western Virginia. Besides two tripes to Knoxville, the Highlanders will make one trip to Chattanooga and the next trip will be to the extreme Eastern part of the state, to Bristol and across the Tennessee-Virginia line to encounter the Emory and Henry College Cagesters.

Birmingham Southern, who won from the Highlanders last year, will play here Jan. 19. This game should be the stellar attraction of the season. Ranking next in importance on the home schedule will be the two game series with Howard College, Feb. 17, 18.

The schedule for the remainder of the season with two open dates is as follow.

Jan. 10—University of Chattanooga, There.
Jan. 11—Tennessee Wesleyan, There.
Jan. 14—University of Tennesee, There.
Jan. 17—Knoxville Y. M. C. A. Here.

Captain John Davis

John Davis Will Pilot Highlanders

Captain-Elect Popular Among Team Mates and Students

IS A 3 YEAR LETTER MAN

An Interesting Program of Games for Next Year is Promised

Upon the broad shoulders of John Davis rests the captaincy of Maryville College's gridiron machine for the year 1928. The announcement of Davis' election was made by Coach Honaker at the annual banquet held recently.

Davis will assume the position held by John Stone during the past year and will have the backing of every member of the team for his football ability is well known.. This year was his third on the gridiron since entering Maryville college. During the three years he has played at two positions, quarterback and halfback. He played quarterback during the season just closed and his choice of plays was commended on all sides.

Before entering Maryville college Davis was a star on the Maryville High school team. He also played basketball and baseball in High school and continues to pursue these sports in college, having earned letters in each sport.

Davis is popular with the student body and his choice meets the unanimous approval of his fellow townsmen. With his team mates behind him and with the loyal support of the student body and the town folk Davis should lead the Highlanders to many victories on the gridiron next Fall.

ALUMNI GAME WAS ONE REAL THRILLER

Captains of Former Years Returned and Administered a One Point Defeat to Youngsters

With an easy 57-6 victory over Johnson Bible College in the opening game of the season the Highlanders were away to a flying start for their part of the basket ball laurels for 1927-1928. But the crowned head is not always at ease and the way is sometimes rough for one who is crowned and yet cannot protect his crown. An old adage says: "One may be down but never out." another familiar saying is "You can't keep a good man down." With these sayings in mind the Alumni of Maryville College returned to their native haunts Dec. 20, and administered a one-point defeat to the Youthful Highlanders, the final score being 26-25.

Recent history does not offer any record of an alumni victory over the Maryville College varsity. Neither does the record show such an array of stars as composed the alumni team as having been assembled here to-fore. In the past about one day's practice was sufficient for the players of other days but this year they began arriving in town many days before the date of the game. They went into secret practice at the

3,500 VOLUNTEERS GATHER AT DETROIT

Maryville's Representatives Bring Back Inspiring Reports Of Convention

MISSION EDUCATION IS THEME

Conferences and Notable Speakers Make up Interesting Program

(By Ernest Frei)

To give a detailed report of the Tenth Quadrennial Student Volunteer Convention, held in Detroit from Dec. 28 to Jan. 1, is impossible in the space allowed for this article. Details must be taken care of by the delegates who will make reports in a joint Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. meeting next Sunday afternoon, and in meetings of the Student Volunteer group and Ministerial Association later on. This report must suffice as a mere summary.

The convention was attended by some 3500 students, faculty member, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. secretaries, board secretaries, church representatives, etc. The purpose of the convention was not that of recruiting new volunteers but of intense missionary education. The addresses of the speakers, such as Dr. Henry T. Hodgkin, Dr. Roy H. Akagai, Dr. John R. Mott, Mr. Max Yergan, Dr. Richard Roberts, Dr. John A. Mackay Dr. Robert E. Speer, and a host of others, centered around the following themes: "An Appraisal of Christian Missions, Their Weakness and Strength." "Some Personal Experiences in Making Christ Known." "Life's Ultimate Needs, Reality, and Jesus Christ." "Missionaries from Non-Christian America." "Then and Now—The Abiding and Changing Aspects of the Misionary Movement." "Foreign Missions and the Future." "What Remains to Be Done in Making Christ Known." "Making Christ Known a Mutual Responsibility."

Freshman Attention! Here's Your Chance!

Rules for Contest for Echo Apprentices Announced

Wanted: Freshmen who can write —who know where to stick a comma, where to begin, and where to end a composition. Under the newly adopted scheme for the conduct of the Highland Echo, ten freshmen are to be chosen and attached to the present staff with the rank of apprentices. All freshmen are eligible for these positions and are urged to compete.

The future of the college paper depends upon the freshmen of this year. A new order of things will be put into execution beginning with this month, and the freshmen are expected to provide the new material. New members are needed, in order to help the present staff members, and in order that future directors of the paper be trained. The Highland Echo can be made a much better paper, and it is the freshmen of this year who can begin the job.

This is the first step by which one may rise to any position on the staff. Ten apprentices are to be chosen from the freshmen competing; six of this ten are to be attached in April to serve on next year's staff with the rank of cubs. From that group of six, in turn, associate and staff editors for the following year will be chosen to fill such vacancies as occur through graduation. Through this succession should come a trained and representative newspaper staff.

Get into the game, freshmen. Fill your pens, get out your paper, and put on your thinking cap. We're counting on you. We want some good reporters from among you. Write

RESOLUTIONS A' LA 1928

New Year's resolutions, so said a lazy one, were made to be broken; New Year's resolutions, so said a cynical one, are out of date. But are New Year's resolutions of any use? Therein lies the true test. Perhaps you make them and break them—should you discard the practice? Perhaps they are futile, but it remains that a person who has taken enough thought to map out a course for the year has measured himself. He knows how little or big he is, he knows what he could do if he chose. Such knowledge is of benefit, if the New Year's resolutions are broken every day.

It would, we know, be laughable if we should attempt to make resolutions for any but ourselves. But, nevertheless, there are a few questions on this matter which are pertinent to everyone. Think 'em over!

Can I, this year, accomplish one thing for which I should like to be remembered?

Can I smile when the joke is on me?

Can I walk a little straighter and hold my head a bit higher?

Can I stay in the shadows gracefully while someone else has the limelight?

Can I work?

Can I hold my tongue?

Can I think?

If you can, "You'll be a man, my son." So the best o' luck to you, and over the top!

The Kid Brother

IT WAS SAID IN DETROIT THAT

The test of a revival is not the crowds but the resulting brotherhood.

The problem of missionaries in China is that the non-Christian people in China expect American Christians to live up to what they preach.

Western civilization has become a liberty instead of an asset in missions.

Some people love causes better than men; if so, their friendship with Jesus is doomed.

The Mohammedan missionaries in Africa are more successful than Christian missionaries because they know no color line.

Every Indian student asks the English missionary: "Are you here for your interest or our interest?"

One blazing soul sets another soul on fire.

There is no such a thing as office hours for Jesus.

South America is developing a messianic consciousness.

We must share God's passion for the world.

The church at home will not abolish foreign missions because it can't quit and remain Christian.

CAPABLE COMPANY SURROUNDS HAROLD LLOYD, NEW COMEDY

Harold Lloyd will be surrounded by his usual capable complement of supporting players in his second Paramount release, "The Kid Brother," which comes to the Palace Theatre Jan 12 to 13.

Again heading his support will be Jobyna Ralston, who probably terminates her career as Lloyd's leading lady with this production, after appearing in all his pictures for the last three years. Miss Ralston will be introduced as the girl with the medicine show which offers a concentrated source of laughter and drama in "The Kid Brother." This is one of Jobyna's most fetching roles, and should win her many new admirers.

MINISTERIA ASSOCIATION

The regular weekly meeting of the Ministerial Association will be held next Wednesday evening immediately after supper. The main purpose of the meeting is for the election of officers for the new semester.

Let each member be present so that the qualifying men may receive the offices of guiding our association through the coming semester.

John Thomas Johnson is at the Carson Hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis.

Among the alumni who visited Maryville during the holidays are: Stuart Rohre, Shimmy Brown, Bob Bishop, Jimmie King, Elizabeth Hoyt, L. E. Milling, Lois Adams and Julian Johnson.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Franklin, Jr., are on board ship for Japan where they are to be missionaries.

America Discovered for $7200

Old records show that the cost of Columbus' first expedition to America amounted, in modern exchange, to only $7200. To finance Columbus, Isabella, Queen of Spain, offered to pawn her jewels. Today word comes from Spain indicating that a twentieth century importation from the new world is fast effecting a sufficient saving to ransom many royal jewels. The Spanish Northern Railway reports that the American equipment with which in 1924 the railroad electrified a mountainous section of its lines from Ujo to Pajares has accomplished the following economies:

1. A 55% saving in the cost of power.
2. A reduction of 40% in the number of engine miles for the same traffic handled.
3. A saving of 73½% in the cost of repairs and upkeep for locomotives.
4. A saving of 63% in crew expenses.
5. A reduction of 31% in the cost of moving a ton-kilometer of freight.

In every part of the world, electricity has replaced less efficient methods and is saving sums far greater than the ransom of a queen's jewels. You will always find it an important advantage in your work and in your home.

The substations, overhead equipment for the complete installation, and six of the twelve locomotives for this particularly difficult and successful electrification were furnished by the General Electric Company. General Electric quality has attained universal recognition; the world over, you will find the G-E monogram on apparatus that is giving outstanding service.

GGLEE SINGERS TO PERFORM AT PALACE

The Glee Singers are scheduled to supplement one of the pictures at the Palace Theater on Wednesday, January 25th of this month. This program will be made up almost entirely of novelties and light numbers, including a new arrangement of "Blue Heaven" by the novelty quartett, a highlander dance, and two new ocorinas to form a "Sweet Potato" quartet.

THE WORLD OUTSIDE

The notorious Hickman's plea of insanity raises once more a vexing quesion which has always puzzled thinking people, and is demanding more attention now than ever. Are we to regard a criminal as merely morally diseased and therefore worthy of treatment such as is given any ill person, or must we condemn him as voluntarily wicked, and punish accordingly? It is hard to look on a crime of atrocity as anything other than the product of a diseased brain; and yet we know that there are crimes deliberately planned by people of apparent sanity. The question is: Where can we draw the line?

More trouble in Niaragua. Six American marines have been killed by the rebel force. However, Colonel Mason Gulick, in charge of the reactionary forces, is hopeful of pushing the campaign against General Sandino, the rebel leader, to a successful termination.

1000 U. S. marines are to be sent to Niaragua to reinforce the 1400 already there, in an attempt to subdue Sandino, whom the Washington government regards as a bandit. The state department has issued a statement that the marines have been sent only to aid in maintaining order for a free election, and that the administration is prompted by a spirit of friendliness for the southern republic. However, a great deal of opposition to the government policy has been displayed in Congress by members of both partics.

All news from Central America is not disquieting. "Our Lindy" landed in Honduras Wednesday, and as usual, was received with popular acclaim. This young hero of ours does more towards creating friendship and good will than any government message ever written.

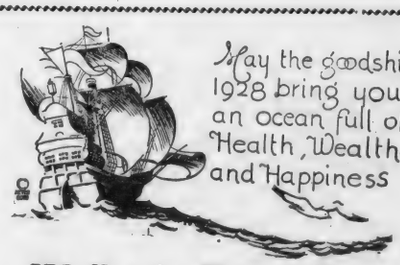
young people.

I shall miss the fellowship of dear Dr. Elmore, but I trust that God has raised up another such leader for you at such a time as this. While I have as many as six engagements annually in revival work, none other furnishes to me personally the degree of inspiration and joy that the few days at Maryville College are able to furnish.

As in the past, I shall arrive in Maryville not later than on the morning Southern train, February 7.

Thanking you for your gracious invitation, and assuring you of my prayers, and with kindest regards to all the faculty and students, I am

Faithfully yours,



Sidney E. Stringham.

your article now.

The rules of the contest are given below:

Competing articles must contain more than 300 and fewer than 500 words.

The articles are to be typed or written in ink on theme paper.

The articles are to be signed.

These articles are to be handed to the candidate's English teacher on or before Tuesday, January 17.

The articles will be appraised by a joint committee composed of student representatives and the Faculty's committee on Student publication.

In considering these articles the committees will take into account:

1. Accuracy or faithfulness to facts.
2. Conciseness or compression.
3. Interest or news value.
4. Correctness in matters of English Form.

(Cleverness or flashines of style is not a part of good news writing and is advised against. You are not writing themes for this competition; you are writing as if for newspaper publication.)

Maryville High School gymnasium where Louis Veech, star and captain on last year's cage team, is athletic director and coach. The team could have been called a team of captains for some Maryville sports for there was Gene McMurray, Doris Musick, Veech, basketball captains: Thrower and Gamble football captains and McCall basball captain.

The game was a thriller from the opening whistle until the final shot was fired from the time keeper's gun.

The way McMurray looped the basket time and again reminded those who saw him play against Transylvania of that thrilling contest when he tossed two baskets from mid-court with only 30 seconds to play and Maryville four points behind. The two goals tied the score and Maryville won in the extra period. Capt. Marion of the Highlanders followed closely after McMurray when it came to making thrilling shots. McCall and Thrower were other offensive stars for the ex-Highlanders. Musick, Veech and Gamble were the defensive stars for the veterans. Bird and K. Davis played the floor for the Highlanders but were off on their goal throwing. Every Highlander played a good game during his stay in the game but J. Davis was the real Highlander hero. With the score 19-25 against the Highlanders and only two minutes to play, Davis standing in mid-court, looped the basket for a goal. An instant later he repeated his previous shot and brought the score to 23-25. The minutes had changed into seconds that they were rapidly fleeting away when Davis again took a shot from a difficult angle and tied the score 25 all. Only 25 seconds remained for play when the ball was put into play at center. It looked as if an extra period would be necessary to decide the contest when fate went against the Highlanders. Thrower, alumni center, grasping at the last chance for victory was attempting a long shot from center when he was fouled by Waddle, Maryville center. Thrower took his position on the foul line for the free throw and as quiet reigned he made the shot good and won the game as the time keeper's gun sounded before the ball could be put into play again.

Lineup:

Maryville (25)		Alumni (26)
Bird 4	F.	McMurray 12
Marion 7	F	Gamble 2
Mann 2	C	Thrower 4
J. Davis 7	G.	Musick 1

Substitutes: Maryville, K. Davis 3, Harris, Waddle 2, DeLaney.

3500 STUDENTS AND WORKERS GATHER AT DETROIT

"The Place of the Cross in the Missionary Motive and Message." These addresses and others with related topics were the source of much information which was used in group discussions carried on every day, and furnished conversational material for sectional meetings held by state delegations, the various denominational meetings and interviews of students with board secretaries, etc. But more than that! The addresses and discussions as well as the contacts with many other students, Americans and foreigners, who had come to Detroit with the one purpose of finding out more about the sharing of Jesus Christ with others, was an inspiration, for some to give their lives in mission work, for others it strengthened the missionary purpose.

No decision meeting was held and no resolutions were adopted. It was felt that if anybody had heard "the still small voice" the place to answer it was on the campus. Instead of giving the students an opportunity to voice their feelings in a closing meeting, they were urged to go back to their schools and meditate on what they had heard and to live Jesus Christ.

Alumnus Wins $1,000 Scholarship

We wish to correct the statement that appeared in the last Echo to the effect that Mr. and Mrs. Sam Franklin Jr., are on board ship for Japan where they are to be missionaries. Mr. and Mrs. Franklin have been accepted by the Board of Foreign Missions, but no assignment to a field has been made as yet. We are very glad to know that Mr. Franklin has won the Mutchmore scholarship, entitling him to $1000 toward a year of graduate study. We understand that Mr. Franklin will take advantage of this scholarship and thus the Franklins will not go to any field for another year.

NEXT WEEK DEVOTED TO EXAMS AND REGISTRATION

Exams Begin Saturday; Registration Will be by Classes on Separate Days

Students have given a fond farewell to their first semester courses and await the final trump of doom when they shall assemble once again in the dear familiar room to be quizzed, prodded, and examined upon their various assimilations of the facts taught during the preceding months. Now is the time when the mid night oil shall flourish, when note books shall become a burden, and when there shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth and tremendous cramming.

No sooner are they thrust through the mill and pumped dry of their external knowledge, than they are herded into the registration offices and are put to the wheel again. Off with the old, and on with the new! And here's hoping for pity's sake that I sit next to a good looking girl in some class next Semester!

The object of this article being to give the schedule for exams and registration, I had better proceed to business.

The examinations will be given as follows:

Saturday, January 21 a courses, 8:30 a. m.; A Courses, French 1x, German 7x, History 9x, Latin 3x, Mathematics 12x, and Spanish 9x, 1.10 p. m. Chemistry 1, all diversions 1:10 p. m.

Monday, January 23 Biology 14, all divisions, and Home Economics 23. 8 a. m.

Tuesday, January 24 b courses, 8:50 a. m.; B courses, 1:10 p. m.

Wednesday, January 25 c Courses, 8:30 a. m.; C Courses, 1:10 p. m.

Thursday, January 26 d Courses, 8:30 a. m.; D Courses 1:10 p. m.

Friday, January 27 e Courses, 8:30 a. m.; E Courses, 1:10 p. m.

Saturday, January 28 f Courses, 8:30 a. m.; F Courses, 1:10 p. m.

Registration for the second semester courses will begin Tuesday. Students will be registered by classes.

Tuesday, January 24, Seniors.

Wednesday, January 25, Juniors.

Thursday, January 26, Sophomores

Friday, January 27, Freshmen.

Then on for the treasurer's office and out again, O' how flat! And Tuesday, January 31, the second semester begins.

SIX COURSES WILL BE ADDED TO SCHEDULE

Variety of New Classes Will Interest Many; New Courses Are in English, Bible, Athletics, and Biology

In addition to the second semester classes which were announced last September there are several new classes to be offered. The classes that have been definitely provided for are briefly reviewed below:

English 21 F, a course for those who intend to teach English in secondary schools, is to be taught by Miss De Haven.

Three new courses in religious education to be taught by Prof. Orr are to be offered. These are religious education courses 30 B, 31 c and 32 d which deal respectively with the teaching of religion to secondary grades, the use of the Bible in religious education, the part played by Christianity in the development of our national life.

A class in fencing has already been announced in a previous issue of the Echo. Foils for use in this class have been ordered and are expected at any time. Movement is on foot for the organization of a girls' fencing class, but no definite announcement can be made.

Biology 19e, a course in Cat Anatomy will be offered this next semester.

Bible 22 in a course on the Principles of Religious Education, is catalogued but was left out of the schedule for the semester. It will be open this coming semester for those who wish to take it.

ALPHA SIGMA

The program for Alpha Sigma this week should be of interest to all members and friends. It consists of:

Invocation, Mr. Biggs.
Alma Mater, Society.
Roll Call.
Piano Solo, Mr. Marsh.
Reading, Mr. McKinnon.
Talk, Mr. McClellan.
Advance, Mr. Robertson.

During the past few weeks, the fellows have done much work for the Alpha Sigma play, "So This Is London," which will be given in Chapel Monday evening, and which is expected to be one of the outstanding events on the hill this year.

GLENN CROSS WILL NOT RETURN NEXT SEMESTER

Glenn Cross, managing editor of the Echo, is not returning to school for the second semester. His plans are not yet complete, he says, as to what he will do this spring. Glenn has been an active student during his year and a half at Maryville and he will be missed. The good wishes of the staff go with him.

Highland Basketeers Encounter Vols And Bring Home The Bacon

BIRMINGHAM CARRIES AWAY TOP HEAVY SCORE

Highlanders Defeated 35-15, By Splendid Playing of Visitors

Birmingham-Southern, the best team that has graced the local court his season, out-passed the Highlanders and won 35-15 in a thrilling game of basket ball last night.

The Highlanders were decidedly off form but even with them going at their best they would have had a hard job of defeating the visitors for as one of the Maryville players said after the game "those birds could play basket ball." The local players were off on long shorts and were not given a chance at many short throws.

The game opened in a hurry. The teams were tied at two all. But after that Birmingham-Southern gradually pulled away and were leading at the end of the half 21-9. Maryville came back with more fight in the second half but could not overcome the larger score: On defense, the Highlanders looked much better in the second half.

Ralph Waddle was the outstanding player for Maryville. He accounted for nine of Maryville's points besides playing a splendid floor game. Dale Marion, with four points, and John Davis wih two counters made the remainder of Maryville's points.

O'Brien with eleven points and Sargent with ten markers were the high scores for the visitors.

The Maryville Reserves defeated Harriman High school 30-21 in the preliminary game. Parks and Crawford starred for the reserves. Jarvis and Goldston were Harriman's best players.

Line-ups:

Maryville (15)	Position	Birmingham-Southern (35)
Marion (c) 4	Forward	Sargent 10
Bird	Forward	O'Brien 11
Waddle 9	Center	Neipp 5
J. Davis 2	Guard	Allen (c) 3
Reed	Guard	Sudduth 4

Substitutions: For Maryville, K. Davis, Mann, DeLaney.

For Birmingham-Southern, Lott, Barclift, Vincent (2).

Exciting Last Minutes of Game Broke Tie, and Highlanders Finished 25-20

PLAYING OF WHOLE TEAM BRILLIANT

Players Justified Confidence In Their Ability in Only Game of the Season with U. T.

If Maryville has a jinx over Tennessee on the hardwood floor that jinx reigns supreme, for the Highlanders defeated the Volunteers 25-20 in the only encounter slated between the two teams this year.

A more determined or more optimistic group of players never left College "Hill" to uphold the honor of the school than the boys who went to Knoxville last Saturday night to battle with Tennessee. The players were confident of victory but realized that victory would not come except by hard work. If all the aims of each player could have been fulfilled the score would have soared to dizzy heights.

The game had been underway for some time when Capt. Marion tossed a fine pitch for the first marker of the game. Tennessee retaliated with a field goal. Again foul tosses put Maryville in the lead. This type of playing continued throughout the half the score at the half being 6-6. Maryville had made her points via the free-throw route while Tennessee had scored two field goals and an equal number of fine pitches. This first half was not a thrilling half from the offensive stand point but from the defensive side the writer of this article has never seen the feat equalled. If Tennessee was on the defensive Maryville's play was soon broken up and if Maryville was on the defensive Tennessee found it difficult going to break through for "crip" shots.

What Coach Honaker said to the the players between halves is a deep secret but the results of his talk are sufficient evidence to all that his lecture did the boys good. Maryville came back strong at the beginning of the half. Marion broke the score with a foul pitch and Bird quickly followed with Maryville's first field goal. J. Davis followed suit and Maryville was leading 11-6 when for psychological reasons Tennessee called time out. But psychology failed and Bird made a beautiful shot when play was resumed to put the Highlanders in the lead 13-6. Tennessee scored a field goal and a fine pitch boosted the score to 13-9. J. Davis, standing in mid-court, made a long throw that touched nothing but the bottom of the net as it went through the basket to give Maryville a six point lead. But Sharp, who had a good eye for the basket, cut the lead to four points. Not content with this he threw another basket and brought the score to 15-13, against

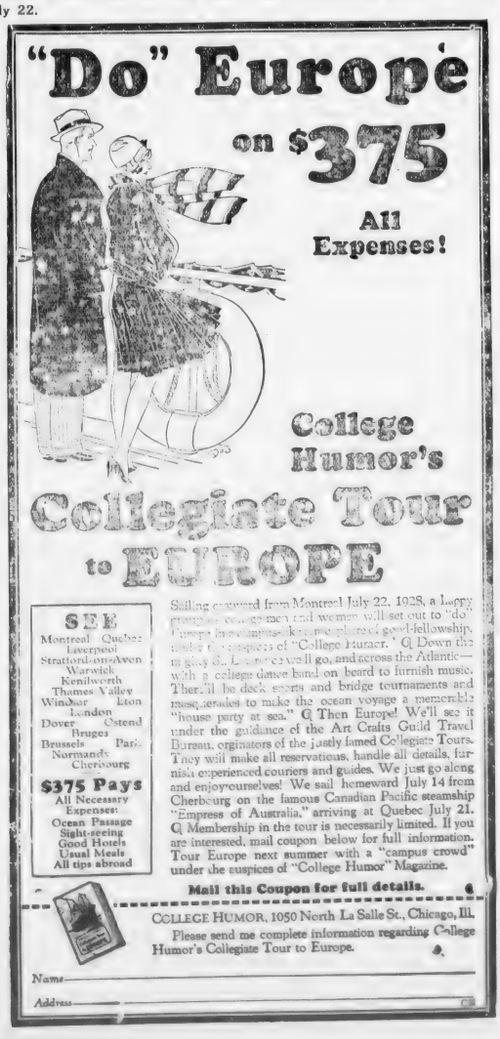
LITERATI!!

Recently two new literary folios, products of the College have been added to our files. The first is "The Distaff", a literary effect from the Florida State College for Women. "Letters," a young publication, first issue, is published by the English department of the University of Kentucky. "The Distaff" cleverly subtilled, Spinner of Yarns, is etymologized by Webster as being "a symbol for Woman." This could as well be included in the subtitle for one could pass judgement as to the sex of the contributors by reading the articles, especially smacking bits as

The tip of an angel's wing
Touched my lips—in a dream
I awoke,
'Twas your kiss.



"The Distaff" is published in a very capable manner which is quite pleasing to the eye and the aesthetic sense. An article "The Editor's easy Chair" is one revealing statements concerning an editorial throne "I shutter and grit my teeth when I remember the lovely aura of fame and glory that bring round my dreams of editorship....you've got to work for what you get!" Another aesthetic touch, "The moon rises like a beautiful woman eager to look at herself in the purple pools of the garden." A disertation on the monstony of "being sensible," and one on small townishness, guised as a short story are well worthy articles. The work is well capable of giving to its reader a delightful half hour of reading. We have both the disinclination and the time to tell of its several noteworthy bits, but will retain the copy for your examination.

"Letters," on the other hand, is of a much heavier texture, almost too heavy for the under-graduate's conception. It is esentially a Univ of Kentucky publication, issued by the department of English and literature, the department of Journalism, and the student publication. "The Kennel." a review of the literary world, past and present occupied a great part of it's fifty pages. "Letters" introduces itself as not intending to form a new school of literary ideas, but to attempt to give the people reading matter of he type they desire. A few morsels indicate originality if there be any, as "a steady flow of sound, from men who talked to avoid thinking."

There are several pages of stuff that looks like poetry, and some of it is. Our fancy was attracted in one of our lighter moments to a few lines reeking of Kipling which is so real that it leaves in the back of the mind the smouldering thought, "where have I seen this before." Oh, well, read it for yourself:

Then it's Tin, Tin, Tin,
Your rattlin, bumpin, Lizzie,
Pieces o' Tin.
Though I've battered you and frayed you.
By the Mister Ford who made you,
You're a better car than some are,
Piece o' Tin.

VARSITY DEBATERS AND TEAMS FOR SCHEDULE

April 9. The men making the team are Gay, Grimsted, Hull, McKinnon, Scheer, and Strain.

The freshman girls will debate Tennessee Wesleyan March 26 on the question: "Resolved that Inter Collegiate Athletics should be abolished." The girls making the team are Misses Morrow, Langhead, Agons, Connor, Crawford, and Renegar.

The debate season looks most promising both for the debaters and their audiences.

HIGHLANDERS BASKETERS ENCOUNTER VOLS AND BRING HOME THE BACON

Tennessee.

At this junction of the game Coach Honaker practiced strategy and sent Mann back into the game. And Mann did well for he immediately tossed a long goal and followed this with a cup shot that sent the score to 19-13. Witt was fouled and made the throw good but J. Davis made the point back by a throw of like nature.

Tennessee again threatened when Dykes and Sharp tossed field goals to bring the score to 18-20. With four minutes to go Dykes heaved another goal and the score was tied 20 all.

But with the loyal Maryville fans calling upon their representatives, the boys responded nobly and field goals by Waddle and Mann spelled victory. This victory was further assured when Marion was fouled with thirty seconds to go. He made the free pitch good and ended the scoring of the game.

The playing of Marion, Bird, and K. Davis at foward was brilliant. Marion accounted for five of the Highlanders points via free throw route. Bird started the rally that spelled victory for Maryville, K. Davis passed the ball well but was closely guarded when near the basket. Mann and Waddle played great games. Waddle was a mighty bulwark on the defensive, breaking up many Tennessee passes. Mann put new life into the team when injected into the fray, for the second time, when Tennessee was drawing dangerously near and threatened to hand the Highlanders a defeat. But the real strength of the Highlanders was found in J. Davis and Reed, guards. They played the entire game and their playing bordered on the sensational. Practically all of the Tennessee rebounds fell into the hands of one of their guards. Sharp, Dykes, McKeen, and Barnhill played good games for Tennessee.

The line up:

Maryville 25	Po.	Tenn. 20
Marion 5	F	Sharp 10
Bird 4	F	Dykes 7
Waddle 2	C.	McKeen 1
J. Davis 5	G.	Kindrick

MINISTERIAL NOTES

The following "preachers" were duly installed in their offices of the Ministerial Association Wednesday night by ex-president Albert Tull:

J. Hayden Laster, president.

Walter Headrick, V. President and Program Secretary.

Roy Reese, Secretary and Treasurer.

E. W. Thompson, Editor.

After installation, Dr. R. A. Montgomery President of Lane Seminary, Cincinnati, Ohio was introduced by the newly installed President.

Many of the boys were booked for interviews with Dr. Montgomery for the following day, Thursday.

Addresses will be given next time by ex-president Tull and president Laster respectively. Practices have begun in basketball with the hope of developing "bigger and better" preachers.

SPIRIT OF FEBRUARY MEETINGS DEVELOPS

With the February meetings less than three weeks away, interest among the students is evident. Everyone who has attended the prayer meetings held in Carnegie Hall is well aware of the enthusiasm shown. To those who have never experienced a series of meetings previous to this, the idea of the event is somewhat of a novelty. But the same spirit which Maryville exemplifies on the athletic field, in forensics, and in the class room is making itself known in the preparation for the greatest event of the school year.

Wherever you go, if you meet anyone who has heard about any phase of Maryville life, he will be sure to say something about the February Meetings. But, you may say, why are the February meetings so great and so appreciably remembered? The answer is simple. The theme of the meetings is Jesus Christ. The effect of the meetings is lasting and permanent.

The extent of this permanent good resulting from the series of meetings is in proportion to the sincerity of the student body as they prepare themselves. The only reason such a good can come from so short a period as ten days, is that long preparation was made in the hearts of the friends of the school, as well as, the students and faculty. If everyone will cooperate theh benefit derived from the 7th of February to the 15th will be immeasurable.

Everybody will be "all tired out" by Saturday from Studying so hard before exams, but even if you are tired don't forget Theta Epsilon meeting for there is going to be a peppy one act play that will make you forget all your troubles and enjoy an evening of real entertainment So don't miss. "Cin 'mun buns" or you'll lose out on one of the best programs of the year!

ON TRIP TO NEW YORK

Talk of graduation gowns,, frocks, and dresses is floating about the campus. Mindful of the needs that will soon arise, Mr. David Proffit, Earl Storey, and Mrs. Minor, have gone to New York to do the spring purchasing for Proffitt's. They will return soon with a new collection of spring necessities.

BAINONIAN

Last Saturday night Bainonian had a hilarious time at the closing exercises of the Abraham Lincoln Colored School. The little black boys and girls sang, played, recited and danced in regular darky fashion. A few words from Brother O. E. Clopton brought the program to a grand finale.

Saturday night we are to have a real program. First we will have some classical music and a feature number. A member of the faculty who has made a walking tour of Europe will be there to give us the story of his trip. It undoubtedly will be a most interesting and instructive half hour.

FEBRUARY MEETINGS COMING

VOL. 13 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY FEBRUARY 3, 1928 NUMBER 14

MIAMI DOWNED 34-28 BY SENSATIONAL PLAYING OF HIGHLANDERS

Miami's Record of 2 Defeats Out of 32 Games Was Marred by Highlanders.

K. DAVIS HIGH POINT MAN

Excellent Work of Guards Helped to Make Many Scores.

Just as certain as Napoleon met his fate at Waterloo, just as certain was the defeat of the Miami Basketball club at the hands of the Maryville College Highlanders on the local court January 24. The final score was 34-28.

Miami came to Maryville with a record of twenty-five wins in a row and only two defeats out of thirty two games played on their present road trip. But when they left Maryville they were all the wiser for they had found a real basket ball team and had suffered their third defeat since December 5.

The Miami team was the best team that had played Maryville since the Cincinnati Collegians were here in 1926. The players were all former college and University stars and had seen much service on the hardwood floor.

But no team could have stopped the Highlanders on this particular night. They made up for all of their sins of commission and omission which had been evident in some of the games played this season. The boys went into the game to give their best, knowing full well that they were up against more experienced players than they were. But the Orange and Garnet standard bearers displayed their real ability and as they should have done came out of the conflict victorious.

The game opened with a basket by Miske, sensational Miami guard. Butler quickly followed his teammates with another goal. Then Miami committed a foul and Bird made the free throw good for Maryville's first marker. Wirey looped another basket for the visitors and they were leading 6-1. Capt. Marion made good a crip shot but Wirey made good a foul throw and Miske, not content with his first basket, made a pretty throw from mid-court to take the lead 9-3. Capt. Marion cut this lead with his second field goal. J. Davis looped a beautiful field goal and again he caged another basket as the fans went wild with joy for the score was tied 9 all.

Hunter and Butler caged goals for Miami and boosted their score to 13 markers. Then Bird duplicated J. Davis' feat by caging two baskets in succession and tied the score at 13-13, as the fans gave vent to their feelings. Mann, who had substituted for Waddle at center, made good a long shot as the half ended with Maryville leading 15-13.

On resuming play in the second half, K. Davis who had been injected into the fray for Capt. Marion, made good a free throw and followed this with a long field goal and raised the count to 18-13. But Barbare cut the lead with a field goal. Baskets by Mann and Bird gave Maryville a seven point lead which was lessened by Wirey who caged a long goal. Two field goals by K. Davis, one by Mann, a foul thrown by K. Davis, and another field goal by Mann ran Maryville's score to 31 as opposed to seventeen for the visitors. Butler made two points, but a foul throw by Capt. Marion, who had replaced Bird, and K. Davis' fourth field goal

Come On In, Girls The Water's Fine

Cuts in Swimming Classes Must be Excused and Made Up.

The girls in Maryville who have enrolled for swimming seem to have taken to heart the advice of the careful mother who allowed her darling daughter to go swimming, oh my, yes!—but warned her, "Don't go near the water!" In other words the girls cut swimming class at any time, and expect to learn to swim. Now, a duck will not swim unless you put it in water, and neither will a girl. Matrons may give excuses for swimming cuts, but the excused cuts will have to be made up.

Advanced students may come in at any hour that the pool is open for girls. Those periods are: 'a' period all week, 'p' period on Tuesday and Thursday, and 'h' period every day except Monday and Saturday.

The pool will be open for boys from 3 o'clock to 4:00 on Friday and Saturday, and from 2:00 to 4:00 other days.

The pool has been kept clean all year. Plans are on foot for the installment of a new heating plant and rebuilding of the roof. These changes will probably be accomplished before school opens next year.

HIGHLANDERS DEFEAT LENOIR BASKETEERS 33-28

Civitans Came Back Strong in Second Half But Could Not Overcome Lead.

Playing brilliantly the Maryville College cagle artists defeated the strong Lenoir City Civitans on the local floor last Friday night 33-28 The Highlanders hit their stride against the visitors and played even better than they had performed against Miama earier in the week.

Maryville drew first blood when J. Davis sank a neat basket, Jim Cooley tied the score a moment later. Waddle came through with two baskets, one a long shot and the other a freak over head shot. J. Davis, again, looped the basket and Maryville was leading 8-2. Burdette made good a long throw but Marion made up for this with a well placed "crip" shot. K. Davis and Marion registered field goals and Cooley made good a foul throw to make the score 14-5. Waddle made a basket but field goals by Cooley and Burdette aided the visitors. Waddle came through with two more goals to make him five for the half and J. Davis registered another counter as the half ended with Maryville leading 22-9.

What the visitors said among themselves is not known bu they certainly came back strong in the second half and but for the handsome lead of the first half the Highlanders might have had a different story told about them as to how they went down in defeat.

Immediately after the half opened Maryville fouled and Harkness made both of the throws good. Bebb caged a basket quickly followed by Harkness, Burdette, and Harkness. The Civitans had made ten points while Maryville hadn't scored and the score stood 22-19. Marion revived the Maryville hopes when he sank one from the 17 foot line. Harkness came back with a beautiful throw from the center of the court. Marion made good a long shot and slipped past the visitors' defensive for a short throw and put the Highlanders in a seven point lead. But field goals by

NEW BOOKS OF FICTION, TRAVEL, AND BIOGRAPHY NOW ON LIBRARY SHELVES

Books For Every Taste and Reader Have Been Secured.

TITLES PROMISING

Fiction and Non-Fiction Are of The Best of Latest Books.

Several months ago, when Freshment were really Freshmen, one of that species asked a fellow-student the following question: "Don't they have any fiction at all in the library here?" The tone indicated eagerness to know, intolerance of all such libraries, and yet readiness to seem to comprehend the fact that a college library would specialize in dictionaries, encyclopaedias, reference books, etc. That Freshman was, of course, mistaken then, and had he asked the same question within the last week or so, he would have been less near the truth.

Among the new books that have just been put on our library shelves there is a very respectable lot, some of them just published, of fiction travel, and biography. If you want to realize on that library fee you paid both this semester and last, there are now valuable and entertaining returns to be had by foraging among these ne wbooks. A mare mention of some of the titles and authors should excite a vivid interest therein like to the vivid bindings that cover some of said books. You'll find among the authors those who, by long acquaintance, seem like old friends; others, who by hearsay, you realize should be among your literary acquaintances and still others whom you have never heard of, yet suspect as being some of those whom you should know.

There is Rolvaag's "Giants in The Earth, A Saga of the Prairie," a story of Norwegian pioneers, written by a Norwegian and translated by another Norwegian into English. (Dr. Hunter placed his stamp of approval thereon when he read it for the second time.) From the pen of Sinclair Lewis there is —no, not Elmer Gantry—Arrowsmith. Not new, but still considered by many critics as Lewis' best. Edna St. Vincent Millay's play, "The King's Henchman," an exquisite thing, is here also. Lovers of detective stories will delight in the collection called "The Great Dective Stories," and we have heard that it was among the recent and much-talked-of "Death Comes to the Archbishop," also "My Antonia" are in the collection. There are several of the recent books of Joseph Conrad, Edna Ferber, Edith Wharton, A. S. M. Hutchinson, John Galsworthy, and Booth Tarkington. Hugh Walpole's recent books are there too—"The Catherdral," and "The Dark Forest." Others are Beau Geste (Wren); several of Mark Twain's; Certain Rich Men (Minnegerode); Trader Horn (Horn), to say nothing of a long list of others that may be to you more interesting than any of these mentioned above.

The non-fiction includes some biographies by Emil Ludwig; two books concerning the mountain people of this section: "Our Southern Highlanders," by Kephart, and "The Lure of the Great Smokies," by Mason; "Life of Samuel Houston, Hero and Statesman," by Lester "Which Way Parnassus," Percy Marks, with a black cover lettered in red, is also here. People read it and talked about it last year, they are reading it and talking about it this year. If you haven't read, read it. At any rate, read something!

Swimming Team Will Engage Knoxville Y

Meet Saturday Night Will be First of Many Contests

The Maryville College Highlanders have taken to deep water and will display their wares Saturday night when they meet the Knoxville Y. M. C. A. swimming team there in the first meet ever engaged in by a representative team. There have been inter-class meets for years but this is the first attempt at forming a college team capable of competing with other teams.

Instructor Jack Coughlin plans on having five meets with nearby schools.

King and Watkins will be unable to take part in the meet Saturday night, the former being in the hospital recovering from an operation for appendicitis and the latter has a bone broken in his ankle.

The following men will enter the meet: E. Buchanan, W. Buchanan, French—40 yard free-style; Sprouse and Topalian 100 yard free style; Dives, G. Dunn and W. Buchanan; 100 yard Back stroke, Jensen and Hyder; 100 yard breast stroke, Bird and Wriggins, 220 yard free style, Topalian.

NEW BIOLOGY COURSE SPELLS DANGER TO TABBY

Pre-meds Will Take Vengeance on Cats For Impromptu Serenades

The fateful days are here. As terrifying as a twentieth century spreading of the Black Plague is the announcement to the old maids (pardon me, Bachelor ladies and local feline fanciers that this next semester a Biology course in Cat Anatomy is to be added to the curriculum at our hilltop institution. The brisk tones of "Matilda, has that cat been put out?" will be replaced in Maryville nights by the worried, anxious incontation, "Mattie, dear, is Thomas safely indoors?" However, as an aside tip to pre-meds, it is time the tables have been reversed. Cats, for ages have been imposed upon as substitutes for rabbits in cafeterias and filling stations all over the country. We remember of a certain Irishman of our acquaintance who proudly carried to work in his dinner pail for several days straight fried rabbit. Upon question after passing rabbit around he told how he shot them. "I ju' stoods in da bak yard a watcha an listen. Com a leetle bit and I hears something go 'yeeow,' and den w'en she crawl on da fence an I see hem in de moon, I shoots." And now gentle reader, with due deference to removal of ears, tail, and paws the frisky bunny may be utilized and our friend (?) the purring tabby will be revenged. Now gang, there are several ways of procuring these cats or rabbits. One sure way if you are sufficiently fast on your legs, is to run them down. A little salt applied to their anterior appendage will faciliate matters—avoid all substitutes! Another way is to sneak up on them when they are wooing Morphens, and chloroform them. The third way is to give some kid two or one dollars to procure said mammal. This method has the sanction of usage. (Note: Avoid asking questions of commisioned youth. "Ignorance, gathers no moss.")

ATTENTION TURNS TO MEETINGS; LEADERS TO BE HERE TUESDAY

Program of 22 Meetings Begins Tuesday Morning at 8:10

RALPH W. LLOYD LEADER

Mr. Stringham Will Again Take Place As Song Leader

Program

Tuesday, February 7—Opening service at 8:00 A. M., evening service 6:30.

Wednesday and Thursday, Friday and Saturday—Morning service at 8:10 and evening service at 4:30

Sunday February 12—Service at New Providence church 10:30 A. M. Address to the Y. M. C. A. at 1:30, service in chapel at 7:00

Monday, Feb. 13—One service at 5:30 P. M.

Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday—Morning service at 8:10 and evening service at 6:30.

Friday February 17.—The meetings close with the morning service which begins at 8:10.

With only a few lingering reminiscences of the Christmas holidays and with exams entirely forgotten, we may look forward with much interest to the twenty-two choice messages we are privileged to enjoy. And, if our interest dosen't increase greatly as the meetings progress we shall have missed the Maryville spirit. Since our spiritual welfare is the most important aspect of our lives, we should be zealous and eager to begin at once.

Reverend Ralph W. Lloyd of the class of 1915 is the man who will conduct the meetings. Rev. Stringham, well known by every upper classman, will be right on the job as song leader. Miss Lucy Horton, of our own student body, will again play the piano. We are quite sure that these people will render their services as well as any others in their places. We may count on them as certainties. Will the student body support these leaders? This is the vital question. Enter into the spirit of the occasion and do your part; then you will have contributed your share. The opportunity is before you, will you accept it? We think you will and Maryville College wil have been heped because of it.

Rev. Stringham wil room in Carnegie during his stay at Maryville, while Rev. Lloyd will take up his abode at the home of our College pastor. Both of the leaders will be at places where students may confer with them any time during the day throughout the meetings. They will not only be glad to talk with any student, but they are looking forward with great eagerness, and will be especially desirous of talking with every student individually. They are your friends and you should treat them as such.

The Prayer Meetings

For nearly a month we have had prayer meetings in our respective dormitories. The good derived from them is immeasurable. Starting Monday evening at 6:00, and continuing throughout the meetings at the same hour every week-day, the boys will resume these meetings. It is the custom to hold meetings in the girls halls also and there will be one in every hall. The hours have not been definitely arranged.

Everyone is urged to take part in these meetings and to enter into them heartily and enthusiastically, yet devotedly. These prayer circles are largely influential in molding the characters of each student. The attitude of prayer is necessary for an effective revival.

FRESHMEN DID NOT RESPOND IN SUFFICIENT NUMBERS FOR CONTEST

The freshman contest for apprentices for the Echo is not. Winners cannot be announced, so the committee concluded, beause there was no contest. Only a dozen papers were submitted. Such a small percentage of possible writers of the freshmen class were represented that the committee has decided to withdraw its original plan of contest and substitute another. The new plan will go into operation sometime this spring. According to this plan, newspaper articles will be assigned as regular class work by the English teachers, and the better articles will be submitted to the committee for selection. The manuscripts already submitted will be at the Echo office for those who wish to keep their articles. The interest of these dozen freshmen is commended, and they are to be thanked for entering the contest.

That the freshmen class is possessed of an inferiority complex which prohibits its members from taking part in student activities thrown open particularly to them is a theory which is much questioned. That they are too busy is also much to be doubted. Shall it then remain to be inferred that they are lazy? Laziness has not been found to be a usual characteristic of freshmen classes, but perhaps this class is in that respect unusual. Whatever the causes for the lack of interest, disappointment was keen that the freshmen class did not "come up to scratch."

WE

The second semester has begun. The physical discomfort of standing in never-ending lines has succeeded the mental anxiety of examinations. But now all is over; we have been relieved of any spare cash, loaded with a new set of books—and half way through the school year!

A few old faces have vanished and a few new ones have come to take their places.

We are looking forward to the February meetings and hope to get a great deal of good from them. Ralph Lloyd, so they tell us, is a fine man, and we always like to hear Mr. Stringham sing. We wish he would do more solo work. We can sing any morning in chapel but we can hear Mr. Stringham only once a year.

There remain only two more lyceums and one mid-winter. Our girl will have to content herself with basket ball games these days. Say, they're not half bad. More thrills to a minute than a wild west movie.

Speaking of thrills. how did he do it? Yes, we mean Thursday night. The more we'd watch the less we'd see. We figured out most of them, but our girl said that, compared to the proverbial dumbell, we were—well, that's another story.

U.S.S. Saratoga

A Marvel of National Defense

From this 2½-acre deck, Uncle Sam's battle planes can now leap into action—sure of a landing place on their return, though a thousand miles from shore.

This marvel of national defense was accomplished—and duplicated—when the airplane carrier, U.S.S. Saratoga, and her sister ship, U.S.S. Lexington, were completely electrified.

In each, four General Electric turbine-generators deliver, combined, 180,000 horsepower to the propellers—enough to drive the ship at 33 knots (39 miles an hour)—enough to furnish light and power for a city of half a million people.

The design and construction of the electric equipment for the U. S. S. Saratoga and the U.S.S. Lexington, to which college-trained men contributed in great measure, exemplify the part General Electric plays in promoting the welfare of the nation.

CLYDE B. EMERT TO ADDRESS THE Y. M. C. A.

Clyde B. Emert, well known to the college men, will address the felows at the meeting of the Y. M. C. A. Sunday, February 5. The subject of his address is, "The Voice of The People." Certainly no one who has heard him before will miss this meeting. If you have not as yet had such a privilege, you should certainly avail yourself of this one. It is a rare occasion for us all. Do not forget the hour, 1:00 P. M. The following Sunday Rev. Lloyd will speak to men only at 1:30 P. M.

"THE COLOR LINE" TO BE PRESENTED

At the evening service of February 19, instead of the regular Vesper service, the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. will present the play entitled, "The Color Line."

ALUMNI NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. N. Wilson, Jr., announce the birth of a daughter Dorothy Manners, on January 29. Mr. Wilson is a graduate of the class of '23. He will be remembered as a popular and able student. He is now assistant pastor of the Presbyterian church at Westfield, New Jersey.

We sat side by side on the sofa,
Contented and all alone,
While the flickering glow of the firelight
In the shadowy twilight shone.

She cuddled more closely against me;
I gave her a gentle caress;
And the look in her eyes more told me
Than ever her tongue could express.

I tenderly clasped her warm body,
Not caring to speak or chat;
For all I wished was to sit there
And dream with my tabby cat.

ATHENIAN LITERARY SOCIETY

The Athenian Literary Society is progressing nicely with Mr. MacDonald as the president. Mr. Pierce the program secretary seems to be well fitted for his office as the program so far for the year 1928 have been very interesting.

One of the outstanding programs for the year was a debate. The question, resolved that the United States should cease to protect capital invested in foregin lands except after formal declaration of war.

Aff. Eugene Meltcalf, Florian Hopkins; Neg. Forrest Robertson Arthur Young.

Dr. Hunter and Mr. Queener wer present. Dr. Hunter critized the speakers, and also gave a decision on the question deciding in favor of the affirmative.

CHEMISTRY CLUB MEETS

The Chemistry Club met in Science Hall on Tuesday evening, Jan. 17. The program was composed of two talks: Spices, by Reba Millsaps; Non-intoxicating Beverages, Paul King.

Business for the evening consisted in accepting new members and electing officers for the coming term. The following officers were elected:

President, Jack Cotton
Vice President, Reba Millsaps.
Recording Secretary, Mildred Renegar.
Program Secretary, Walter Headrick.
Treasurer, Shorty Robertsen.
Editor, Louise Carson.

VARSITY AND RESERVES TRIUMPH TUESDAY NIGHT

Capt. Marion led his Highlanders to victory over the Knoxville Y. W. C. A. here Tuesday night

Maryville began scoring early and was never headed by the victories. The score at the end of the first half was 21-4 but the Y boys came back strong and outplayed the local team but the lead was to great for them to surpass the Highlanders.

Marion, with eighteen points, was the high scorer of the game. Marion's points were made by eight field goals and two free throws. J. Davis, Waddle, and Reed were strong on the defense.

Keister was the outstanding star for the visitors. He led the scoring attack with three baskets made from near the center of the court. Shauton Bennettt, and Reeder were other outstanding players for the "Six-footers."

In the preliminary game the Maryville College Reserves defeated the strong Porter High team 14-9.The High school lads seemed lost on the big court and did not come up to their usual style of play. Peters and Parks were the lightweights for the Bulldogs while Goddard and Marshall led the attack for the victors.

Line-up:

Maryville 36	Po.	Y. M. C. A. 21
Marion 36	F	Sullivan 3

EXPRESSION DEPARTMENT HAS ACQUIRED A COSTUME WARDROBE

Where are the snows of yesteryear? One would not presume to answer such a question, but—where are the actors of yesteryear? Answer: In the wardrobe of the Expression department. To state the matter correctly, not the actors, but their costumes are interred there.

It is a fine, roomy wardrobe, equipped with numerous shelves and lined with cedar. A fitting place to keep the costumes of Pierrot and Pierrette, Elmine Ludine, and other famous characters.

Mrs. West exclaims over each new acquisition for the wardrobe and wishes for more. Recently a stovepipe silk hat was a coveted addition, and now a swallow-tailed coat and black lace shawl have been added.

As the saying is, any contributions will be welcomed. If you have a tight waisted, long skirted mutton sleeved monstrosity of the nineties, it will be counted as a treasure and a delight for the wardrobe. Lengths of cloth of any color in satin or velvet will be welcomed. In fact, anything which you may wish to will and bequeath to the wardrobe can be made to look like anything else. So give until it hurts!

ended Maryville's scoring with the Highlanders leading 34-19.

The fans were rising to their feet, thinking the excitement was over, as only two minutes of playing time remained. But those two minutes almost turned victory into defeat for Wirey caged a field goal, made good a free throw, Butler took a long shot and it was good, Wirey caged two more field goals and was in the act of shooting again when the time keeper's whistle ended the game, Maryville leading 34-28.

K. Davis, Mann, Bird, Marion, and J. Davis led the offense for Maryville. But much honor for the victory must go to Reed and J. Davis who played great games at guard. They were pitted against men who were much taller than they but this did not discourage them. For they played hard and never ceased to put out all they had.

Wirey, Butler, Hunter, and Miske were the best players for Miama. Miske was the fastest guard who has played here in many seasons. Though small of stature he made up for this defect with his clever playing.

The line-up:

Maryville 34	Po.	Miama 28
Marion 5	F	Wirey 12
Bird 7	F	Butler 8
Waddle	C	Hunter 2
J. Davis 4	G	Miske 4
Reed	G.	Houch

Referee: Banks (Syracuse.)

HIGHLANDERS DEFEAT LENOIR BASKETERS 33-25

Burdette and Bebb added to the excitement as the score board showed 28-25 for Maryville. However, Bird eased the minds of the fans as he sank two long baskets and a moment later Reed made good a free throw and ended the scoring 33-25 in favor of Maryville.

The offensive playing of J. Davis and Waddle kept Maryville in front during the first half. For the second half Marion and Bird led the offensive attack. Reed kept down the score of the visitors by his excellent guarding.

Burdette, Harkness, Cooley and Bebb were the offensive threats of the Civitans. But Cecil Thomas, center, was the best in their passing attack. Many times he dribbled the length of the floor only to miss an easy shot.

Line-up:

Maryville 33	Po.	Civitan 25
Marion 10	F	Burdette 8
Bird 4	F	Cooley 5
Waddle 10	C	Thomas
J. Davis 6	G	Harkness 8
Reed 1	G	Bebb 4

VOL. 13 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY FEBRUARY 10, 1928 NUMBER 18

HIGHLANDERS TAKE VENGEANCE ON TENNESSEE WESLEYAN WITH SCORE OF 45 - 23

Early Season Defeat Administered to Maryville Caused Men to Fight Hard.

MARION CAGED 13 POINTS

Passing Attack of Team Functioned Well; Defense Was Good.

Two great basketball teams met in the Alumni Gym last Monday night when Maryville College and Tennessee Wesleyan met and the better team won when Maryville came out victorious 45-23.

Tennessee Wesleyan had defeated the Highlanders earlier in the season 40-31 and this defeat administered to the invaders evened the count.

Maryville's passing attack functioned better than it has this year. All of the men passed well and on the defense they were poison to the visitors.

Capt. Marion opened the game with a shot under the basket. Yearwood tied the score. Harold Bird looped a long one to take the lead for Maryville.) A basket by Waddle a foul throw by J Davis, and three baskets by Bird ran the score to 13-2 for the Highlanders. Moore made good a shot for Wesleyan but Marion caged his second basket, a long one from the center of the court. A foul by Waddle and a field by Marion sent the score to 18-4. A field goal by Whitehead, a foul by Blackwell and a field goal by McCray brought the score to 18-9. A neat basket by K. Davis, a long field goal by Reed, and a crip shot by Reed and another basket by K. Davis, a long shot taken from the side of the court, ran the score to 26-9 as the half ended.

The teams entered the second half with much fight. This half was more thrilling than the first and better basketball was played. Both teams had to resort to long shots for the defense of each team had tightened.

Baskets by McCray and Snyder raised the hopes of the Bulldogs. K. Davis added two points but Yearwood retaliated with a pretty basket. Marion caged a field goal to raise the score to 30-15. Baskets by Whitehead and Yearwood again cut the Highlanders lead. Reed caged his third basket of the game but two goals by Yearwood reduced the locals lead to 32-23. From then on the game was on ice as the visitors had scored their last. A foul throw by Marion, a field by Bird, two baskets by Marion, two points by P. Davis, a "crip" by Mann, and a basket by K. Davis ended the scoring and the game with the score standing 45-23 favoring the Highlanders.

Capt. Marion played an excellent floor game besides being high scorer with thirteen points. Bird and K. Davis played good passing games and scored ten points each. Near the opening of the game it was Bird who put the Highlanders so far in the lead when he caged three goals in quick succession. Reed and J. Davis protected their goals well and forced the visitors to resort to the hit and miss method from behind the seventeen foot line. Reed aided in the offense with three timely baskets.

Yearwood with ten counters, and Whitehead and McCray with four each were the outstanding performers for the visitors on the offense. Blackwell and Moore were defensive

TWENTY NEW STUDENTS ENROLL

Twenty new students have registered for the second semester. Several have returned to Maryville to compete interrupted work while a few are new to college hill. They are warmly welcomed. It is hoped that Maryville will furnish them the incentive for worthwhile endeavor and work.

Seven states have furnished these additions to Maryville campus. Tennessee sends twelve; Georgia, two, and North Carolina the same number. Kentucky, Missouri, New Jersey, and Indiana have each sent a single representative. Eight have registered as freshmen, while the rest are enrolled as upper classmen.

LOUISVILLE TEAM WINS CLOSE GAME FROM HIGHLANDERS

Maryville Dead-Locked Score Four Times

FINAL SCORE 41-34

Visitors Presented a Well Balanced Team on Offense and Defense.

In the best game that has been played in Maryville this year the Maryville College quintet bowed in defeat to the University of Louisville five, Feb. 3.

The visitors presented a well balanced team, both on offense and on the defense. They resorted to no long shots but worked the ball down the floor for easy shots under the basket.

To say that the game was a thriller would be speaking too mildly. Maryville was in the lead three times and deadlocked the score at 4-4, 6-6, 7-7, and 34 all.

The game opened with a bang when Bird made good two free throws. Libby, tall Louisville center, retaliated with a field goal. Waddle made good a long one and sent Maryville into the lead. Goals by Spence and McDonald put the visitors ahead but Capt. Marion tied the score a moment later with a neat "crip" shot. The fans went into a frenzy as Marion made good a free throw and put the Highlanders in the lead which eventually was their last time to hold this honor. A foul throw by Libby, field goals by McDonald, Libby, Weber, Browne, Weber, and Miller sent the score soaring to 7-19 against the Highlanders. But the Highlanders staged a sentational rally and reduced the lead of the visitors from 12 points to five. Mann looped one from the 17 foot line but McDonald scored a free basket for the visitors. The Writers' Club Of Maryville College Has Been Organized

Aim of Workshop is to Foster Creative Writing on College Hill

WAS ORGANIZED IN SEPTEMBER

Members Are Enthusiastic And Are Working Hard on Different Literary Lines.

Maryville students have been smitten by the creative urge, writer's scribling, poetic muse, or what you will. Only recently has it been afforded an organized outlet. Now there exists a Writer's Workshop on the campus. For quite a while there has been a theory in the minds of those interested in creative writing that an organization less formal and more elastic than that furnished by a class room would foster more original and finished writing on the part of its members.

The Writer's Worshop was organized last fall with 25 members, a constitution, a governing board, and high ideals. The Workshop aims at original writing; it hopes to foster vigorous and intelligent use of the various literary forms.

To this end each member must submit each semester to the membership of the Workshop, one piece of finished writing—an essay, article, story, play, group of poems, translation, or dramatization.

In the dim and distant future the Workshop hopes to furnish enough good material to fill a literary magazine. However, that is for the future. At present, the Workshop members are each laboring over a piece of work which they hope will be original when finished.

Such an organization is much to be commended for earnestly endeavoring to stimulate prospective writers of our own bit of country. There is a wealth of material locked within the thoughts and fingers of young America. More power to the Workshop if it aids in its expression!

The following are the first members of the Workshop:

Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. West, Miss DeHaven, Miss Clemens, Miss Jessie Heron, Miss Jennie Edwards, Miss Helen Schiebler, Dr. E. R. Hunter, Betty Griffes, Elizabeth Crow, Margaret Lawrence, Sarah Moore, Pearl Stephenson, Elizabeth Murphy, Betty Jane Sharp, Mary Eleanor Welbon, Bland Morrow, Lena Strawbridge, Elizabeth Post, Sue Spencer, Genevra McDonald, Ernest Frei, Jack Cotton, J. Jordon Jeffries, and Walter Buchanan.

Knoxville Team Were Better Splashers Than Maryville's Swimmers

Defeat in First Swimming Meet Did Not Discourage Maryville Men.

The Knoxville Y. M. C. A. were better splashers than the Highlanders and defeated the local team last Saturday night at Knoxville 52-7 in the first swimming meet that a Maryville team had ever entered.

Swimming is new at Maryville as an intercollegiate sport and the boys were not discouraged at their showing madeagainst the strong Knoxville team. The winners were all ex-

HIGHLAND LASSIES START INTERCLASS SERIES

Lower Class Teams Defeat Juniors and Seniors

FIRST OF SERIES OF GAMES

Several Individual Stars Discovered by Playing.

SOPHS DEFEAT PLUCKY SENIORS

The Highland Lassies entered into the first of a series of interclass games Monday afternoon when the Sophmore and Senior sextets clashed The Sophs played a steady consistent game scoring 19 points and the Seniors 4.

The playing of Olive Clopton for the Sophomores and Captain Knight, for the Seniors was especially noticeable Clopton was high point man, scoring thirteen points and Hultquist scoring the remaining points. Knight scored the points made for the Seniors.

Line-up:

Sophs 19	Po.	Seniors 4
M. Crawford	R.F.	P. Stevenson
M. Haynie	L. F.	E. Knight C 4
O. Clopton 13	C. F.	R Millsaps
R. Sharpe C	C.G.	E. Post
E. Nash	R.G.	C. Fitzgerald
H. Crowder	LG	Annie M. Coldwell

Substitutes: For Sophs. Hultquist 6, Carol, Moore, Burns, Cornell, Merkley. For Seniors F. March.

Referee: Noah Webster.

FRESHMEN WIN OVER JUNIORS

Immediately following the Sophmore-Senior game the Freshmen and Juniors played a lively game, the Freshmen winning by a margin of ten points.

The careful guarding and quick action of the guards kept the teams from spectacular playing. The pass work of both teams was good but the ability of the Freshmen to keep the ball in their territory lead them to victory. The scoring for the Jouniors was done by Sherrard and C. Taylor while that of the Frosh

LEADER OF FEBRUARY MEETINGS HAS THE CONFIDENCE AND ENTHUSIASM OF STUDENTS

Rev. Lloyd is Worthy Successor to Dr. Elmore.

IS A SINCERE AND ABLE LEADER

Work of Mr. Stringham is Aiding the Strong Spirit of the Meetings.

With a pleasing combination of effective personality and a definitely planned outline, Rev. Ralph W. Lloyd has already attracted the students to the meetings in a wonderful way. His messages are overflowing with good, sound advice and words of truth. And behind it all, the spirit of Christ manifests itself in every statement. Only a true appeal, with God as a foundation, could arouse the interest that has been shown. The very fact that everything is explained in such a natural way with deep sincerity and devotion touches the practical nature of the students.

Much credit must be given to the man who has taken upon himself the job of filling Dr. Elmore's place and has acquited himself so nobly. Also, let us not forget that our worthy song leader, Mr. Sttringham is due some praise for the uplifting songs he has so beautifully contributed. it is only fitting that, at this time, we should realize the greatness of the task of these servants of God who have given this portion of their lives to the good of Maryville College and the furthering of the Kingdom of God. Along with these let us not forget our president, who has so faithfully, and conscientiously labored all along. Dr. Wilson is worthy of all the praise we can give him. To the prayers of the many, many friends all over the world a large part of the success of every series of meetings is due. All these forces, together with the power of God, will bring about a mighty spiritual uplift among us.

Every student has his part in the remaining days of the meetings. The part that belongs to any one individual cannot be played by another. The success of the event depends upon each student individual ly. Are you playing your part? Are you doing your bit for the betterment of the whole? The time to work is now. Progress never comes except by exertion, so enter the activity. Do not let your studies (or excuses) interfere with the fullest embodiment of your college education. You are the loser if you fail to play your own position. It is teamwork that counts and endeavor that is rewarded. Show your colors! May Maryville be 100 per cent Christian.

TRAIN THE SOUL?

Let us be frank.
We have souls.

The present tendency of modern youth is to disregard this fact. In some circles it is even rather embarassing to admit such a possibility. The more scorn of such matters a student assumes, the more is he credited a good fellow and a regular sport. In this attitude too many colleges and universities acquiesce. Train the body? By all means! Train the mind? Certainly. Train the soul? No!

Herein, lies Maryville's usefulness. She trains the whole man. These February days are spent to emphasize the ever present daily training of her students' souls—not to crowd into two weeks' hectic circle enough "religion" to last for the next year. These February meetings should drive home anew the eternal fact that every student has a soul. And it is yours.

IN APPRECIATION

These last few weeks have seen the passing of two great men, both famous in the field of letters, Vincente Blaseo Ibanez, of Spain, and Thomas Hardy, of England. We feel it in no way amiss to give a little of our time and consideration in tribute to these men.

Thomas Hardy has been called the "last of the great Victorians," but the title fails to cover all his claims to greatness. Born in 1840 and living in the midst of the Victorian period, he yet succeeded in going beyond it in his writings. Just as his life continued into our times, so his writings are distinctly in the spirit of the twentieth century instead of the nineteenth. Rather terrible they are, these tales of the Wessex peasants, shot through wih a grim realism that seems worthy of a Sherwood Anderson or a Theodore Dreiser. One turns in relief from the gripping hopelessness of a novel like "Tess of the D'Urbevilles" or "Jude the Obscure" to the more tranquil philosophy of some of the later poems. But whatever we think of the philosophy of Hardy's works, we stand in reverence at the undoubted literary poems of the man. We honor and revere this great writer whose body now lies in Westminster Abbey with England's other illustrious dead.

Vincente Blaseo Ibanez was a younger man and is classified among the modern Spanish writers. He was born in Valencia in 1867. The greater part of his life, however, was spent in banishment from his native country, because of his socialistic tendencies.

Like Hardy, Ibanez wrote of his native peasantry, like him, he depicted the hopelessness of their lives, but, unlike Hardy, he seems to have written with a sincere desire for reform; indeed, his writings have been called pure propaganda. The work through which he first became famous was La Barraca, a study of farm life in his native province. The novel by which we know him best is Los quatros Jinetes del Apocalypais "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse."

He died in Mentone, France, an exile from his native country; but it is said that his works have been gradually gaining popularity in Spain, and no doubt, in time, his own country will give him the honor and admiration which other countries now award him.

"THE CATHEDRAL"

Hugh Walpole

What shall one say of "The Cathedral?" I had intended to read it hurriedly, but one cannot read it so. Whatever is said in a brief review must be an inadequate treatment of this book, and whatever a reviewer might say thereof, should lead the reader of the review to read the book.

It is a story of an English cathedral town, CATHEDRAL spelled in capital letters. Of a town dominated by a cathedral that comes to be a real Presence we Americans can hardly conceive—we have no cathedrals beautiful or ancient enough to mean a great deal. Of communities dominated by tradition and custom, we can conceive—we have such as these. Of religion grown into meaningless form and ritual, we can also conceive, and Hugh Walpole almost says in so many words that that is the thing for which his CATHEDRAL stands.

The principal character of the book, the Archdeacon, is obsessed by a love of the Cathedral (though he is not capable of seeing it apart from his own greatness), and becomes a personification of the empty formality, traditionalism, and conservatism that the author is condemning. In the end this obsession, and the consequent ignoring of the human claims of family and community, destroy the Archdeacon that was. And it is not the Archdeacon alone who suffers, for he is scarcely a more tragic figure than his wife.

Walpole seems to be saying that such obsessions, together with abnormal self-confidence and ambition, are obnoxious to the Powers that are productive of abundant life, and they call down upon themselves destruction.

As to Ronder, the man by whom destruction comes, one does not envy him. The Power for which he is the instrument is far greater than he. Your real opinion of his character, no doubt, will not be formulated immediately.

The amateur reviewer of this book is humble. He feels guilty of presumptuousness. He feels sure that, if you are a thoughtful reader, you will value and enjoy this book.

REV. STRINGHAM ADDRESSES THE SKY PILOTS

Much has been said concerning the February meetings; nevertheless, they are here. The Ministerial Association was afforded a real treat Wednesday at 4:00 p. m. in the "Y" reading room, when Rev. Stringham gave the "Coming Preachers" three things to remember upon their entering the ministry. He held before us the goals of originality, perseverance, and sincerity which all goes to prove that Rev. Stringham is not only a singing evangelist, but also a clear-thinking preacher.

We are also looking forward to becoming more intimately acquainted with Rev. Lloyd.

Our prayers attend both men and remind them we uphold our motto. "Non ministrari, sed ministrare."

made a field goal and K. Davis made two free throws good to run the score to 13-20. Miller made good a shot under the basket but a long oal by J. Davis placed the score at 22-17 for the visitors as the half ended.

Browne opened the second half with a free throw and J. Davis performed a like act for Maryville. Marion ced a basket but baskets by McDonald and Chaddock gave the visitors a seven point lead. Mann reduced this lead with a shot under the basket. Foul throws by Libby and Reed added one point for each team. Two free throws by Craddock and a field goal by the same man were good and put the score at 23-12. Goals by Waddle and McDonald sent the score to 25-34 for the Cardinals as the time-keeper's watch showed four minutes to go.

Maryville fighting with her back to the wall staged as brilliant a rally as any Highlander team ever staged to tie the score. Field goal by Waddle, Marion, and Bird, and a foul throw by Reed raised the Highlanders hopes as the score board showed 32-34. The fans went wild with joy and gave forth thunderous applause as Waddle, who had stopped in the center of the court, made good his long throw and tied the score with only two minutes to go.

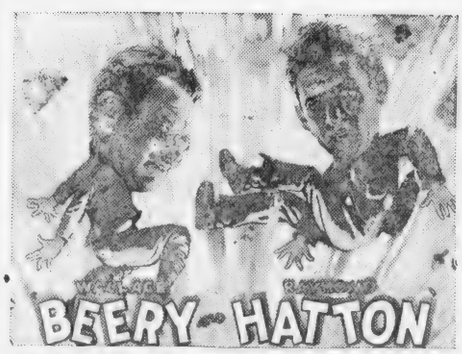
Maryville's hopes were dampened when Craddock made a foul throw good to break the ice. Field goals in rapid succession by Weber, Browne, and Weber ended the scoring and the game as the time keeper's whistle sounded with the visitors leading 41-34.

To pick a Highlander star would be difficult. Marion played his best game of the year besides leading the offense with nine points. Waddle was next high scorer with eight markers. J. Davis, Reed and Bird, aided in the offense and played remarkable good floor games. K. Davis and Mann played well during their stay in the game.

Craddock, Weber, McDonald, and Libby were the outstanding performers for Louisville.

The Maryville Reserves snowed Lanier High School under a 53-20 score in the preliminary game.

The line-up:



Maryville 34	Po.	Louisville 41
Marion 9	F	McDonald
Bird 4	F	Craddock
Waddle 8	C	Libby 6
J. Davis 3	G	Browne 5
Reed 2	G	Spencer 2

PLANS UNDERWAY FOR LIFE WORK CONFERENCE

Annual Conference To Be Held March 2, 3, 4.

SEVENTH ANNUAL CONFERENCE

Noted Speakers Obtained For Program And Interviews.

Some of the modern day writers charge that the thing we are exposed to in college is not education but an anodyne. Much of the evidence these men produce is made up of cases of students, who, when they have graduated from college have no idea as to what their life work will be. One writer has made the pertinent remark that you can send a boy to college but you can't make him think. Is this applicable to your case? Are you really thinking?

Some few years ago the moving spirits in the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. decided that something should be done to cause the students of Maryville to think about the choosing of their vocation. The LIFE WORK CONFERENCE was instituted to meet this need.

This matter of choosing a vocation is, so our own Rabbi Lloyd told us ,one of the three great choices of life. One of the other two, choosing a master, has recently been presented to us and most of us have decided to have Christ as our Master . The third thing, choosing a life companion, is very much dependent on the first of these important choices.

On March the second, third, and fourth this annual conference will be presented for all of the students of Maryville. And this year the conference will be "Bigger and Better"

CAST OF THETA'S MIDWINTER IS HARD AT WORK

"Old Lady 31" is Last Mid-Winter of Year.

Theta Epsilon will close a successful mid-winter season on March fifth with a charming play, "Old Lady 31". The Thetas say that the play will be all that any audience could wish in story, setting, and actors. The cast and different committees are hard at work giving the play the final touches. Those who have seen the actors in rehearsal say that there are so many good parts that it is hard to choose the outstanding actor. The part of Old Lady 31 is carried by Genevra McDonald? No. Guess again. By Maynard Layman! One can hardly imagine this campus Apollo as an old lady—but they tell us that miracles happen. Genevra McDonald plays opposite Layman as "Angie." The rest of the cast follows:

Blossy.....Jimmie Rule
Lowell Darby.....Luther Hammond
Nancy .....Lucy Horton
Abigail .....Peggy Mevis
Sarah Jane .....June Maloney

COMMUNITY CELEBRATES DR. WILSON'S 70th YEAR

Close of February Meetings Marks President's Birthday.

MANY GIFTS PRESENTED

Friends From Town and County Present at Informal Ceremony.

The seventeenth of February was truly a great day in the history of Maryville College. Not only did it mark the close of one of the most successful series of February meetings the school has ever had, but it was the seventieth birthday of our beloved Dr. Wilson.

The whole student body and a number of the town people were on hand to help celebrate, and the enthusiasm manifested was ample proof of the regard in which Dr. Wilson is held not only on College Hill but throughout the community.

Those who know and love our president expressed their affection in a number of ways.

The senior class "did themselves proud' 'and Mr. Jeffries presented in the name of the class, a radio with which Dr. Wilson can tune in on anything from Broadway frivolities to the latest reports on the Nicaraugan situation.

The school as a whole found the most complete and modern camping set possible, so that Dr. Wilson may be comfortable anywhere that he may chance to roam, and the faculty added an electric lantern that will be useful not only in exploring the wilds of Tennessee but in discovering whether that noise Mrs. Wilson heard in the basement is the cat or a bandit.

And his friends in town presented our president with a $400.00 in "cold cash," which we join them in hoping will be spent for something that he has wanted for himself for a long time.

Seventy years is an achievement in itself but seventy years such as Dr. Wilson has lived is more than an achievement, it is a lesson and a gift. To see the drive of one compelling force, that of service to Jesus Christ and to his fellow men, is to see the secret of a victorious life. And so we can only say with our whole hearts, making it our prayer, "Many happy returns."

ATHENIAN SOCIETY

Once an Athenian, always an Athenian. The faculty alumni showed the old Athenian spirit by appearing in Athenian Hall February 8, 1928, and rendering the following program:

DEBATE TEAM MEETS FLORIDA HERE TUESDAY

First Debate of Season to be Held in Y. W. Auditorium.

AUDIENCE WILL JUDGE

Jeffries and Courtenay Will Argue Affirmative.

On Tuesday night a men's debate team from the University of Florida will open the debate season here with the debate, "Resolved, that the United States should cease to protect by force of arms, the foreign capital of its citizens."

The meeting is arranged to be held in the Y. W. C. A. auditorium in Thaw Hall at 7:30. This is a change in the former custom of holding debates in the chapel; but it is believed this new arrangement will be more satisfactory. Gordon Jeffries and Walter Courtenay will argue the affirmative of the question.

This debate will also be a new departure in the matter of judging. Formal judges will not be needed, for in this debate the audience will be the judge. On entering, each person is asked to ballot his decision already formed, as to which side of the question he supports. After the debate, a similar vote is taken and the side which has persuaded more followers to accept its argument is declared the winning team.

Mr. Vernton Queener, the able coach of this season's debating teams, has worked hard with the debate teams and is anxious that the first debate be well attended. It will be well worth the time spent.

Bridegroom To Be Central Figure In 1928

Mere Man Strikes For Equal Notice on Society Page.

The male of the species has long been a neglected figure at his own wedding. But this is 1928 and things are going to change. This being leap year, the bridegroom is due to come into his own and be accorded the attention heretofore lavished on the bride exclusively. The following is an example of now the accounts of wedding will be written during 1928. Here it is:

"Mr. Norman Percival, son of Mr. and Mrs. Confucius Pangburn, of Straddle Ridge, became the bridegroom of Miss Equal Wright at high noon today. The ceremony took place at the home of the groom's parents and was largely attended.

Mr. Pangburn was attended by Mr. Max Anatole Milkweed as groomsman. As the groom approached the altar he was the cynosure of all eyes. Blushing prettily he replied to the questions of the clergyman in low, but a firm tone.

He was charmingly clad in a three-piece suit, consisting of a coat, vest and trousers. The coat of some dark material was draped about the shoulders and tastefully gathered under the arms. A pretty story was current among the wedding guests that the coat was the one worn by his father and grandfather at their weddings. Mr. Pangburn does not deny the truth of this sentimental touch. The vest was sleeveless and met in front. It was gracefully fashioned with pockets and held together at the back by straps and buckles. From the upper left pocket was suspended a large Ingersoll watch, the bride's gift to the groom.

The groom's trousers were dark

HOWARD WINS FIRST GAME OF SERIES, BUT HIGHLANDERS RETALIATE

Howard Scores 22-18 on First Night; is Defeated 38-19 on Second Night.

HANNAH PLAYS GOOD GAME

Whirlwind Attack of Highlanders on Second Night Conquered Alabama College

After almost two weeks layoff the Highlanders returned to the hardwood court Feb. 18, and suffered defeat at the hands of Howard College of Birmingham, Alabama. The visitors triumphed 22-18.

The visitors flashed a brilliant offense and a stubborn defense which was almost impenetrable. Howard made eight points before Maryville hit the gial making stride. Then Maryville reversed the tables and tied the score at 8, all.

A fine goal by Vickery and a field goal by the same person started Howard's scoring. Two field goals and a foul throw by Burns ran the score to 8-0. A foul goal by Marion followed a moment later by Waddle with another free throw, and two free throws by J. Davis put the score at 8-4. A long field goal by J. Davis, after the game had been in progress fifteen minutes, again cut the visitors lead. A neat crip shot by K. Davis tied the score at 8, all. Waddle made good a foul throw to give Maryville the lead as the half ended.

Both teams continued to display the same brand of basketball in the second half with Howard having the better of the argument on offense. Waddle tossed a free throw shortly after the half began to give Maryville a 10-8 lead and the last time that the honor was had. Field goals by Gilbert and Peace sent the visi-

FRESHMEN WIN COED BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT

Sophs and Seniors Fall Before Lower Class Teams.

C. WHEELER SCORES 33

Freshmen Down Juniors With Good Score.

The Sophs and Seniors fell victims to the whirlwind passing attacks of the Freshmen and Junior sextets last week in the tournament and were eliminated from the finals.

C. Gregg, V. Pearsons, E. Knight, R. Millsaps and C. Wheeler were the outstanding players for their teams in the game, Gregg, Pearson and Wheeler accounted for the majority of the points, caging shots from all angles of the floor.

The results of the games were:
Sophomore 12—Freshmen 31
Juniors 45—Seniors 0
Juniors 24—Sophs 5
Freshmen 18—Seniors 6

The Juniors and Freshmen having the highest number of points were the finalists.

FRESHMEN WIN CHAMPIONSHIP

The Juniors and Freshmen clashed in the finals Monday and after what seemed certain defeat the lower classmen emerged victorious by a small margin of 4 points.

E. Sherrord started the scoring fo the Juniors by a field goal in the first minute of play. The Juniors completely outclassed the Freshmen during the first half and it ended with the score 16-6 in their favor.

During the first half something furnished the Freshmen an inspiration and they came back the second half and showed the Juniors that they were down but not out.

Carver, flashing little Freshman, forward, exhibited her ability to shoot goals and accounted for 13 of their points, and when the final whistle blew the score stood 21-17 in favor of the Freshmen.

The line up was as follows:

Juniors 17	Po.	Frosh 21
C. Taylor 6	R. F.	C Cushmon c
C. Castile c	L. F.	C Carver 13
E. Sherrord 8	C.F	Asborn
J. Thrower	C.G.	W. Lowry
P. Watkins	R.G.	M. Lowry
E. Campbell	L.G	B. Farras

Substitutes: For Juniors D. Franklin 3. Freshmen, Wright 2 Gregg 6. Referee, Mary Ella Sullivan.

Cleo Wheeler was high point man in the tourney, scoring 33 points. E. Sherrord was next with 27 points and C. Gregg 26. E. Knight made all the points the Seniors scored in the tournament.

GLEE SINGERS AWAY FROM HOME

Whether you had noticed it or not there are over twenty men absent from the Hill this week-end. They form the Glee Club of which Maryville is justly proud. Friday night Newport will be favored by their presence; Saturday night, they serenade Sevierville, and Monday night, they will delight the residents of Alcoa in the Bassel school building. Professor Bob has put the members through their paces and is confident of a successful trip. This is the first of the Club's trips, but not the last according to Manager Bob Dance.

THETA ALPHA PHI TO PRESENT SENIOR BENEFIT

"The Rivals" Chosen to be Given April 5th

The Seniors have selected for their benefit performance this year Sheridan's play, "The Rivals." Heretofore it has been the custom of the Seniors to invite a lyceum company to stage their benefit, but this year they have asked the local chapter of Theta Alpha Phi to stage a play. "The Rivals" was the selection of the committee. This play has probably been studied by every student during his high school days, and is familiar to almost everyone. It will be given Thursday night, April fifth.

The cast has been carefully selected, and the names assure a splendidly acted play. Two of the Expression Department faculty and several graduates of the department are in the cast. The cast is as follows:

Sir Anthony Absolute, Jesse Pierce.
Captain Absolute, Harry Gauding.
Sir Lucius O'Trigger, Bob Anderson.
Faulkland, Walter Courtenay.
Acres, Maynard Dunn.
Fag, Gordon Jeffries.
David, Luther Hammond.
Mr. Malaprop, Helen Schiebler.
Lydia, Jennie Edwards.
Julia, Nell Watkins.
Lucy, Nell Caldwell.

The chairmen of Committees are:
Stage Manager, Albert Tull.
Advertising, Lillian Robinson.
Wardrobe, Sarah Moore.

FEBRUARY MEETINGS SHOULD LEAD TO HIGHER LIFE FOR STUDENTS

Maryville has been uplifted and helped in many ways during the February Meetings.

All who have come to know Rev. Lloyd during his stay here have found him a very friendly man with a great influence. He has clearly pointed out the basic truth of life that are inevitable and can be avoided. His life is one that should be admired by us all. We realize that he has meant much to each student and to the whole College as well. We only wish he could remain with us the rest of the school year to keep our thoughts clean and pure. Yet his words will ever ring in our ears. I am sure we will all join in wishing him success wherever he goes, or in whatever he does.

The leaders have done all they can do. The immediate effects are gratifying indeed! To what extent will the effects be lasting? Only in so far as we put into practice the principles we have learned will lasting good be obtained. Let us live to our ideals.

BOOKS OF THE WEEK

"Giants of the Earth"

If, far deep within you lies a deep admiration for the sturdy Norsemen of long ago, if the stories and myths of that large powerful race struggling against nature and wyrd, the god of fate, fill you with a deep regard and respect for their triumphs over the hardships encountered in the wilds and on the north seas of their native country—if these things are true, I say, you will be more than delighted with "Giants of the Earth."

"Giants of the Earth," by O. E. Rolvaag is not a modernized saga of ancient men fighting for their lives in a stormy northern country with rock-bound coasts. Instead it is an epic of their descendents who fight a similiar battle on the plains of another continent, written by a Norseman in his own language, a Norwegian who is an American citizen, writing in America, whose aim is to tell of the contribution of his people to American life, yet who must be translated to us out of a foreign tongue.

In this novel, Rolvaag has come close to the reality of pioneering. He has caught its influence upon character, the grim play of environmental forces upon human life, their impress upon the thought of the empire that is in the making.

While reading the book, one comes to know and understand the heart of the immigrant, and failures, and to sympathize. Rolvaag is primarily interested in the human cost of building the empire. His characters are real people shown with a wealth of simple human detail in every possible mood and situation. One, Beret, cannot take roots in the new soil; her husband, Per Hausa, is a natural-born pioneer. The struggle lies between them and the new land, between two individuals and the great Dakota prairie. It is a symbol of the struggle of the old against the new.

The story moves onward, slowly, poetically, yet purposefully toward the inevitable fate of man who dares thrust himself into a wilderness, but the spirit of the pioneer is never quenched, and in the end the eyes of Per Hansa are "set toward the west."

The leaders of the conference this year are as good or better than any ever to come to us for a Life Work Conference, Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, President of Princeton Theological Seminary and Dr. Henry M. Edmunds, pastor of the Independent Presbyterian Church of Birmingham, Alabama will be our principal speakers. Dr. Edmunds will open the conference with an address Friday morning, "The Value of a College Education." Dr. Stevenson will speak on Saturday morning; his message will be "An Educated Conscience Essential to a Life of Creative Service." Dr. Stevenson will also preach at New Providence Sunday morning.

For men interested in coaching and athletics there will be Dr. Bennett coach at Sewanee, Dr. G. A. Williamson, Jr., of Knoxville will be on hand to advise those interested in the medical profession; Dr. Joseph E. Avant of U. T. will be adviser for those interested in teaching and journalism. Dean Ferris of U. T. will hold interviews with those interested in engineering. Mr. and Mrs. Leonard, home missionaries, will talk with those who are considering home missionary or religious educational work. Others will represent law, business, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A., music, household management and home economics, agriculture, and foreign missions.

There will be a book display and orders for books will be taken. Further information will be printed in a progam that will give the full particulars about the Conference.

Remember that this is your conference. Use it!

LYCEUM ENJOYED MONDAY NIGHT

Tuesday night we attended one of the most enjoyable concerts biven this year, when Lowell Patton and his company entertained us with a varied and interesting program, as the third number of our lyceum course.

Mr. Patton captured his audience from the beginning, especially when the pedal on the piano broke and he very informally and smoothly, with the help of Maryville's stage brigade, arranged matters so that soon the next number was well under way. Mr. Patton was gracious in giving us enough different kinds of music that he pleased us all. His imitation of the bells of St. Mark's Cathedral was extraordinary, making each of us feel that he was really ringing the bells.

One of the most enjoyable phases of the program was Mr. John Quall's impersonation. He was exceptionally good.

These men proved to be all-round musicians by their mastery of the flute as well as of the ocarina and piano—and also of the art of whistling.

We got a glimpse into the life of London when the men sang to us dressed as London street boys. They were very good in everything they did.

Doubtless mnay co-eds, after Mr. Pattons reading on the co-ed five years later, decided that there's no use in studying after all, and the best thing is to stop. Still, we never know, some of them may have resolved to work all the harder, now that they have been warned in time.

We not only thank Mr. Patton and his company for the evening of wholesome fun and enjoyment they offered us, but also for the thoughts they gave us and the spiritual atmosphere they created. We appreciate this part of the program very much. It would be a good thing for us all to keep in mind the little poem. Mr. Patton ended his program with:

Two men looked out thru prison bars, The one saw mud, the other bars,

The one saw mud, the other stars.

"Y" OFFERS CUP TO CLASSES

The varsity teams in Maryville do not include all the athletes of the college, so says the "Y" cabinet. Many good men have not the requisite time to devote to varsity athletics and are out of the running when it comes to selecting teams which represent the college. But that should be no reason why those who fail to make a team should be deprived of the fun of competion. The "Y" cabinet announces a new plan of inter-class and inta-mural competition which should stimulate interest among aspiring and seasoned athletics alike.

Inter-class and inta-mural athletics are the forms now sponsored by the "Y". The inter-class form consists of basket ball, tennis, soccer, baseball, swimming and track, while the intra-mural forms contests such as our present basketball tournament.

The cabinet was dissatisfied with the way in which the athletic program has been carried out so they have adopted a new system. It is one which will kee pthe interest alive and put inter-class athletics where they belong? From now on all records will be kept and the class which wins the greatest number of points for the year will receive a cup, which will be placed in a trophy case in the library. The cup is given, not for a championship in any one sport, but for excellence in all the sports. The point system for scoring will be the same as our quality credit system, for example the winning class in basket ball will get nine points, the second six points, the third three points and the last one point. Perhaps the class that wins nine points in basket ball will only win three points in swimimng and one point in track. At the end of the year the points will be totaled and the class having the highest number will be presented with the cup.

BEARS AND RESERVES TUSSLE

In the preliminary game to the Maryville-Howard tilt last Friday night the Blount County Bears defeated the Maryville College Reserves (Bulldogs) 31-29.

The Reserves had things their way during the first half, leading at the quarter 15-7, and at the half 17-15.

During the second half the Bears outplayed the Bulldogs and were leading by a large score with only four minutes to go. The Reserves opened an offensive attack that would have meant victory if time would have permitted for they were going strong when the game ended.

Stribling with ten, Peters and Clemens with six, each, led the offensive attack for the Baby Highlanders. French and Tallent with eleven points each, were the high scorers for the visitors.

The line-up:

Reserves	Po.	Bears
Stribling 4	F	French 11
Parks b	F	Tallent 11
Crawford 3	C	Trundle
Candler	G	Boring 4
McMillan	G	Waters 5

TRACK MEN START WORK IN GYMNASIUM

Last Wednesday Coach Thrower called out his track men, and put them to work in the gym. He emphasized this early training very much, and announced that regular practice would start March 1st. Practice will be held every afternoon between 4:15 and 5:15 o'clock until the supper hour is changed.

Maryville will have one of the best schedules she has ever had, and every man who has any ability at all is urged to start work right away.

1928 RHODES SCHOLARI SHIP ELECTION

The 1928 election of Rhodes Scholars will be held on December 8, and students of this College or University must file their applications with the Secretary of the State Committee of Selection before October 29. according to a recent announcement from Frank Aydelotte, American Secretary to the Rhodes Trustees and President of Swarthmore College.

A Rhodes Scholarship, the most coveted of all undergraduate awards, entitles the holder to three years of study at Oxford University, with an annual stipend of 400 (about $2000) Rhodes Scholars are elected without examination on the basis of their records in school and college, and no restriction is placed upon their choice of studies.

To be eligible a candidate must be an unmarried male citizen of the United States, between the ages of nineteen and twenty-five, and must have completed at least his Sophomore year in college before the time he goes to Oxford. He must then be one of the men chosen to represent this institution in the competition. Scholars selected on December 8, 1928, will go to Oxford in October 1929.

The qualities which will be considered in making the selection are literary and scholastic ability and attainments, qualities of manhood, truth, courage, and moral force of character, and physical vigor as as shown in outdoor sports or other ways. Exceptional athletic prowess is not essential to election.

These Scholarships were created by the will of Cecil Rhodes, the famous South African statesman and capitalist, who died in 1902. Their purpose is expressed in the terms of his will:

"I also desire to encourage and foster an appreciation of the advantages which I implicitly believe will result from the union of the English-speaking people throughout the world, and to encourage in the students from the United States an attachment to the country from which they have sprung, without I hope withdrawing them or their sympathies from the land of their adoption or birth."

Further information and application blanks may be obtained from Dean J. C. Barnes, Maryville College, Prof. R. P. Strickler, Southwestern, Memphis, or from President Frank Aydelotte, American Secretary at Swarthmore, Pa. Full information about study and life in Oxford is supplied especially for American students in Oxford of Today, published under the direction of the Alumni Association of American Rhodes Scholars, by the Oxford University Press.

Y. W. C. A. DISCUSSION GROUPS

For several years it has been the custom for the Y. W. C. to provide an outlet for the inspiration and enthusiasm resulting from the groups meeting once a week for six weeks. This year the disessions will be based upon a psychological study of the Sermon on the Mount, as arranged by Miss Helen Gamble. The regular Y. W. C. A. program for Sunday afternoon has been planned to give the girls some idea of the nature of this study and Miss Gamble will speak at this meeting. Every girl in Maryville is included in one of these groups and the discssions promise to be most interesting and worthwhile.

tors into the lead. Foul tosses by Waddle and J. Davis again tied the score at 12-12. The visitors surged ahead as Strickland and Peace made two points each via the field goal route. Bird reduced the lead when he caged Maryville's third field goal of the evening. Field goals by Burns Wilkins and Peace gave the visitors a 12-11 lead. A foul goal by Marion a beautiful shot by Reed for two markers and a foul toss by K. Davis ended Maryville scoring. The game ended shortly afterward.

Maryville's scoring was made by ten fouls and four field goals. Howard's points were made with ten field goals and two foul throws.

K. Davis and J. Davis were Maryville's outstanding performers while Peace and Burns played the leading role for the visitors.

The line-up:

Maryville 18	Po.	Howard 22

HIGHLANDERS RETALIATE

Continuing to play the same type of basketball that has characterized their playing throughout the season, Maryville showed a reversal in form and clearly outclassed Howard College Saturday night in the second of a two-game series. When the game ended Maryville was leading 36-19.

Maryville was going strong on this particular night and it would have taken a mighty good team to have defeated them.

J. Davis, continued his foul-throwing exhibition, by putting Maryville in the lead with his first toss. A field goal by Gilbert, Howard center, and a foul by Bird tied the score 2, all. Two foul throws by Vickery, a field goal by Burns, and basket by Vickery gave the visitors an 8-2 lead before the Highlanders found themselves. J. Davis inserted a foul goal between Vickery's goal and basket by Bird which placed the score at 8-5.

Vickery made another field goal to double the score. Marion caged his first basket, and Hannah, who had replaced Reed at guard, made a field goal and a moment later tossed a free throw to tie the score at 10. all, Wilkins sent his team ahead with a one point throw. Field goals by Waddle, and Marion, a foul throw by J. Davis, and a field goal by Hannah gave Maryville a 17-11 lead. A basket by King reduced this lead temporarily until Bird caged a neat basket to end the half with the Highlanders leading 19-13.

One resuming play, Bird made two points only to see Burns toss two field goals to reduce the Highlanders lead. J. Davis came through with another free throw. Vickery with two free throws ended Howard's scoring. Field goals by Hannah and J. Davis, a foul by Hannah, field goals by K. Davis, Marion, J. Davis, and Marion, and a foul by Mann stopped the scoring with Maryville safely in the lead 36-19.

Marion, J. Davis, Hannah, eight each, and Bird with seven points led in the offensive attack for Maryville. Vickery with eight and Burns with six played best for Howard.

Much credit for the victory must be given Hannah who was playing his first varsity game. He was too fast for the visitors and soon wore them down and made them tame for the remainder of the game.

The line-up:

Maryville 36	Po.	Howard 19

Beneath the vest the groom wore blue and lavender galluses, attached fore and aft to the pants and passing in a graceful curve over each shoulder. This pretty and useful part of the costume would have passed unnoticed had not the groom muffled the ring when the groomsman handed it to him. When he stooped to recover the elusive circlet the colorful blue of the galluses was revealed. His neck was encircled with a collar characterized by a delicate saw edge and around the collar a cravat was loosely knotted so that it rode up under the left ear with that studied carelessness that marks supreme artistry in dress. Neither Mr. Pangburn, Mr. Milkweed wore hats at the ceremony.

As Miss Wright led her groom from the nuptials it was noted that she wore the conventional veil and orange blossom.

"Old Lady 31" Mondy Night

VOL. 13 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, MARCH 2, 1928 NUMBER 19

Rehearsal Of Theta's "Old Lady 31" Promises An Entertaining Midwinter

WILL BE SEASON'S LAST MIDWINTER

Plot and Situations Are Amusing

CAST DISPLAYS HARD WORK AND MUCH TALENT

If the performance of Theta's midwinter, "Old Lady 31" is as amusing as the rehearsals ,no one can afford to miss this play. It is the last midwinter of the year and will be given at 8:00 o'clock Monday night, March fifth.

From all the hints that could be gathered as to the story, it concerns an old couple who are kept in an old ladies' home. Angie is almost desperate at the situation and wants her dear Abie out of the way of so many designing and coddling females. How she succeeds you may find out Monday night. There are two young lovers in the play, and how they enter into the plot you may also discover.

The rehearsals are amusing in themselves. Imagine, if you can, a dozen or so girls sitting about a bare stage, shouting remarks to each other above their tea cups while the piano turner nearby makes the whole chapel ring with his erratic thumpings; Mrs. West raising her voice above the hub bub, "Act One!"; Bill Crowder in the midst of a thrilling love scene, with the lady's arms about his neck, turning distractedly to the prompter, "Gee! What do I say next?" Genevra McDonald weeping pathetically into her handkerchief, then looking up inquiringly to ask "Did I do that right?" Maynard

16 Maryville Volunteers Attend State Convention

Discussions and Speeches Made up Inspiring Program

The annual conference of the Student Volunteer Union of Tennessee was held on February 24-26, 1928 at the Middle Tennessee State Teachers' College, Murfreesboro, Tenn., "to present to the students of Tennessee the needs and the problems of today in the attempt to make Christ known around the world, and to show them the relationship of the churches and people at home to this enterprise."

To achieve what was outlined as the task of the conference, a number of well-known speakers were invited to address the delegates; discussions and sectional meetings were held; and all the delegates had an opportunity to interview the leaders. Dr. W. C. Carver of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary of Louisville, Kentucky, spoke of the theme of the Bible which he showed to be missionary in its purpose. Dr. J. B. Matthews of Fisk University, Nashville, in his address "The Redefinition of the Missionary Task" pointed out that every phase of life which is not Christian, either at home or abroad, is a missionfield. Dr. J. B. Kesler of the Y. M. C. A. graduate school at Nashville told of what "Sharing" 'really means. Discussions, in which various aspects of missions were considered, were held on Saturday and Sunday. Dr. H. E. Orr of Maryville was one of the discussion leaders, leading a group of delegates in discussion about the relationship

DEBATE WELL ATTENDED

Tusculum Debates Same Question Here Tonight.

As Maryville's basket-ball season came to a close last Tuesday night the curtains rose on the forensic stage and the mode of battle changed from efforts to subdue opponents by physical prowess to attempts to conquer them by logical reasoning and audacious eloquence.

The season was opened by a debate with the University of Florida. Florida's team consisting of Mr. Connors and Mr. Roberts argued the affirmative and Maryville's team on which were Mr. Courtenay and Mr. Jefferies upheld the negative of the question: Resolved, "That the U. S. Government Should cease to protect the Capital of Citizens Invested in Foreign Countries except after Formal Declaration of war." Both teams acquitted themselves well but the Florida team proved superior to the home team and won a decisive victory.

The decesion was given by the audience. Before the debate each person was asked to vote for the side of the question that he favored. At the close of the debate as similar vote was taken. The first ballot showed 85 people in favor of the affirmative and 100 in favor of the negative side of the question. The second ballot showed 111 people for the affirmative and 74 in favor of the negative. The affirmative persuaded more people to accept their argument, were declared winners.

The debate was well attended considering other detractions on the hill the same evening. Some people were unable to hear the discussion because of the limited seating capacity of the Y. W. Auditorium. It is hoped that such interest in forensics will continue to be shown and arrangements will be made to seat all who attend the next debate. Although several debates will be held on the same question it will continue to be of interest since it is one of the most important questions facing the American people today and is not easily exhausted. Debates can be made both educational and entertaining as the gentlemen from Florida proved to us. Their debates were characterized by humor, originality, and clear illustrations. Students in attending such debates not only show a spirit of loyalty for their school but also hear national problems discussed in an entertaining way.

Maryville meets King and Tusculum Colleges in a triangular debate Friday evening. The affirmative team consisting of Florian Hopkins, Allen Herdman, and Forrest Robinson will debate King at King. The negative team consisting of Arthur Young, Eugene Medcalf, and William Rodgers will debate Tusculum here.

SHORT STORY CONTEST IS ANNOUNCED FOR M. C. STUDENTS

Echo Offers Prize For Best Original Short Story.

ANY STUDENT ELIGIBLE

Several Stories Will Be Printed In The Echo.

Convinced that there is an amount of talent along the short story line among the students of Maryville, and wishing to find such talent, the management of the Echo offers a prize of $5.00 for the best short story submitted by a Maryville student before Friday, April 13.

Owing to the fact that short stories are so varied as to style and length, no restrictions are made as to the subject, treatment, or number of words. These matters lie with the author. But the stories must be original with the author.

Any one now enrolled as a regular or special student may compete. The Echo will print such stories as it considers to be of interest to its readers. The winning story may or may not be printed, so the fact that a story is prnted during the contest neither helps nor hinders its chance of winning the prize.

Dr. Knapp, Miss Jennie Edwards, and Miss Bernice West have kindly consented to judge the stories.

Although hardly any rules restricting the story have been announced, it has been necessary to formulate several rules as to the preparation of the manuscript. These rules must be followed, if a story is to be submitted to the judges. Here they are:

(1) The manuscript must be typewritten.

(2) The manuscript must be signed with a pen name. A slip of paper containing the title of the story, pen name used, and real name of the writer must be sealed in an envelope and accompany the manuscript.

(3) The manuscript must be put in the Echo box in Anderson Hall before 4:00 o'clock on Friday, April 13.

If you follow these rules and write an original, interesting story, you may be the winner. And the sooner it is entered the better chance your story has of being printed in the Echo.

THE LIFE WORK CONFERENCE IS FOR YOU

Take Advantage of The Opportunities It offers

By the time this Echo gets in your hands of Life Work Conference will have introduced itself to you. You will have heard one or two addresses and if you are wise you will have made up your mind to be sure to hear all of them.

The leaders are the very best. Have you had interviews with them? Personal contact will improve your outlook on life and aid you in deciding on your vacation. These men are here to pass on to you some of their knowledge acquired through experience. Use them!

Do not fail to look over the books on display. Those books are displayed for your information and help. Use them!

Ninety Students Achieve Honor Ranking For First Semester

GIRLS OUT NUMBER BOYS ON HONOR ROLL

Kenneth Soukup Heads List Large Number of Honor Students, Freshmen.

Ninety students have achieved the rank of honor student for the first semester. Their names and number of hours and quality credits are here published. One notices many interesting facts about this list. Is it, or is it not significant that of the ninety, only 29 are boys while the girls number 61? Is it also significant that the freshmen class leads with 31 honor students, the junior class follows with 20, and the seniors and sophomore each boast 18 honor students? However, the juniors possess the high point man of last semester, Kenneth Soukup, who acquired 51 quality credits.

The highest records made in each class were:

Senior: Bland Morrow, 18-46.
Junior: Kenneth Soukup, 18-51
Sophomore: Elizabeth King, 17-49
Freshman: Virginia Carter, 15-39

The list of honor students follows. The first number is the number of hours, the second, the number of quality credits.

Baither, Edna, Soph., 17-34.
Baker, Frank, Soph., 18-38.
Benn, Mary, Jr., 18-36.
Brooks, Elizabeth, Jr., 20-49.
Broyles, Bertha, Jr., 15-36.
Broyles, Edna, Fr., 15-36.
Broyles, Florence, Fr., 15-33.
Butten, Stewart, Spec., 15-34.
Candler, Edgar, Sr., 20-42.
Carter, Virginia, Fr., 15-39.
Cline, Nannette, Fr., 15-33.
Clopton, Mary, Sr., 14-33.
Conrad, Edward, Sr., 20-47.
Crawford, Mildred, Fr., 16-37.
Crosby, Robert, Spec., 20-43.
Crow, Elizabeth, Sr., 20-43.

TUSCULUM TROUNCED IN LAST GAME OF SEASON

Highlanders Close Season With Victory.

SCORE IS 30-12

Tusculum Outclassed By Superb Team Work.

The valiant Highlanders brought to a close a successful basket ball season Tuesday night when they trounced the Tusculum Pioneers 30-12. The final outcome of the game was never in doubt.

Bird opened hostilities for Maryville when he caged a basket from the seventeen foot line. Another shot by Bird was good and he immediately followed with a foul throw to send the score to 5-0. Marion sent one through the ring for his first marker. Waddle looped one to keep pace with his teammates. Two baskets by Marion ran the count to 13-0 to end Maryville's scoring momentiraly. Dette, Tusculum's star forward, threw 2 field goals to count the only points made by the visitors in the first half. Baskets by Waddle, Reed, and J. Davis ended the scoring for the half with Maryville leading.

The second half found the visitors fighting for the game. They threatened early when Hughes and Campbell caged baskets in rapid succession. Mann added two points to the Maryville column only to see an equal amount added the otherside of the ledger as Gee made good a crip shot to cut the Highlanders lead to 21-10.

Baskets by J. Davis, Bird, Waddle, Marion, and a foul toss by Bird ended the Highlander's scoring. Dette made his third field goal of the game to make the final 30-12 in favor of the Highlanders.

Both coaches used all of the players they had, each making four substitutions.

Marion, Waddle, and Bird were the outstanding performers on the offense for Maryville. Reed, J. Davis, and Hanna played strong defensive games. Dette was the only offensive star the visitors offered. Hughes, Gee, and Hill played well on defense.

The line-up:

Maryville		Tusculum
30		12
Marion 8	F	Dette 6
Bird 8	E	Moreno
Waddle 6	C	Hill 2
J. Davis 4	G	Gee 2
Reed 2	G	Hughes 2

Substitutions: For Maryville, K. Davis, Mann 2, Hanna, DeLaney; For Tusculum, Acox, Jones, Campbell Reed.

ATHENIAN SOCIETY

The members of Athenian enjoyed a new kind of program Saturday evening, February 25, 1928. The program secretary exchanged programs with Alpha Sigma. The following program was given:

February's Famous Men, Travis Hitt
Travelogue, Morgan Biggs
Reading, Sam Braughton
Pointers for Prospective Spouses, Floyd Geist.
Alpha Sigma Advance, Lawrence Clouser.

Next Saturday evening officers will be elected for third term office. Be there and support your man!

Highlanders' Scoreboard Shows 12 Games Won 9 Lost

Marion Tossed 180 of 640 Total Points Made.

Now that the 1927-1928 basketball season is history a resume of the season just closed is offered to the interested followers of the Highlanders.

A total of twenty-one games were played. Twelve of these were won while nine were lost. Thirten games were played at Maryville. Of the eight games played away from Maryville four were won and four were lost. Consequently of the thirteen home games eight were won and five were lost.

The Highlanders amassed a total of 640 points while their opponents scored 517 points, or the Highlanders scored almost 30 1-2 points per game while their opponents scored about 24 3-5 points in each game.

How Maryville's 640 points were made is as follows:

1 Marion 180
2 Bird 92
3 Waddle 88
4 K. Davis 81
5 J. Davis 66
7 Reed 40
6 Mann 59
8 Hanna 20
9 Stribling 12
10 DeLaney 2

DEBATING IS WORTHY OF YOUR SUPPORT

To those of us who are accustomed to debates where scattered moon-shiners write and pass brief love letters, tried professors nod in distant corners, and a few fellow-debaters take frantic notes on the other side's speeches and register disapproval of ours, the audience of Tuesday night was indeed gratifying. There was a minimum amount of—shall we say extra debate activities?—and a very satisfactory response of interest and enthusiasm.

We could wish, although we scarcely dare to hope, that this might always be the case. After all, is it so very uninteresting to hear problems of the day discussed and clarified? Of course, we don't claim that listening to another fellow spieling forth could ever hold one's interest like watching the star player shoot the basket. Such a claim would be preposterous.

But as college students we can be and are expected to know something of what is going on in the world today. And yet, very few of us even read the newspapers. When we do, we receive only a cursory statement of the situation. Where, then, could we find a better place to get detailed and exact information on current problems than at our inter-collegiate debates?

Take Tuesday night's debate, for example. For the last year and longer the papers have been full of fiery discussions, pro and con, of this very question. Yet how many of us knew as much about the real situation in Nicaragua before we went to the debate as we did afterwards?

The debate schedule for the rest of the year offers not only more information on this same subject, but a discussion of the merits and demerits of protective tariff (which has long been one of the most outstanding political questions in the United States.), and one question which strikes even nearer home than either of these, whether or not inter-collegiate athletics should be abolished.

Remember just one thing more. The debaters have worked just as hard for the college as any star athlete. Of course, they will never get as much honor. We can't expect that. But it would prove a source of gratification to them as well as interest and information to the audience if we could only continue to turn out for Maryville forensics.

WHEN DO WE STAND?

This is not a new question in the mind of the writer—it arises perennially. In College, its recurrence is frequently conditioned by the return of the lyceum season, or by the coming to our platform of a certain type of musical performance. The question had its latest arousal at the time of the Lowell Patton concert last week.

The use of Dixie to arouse the enthusiasm of a Southern audience is a pretty piece of diplomacy, and frequently concert directors use it very successfully. Those who come here apparently assume that we are in the majority from the South, which may or may not be true. Certainly we who are from the South are not ashamed of it. But the question remains, "Do we, or do we not, stand when the band plays Dixie?" Does anyone know?

Without question, there should be an established practice with regard to this matter. The writer, a Southerner, never fails to thrill when the band plays Dixie. He has been known to stand, and, on occasion, he has refrained from standing. It is embarrassing to stand when no one in the immediate vicinity is standing. It is humiliating to start to stand and find oneself awkwardly divided between two opinions, running the risk of standing alone or being one of a very few standers. Or, if one is a part of a considerable group standing, with another considerable group staring, one wonders if high loyalties demand a display of petty sectionalism.

If one has not the courage to be conspicuous, has not the courage to appear to foster sectionalism, he sits quietly by, belittled in the sight of himself for his seeming denial of an allegiance of which he is not ashamed, despising himself for his lack of courage, yet not quite sure there is a real justification for the partially established practice of standing when the band plays Dixie.

The question would probably not arise in a community made up entirely of Southernors. (Nor, of course, in a community of Northernors.) Either they would stand, or they would not. The presence of two groups, one of which feels no call to stand, the other being unsure, makes the question a question.

Perhaps theres a soundly established custom that Southernors should stand. The writer seems to have recollections of Simon Pure Southern groups who did not stand. Perhaps, in the absence of an established custom, we may assume that we should not stand. At any rate, do we, all Southernors, stand, or do we continue to do so hesitantly, unsure of the rest of our fellow-Sothernors' doing likewise, afraid that we may be a conspicuous one in a group of Northernors and others "who do not choose to stand."

GLEE SINGERS GET AWAY FOR CHANGE OF FOOD

At Friday noon, most of the noise on the hill died away with the departure of twenty-one of Maryville's loudest men—and one of her loudest professors, bound for Newport and Sevierville. The noise, in fact, was increased by a cow-poker game between the forces of Anderson and Buchanan. The number of cows reported by lookouts and henchmen of both sides finally ran into the hundreds.

On arrival at Newport, a committee appointed, composed of French, Davis, and Carter. These gentlemen furnished the club with a pint or more of cool fresh spring water, which was promptly turned to steam in the initiatory ceremonies that followed. The three whom the ceremonies chiefly concerned showed great consideration during the evening meal in refusing to take seats, probably in order that other members of the club might have a larger choice.

After the concert which was enjoyed by more than two hundred, some few members of the club foolishly attempted to sleep. After various and sundry midnight pillow fights and face washings, however, they finally gave up in despair at about seven o'clock in the morning. Then, after Holman had finished his seventh egg, the club embarked for Sevierville.

Due to the genuis that will sooner or later make Manager Dance famous, the club enjoyed a free program at the local theater before giving their concert at Sevierville High. Just as soo nas the last notes of Alma Mater died away, the club got off for home, arriving just in time to be tucked in by Mr. Mac.

After a much-needed layoff Sunday, the singers gave Alcoa a taste of harmony. The program there was so well received that it took fully ten minutes to persuade the audience to leave after the program was over.

HIGHLANDERS WIN AND LOSE ON ROAD TRIP

The Maryville College cage team returned from the upper East Tennessee road-trip last Saturday tired but happy for they had split on the trip, winning two games and losing an equal number.

The first stop off for the Highlanders was at Johnson City.

The boys trounced the Teachers 33-27. Marion, Bird, and Waddle were instrumental in handing the teachers their defeat.

The Highlanders next stopped at Emory, Virginia. Here they lost 17-18, to Emory and Henry College. Scoring honors were divided between the players. The guarding of J. Davis and Reed was almost perfect as the Emory and Henry forwards managed to cage a field goal apiece.

Turning home-ward, the Highlanders next stopped to subdue the King College Tornado. The Highlanders, behind the brilliant offensive playing of Marion and Bird and the defensive work of J. Davis and Reed, won 33-16.

The next important stop was at Tusculum College. Tired from continuous travel and meeting a fast team the Highlanders went down in defeat 32-19.

The summary of the trip is as follows:

At Johnson City, Tenn. Feb. 21

MODEL OF ORIGINAL "LOG CABIN COLLEGE IN MESUM

Alice Renegar

There are a great many interesting objects in our college museum. However, the one which should be more interesting to the students of Maryville College than all the rest is a miniature log cabin made from timber of the first academy which was the forerunner of Maryville College. This academy, which was cahmonly called the "Log College," was established in 1802 by Dr. Isaac Anderson in Grassy Valley, Tennessee. Of this college Dr. Anderson was both president and faculty. Quite a number of young men came to study under his wise and efficient guidance For a great many years he supervised his little "Log College" in Grassy Valley and was then called to Maryville. Although Dr. Anderson could not bring his "Log College" with him, he did bring his pupils, and finally succeeded in obtaining a crude school building in which he could hold his classes.

When the first "Log College" was torn down Rev. W. E. B. Harris, who graduated from Dr. Anderson's Maryville College in 1876, obtained some of the timber, and constructed this tiny cabin which is in our museum. Although this cabin is not made on the exact plan of the original "Log College," it does bear some resemblance to it. The chimney of this tiny cabin is made of marble, which was found on Rev. Harris' farm. The little door of the cabin is hung on tiny carved wooden hinges. The cabin contains a small table and long benches, placed around the walls of the one room. One can almost picture the good old teacher, Dr. Isaac Anderson seated before this table.

REHEARSALS OF THETA'S "OLD LADY 31" PROMISE ENTERTAIN MIDWINTER

Layman in the center of the stage, swathed in blankets and clasping a hot-water bottle; Jimmie Rule being deliciously coaxed into marrying her ancient sweetheart; Billy Crawford, deaf but not so dumb, cherishing a demi-john and a scathing opinion of women in general.

The rehearsals give promise of a highly entertaining play, so let's all go to "Old Lady 31."

of the church to missions. Sectional groups met under the leadership of returned missionaries, who also in platform speeches told of their experiences on the field. Dr. Robert McMullen of Hanchow, China, made the closing address which took the form of an appeal to witness for Jesus Christ abroad and at home.

Maryville College was especially interested in this conference because Miss Mary Eleanor Welbon, as vice-president of the State Student Volunteer Union, was chairman of the conference committee and as such was responsible for the program and all the arrangements for the conference. That the students of Maryville College felt the importance of the conference and the necessity of supporting Mis Welbon in her work was shown by the large attendance from Maryville. Sixteen students and two faculty members represented the school at this student gathering. It is hoped that they profited much from the conference and will pass on to the students of Maryville College what they received from the leaders and from students of other schools of the state.

LUDVIK BURIAN, CLASS OF '14 WRITES INTERESTING LETTER

Ludvik Burian, a native of Bohemia who graduated from Maryville in 1914 has written a letter to the secretary of the Alumni Association We reprint the letter in full and wish to thank the Association for the privilege of using it.

My Dear Friends:

I am one of those fellows that dislikes to write in general and almost hates to write about himself. There are several good reasons for this, the principal one, that there is nothing notable or interesting to write about myself.

After my graduation in 1914 I went to Union Theological Seminary and Columbia University in New York; then was an assistant pastor at the Jan Hus Church, New York City and finally went overseas and for 18 months served as a Y.M.C.A. secretary with the Czechoslovak Legions in France, Italy and Slovakia. Those were the days of real work. Being the only Y. secretary with the 28,000 soldiers I had plenty to do. My work was somewhat different from the usual Y.M.C.A. work for I had no huts or canteens and with the exception of writing paper and good humor had no other supplies whatsoever. Yet without false pride I can look upon these days as the days of real and blessed work, work that was fully appreciated both by the legionaries and even more by countless thousands of prisoners of war who were concentrated in dozens of terrible camps. In December 1918 I went with the Czechoslovak army to Slovakia and stayed there for 11 months. I was the first Y.M.C.A. worker in this new republic and also have the honor of establishing the first two Y.M.C.A. centers there, in Trencin and Bratislava.

In 1920 I was called by the Bohemian Presbyterian Church at Hopkins, Minn., and ever since am located there. This is the church I wished to serve. A small country church but with great possibilities, located in a beautiful country settled by progressive farmers, thus giving me an opportunity for quiet and constructive work. Here also I have learned that one cannot accomplish much without an helper and advisor. So in 1921 I married the best girl in Minnesota and ever since the Good Lord is giving us increase in everything but salary. The church membership was more than doubled (from 142 to 304) and in our family we received an additional membership of 150 per cent, in the most welcomed gifts of three bright and beautiful daughters: Florence, Helen and Evangeline. Besides my family and church work I am very much interested in beekeeping and this year my bees produced over two tons of honey. Thus I am trying to make this world better and sweeter.

Although I have my own home, yet I never will forget that Maryville College was my first real home in The United States. I came there as a foreigner not knowing English, without money and friendless, but Maryville gladly and generously gave me all these and even much more. There under the patient instructions I soon learned enough English to understand, and with the aid of "self help" opportunities I was able to meet all my expenses and in the body of thousands of students I found nothing but friendship, sympathy and willingness to help. No wonder that after five happy years it was just as hard for me to part with Maryville as when leaving my own old home.

But Maryville College gave me more than merely an education or joy of pure friendship, Maryville gave me a new outlook into real useful life, the outlook of unselfish Christian service. I came to her with my own dreams and plans for wealth and fame but under the unselfish leadership and service of Christian instructors I soon learned that true wealth and fame is not in gold or praise, but in unselfish giving of oneself to make this word better and happier; and from the examples and influence of fellow students I caught a vision of broader friendship and was inoculated with missionary spirit. The names of Dr. Wilson, Miss Snodgrass (now Mrs. F. Proffitt) Miss Mary Alexander, Miss Green, Prof. Gillingham, F. Proffitt, E. Walker, Dr. Lyon, Major Ben Cunningham, Charles and Helen Silsby, G. H. Douglas, Miss May Swanner, Charlotte Landes, Cross brothers and many others always will be dear to me and in the depths of my heart many times I thanked the Good Lord for guiding my steps to dear old Maryville.

This is already too long an epistle, So I close in best wishes to all and in sincere invitation to any of you to drop in and visit us in God's Great Northwest.

Ludvik Burian.

VOL. 13 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, MARCH 9, 1928 NUMBER 20

FORENIC ARTISTS ARE COMING TO THE FORE

Crowded Schedule For Next Week Will Include Many Debaters

TRIP TEAM TO CONVENTION WILL BE PICKED

Will Be One More Debate With Audience As Judges.

On Friday night in the Y. W. C. A., auditorium the girls' debate team will usher in a round of forensic activities. The college students have responded well to the two earlier debates and are now expected to help in any possible way the course of the forthcoming debates. On Friday night Miss Sharpe and Miss Crow will debate the negative against Carson-Newman there. On the same night Miss Gillingham and Miss Minton will hold the floor here against Carson-Newman's traveling team.

On Monday, March 12, Young and Sutton will debate the affirmative for Maryville at Emory and Henry, while Franklin and Hopkins debate the negative at Lincoln Memorial University. The two opposing teams —Emory and L. M. U. meet here the same night and debate, the audience being judges.

The girls' traveling team, Miss Niles and Miss Rhea, debating the Free Trade question will meet Berea there on Tuesday, March 13. On the 14th they travel to Asbury and on the 16 to Bowling Green Kentucky. This last opponent is a new entrant to Maryville foresenic tilts.

The home team, Miss Sharpe and Miss Mevis, will debate Berea here on the 13th and Asbury on the 14th.

On March 19 Mr. Courtenay and Mr. Franklin will uhold the affirmative against Chattanooga here.

When these debates are finished Mr. Queener will select the trip team who on March 30th leave to represent Maryville at the Pi Kappa Detla Convention, Tiffin, Ohio, at Heidelberg College.

THREE WILL READ IN FIRST GRADUATE RECITAL

Program Starts Chain of Expression Recitals.

The Expression Department announces the first recital of this year to be given on the evening of Mar. 26 at 8:00 o'clock. In the past these recitals have been entertaining and have exhibited skilled and artistic readings. And from the first program it seems that this record is to be upheld.

The three graduates on that evening who will read are Dorothy McCulloch, Ellen Cowan, and Emily Minton. Miss McCulloch is a well known actor in plays presented on the Hill and in town. She will read "Thursday Evening." Miss Cowan will be remembered for her excellent work in the College Player's production. She will read "Mary Rose" by Barrie. Miss Minton will read Rostand's masterpiece, "Cyrano de Bergerac." From all that we have seen of her former work, we predict that she will present this lovable hero in all his glory and humor.

MARTHATON RACERS HAVE STARTED PRACTICE RUNS

Many Of Last Year's Team Are Present

NEW MEN ALSO OUT

Schedule For Track Meets Include Important Teams.

Last Thursday Coach Bob Thrower called out his cinder path artists and put them to work. There are nine letter men who will be looked upon to bear the burden of making a fast track team. The team will be built around these men that helped make last year's track season a success. They are Crawford, Capt., hurdler and broad jumper; Mann, manager, miler and two miler, Williams and Taggart, dash men; Stone, javelin, Brock, Wright. L. McDonald, high jump and hurdler; Milling 440 yard run and pole vault; Peterson middle distance and javelin.

There is a bountiful supply of men interested, and with meets like Tennessee and Sewanee evryman will be expected to do his best.

Maryville has a good schedule this year, four meets will be held away from home, and there are two home meets that are pending.

The schedule is as follows:
Tenn.—There April 7

Sewanee—. . There, April 14
L. M. U. —There, April 21
Birmingham Southern —Here Apr. 28.

Emory Henry—There May 5
Georgetown—Here, May 12.

MARYVILLE-NASHVILLE CLUB MEETS

The Maryville-Nashville Club met Tuesday evening, Feb. 28, in the Social Religious Building of the Geo. Peabody College at Nashville.

Old Maryville spirit was recalled and relived for a few short hours. Maryville College songs were sung in the true Maryville way and even some of Maryville College's own good jokes were recalled by our jokester, Ed Cathey, in particular and others in general.

After refreshments were devoured (I'm going to be good to you and not make your mouths water by telling you what we had) and the night watchman flashed the lights we adjourned to meet again March 30th at the Southern Y. M. C. A.

SOCCER CHAMPIONSHIP GOES TO SOPHOMORES

Freshmen Co-eds Beaten Twice By Upper Class Teams.

G. MANGES MAKES FINAL GOAL

Sophs Battle Way to Championship Over Juniors.

Immediately following the basket ball tournament the saccer tournament games were run off and the Sophs are now the newly crowned champs.

Two times the Freshmen were forced to bow before the upper classmen. In the first game with the Sophs they were defeated 1-0 Captain Clopton was as successful in kicking goal that time as she had been previously in knocking the electrical fixtures loose in the top of the building.

The Freshmen encountered the Juniors in their second contest. R. Laughead scored two points early in the game and the Frosh held the Juniors scoreless until the last few minutes of play when E. Sherrord scored two points in quick succession. When the final whistle blew the score was 2-2. But Captain Carver was forced to forfeit the game because she lacked one player having a complete team. So the credit of the victory goes to the Juniors.

Great interset was displayed when the Sophomores and Juniors entered the final game of the saccer tournament. Each player was trying to exhibit their ability to use ten toes and one head better than her opponent. But it was left up to the least little blond on the floor to place the ball between the parallel lines to the satisfaction of the referee. Garnet Manges scored the one point that gave the victory to the Sophs.

The game was played not only on the floor but the players also used their heads and made it a much more interesting game to follow.

The line-up was as follows:

Juniors (0)	Position	Sophs (1)
E. Campbell	L. W.	M. Crawford
M. Swann	R. W.	F. Craibill
J. Sherrill	R. F.	M. Haynie

National School To Recognize Work Of Expression Department

Leland Powers' School of Expression Will Give Credit to Maryville's Graduates.

MARYVILLE IS ONLY SCHOOL TO BE THUS HONORED

Department Secures Distinction Because of Work of Instructors.

Every Maryvillian is aware of the outstanding excellence of the College Expression Department, therefore we can not help but feel an added pride to know that the Leland Powers School of Expression in Boston also considers its work of high value.

Mrs. Powers writes Mrs. West, the head of our Department as follows: "Since the subjects of our Freshman year can be covered by your department I see no reason why credit can not be given to your graduate students—especially since your teachers are able graduates of our school."

For years Mrs. West has used the Powers method of instruction, and the teachers under her have been graduates of that school, because she has realized its recognized precedence over that of other methods.

However, graduate students after

ALUMNI BULLETIN

The Maryville College Bulletin has published its annual alumni number. Many interesting facts have come to light.

The class of 1918 is especially invited to return for a class reunion during commencement. This commencement will be the Liberty class, tenth anniversary.

The four members of the fifty year class of 1878, of whom Dr. Wilson was a member, are all alive.

SPRING IS HERE! WE TALK OF BASEBALL

Four Positions Are Open on Varsity Team

MICHIGAN STATE HERE FOR FIRST GAME

Prospects Are Bright For This Year's Team to Rival Last Year's.

At the first of the school year the whole talk was football. Football was the throned king. He had his brief reign and abdicated. His successor was basketball, the hardwood sport.

Now comes the king of all sports, baseball, who issued his call to the colors.

About thirty-five aspirants for a position on the Maryville five have heard the call and responded by putting in their appearance on March 1, to be instructed by Coach Honaker in the finer points of the game.

Last year Maryville had one of her best baseball teams and the prospects for this year are almost as good. Harvey, McCall, Cartwriht, and Shanks, all of whom had played four years are gone and their places must be filled. There are four positions open, one on the pitching staff, two infield positions, and one outfield position. There is plenty of material but it is too early to predict just what men will be selected to fill the vacancies.

The opening game of the season is not far off. The Highlanders will meet Michigan state here March 29, and 30. This team was here last year and made such a good impression and found such a good baseball team that they desired to return to Maryville for another year.

With Capt. Horace Clemens, behind the plate, Gabbard, Stone, and Blazer, on the mound, Davis at first and Bird at third, the inner defense is partly taken care of. For the outfield position there is Michlisch in left field, and Stone in centerfield and if he is pitching Blazer can play the position. These men form the nucleus of Maryville baseball machine. So fans, begin to talk baseball and think baseball and watch for the the schedule in the next issue of the Highland Echo.

STAFF TAKES HOLIDAY

There will be no Echo next week; the staff is going fishing to celebrate.

THIRTY-FIVE ARE IN ADVANCED GYM CLASSES

Miss Norton Wishes to Make Course Available to Every Girl.

Perhaps you have often wondered where those girls were going across the campus. They swing ballet slippers in their hands and wrap their coats closely about them, but sometimes colors too unusual and bright for ordinary school clothes peep thru. They are the advanced gym girls, hurrying to their classes. And they wear beneath their coats their gym costumes. But such costumes! Of any color in the rainbow which the wearer particularly likes, they are straight, sleeveless affairs belted at the waist. When the thirty-five girls who compose the several classes enter the gym they throw off their coats and appear attired for their class.

As they go through the steps of this day's partcular exercise, there is much waving of arms and carefully balanced attitudes. As the music finally "gets into them," as they express it, they move with more certainty and grace.

This new departure in the gymnasium course was sponsored by the expression department of the college in order that its graduates should learn grace and control of movement. Miss Norton, the gym intructor, consented to take on the extra work of directing the classes. She is a competent instructor, and is especially interested in these classes.

The work began at the first of last year and has continued. The girls themselves express great interest in the class and are working hard. The fruits of their efforts will be seen on May Day at the annual program.

Miss Norton is exceedingly anxious that all the girls of the college who desire such a course may have it opened to them. At present, only expression students may join these classes, but it is hoped that soon this course will be open to every girl in school who desires to put in some hard work in acquiring grace of movement.

CONCERNING A CUSTOM

There are two reasons for this article: (1) There are rumors regarding the matter treated herein, and rumors are likely to be inaccurate. A definite statement is therefore desirable. (2) The matter is one of general student interest; secrecy was never intended with regard to it, nor would any apparent advantage be secured thereby.

Some of us have been here nearly four years, others less than that all the way down to less than one year. Doubtless we all recognize the presence no the campus of a custom that is of little, if any benefit, a custom which we are imposing upon ourselves, and, moreover, one productive of narrowed areas of friendship and human understanding. If you have heard the rumors, and they were not too distorted, you have guessed that we are talking of the convention that obtains very widely at Maryville whereby the fact of a boy and girl's having "dated" together a few times causes the rest of the world, so far as our community is concerned, and oftentimes the parties themselves, to take it for granted that permanent relationships have been established between them.

Dissatisfaction with this state of affairs is voiced by both boys and girls, some of the boys having at one time this year undertaken, with more or less success, a counter convention. The girls, with less field for concerted action, have taken their objections out in talking. The point is, however, that at least a considerable number of the students are aware of the unwholesome consequences of this conventional attitude and would like to change it.

The first of such undesirable results that comes to one's minds is that this convention results in the limiting of one's friendships. To make a sample case: A girl and boy may begin going together in their Freshman year. According to the code, no boys ask the girl for dates after she has had two or three with the aforementioned boy. It is possible, and we are tempted to say it happens with some frequence, that a boy and girl may, without interruption or prolonged sieges of disagreement, date with each other exclusively for the rest of their four college years. In any case, contacts and wholesome friendships are limited.

It also encourages on the part of the parties concerned a premature and unwholesome acceptance of the idea that they have found their lifemate, when perhaps they think so only because of "outside pressure"

(the convention), or because the extent of their friendships is so limited that they have not developed the discriminating taste that might come by having a larger group of friends of the opposite sex. To say the least, as a convention it is silly and unnecessary.

The would-be reformers do not, of course, deny that there are couples who are thoroughly convinced that they are ready to concentrate. There is no desire to encourage variety where variety is very evidently not wanted. The group that has been discussing it—a rather heterogeneous group we may say—is interested only that those who want to feel free to deviate from the practice of dating consistently with one person may do so without the disapprobation of either boys or girls; that if a boy and girl are good friends and wish to remain so, yet wish to have other friends and date with them on occasion, they may do so without misunderstanding or criticism. And, of course, those who are inclined to want to continue the present practice, are just as free to do so.

The group discussing this matter bound itself in no agreement, nor passed any resolution. There was a general feeling, however, that the convention is undesirable; that the way to dispose of an undesirable convention is to displace it by a better one. The going contrary to custom is easier, of course, if there are others doing the same thing, or if at least people understand the spirit in which it is done. Obviously those in sympathy with the spirit of this "movement," if it may be dignified by such a name, whether or not they were in the original group who started the discussion, are free to consider themselves a part of the project and entitled to its benefits. Some may think the idea entirely out of order, It is not necessary to say that the thing to do with such opinion is to express it.

PIANO STUDENTS GIVE TWLIGHT CONCERT

This afternoon the piano students of the music department presented a program in the Chapel sponsored by the Chilhowee Club of the town, who invited the Tuesday Club and other friends as guests. It was a beautiful program and well rendered. The girls played well as a result of their weeks of hard study on the numbers. The program was as follows:

Gavotte ..... Brahms
Marion Johnson

Berceuse ..... Chopin
Prelude No. 24 ..... Chopin
Garnet Manges

Ehe Erl King ..... Schubert Liszt
Lucy Horton

Burlesque Caprice .... Gabrilowitch
Fancher Smartt

Waltz Lente ..... Debussy
Anita Allen

Concert Etude ..... Mac Dowell
Marion Johnson

The piano recitals of the graduates of the music department will be given in a few weeks.

WHAT ARE THE PREACHERS DOING?

Wha'd' Ya Mean, Preacher?

"Ha'd'y, preacher." We have often used, and heard used, this very common phrase. We have applied it to certain fellows on the campus as well as to more intimate friends—Ministers of the Gospel.

Just what have these fellows whom we call by that endearing term, done since September? Of course many (in fact all of them) are members of one or the other literary societies—why shouldn't the meetings be literary (now and then)?

Outside of the regular meetings every Wednesday after supper, the Ministerial Association has stretched its growing limbs into several fields of activity. Take a bottle of pop or some good ginger-ale and keep shaking it vigorously. "Pop" goes—something must give way. We will all agree that pop and ginger-ale are all right in its place. Why waste it? The members of the M. A. have a place and have been trying. But those who have really upheld the "preacher" end of the game are the fellows who, every Sunday, can be seen going out to Bungalowtown; Six Mile Baptist church; Cumberland and countless other such little nooks and crannies." I understand they have been well-thought of and taken care of. In fact only one who has sat at a feast as only those good women prepare, can appreciate such an apparently bold statement. Some of the boys try to explain that they cannot preach such a good sermon on a full stomach as the president of the association put it on one such occasion. The lady of the house was unable to attend the "preaching service" but instructed her husband to come back and tell her all about it. After the service he was asked how the sermon was, "Huh, might as well huv et," was the reply.

"Preachers"—and those "in the making" are sociable creatures and have a sense of humor. One good time was had out in the woods in the early fall with Miss Molly as chaperone. She's a good booster. I think Miss Molly would advise the girls to "Act your best. The Preacher's Banquet comes soon."—withal Spring—naturally.

HOPES TEAM WINS IN INTRA-MURAL BASKET-BALL MEET

The inter-mural basketball tournament came to a thrilling close when Capt. Bill Hope led his team to a 19 16 victory over the quintette captained by Ray Thornton. In all the games the fighting spirit was shown, and in some cases points were bitterly discussed. There were eleven games played and ninetysix players took part. All players and spectators of the tournament seemed to enjoy themselves immensely. Lowell McDonald- Williamson, Watkins, Pope, Morrison, Goddard, Partee, Farn, and Wilson stood out for their respective teams.

First Round

Gabbard defeated Kinck 23-14
Hope defeated Whitehead 23-7
Thornton defeated Williamson 29-15
Story defeated Brooks, 20-5
Pope defeated Morrison, 23-10
Watson defeated Murphy 13-8.

Second Round

Williams P Forward
Blazer H Forward
Hope H Center
Story S Guard
Stinnett P Guard.

Stribbling, McMillian and Crawford refereed all the games, and "Brute" Crow kept score.

Credit should be given to John Taggart newly elected athletic director of the Y.M.C.A., for the success of this tournament. Mr. Taggart has many more contests to be held during the next three months. He is trying to get every man in school interested in some form of athletics.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

"REVOLT IN THE DESERT"
T. E. Lawrence

If you like adventure, if you read Kipling with relish, if you long to visit the far tribes of the earth—if above all you admire Colonel Lawrence, that cool headed Englishman who during the World War stirred up an Arab revolt against the Turks, then you must not rest until you have dipped into this unique and gripping tale written by Colonel Lawrence.

He takes you into the tents of the Arab shieks, into hot skirmishes with the Turks, into the councils of General Allenby, into Jerusalem at the moment of triumph.

Each man of the countless procession that moves through the crowded pages is individual, vital, alive. And among them moves T. E. Lawrence, slim, energetic, contemptuous of established custom, straight thinking and whimsical.

We introduce Colonel Lawrence!

ALPHA SIGMA

NATIONAL SCHOOL TO RECOGNIZE WORK OF EXPRESSION DEPT.

3 or 4 years work were unable to receive any credit if they desired to continue their studies in Expression. Under the new arrangement a year's credit will be given the graduate of the Maryville Expression Department—a distinction which has been granted to no other college in the U. S.

The factor that has made this possible is the untiring combined efforts of Mrs. West, Miss Edwards and Miss Schiebler in endeavoring to hold all the work of the Department to the highest possible standard. It is only due to their earnest striving for the best that in all the coming years Maryville will look with honest pride upon her Expression Dept., that has had such a singular distinction laid upon her.

Theta Alpha Phi to Award Trophy for Best Midwinter

Loving Cup to be Presented To Literary Society Putting On Best Play.

YEARLY AWARD WILL SPONSOR GOOD DRAMATICS

If Won For Three Years, Cup Becomes Permanent Possession.

There are trophies and trophies. Some go to athletic heroes and some to oratorical contestants. Why not a trophy for dramatic excellence? Certainly Maryville has enough variety of dramatic presentations to afford sufficient and active competition for such an award.

The local chapter of Theta Alpha Phi has realized this situation, and in order to add to the general interest in damatics, to keep a high standard of dramatic production has decided to award each year a silver loving cup to the society which presents the best all-round Midwinter of the year.

The society which wins this trophy for three successive years may keep it as a well-deserved award for their dramatic worth.

The Midwinters will be judged according to the intrinsic worth of the play itself; the individual acting of the entire cast; and the lighting and stage effects.

It will be no easy task to make such a decision, but the Award Committee is made up of those well qualified to pass judgment on both the literary and dramatic merit of the productione. The first award will be for the past Midwinter season. The decision of the Committee will be announced in an early issue. The cup will be oficially awarded during Commencement Week.

Three Weeks Remain For Short Story Contest

Several Stories Are Handed In; Unusual Pen Names Accompany Them.

To judge by the short stories already submitted in the Echo short story contest there are Tarkingtons and Poes and Hawthornes among us, but they go by fearful and wondrous names. For instance, one remarkable story was written by a student who signed a more remarkable name, "Xantippe Asterhout." Then there is a Mr.—never mind; it is a name that closely resembles the lost chord.

The stories so far are good, and a difficult task lies before the judges in selecting the best story if the remaining manuscripts keep up the standard of the first ones.

The contest colses April 13th. Three weeks remain in which to evolve your production, type it, sign a pen-name, enclose pen-name, real name, and title of story in an accompanying envelope and leave it in the Echo box.

So get busy. The five dollars that will be awarded as the prize might possibly be used to good advantage.

On page three of this edition of the Echo we print the story submitted by "Katherine West." Owing to its length, it was necessary to divide the story. The concluding part will be published next week. We hope you will enjoy it.

CANDIDATES SELECTED FOR MAY DAY HONORS

May Queen Soon to be Chosen From These Royal Four.

Spring has certainly come. The annual May Day program is in the making. The class contestants for the title of May Queen have been elected, and from these four the reigning beauty will soon be selected by the student body.

The freshmen have chosen Miss Naomi Agons as their representative, the sophomores Miss Louise Carson, the juniors Miss Mattie Gregg, and the seniors, Miss Josephine Parker.

One of these four will march down the aisle on May Day in white coronation robe to a throne where she will be crowned Queen of May. The other three will be her attendants. As a very minor incident to the whole affair, four young men will make their appearance as respective escorts. These are, for obvious reasons, not elected by vote of the student body. But it remains a question of interest as to the identity of the Four.

DEBATERS HAVE FINISHED SIX DEBATES; FIVE REMAIN

All Teams Have Been Holding Their Own In Decisions

CONFERENCE TEAM CHOSEN

Team To Represent Maryville Will Enter Lists At Heidelberg.

Within the last two weeks the Maryville debate season has gotten into full swing, six debates having been held, one trianglar, three dual, and two single. The debates have been holding their own rather well, winning at both ends of one dual debate, the decision in one single debate, and half of each of the other two dual debates.

The following is a detailed account of the debates:

On the Pi Kappa Delta question: Resolved taht the U. S. should cease ta protect capital invested in foreign countries, except after formal declaration of war.

Dual debate, girls against Carson-Newman, won both places.

Triangular delate: Boys against Emory Henry and L. M. U. lost both places.

Single debate: Boys against University of Chattanooga, won.

On the tariff question: Resolved that the U. S. should abandon the policy of a protective tariff.

Dual debate: Girls against Berea, lost here, won there.

Dual debate: Girls against Asbury, won here, lost there.

Single debate: Girls against Bowling Green, lost.

The debate season is not yet closed by any means. We have ahead of us the followin schedule:

Pi Kappa Delta Question: March 30, Boys' dual debate with Berea. April 6. Girls' dual debate with L. M. U. April 13. Girls' dual debate with East Tennessee.

Teachers' College: Freshman question: Resolved that intercollegiate athletics should be abolished April 9. Boys' dual debate with University of Tennessee.

April 19. Girls' dual debate with

Louie Reed, Captain

REED CHOSEN NEXT BASKETBALL CAPTAIN

Popular Basket Ball Star Deserves Honor; is Expected To Lead a Winning Five Next Season.

Louie Reed was elected by his teammates to captain the Highlanders' five next year at a meeting of the men held recently.

Reed hails from Lorrain, Ohio. He has played two years on the hardwood floor at Maryville. He was a member of the 1924-1925 machine but was not in school for two years. This year the call was too strong and Louie returned to Maryville to take up where he left off two years before. When basketball was started Reed was there and soon showed that he had lost none of his old time form. His playing at guard throughout the season was a fine piece of work.

Louie will make the Highlanders a good leader. He is a hard worker, a consistent trainer, and popular with his teammates. With these qualities he should have a great year as leader of the Highlander five.

Reed is fortunate in having all of this year's letter men back next year and these men are Marion, Davis, K. Davis, Bird, Waddle, Mann and himself. With these men back Maryville fans can prepare for some real basketball games next year.

Louie, we congratulate you on your well deserved honor.

The Courting Of Sam McGhee

(Editor's note: We were intending to reserve this short story, submitted in the Echo contest, for next weeks' burlesque edition, but felt that such genius should not be supressed.)

Marjorie, in stunning costume and carrying a cane, swung up the steps of the house where Sam McGhee lived. A maid opened the door. "Step into the dining room, ma'am, Sam will be down directly," said the maid.

Marjorie waited. At last a step was heard on the stairs, and then a lovely vision stood framed in the doorway. It was Sam. His face was smooth shaven. His dark auburn hair was combed from the left side and a small tuft stuck up coquettishly at the back. His blue eyes sparkled rivaling the diamond which gleamed from his necktie. His red lips, slightly parted, revealed his white, pearly teeth.

Marjorie's heart was thumping madly as she advanced to meet him. Sam, on the contrary, was perfectly calm. They sat down. Marjorie could not keep her eyes from the vision of loveliness before her. Oh, if she could but win him for her own. How she would work and slave to

Encounter With Michigan State Begins Career of Baseball Team

Second Base And Rightfield Still Undecided.

MANY GAMES SCHEDULED

Highlanders Are Working Hard on The Field; Good Season Expected.

The Maryville College Highlander nine will swing into action next Thursday afternoon when they meet Michigan State in the first game of a two-day series. Bad weather has been prevalent for several days and the Highlanders have been practicing indoors but every available moment of fair weather has been used.

Maryville defeated Michigan last year on the local diamond and is hopeful of victory again this year.

Coach Honaker is facing a difficult task in the selection of the keystone guardian, McConnaughhay, Layman, McMillan, Williams, and Hanna are working hard to get the starting call. Mischlich has been tried at second base. There is a possibility of his being shifted from left field. Blazer, though a pitcher, can play second and might get the call for the opening game. Besides the second position Coach has rightfield vacant. But if Gann is in condition, either he or Blazer will chase batted balls in that territory in the opening games.

The battery for the opening game will be Gabbard and Clemens. Gabbard seems to have a world of stuff this year and should go well. J. Davis will hold down first base; DeLaney will play third, Bird has been shifted to shortstop; Mischlich will be found in left field and Stone will perform in the center. These men are certain to start and only second base and right field are undecided.

Manager Layman announces the following schedule:

March 29, 30 Michigan State (Here)
April 11, Indiana University (Here)
April 18, 19 Carson-Newman (Here)
April 2, 28, Road Trip (Upper East Tenn.)
May 5 Lenoir-Rhyne (Here)
May 7, 8, Howard (Here)
May 9, 10 Carson-Newman (There)
May 11, 12 Birmingham Southern (Here)
May 16, 17, Emory-Henry (Here)

Games will be played with the Knoxville Smokies and L. M. U. but the dates have not been arranged.

MARYVILLE ALUMNUS IS PASTOR IN AUSTRALIA

Rev. Marguire, Class of '01, Finds Life Work at St. Giles Church, Geelong.

Maryville's Alumni are scattered all over the globe. One of them, the Rev. Thomas Worsley Marguire is in Australia. Rev. Marguire is the minister of the St. Giles Church, Geelong, which celebrated its eightieth anniversary last year. Many improvements have been made in the church since Rev. Maguire has been the minister; the remodeling of the manse, the remodeling and modernizing of the pipe organ, and the rebeautifying of the interior of the church and Sunday school. The St. Giles church today is well organized and has a powerful influence with a communion roll of 216. The fame of Rev. Marguire's choir has traveled far. All who come in contact with him sing his praises.

Rev. Marguire (he was called Tom at Maryville) is a member of the class of 1901. He was active in Athenian and Y. M. C. A., a good boxer, and an excellent student.

MISS KEENER ENTERTAINS LYCEUM AUDIENCE

Sang a Varied and Brilliant Selection of Opera and Folk Songs.

COSTUMES WERE BEAUTIFUL

Numbers Were Encored Again And Again

Last night Miss Suzanne Keener, coloratura soprano, entertained a delighted lyceum audience with a varied program.

The petite Miss Keener captivated her audience by the first selections. They were difficult, but Miss Keener's voice was quite equal to any of the taxing demands made upon it. She had command of such a range of tone that she moved easily from the lowest notes to the highest and most difficult.

The operatic selections from "Mignon" and "Barber of Seville" were enjoyed. During the last number she exhibited a charming rage so well by pantomime and voice that the audience laughed delightedly.

The two costumes were truly beautiful and splendid. The Norwegian songs gained added interest from the national costume Miss Keener wore. There has hardly been on the Maryville stage a prettier sight than Miss Keener in the powdered wig and enormous billowing skirts of the period of Louis XIV.

This lyceum program was much enjoyed by the audience. The combination of a charming singer, beautiful costumes, and a clear, flute-like voice made the evening a delightful one.

Billy Rogers Wins $100 In Alexander Contest

Wins Over Four Contestants In Oratorical Contest.

Yesterday morning the contest for the $100 awarded in the T. T. Alexander oratorical contest was colsed when William Rodgers secured the prize. Rodgers and Wilbur Franklin were the two final contestants. They delivered their oration on "The Atonement" before the Chapel audience Thursday morning. Both orations spoke well for the oratorical ability of Maryville students.

Three more men had entered the preliminary contest, but were eliminated. They were Russell Anick, James Brock, and Arthur Sargis.

The T. T. Alexander contest is one of the most interesting held during the year. It is open too juniors and seniors—one year to the girls of those classes the next year to the boys. Next year will the girls try for this prize.

THE CAMPUS BEAUTIFUL

Once upon a time there was a Student. He visited various college and came back to dear old Maryville with black rage in his heart. He went about telling that the other college possessed a land-caped campus—a thing of beauty and a joy forever. And here was Maryville with all her charms quite unlandscaped. It was really a shame. Why hadn't somebody done something about it?

So this Student went about with the aforementioned black rage in his heart, taking short cuts across new grass, scattering paper in his wake, cutting his initials on tree trunks, and quite disregarding hedges in his impetuous stride. He was absorbed in the perplexing question as to why somebody hadn't done something about it.

His name was Pass-the-buck and his surname was Legion.

Let us take warning.

Maryville's campus should be, could be, but is not the Campus Beautiful. Let us look sternly in the mirror and demand, "Well, what are you going to do about it?"

In the first place, we will observe all the negative rules of campus etiquette: don't walk on the grass, don't leave paper about, don't make a break in hedges, don't cut in living trees.

In the second place, we can copy the excellent example of one devoted professor and be gardeners on our own hook, if Mr. Proffitt will allow. Our own private opinion is that he will fall on our necks and weep with joy if we made any such proposal. We might dig around and plant a few shrubs, or coax a bed of annuals if we feel particularly "springy." There are petunias and larkspur and zinnias that will grow if we give them a bare chance. There are any number of things we might do.

And some one of us might grow into an educated landscape gardener and revamp the whole campus to our heart's desire.

Then truly it would be the Campus Beautiful.

"TILLIE" BACK AGAIN AFTER FOURTEEN YEARS

Monday and Tuesday will have the aspect of circus day and the Fourth of July all in one at the Palace Theatre, for this is the opening day of the big Al Christie production of "Tillies' Punctured Romance," the tale of a circus and a country gal and a war, all of which are rolled up and shaken up and mixed up with surprising and somewhat stupendous results.

TO OUR BAND

Before the winter sports are completely forgotten and retire into the sacred precincts of the memory-book, we wish to express our appreciation and thanks to those who have helped to entertain us during the games, namely the members of the Band, and those who on one occasion performed gymnastic feats for our delight.

The Band has done well since the days of its organization in the late fall. Its playing has added zest to football and basketball games. The waits between halves did not seem so tedious when the Band played a rousing melody that kept our heels tapping to the music. Not the least of its achievements was aiding the student body in singing "Alma Mater."

The members of the band and its director, Miss Butcher, have worked faithfully at their self-imposed task of providing Maryville with a first class band, and they are to be sincerely thanked for their work. We are looking forward to repeated performances before the year is over.

The tumblers, hurdlers, riders of the wooden horse, and the single clown recently afforded us a short peep at some clever gymnastic stunts. We should certainly like to see more of the same. You needn't wait for the Circus, boys. Just do your tricks any old time. We like them.

LIFE AND EVERYTHING

by "Katherine West"

Part 1

After all being the daughter of a college president wasn't as much fun as you might think! It certainly had its disadvantages. So ran the trend of Annie Loftin's thoughts as she turned from the contemplation of the September sun, shining on her bedroom window through the trees, and sat down in front of her dressing table.

In spite of the brightness outside her thoughts were the bitter reflections of misunderstood fifteen. Why, she thought, couldn't they realize she was grown up? Couldn't she play golf and tennis almost as well as Mable Dennis who was chosen best girl athlete last year? Couldn't she drive a car as well as Frank Lewis, the biggest flirt on the campus? Hadn't she read the same modern fiction they were all reading? Even if her father did think she was deeply immersed in Dickens. And hadn't she even been to a dance at the Country Club, while visiting her cousin Sue this summer? In Annie's mind this gave the finishing touch to the growing up process. But now, Oh, it was unbelievable that parents could be so stupid!

With a little shriek of agony she dropped her head on her arms, not forgetting to glance in the mirror on the way down. Mentally she reviewed the scene she had just had with her mother, in which, to use Anne's words, her mother had been absolutely unreasonable and had simply refused to buy her that stunning new dress down in Bailey's window, because she said it was entirely too sophisticated for a child like Anne, Child, ye gods! and she had been to a dance at the country club.

She lifted her head. Was that her mother coming back again? Feeling that her dignity would not stand the strain of another interview so soon, she pulled a close fitting black felt hat hastily over her short yellow curls, what was it that nice boy at Sue's party had said about her hair? She started down stairs. She was still frowning in an effort to remember when Mrs. Loftin's voice reached her from the doorway.

"Anne, are you going out somewhere?"

"No, no, I merely put on my hat and gloves to come down and see what time it was!"

"Will you stop by your father's office and leave this note?" Her mother's voice indicated that having got safely through one argument, she had neither the strength nor the inclination for another.

Anne's father had been president of this small college since Anne was six years old and thus she had grown up in the college atmosphere. So familiar with all the ins and outs of college life, she greeted each incoming freshman class with interest, even if it was rather patronizing interest. This fall, however, she found the freshman class totally lacking in interesting possibilities. You must remember she had danced with a graduate of Havard at the country club while visiting cousin Sue, "And you can imagine that after an experience like that a mere Freshman would seem rather tame," as Anne confided to her best friend, Louise Taylor.

She was thinking of this as she was opening the door of her father's office.

"Bother, now he's busy I'll have to wait. What on earth did mother", here her thoughts broke off with a crash and all she was conscious of was sense of relief that she had put on her most becoming hat and had changed her common sense school shoes, insisted on by her mother, for her highest heeled black pumps.

For, there, in front of her, stood her ideal. She had not recognized nodded and turned to the president again. And Anne with her chin in the air went out and closed the door. Closed it just too soon to hear him say

"So that is your daughter. What a charming little girl."

Some fifteen minutes later Anne was ecstatically hugging her friend Louise and pouring into her sympathetic ears the story of her new "crush."

She was concluding "And Oh, Louise, he is just simply wonderful. I always knew I was going to meet a man like him some day, but I never thought it would be so soon. You can just tell by looking at him that he has ideas about life and everything. You know he seems so different after these boys, silly things, that can't talk about anything but, Oh well, you know what I mean."

"Yes I like that intellectual type too. I am just crazy to meet him. Can't you manage it?"

Anne eyed her friend suspiciously.

"Louise Taylor, you are not to get a crush on him too. I saw him first and he's mine."

"Don't get so huffy. Good gracious what do you think I'd want to get a crush on an old school teacher that probably so ancient he wears a wig and triple strength spectacles too. Anyway, I'll bet he's married and got a passel of kids."

"Well of course if that's the way you feel about it, Louise, I might have known you wouldn't understand, because you know I've really seen a lot more of life than you have, after being at cousin Sue's and all, this summer." Her tone had become almost pitying, but now it flamed into anger again as she added, "but he does not even wear glasses and he has perfectly beautiful black curly hair." And bang! It was a good thing the doors were so substantial.

The next afternoon, discovering that her mother was entertaining the Thursday Afternoon Club, she decided to escape for a walk in the country. If there was anything Anne detested it was the Thursday Afternoon Club for the members were all either old maids or else like Mrs. Marsh who was always telling what little Tommy did the day before or asking for Mrs. Adams' new cake recipe.

As usual Anne's day-dreams were full of Prof. Hale and his many perfections but, as pleasing as they were, she just couldn't get rid of that disturbing thought.

"Could it be that he was married?" In vain she tried to assure

BOOK OF THE WEEK

THE KING'S HENCHMAN

by Edna St. Vincent Millay

Edna St. Vincent Millay's recent play, "The King's Henchman," has already given evidence of its great popularity. The first printing was in February 1927. Up to November 1927 it had passed thru thirteen printings,—perhaps setting a record for a modern play,—certainly rivaling any old ones.

It has also been produced in New York as an opera.

The action of this beutiful tragedy is laid in the England of the tenth century, the England of song and story.

The theme is that of a great and noble friendship between Edgar, King of England, and Aethelwold his foster brother and friend. This great friendship which one is made to feel is reasoning—is tested, when Aethelwold acting as the King's henchman goes to Devan in the King's behalf to bring Aelfrida back to marry the King. Aethelwold who had never before known love for a woman experiences it when he meets Aelfrida Then, being forced with the problem of deciding between his great friendship with the King and his love, he takes Aelfrida for himself. In the end when the King comes on the scene, he stabs himself and the death song is sung for noble Aethelwold.

For beauty of experience and perfection of phase one could not desire anything more than that presented in "The King's Henchman."

In Sterne's whimsical autobiography he has Tristram Shandy say:

"Tell me ye learned, shall we ever be adding so much to the bulk—so little to the stock?

"Shall we forever make new books as apothecaries make new mixtures, by pouring only out of one vessel into another?"

Miss Millay has in "The King's Henchman" added to the stock of great dramas. Here is no "pouring out of one vessel into another", rather is it a work of a master, than of an apothecary. A reading of it will well repay the hour it takes.

THE COURTING OF SAM McGHEE

make him happy. They talked of many things, of Mozart's sonatas, of Beethoven's music, of philosophical subjects, of anything and everything but what was nearest to their hearts.

But Marjorie was a determined woman. She had come with her mind made up to ask for Sam's hand. It came to Sam without warning, except by that fine intuition by which a man knows when a woman loves him. Marjorie seized his hand and at the same time fell on her knees.

"Sam, I have loved you so long. Will you be my husband?" She said. Sam cast down his eyes. But he did not withdraw his hand so Marjorie felt encouraged. She dared to hope that he loved her. For a moment silence reigned thru the darkened room. Then Sam said:

"Oh, Marjorie, this is so sudden." He hd called her by her first name "Oh! be mine," cried Marjorie, gaining possession of his other hand. Still Sam did not withdraw his meat hooks. Then over them flamed that deep, solemn quiet, which comes only when two souls meet which have been attuned to harmony in the eternal worships of love. (Soft pedal.) No word was needed to tell Marjorie that Sam had surrendered to her; that he had resigned his life's happiness into her hands.

When she took a reluctant leave two hours later she had gained his consent and he had promised to name the day. Marjorie's heart was singing as she stopped at the corner drug store for a glass of chocolate soda, and while she drank it Sam sat in his boudoir gazing happily at a ring which sparkled on the third finger of his left hand and his heart throbbed like a sore toe. On his face was an expression of ineffable joy.

DEBATES HAVE FINISHED SIX DEBATES; FIVE REMAIN

Tennessee Weselyan.

It is to be hoped that the interest in debate which has so far been manifested will continue.

The debating season is by no means finished, but even so, considerable talent along forensic lines has been discovered. Professor Queener is much pleased with the season's standard of debating. He has chosen a team to represent Maryville at the coming Phi Kappa Delta Convention and is confident that this team will show well against the other teams competing in the national convention. Arthur Young and Florian Hopkins have been selected as the team that will journey to Tiffin, Ohio, Heidelberg College, where the convention assembles. Mr. Queener will accompany them. He says that Maryville is expecting to meet at least two teams in the contest.

CINDERELLA PARTY FOR THETA'S

Theta wants to ask you a question. What is the numerical value by which you denominate the outer covering of your pedal extremities? In other words—what size shoe do you wear? This is a silly question? No, not when you hear all about the big Cinderella Party Theta is planning for Saturday night. If you have never been to a Cinderella party you must come to this one. Listen to this one feature on the program. A pair of real silver slippers is be given from the fairy God Mother in the form of an old Theta girl, to the one who possesses the feet to match. Every body out to try your luck or rather your feet.

LIFE AND EVERYTHING

herself that it was only jealousy prompted Louise to say such a thing. Why he couldn't possibly be married because he just didn't have that look which Anne termed "henpecked."

But the thought had taken root in her mind and before long, in spite of herself, her imagination had pictured him being inveigled into marriage at an early age by some dark haired vamp who was entirely unsuited to him and who couldn't him immdeiately because he had been standing with his back to her talking to her father but now as he turned.

Anne was not a modern girl for nothing however, so pulling her light coat closer around her she addressed her father sweetly.

"Daddy, dear, mother said leave this note for you," and turned to go.

"Your mother, eh? O, all right, oh, Anne. Prof. Hale, this is my daughter, Anne."

"How do you do?" said Anne with an enchanting smile. "You're the new English teacher, aren't you? Daddy told me one was coming. You see I help Daddy run this college." And she smiled another enchanting smile and waited.

Prince Charming, however, only understand him at all, and from there it was an easy task for her to see, in imagination, this poor, misunderstood man turning to her for friendship and sympathy and confiding all his hopes and ambitions to her. Of course she would always understand and be able to sympathize because she could just tell by looking at him that they would have the same ideas about life and everything.

She had been walking aimlessly on while she was engaged in these most satisfying reflections and had got further out in the country than she had really intended, but so absorbed was she in her own thoughts that she paid no attention to where she was. She was deeply engaged in the final scene when he told her that he loved her far more than he had ever loved his wife and that he could not live without her sympathy and her understanding. Quietly and sadly she replied that it could never be and that they must bear without a murmur what life brought them. And just as a tear fell from her eye on his bowed head as he bent to kiss her hand, she stepped on a loose stone which rolled under her foot and she sat flat down in the middle of the road with a little jolt.

"Oh, darn."

"I beg your pardon. Can I help you?" In a thrillingly deep masculine voice.

Matrimonial Confab Convenes!

Greatest Catastrophe of Year to be Presented April Fifth

Velvet Curtains Will Rise on Poignant Tragedy "The Rivals."

EXPERIENCED CAST IS VERY EXPERIENCED

Students Should Support This Play From Sense of Duty.

The student body and town people are to be congratulated upon the patience with which they have endured the dramatic events of the year—particularly the well chosen but poorly acted midwinters which have been so disgracefully imposed upon the unsuspecting public. Particularly should credit be given to those brave souls who have set forth two by two, like the apostles of old, foregoing the pleasure of a quiet and peaceful evening studying, have taken their places in that portion of the draped known as "the shelf".

Realizing that those persons with many other public spirited citizens and students deeply desire to encourage dramatic effort and outbursts, the faculty requested that the senior class provide another evening entertainment. After careful consideration, the class consented, and a special faculty meeting was called to rejoice in the triumph.

Accordingly it was arranged that the local chapter of the National Dramatic Fraternity Theta Alpha Phi, should present a play, and Richard Brinsley Sheridan's heart-breaking comedy, "The Rivals" was selected.

In regard to the cast, it must be admitted that the persons chosen are not well known on the Maryville stage. This is entirely in accord with the altrustic spirit in which the play was arranged.

Perhaps there are some who have heard of Maynard Dunn. By a very interesting accident the details of which cannot be included here, his marked ability as a tragedian was discovered at seven o'clock on the seventh of March, 1927. Mrs. West has been carefully guarding this promising lad of genius, and has consented that it be revealed to the public in this play. Mr. Dunn plays opposite Miss Helen Scheibler, who has appeared so often on the Maryville stage during the past few weeks, and is a fitting co-worker in the task of executing the role of Mrs. Malaprop.

Miss Jennie Edwards, who has become equally popular on the Maryville stage in her recent performances, also drags a leading role in The Rivals. Her lover is Bob Anderson who tho rather inexperienced seems to be learning rapidly.

Another uninteresting member of the cast is Walter Courtenay, who appears in the inevitable role of the lover. Nell Watkins, renowned for her quiet disposition and retiring manner is the fortunate young lady who plays opposite him.

Rivals, rivals, rivals! A lesson for lovers, young and old. Money glady refunded if you are not satisfied, but kindly come armed with handkerchief. This screaming comedy is a heart breaker!

DR. WILSON APPROVES OF APPROACHING PRIZE FIGHT

Contestants Will Meet in Pearson's Parlor Feb. 31, 1929.

Marquis of Kingsbury Rules To be Used.

Ed Driscoll has recently issued a statement to the press to the effect that another heavy weight boxing match will be staged here in the near future. The fighters will be the same ones that gave us the fight of March 22, 1928. The bout hinges about a discussion handed down by the Tennessee boxing commission. It seems that Windy Rule's manager placed a complaint before the commission on the decision rendered by referee Brute Crow in favor of Bozo Thompson. Motion pictures were produced clearly showing that no impersonal foul was administered by Rule in the fatal seventh round. The manager also states that Rule was on the canvas only eight seconds and not the fourteen claimed by Thompson's manager. He claims that Rule was resting during these seconds and cites the come-back staged by Rule in the last part of the bout. On the information presented the Commissioners decided that a new bout will be staged on Feb. 31, 1929 in Pearson's parlor. Manager Whitehead of Bozo Thompson's staff told an Echo reporter today that his man would meet Windy Rule any time. Manager Abrahamson of the Rule camp could not be reached but Promoter Driscoll said that everything was agreeable to Rule.

Dr. Wilson has given his unqualified approval to the match.

THE CIRCUS IS COMING TO TOWN

The circus will soon be coming to town. The Y. M. C. A. is planning a bigger and better circus this year. The main performance will take place in the Alumni gymnasium Tuesday night, April 17th at 7:30.

All the usual stunts and several new acts will be added to the program of the annual circus. There will be clowns, wild animals, whether tigers, lions or elephants was not specified; it is hoped that the traditional wild man will not be wanting. There will be apparatus work, pyramid building, and tumbling. The girls of Miss Norton's gym classes will take part in maze drills and gymnastic steps. There are two things not listed on the plans for the performance, but which will certainly be included to make the gala event complete—they are a lady tight rope walker and a band.

A new feature of the program will be the presentation of a silver loving cup for the best stunt put on by the literary societies. If this cup is won by one society for two years in succession, it becomes the permanent possession of that society.

The circus has heretofore been an entertaining event for all the College, and this year it is expected to be "bigger and better' than ever.

ELEGANT LEMONADE STAND IS GIFT OF SENIORS

Establishment Will Dispense Free Pink Lemonade.

IS A MEMORIAL OF UNSPEAKABLE SERVICES OF CLASS

Will be Made of Imported Italian Pastel Marble.

The Senior Class of 1928 has given to Maryville a fitting and touching memorial of their services to their Alma Mater. The members of that renowned class recently voted to install to commemorate their services, and in order to perpetuate a better understanding among the coming generation of seniors in front of the Voorhees Chapel, a free pink lemonade stand.

This lemonade stand will consist of a pink marble base, a pale blue marble counter out of the center of which will project the automatic, patented, and nickel-plated free pink lemonade dispenser, and stretching above it all a pink, blue, and mauve silk awning.

This stand will do much to brighten and improve the looks of our campus beautiful and will forever remind the grateful recipients of its favors of the thoughtful malevolence of the class of 1928.

Is Confident That Convention Will Do Great Good On Campus.

MATRIMONIAL BUREAU IS WORKING OVERTIME

Many Inspiring And Earnest Spekers on Program.

Today opened a new and interesting Matrimonial Conference on College Hill. "This is a new departure in the way of conferences on the Hill, but is to be an established annual affair," said Professor Vernon Queener, the able President of the Conference. Mr. Queener, in an exclusive interview graciously granted to an Echo reporter, stated the grand slogan of the Conference—a slogan which he hopes that all Maryville students will take much to heart—"Bigger and Better Soul Mates."

The extensive preparation made for this conference insures an instructive and inspiring program. At 8:10 this morning the program opened with a remarkable address by the President on "The Seven Lamps of Wooing." There followed an instructive dramatization of this address by the local chapter of Theyate A Appliepie. Immediately afterward Professor Robert Jensen spoke feelingly on the subject, "The All Important Color Scheme—Blond or Brunette?" This earnest and uplifting address closed the morning's program.

Classes were adjourned for the day in order that the students' entire attention be given to the Conference. In order to facilitate a more practical adjustment of the students' matrimonial aspirations, a Matrimonial Bureau was established. Miss Molly Caldwell presided over this. The confided shyly to the reporter that she was sure this would have an influence for the better on the numerous affairs that had come under her careful eye. She also disclosed the remarkable fact that of the 700 students, 698 had come to her and professed themselves dissatisfied with present matrimonial prospects. She was firm in concealing the identity of the two who seemed to be satisfied.

Tonight the program will be opened by Professor Albert Griffitts' address on "The Periodic Table and its Relation to the Kitchen Cabinet." Then Dr. E. R. Hunter, in his usual whimsical fashion, will speak on the topic "Should a College Student Marry?" Miss Jimmie Rule will then sing her tragic aria "Never." The program will be closed by an instructive address by Prof. Howell on "How to Eat Burnt Toast Gracefully."

Tomorrow there will be no speeches but the entire day will be taken up by a practical campus course in moonshining. All those who have not heretofore enrolled are urged to do so. The leading students on the Hill, the editor of the Chilhowean, the senior president, and the president of the Student Council, are confident that this campus course will prove of lasting benefit.

Tomorrow night a snap will close the Conference. Free ice cream will be furnished by the faculty wives.

SOPHOMORES FOUND TO BE BEST WATER DOGS

Win Coveted Title in Hot Class Contest.

ED SPROUSE SCORED HIGHEST NUMBER OF POINTS

Aquatic sports are now well underway in the college pool. The Inter-Class Swimming meet has been held, and the sophomores have come out as the best water dogs. Their points were 38 against a score of 21 made by the freshmen and 11 made by the seniors. The juniors had only one entrant for swimming honors.

Ed Sprouse was high point man for the sophomores, his total of points being 11 1-2. Fiegel and E. Buchanan tied for high point freshmen title with a score of 8 each. W. Buchanan, scoring 6, was high point man for the seniors.

The seven events were won as follows:

25 Yard. Free Style

1. Sprouse, time 13.2
2. Fiegel
3. Hope

Miss Manges' Recital to be Given Monday Night

Will be First of Series of Piano Recitals.

The first of the series of graduate piano recitals will take place Monday night, April 2nd, given by Garnet Manges, in Voorhees chapel at 8 o'clock.

Most of us know Garnet for the good work she did with the Glee Club last year as well as for the numerous concerts she has appeared in both last year and this, and we look forward eagerly to hearing her Monday night.

The next music recital will be given by Jimmy Rule in voice on April 16th. Marion Johnson will appear in a graduate piano recital March 30th, followed by a recital by Fancher Smartt on May 7th.

Miss Manges' program is as follows:

Au Matin ..... Chamiade

(For two pianos)

Jig ..... Bach
Gauotte ..... Grieg
Sonata in D ..... Beethoven
Bird as Prophet ..... Schumann
Andante Finale ..... Leschetizky

SILENCE IS GOLDEN

Last fall when Culture Week was observed, some of us were inclined to resent it just a little. We felt that it was a slur on our breeding—that the college was attempting to teach us something which, supposedly had been instilled into us at home from babyhood up.

But ever so often some incident occurs which shows that there are still a goodly number among us who need to be reminded, by some experience as Culture Week, of those principles of courtesy which they learned (we hope) in homes of refinement.

Last Thursday night there were two artists in our midst, whom we had asked to furnish us with a musical program. The least, it seems that any well bred adult (or well brought up child, for that matter) could have done would have been to remain quiet during their performance. Such, however, was not the case.

There was audible talking, there was much rattling of curtain rings, there was even snickering and stamping of feet.

To those who argue that a lack of interest in "high-brow" music caused them to forget their manners, we would suggest that, in the future, if they are unable to endure anything above jazz, they stay away out of consideration both for the performers and that long suffering part of the audience whose own enjoyment is ruined by the noisiness of others.

Or, perhaps, such disturbers attend lyceums merely because it gives them a chance to "moonshine." It would seem, however, that one could be content for a little while merely to bask quietly in the presence of the beloved, without showing off boorishly for her admiration, especially when such boorishness results in discomfort to audience and performer and discredit to our college.

There are a great number of us here who resent bitterly implications from outside as to the "backwoodsiness" of Maryville. After the exhibition of last Thursday night we can only wonder that such an opinion regarding us is not more widespread.

LIFE AND EVERYTHING

by "Katherine West"

Part Two

Anne had entirely failed to notice anyone approaching, but well now she just knew there was such a thing as fate and destiny and all that. She almost went as far as predestination in spite of the fact that she was a good Methodist. Yes, fate had decreed that she was to walk out this way this afternoon, but she did wish fate could have contrived some other way for her to meet him than this; for she sadly feared, and with some justification, that she didn't look as dignified and thoughtful as she might have, sitting in the middle of the road nursing her toe. With admirable foresight she shifted her hold from her toe to her ankle and looked up.

"Oh, Prof. Hale, how perfect of you to have come along right at this minute. You know I'm afraid I have sprained my ankle. I stepped on a loose stone." She help up what she was pleased to call a languid hand. "Perhaps I'd better try to get out of the road," she said with a little laugh.

Prof. Hale took her hand and helped her to the side of the road.

"Do you think it's hurt very badly?" he asked in a matter of fact tone which was due, Anne was sure, to the fact that he didn't want her to see how much the sight of her pain affected him.

So she smiled bravely and said, "No, I don't think so. I just feel a little faint but if I sit here a minute I'll be all right." She bowed her head in her hands meanwhile thanking her lucky stars that she looked nice in her knickers and sweater.

"It certainly was lucky that you came along just at the right time wasn't it? Do you know," she smiled up at him, "I have a feeling that you are one of those people who are always where they are needed."

He ignored this but said, "What were you thinking about so hard when I met you, I had been watching you ever since you came into sight around the bend," thrilled! she had been watching her, "and you were in such a deep study that you might have even been working out a problem in Algebra."

"Oh no, nothing like that," she laughed, "I was just thinking about life and everything. Don't you ever do that? But what a foolish question for of course anyone like you would. Don't you just enjoy thinking things clear through? Life's problems and everything like that you know? With some one congenial or just alone if people don't understand you?"

"Yes" he said gravely, "I often do that. It is rather satisfying to get alone with your thoughts isn't it."

Oh, now she was sure he was thinking about that poor wife who couldn't understand him. Anne began to feel rather sorry for the poor wife because she was missing so much. She settled herself more comfortably on the grass but the Professor reminded her that it was getting rather late and if she felt like it they had better be starting back.

They walked along in silence for a few minutes. How Anne adored these strong silent men! She said, "I think it must be terrible to be misunderstood. You know I mean someone whom you want to understand you terribly bad."

This remark coming as it did out of a clear sky rather startled the Professor who had really been wondering how he was going to get those imps of Freshmen seriously interested in literature. He glanced quizzically down at her.

"Perhaps you know what it is to be misunderstood?"

"Oh, yes," she sighed, "of course I do but I have grown to expect it. I wasn't thinking of myself though. I just meant anybody. Like someone whose wife didn't understand them or something like that."

"Yes, that would be pretty bad, wouldn't it? By the way, I'd like to ask your advice on something that has been bothering me for some time. I'm sure you could help me out if you would."

Would she! Anne felt that this was too good to be true. It exceeded her wildest imaginings that he should be coming to her for advice so soon.

"Oh, if there is anything at all I can do," she said eagerly. "So you really do have problems too? That is something else we have in common isn't it?"

"Why, what I wanted to ask you about is what you thought would be a suitable birthday present for my little niece. She is about twelve I guess." There followed a description of the likes and dislikes of said niece.

Overcoming the disappointment she felt by reflecting that she ought to be thankful for even such a small crumb, she managed to give him some very good advice together with a smile which was meant to indicate that she understood how helpless men were on such matters.

He left her at her front door after being assured, with another of Anne's sweetest smiles, that her ankle was lots better.

She sat on the top step and staring at his retreating back, thought how perfectly wonderful he was. He just looked simply adorable in his hiking clothes but strong and manly too. And his hair was so much blacker and curlier than the Harvard graduate's.

Suddenly and without warning the realization came. The shock was almost too great for even Anne. Why she, Anne Loftin, was having an affair with a married man!

At first she recoiled from the thought but inevitably the romantic side of the situation triumphed and she was left with a deliciously naughty sensation. After that she sat on the top step and thought some more about life in spite of the fact that her mother had called her to dinner twice.

After dinner she perched herself on the arm of her father's chair and rubbed her cheek against his hair.

"Daddy, don't you think that new English teacher is nice? Couldn't we have him to dinner some time? And his wife too of course."

To her surprise her father laughed heartily. "Why I guess so, honey. At least Prof. Hale but I don't know about his wife. You'd have to find him one first. You see he's a confirmed old bachelor. That's good. I'll tell him about it tomorrow." And he laughed some more.

"If you do, Daddy, if you ever tell him that," and with actual tears in her eyes Anne turned and fled up the stairs.

This did not by any means cure Anne of her crush. She only had to reconstruct her picture of him. This time he was a man totally indifferent to the many and varied types of women who had tried to capture him, but who was to yield to her, Anne's, charms, of course because she could understand life and everything.

A few days later, however, she stopped just outside the door of her father's office, hearing Prof. Hale's voice within. She didn't mean to be eavesdropping but was just listening for the sheer joy of hearing his voice. But wait, now it was not the voice but the words she was listening to.

"Yes, Dr. Loftin, I was talking to your daughter the other day. She really is an awfully amusing kid. I must introduce her to my kid brother who is coming to visit me. They are both at that age where they are beginning to think deeply about life and everything. I remember when I was passing through that stage, I."

But Anne waited to hear no more. She felt that never, never, never would she speak to Prof Edward Bennington Hale again.

MANY ENCOUNTERS IN APRIL

April will see the varsity men's team in competion with several teams. The team will travel to Tusculum for a meet there on April 6th and will meet the same team here on the 13th. Carson-Newman will be here on the 21st. On the 28 the varsity will travel to Tusculum to match skill with several East Tennessee college teams in a conference meet. On May 8th, the team will travel to Knoxville to meet the Knoxville Y. M. C. A. team.

The girls' varsity will meet the Knoxville Y. M. C. A. swimming team there on April 18th, and will again encounter the same team here on May 5th.

Y. M. C. A. INTER-CLASS TRACK MEET. HELP YOUR CLASS WIN.

The annual inter-class track meet will be held on Saturday March 31. This will be the first time that all the students will get to see the track team perform. Maryville boasts of having the best track team that she has ever had, and there is no reason why this inter-class meet shouldn't be good.

Each class will enter their best performers in all of the events. There will be close competition in many of the races. Nine of last year's letter-men are back this year. These men, Taggart, Mann, Williams, Crawford, McDonald, Stone, Peterson, Brock, Milling, have been training hard in spite of the bad weather. Headrick, Spangler, Holman, after a year of experience should make the winged "M" without much trouble. There are many new men out this year that are going to make the old men work hard for their place on the team. These men will make their first appearance in this inter-class meet. Among the best of the new men are Kemp Davis, Shepperd, kenneth Davis, Rankin, Brown, Crawford, Pickle.

All four classes are well represented in all the events. Each class should support their entrants and help them to win. Back your team. Be on the field promptly at 3:15 o'clock.

The class winning the most number of points wins the meet. Five points will be given for first, three points for second, and one point for third place. Individual medals will not be given this year, but a loving cup will be given by the Y. M. C. A., to the class winning the highest number of points in all the class sports.

John Taggart, athletic director of the Y. M. C. A., is in charge of the meet.

On May 7 Maryville has a track meet with the University of Tennessee. The next Saturday they meet Sewanee.

Do your best, track men. We are behind you. Beat U.-T.

HIGHLANDERS WIN SEASON OPENER

With Gabbard pitching mid-season baseball Maryville College won the initial game of the season when Michigan State was whitewashed 7-0 Thursday afternoon. The aforementioned Mr. Gabbard sent thirteen of the visitors back to the bench via the strike out route.

The hitting of the two teams was about even, but Maryville's hits were bunched while Michigan failed to get more than one hit in any one inning. Gann, with three doubles, Stone, with a single, double, and a triple, and DeLaney, with a double and two singles did the big stack work for the locals. Crall with three singles was the batting star for the visitors.

Mischlich, Maryville left fielder, made two sensational catches to be the fielding star of the game. Rinehart, Michigan left fielder, made a pretty one-hand catch of a hard-hit line drive off of the bat of Davis, Maryville's first baseman.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, God in His infinite mercy has seen fit to call unto Himself the brother of our beloved friend and class mate, Isabelle Cannon, be it resolved that we, the sophomore class of Maryville College, do extend to her our deepest sympathy.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be read in chapel, a copy printed in the Highland Echo, and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

FOUR ON PROGRAM OF EXPRESSION RECITAL

Second Recital of Year Presents a Varied Program.

The series of expression recitals was begun a week or so ago by a splendidly entertaining program. That the series will be kept to this high standard is certain, to judge of the next recital program.

Monday night the second recital program of the year will be given. Miss Josephine Parker, Miss Betty Jane Sharp, Miss Marjorie Frey, and Mr. Stirl Rule are the graduates of the expression department who will present the night's program.

Mr. Stirl Rule has long been an active and valuable addition to the dramatic talent on the Hill. He has served on numerous committees and in minor parts. He will be remembered as the choleric Capulet in "Romeo and Juliet." He will read as his part of the program, "The Pastor of Pine Mountain," a stirring story of the sacrifice made by a mountain pastor.

Miss Frey will read "The Fool," by Channing Pollock. This popular and gripping play was presented by the senior class of '26 and needs no introduction to a Maryville audience. Miss Frey's ability as a reader and interpreter will do much to make the audience live again the stirring action of the play.

Miss Sharp will always be remembered on the campus as two persons, the comic Elmine Ludine of "The Lucky Break" and the lovely Juliet of Shakespeare's play, but she will add to this singular achievement by reading "The Phantasy."

Miss Parker will read "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals," a one-act play by Barrie. Miss Parker's own whimsicality and humor will find an ideal outlet in this reading. As for her ability—one will remember her as the charming heroine of the Maryville Players' annual play presented last fall, "The Lucky Break."

A MATTER OF LIFE AND DEATH

By Andrew Neilly

(Short Story submitted in Echo Contest).

I didn't want the job in the first place. But what could I do but take it? When a man faces a duty that is supposed to be in his line he must either produce the goods or withdraw from the duty as best he may. But since preachers are supposed to conduct funerals, what could I do?

Old Sal's church membership, so the people said, had been with a church many miles away. To my knowledge she had not been inside of a church for three years. She had been in no condition to go for at least that long. I had found that out through working at the Mission for the three years I had been in college.

Old Sal had been a character to study. She was odd—and that in a neighborhood noted for its oddities. She was the butt of many jokes of the unclean and unkempt children so common to the Branch, called a witch by most of the women, abused by Old Joe, her husband, but loved by her twenty year old daughter, Mag.

Curiosity had led me to ask the doctor who had once examined Old Sal what her trouble was. His reply had been prophetic as well as revealing and pathetic. "Son," he had said, "Old Sal is in the condition that she is today because she lived the kind of life she did when she was young. Her mind is gradually becoming nothing more than a mass of pulp. Disease has destroyed it. And mark my words, son, her days are numbered but that isn't all. Old Joe is going to break soon, too."

A year had passed since the doc-

GRADUATE OF CLASS OF '71 IS OLDEST ALUMNUS

Dr. Duncan One of First to Enter College After The Civil War.

IS DIRECTOR OF COLLEGE

Is Now Living In New Mexico.

The oldest living graduate of Maryville College is Rev. Calvin Alexander Duncan, D. D., of the class of 1871. Dr. Duncan, who now lives in Alamogordo, New Mexico, graduated fifty-seven years ago.

The Duncan farm, on which Dr. Duncan was born, is about a mile from the college campus. This farm has been in possession of the family since pioneer day.

When Professor Lamar opened the work of the college after the war, Dr. Duncan was one of his thirteen students. After his graduation, he was a tutor for two years at Maryville. Dr. Duncan has been a director of the college for fifty-six years.

Dr. Duncan is a graduate of Lane Theological Seminary. He has been pastor at Jonesboro, Tennessee; Harriman, Tennessee; and Magdalena New Mexico; and is pastor now at Alamogordo, New Mexico. He was Synodical Superintendent of Tennessee for several years.

JUNIORS WIN INTER-CLASS TRACK MEET

With a cold wind blowing across the field, last Saturday, Coach Thrower's track men had their first taste of competition this season. This competition came in the form of the annual Y. M. C. A. inter-class track meet. Heretofore this meet has been used as try-outs for the varsity team, but this year no one showed up well enough to cinch a position on the team. Due to the bad weather we have been having this spring the men are not in the best of condition. This was the cause of the sluggish showing, and the important meet of the year coming with Tennessee this Saturday.

The sophomores started the scoring by winning the 100 yard dash, but they soon dropped two second place when the Juniors took first and second place in the mile run. During the rest of the meet the points were distributed among the four classes until the final score stood 51 1-2 for the Juniors, 35 for the Seniors, 22 for the Sophomores and 17 1-2 for the freshmen. Taggart was high point man with 20 points winning first place in four events. Crawford was second with 16 points, and Mann was a close third with fifteen points. The juniors points would have been even higher if Williams, their flashy sprinter, had not been with the base-ball team.

Summary of the Meet

100 yard dash Taggart first, Crawford second, Milling third, time 10.4

Mile Run, Mann first, Holman second, Houston third, time 4.49.8.

220 yard dash Taggart first, Brock second, K. Davis third, time

MISSIONARY TO KOREA DIES OF PNEUMONIA

Arthur G. Welbon Passes Away at Station in Andong.

DEATH MOURNED BY COLLEGE

Leaves Four Children in Various Colleges in U. S.

News was received here yesterday of the death of Arthur G. Welbon, Presbyterian missionary to Korea. Mr. Welbon was the father of Miss Mary Eleanor Welbon a student in Maryville. The sympathy of the whole school goes out to her in her bereavement.

Mr. Welbon died April 4, 1928 in Andong, Korea, of pneumonia. He was a loyal and faithful worker. It is impossible to ever know the good he has done in that country in the long years of his service. He went to Korea immediately after his graduation from the theological seminary and worked there for the last thirty years. Mrs. Welbon, who died three years ago, was his helper in the mission field.

Mr. Welbon leaves four children, Mary Eleanor, a senior here at Maryville, Barbara, at Oberlin College, Henry, at Princeton, and Charles, at Huron College. All have studied at Maryville.

Maryville students feel that they know Mr. Welbon, because he visited the Hill a year ago, and because of knowing his children. Sorrow was felt by the whole college at hearing of the death of one of the bravest and most devoted of those whose life task it is to bring the Light to those people in darkness.

APRIL FOOL BROUGHT FREE SHOW TO STUDENTS

Happy Moonshiners Wish Every Month Had An April Fool's Day.

The people on Main street Monday afternoon about three o'clock were treated to an unusual spectacle when the whole student body came downtown and went to the movies. Since April Fool's Day came on Sunday this year, our usual celebration had to be post-poned until Monday the 2nd, but no one seemed to mind this very much. Indeed, why should any one mind, when it meant a whole afternoon of moonshining?

It was formerly the custom to "rush" the show on April Fools' Day, but for the past two years special arrangements have been made with the managers, who very kindly extended an invitation to the students. Nearly everyone took advantage of this opportunity; and the Hill was indeed deserted, while the students spent a pleasant two hours watching the handsome Richard Dix gallop across the screen as "The Gay Defender."

After the show, another unusual privilege was enjoyed—couples went to the drug stores without any fear of being moonshined.

When the supper bell rang, devoted moonshiners were strolling reluctantly back to the Hill, expressing the fervent wish that every month had an April Fools' Day.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas God, in His infinite mercy and wisdom, has seen fit to call unto Himself the father of our beloved friend and classmate, Mary Eleanor Welbon, be it resolved that we, the members of the senior class, assure the bereaved ones of our heartfelt sympathy and prayers..

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be read in chapel a copy printed in the Highland Echo, and a copy sent to the bereaved ones.

SENIOR BENEFIT DRAWS CROWD FOR "THE RIVALS"

Rollicking Comedy Set Audence in Gales of Laughter

ACTING OF ENTIRE CAST GOOD

Scenic Effects Something New To Maryville Stage.

Last night we realized a particular ambition of ours—we saw "The Rivals". This charming comedy has a broad humor and delightful characterization which we had often longed to see. We saw, and we will long remember. Theta Alpha Phi, as well as the Senior Class, is to be congratulated upon the presentation of this play.

The acting was particularly good. We challenge any New York company to produce so amusing a Mrs. Malaprop as played by Miss Scheibler, or such an explosive gentleman as Sir Anthony, played by Jesse Pierce. The two pair of lovers were very gallant, ardent, and convincing. We are still laughing over the quite unconscious humor of "Little Valor," otherwise known as Bob Acres, or Maynard Dunn. We did hope, that in the last scene, when almost everyone was paired off so happily, that the charming Lucy and the fiery Sir Lucius would be provided for. But Lucy was not present, and Sir Lucius liked fighting too well to live a peaceful married life.

Albert Tull is to receive our thanks for the charming scenic effects. It has come to our ears that Walter Matthews applied his artistic genius to the task of painting the scenes. More power to his paint brush!

YALE PREFERENCES

New Haven, Conn. (By New Student Service) Seniors in Yale College, according to preferences indicated in the annual class vote, prefer a Phi Beta Kappa key to the "Y" earned in major sports, like Harvard next best to Yale, consider Lindbergh and Mussolini the outstanding world figures of the day, and Lindbergh the man now living they most admire. They also believe that prohibition has harmed college life, that English is the most valuable subject and psychology the least valuable and they are opposed to splitting the college into smaller units.

Seniors in the Shefield Scientific School voted Lindbergh their favorite world figure, a major "Y" more desirable than Sigma XI, and Princeton their favorite college next to Yale. Their favorite in fiction is d'Artagnan; in history, Napoleon; among novels, Tom Jones, among prose authors, Thomas Hardy; among poems, If; and among poets, Kipling.

These were only a few, a very few of the matters on which the seniors declared themselves.

TRACK MEN READY FOR U. T. TEAM TOMORROW

Team Has Not Won From U. T. in Late Years, But is Expected To Turn Tables Tomorrow.

When Coach Thrower's winged artists take the field at Knoxville Saturday it will be with only one aim in mind—Maryville's first victory over Tennessee in track. Every year Maryville has gone to Tennessee hopeful of victory. Last year victory beckoned but the Highlanders could not respond. This year the same spirit is evident but there is more than the spirit for the Highlanders can deliver the goods.

If Tennessee takes a single event on the track some records are going to be lowered and if Maryville takes many of the field events the Highlanders will return home Saturday night with a well earned victory.

With no baseball game on for Saturday Coach Thrower will have the services of Williams, dash man, and Stone, javelin thrower.

With the addition of these two men and the aid of Coach Honaker plus the backing of those who will follow the Highlanders to Knoxville and the ones who are compelled to remain at home but who follow in thought, Coach Bob and his cohorts should bring back a well-earned victory tomorrow night.

"Highlanders, beat Tennessee."

FROM THE BLEACHERS

Mischlich received a big ovation when he pulled a sensational catch to keep Michigan State from scoring in the early part of the game.

Rinehart's catch of a low, curving ball from the bat of John Davis was one of the prettiest catches ever made on the local diamond.

Gabbard's thirteen strike outs should go down in Maryville's baseball history as one of the best exhibitions of pitching ever seen here this early in the season. Michigan struck but didn't hit.

Gann, Stone, and DeLaney showed the other boys how to hit for these three had three hits each. Bird made Maryville's other hit.

Maryville's new infield worked well. Before the season is over the present infield will make the Maryville fans forget the fast quartet that performed for the Highlanders last year.

Captain Clemens kept up plenty of chatter during the game and kept calling on the boys to "talk it up."

Taggart, Crawford and Milling gave as thrilling a finish to the hundred yard dash last Saturday in the Y. M. C. A. track meet as anyone could want. Taggart came in ahead by a small margin.

Headrick surprised himself as well as the spectators when he defeated Brock in the discus throw by several inches.

If John Taggart had received much aid from his classmates the Sophomores would have won. John entered four events and broke the tape first in each of the events to make a total of twenty points.

Manager Mann was feeling unusually well Saturday and to express his feelings he entered the half-mile, mile and two mile run, and it is needless to say that he came in ahead of his competitors in all of the events.

Announcer McConnaughay entertained the spectators between events by his usual flow of wit and humor. His announcing reminded the radio fans of some good program they had recently listened to.

OVER PRODUCTION OF GRADUATES

"We are in danger," said General Edward Orton to the winter graduating class of Ohio State University, "we are in danger of over saturation of our population with people of the white collar class." And during the course of his remarks General Orton placed the blame of this danger upon the colleges. Further, he proposes plans for remedying this situation: by reducing the number of students, by abolishing formal class methods and relieving the faculty from factory production methods.

We are cognizant of this danger which General Orton has announced, but we are skeptical of his remedies. All knowledge in formal education has been transmitted by formal class methods. Whether the substitution of informal methods will benefit, we do not know. We leave that for the future and the educational leaders of our land to determine. We are likewise skeptical of the plan of limiting the number of students. If among the thousands of "collegiates" there be a possible Milton or Newton, then let the thousand into the gates of learning.

No, rather the cause and consequent remedy lies deeper than this. What is this "white-collar" class? It is that class which possesses brains, but no hands. "Others may do the work of the world, we are the thinkers," is the motto of this class.

Such is the type which endangers our country, says the General. If our colleges turn out such snobbish, egotistical, and lazy-handed graduates, then truly their presence is a danger.

But what is the remedy?

Simple anatomy. For every brain that the Lord gives a man, He provides him with two hands. And those two hands are to carry out the thoughts of his brain. The "white collar" man stops when the labor of thinking is over, leaving the work to others' hands. Such a one is only half a man.

The world needs whole men. And unless college graduates prove themselves whole men, General Orton will be justified in declaring to applicants for degrees, "You shall not pass."

Apropos of the voting for our own May Queen, it has come to our ears that the University of Utah recently conducted a like election, but under protest. That protest was registered by the dean of women who declared that such a method was undignified, and that beauty is not an evidence of mentality or strength of character. We should like to see a photograph of the indignant lady.

Announcer, Mr. McConnaughhay.

The results of the meet show that the team will be weakest in the field events. Millsaps a non-letter man showed great improvement in the javelin. Every man is working hard and they are going to do their best against Tennessee next Saturday.

Coach Thrower has been putting his men through some hard workouts this week in order to get them ready for Tennessee Saturday. The results of the Tennessee meet will determine who will go to Sewanee for the meet with Coach Bennetts cinder artists on April 14.

There are four meets away from home and there is prospects of a meet here on April 28 with the University of Chattanooga, this gives the highlanders a good schedule. Encourage the men so it will be easier for them to bring home some fat looking scores.

A MATTER OF DEATH AND LIFE

for had told me this. And now,—Old Sal was dead but that wasn't all, for Old Joe had broken. He was a helpless paralytic. The left side of his body from his eye to his toes was paralyzed.

Mag had had her hands full for the past three months caring for the mother whom she loved so much, her father, and her three "younguns." She was supposed to be married but her husband had been missing for the past five months—gone since two months before the last baby had come. She had worked up to the day the baby had been born. A few days later Old Sal had been put to bed, the bed from which she was never to rise again.

If there had been no charity organization in town the whole family would have starved. No money was coming in. There was little or nothing to eat. Clothes were ragged and thin. There was not even any coal—and coal could easily have been stolen had there been anyone to steal it for them.

And now? There was the cheap black pine wood casket. (There was no money for the undertaker in this job). In the casket lay the little emaciated body with the pinched and wasted face. Besides Charlie and myself there were twelve people in the one ten by fourteen room that made up half of the house. There were Mag, Old Joe, two grown but vagrant and useless sons, Duke and Chuck, the undertaker, and seven others, all women. Three of them were busy with Mag's babies, putting into practice the neighborliness that had so often been preached and taught to them.

But where was Jim? He knew that the service was to begin at ten-thirty. Why didn't he come? Ten-thirty-five came, and still no Jim.

A nudge from Charlie and, "What are you going to do? The undertaker is getting impatient."

There was nothing to do but to start the service and carry on with it as well as I could. Jim had a "Service Book" that I had loaned him. I knew that he had prepared for the service. Charlie and I were supposed to sing; but we had to start.

The first hymn was "Nearer My God to Thee," we sang two verses. Then for a Scripture passage I opened my New Testament to the old stand-by—John fourteen—and read. stand-by—John fourteen—and read, believe in God believe also in me. In my Father's house are many mansions: if it were not so I would have told you. I go to prepare a place for you"—and on to—"Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid." Then we sang another duet, "God will Take Care of You," only one verse this time, for the room we were in did not in any way resemble a heavenly mansion—least of all in smell.

Then the question before us was, what shall I say? I decided. I'd give a few words of eulogy to Old Sal; then I'd take the opportunity to preach to those living—the first chance I had had to do that to some of them in the three years I had known them. I used it—for ten minutes. Then the service was closed by Charlie when he had offered a short prayer.

That part of the ordeal was over.

Old Joe wanted one last look at Sal. Charlie and I dragged him from his chair over to the coffin. I wonder what his thoughts were then? I wonder if the tear in his eye was real?

Mag grieved—at great length and with much loud wailing. Even so the funeral seemed quiet when compared with others I had attended at the Branch. Old Sal was not going to be missed much.

The coffin was closed and screwed shut. The undertaker was in a hurry. Rain was beginning to fall. Pallbearers were needed. Duke, Chuck, Charlie, and I served in that capacity.

We were rolling the casket into the hearse when Jim came along. Charlie had to take a test at eleven-thirty so he had to rush back to school. Jim and I decided to ride the hearse. I had had enough of sickening odors in that foul smelling tightly closed room; consequently, there was no desire on my part to pack into one of the two dilapidated Fords that were to carry Mag, the two boys and the few who would go to the graveyard.

At last we started on our way. It was good to be out in the open air again, even if the rain was beginning to fall fast. But, when the motor began to spit and miss fire; well, that was a different matter. I knew the sign. We were due to be stalled. The motor stopped. There we were, half way to the graveyard, a mile from town, and a body on hand we were supposed to bury.

It would have been futile to attempt to dry the distributor contacts in such a downpour; so Jim played the hero and waded through a field of mud to a house a couple of hundred yards from the road to call into town for another hearse. This wait gave me time to look up a form of committal in the "Service Book" I had loaned Jim.

We had to wait only about ten minutes for the other hearse. Then it took but a minute to transfer the body and make a fresh start for the graveyard.

We arrived. If I had expected to see a well kept cemetery, I should have been disappointed. I had not expected anything beautiful but this was even worse than I had anticipated. There were only two pieces of marble in the whole field and those could hardly be noticed from the road.

Marble was not in evidence but one large pile of clay was; there was no mistaking the location of the six-foot deep hole that was to receive all that was left of Old Sal. Once more pall-bearers were needed. This time Jim took the handle Charlie had held. The undertaker had placed a couple of boards and his lowering straps over the grave and we placed the coffin on these.

It had stopped raining, but at least it was not raining so hard now. There we stood around the hole just twelve of us. The time had come for the committal service.

I read, "Earth to earth, ashes to ashes, dust to dust; but the spirit is with God who gave it. And we look for the resurrection of the dead according to His promise who was dead and is alive forevermore." And then the verse:

"Lord of all Light and Darkness,
Lord of all Life and Death,
Behold, we lay in the earth today
The flesh that perisheth.
Take to thyself whatever may
Be not as dust and breath,
Lord of all Light and Darkness,
Lord of all Life and Death."

And then the coffin was lowered into the rough pine box which had previously been placed in the grave.

Then came another part of this burial service. There were no grave diggers to fill this grave in this potter's field. That was just another part of the day's work. We took turns—all of us men but Chuck; he was crying openly by this time.

The grave was filled. As we walked back to where the hearse was parked, I walked by the side of Chuck trying to comfort him. I tried to tell him that what Christ had said was true. There were better things in store for Sal on the other side. I didn't tell him that I thought she had hell enough on earth; no matter what was in store for her, she would be better off. At any rate he stopped crying.

Ahead of us walked Jim by the side of Mag. She was sobbing pathetically. I heard Jim say, "Remember Mag, everything is all right with your Mammy. You'll see her again."

And Mag, sobbing pitifully said, "I know, but I gotta go home an' Mammy won't be there."

Old Sal was dead, dead and buried. And Mag, Mag was going back to life—life in a filthy two room shanty in the Branch; life with a paralyzed father and three young babies, but Mammy would not be there.

COMING OF "BIG PARADE" IS KEENLY AWAITED HERE

VOL. 13 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, APRIL 13, 1928 NUMBER 24

HIGHLAND TEAM CONQUERS FAMED KNOXVILLE SMOKIES

Gabbard Allows Only Eight Hits

STONE HITS HOME RUN

Blazer Plays Brilliantly at Second.

Eugene Gabbard pitched a masterful game of baseball last Friday afternoon and with almost flawless support from his team-mates turned back the Knoxville Smokies of the South Atlantic Association with a 6-4 Highlander victory.

This was the first time Maryville College had defeated the South Atlantic league team in the exhibition games played yearly.

Only three men faced Gabbard in Konxville's half of the first inning. In Maryville's half four men looked O'Neill in the face but Gann who had received a base on balls was stranded. Knoxville went in order in the second. Five Maryville men toed the plate in the last half of the second inning but a base on balls and a single by Mischlich the first hit of the game did not produce a run. With two down in the third Reno doubled but could get no farther than second as Hamilton grounded out.

Maryville turned loose with full force in the third and eight men appeared at the plate before the Highlanders went out on three put outs. Davis, first up, singled, took second on O'Neill's error of Bird's attempt sacrifice. Davis was thrown out at third on a fielder's choice. The climax of the game had been reached when, with one away and two runners on the path, John Stone strode

Conference Debate Team Engages In Eight Debates

Prof. Queener Elected Pi Kappa District Governor.

The debate team which just returned from Ohio reported a very enjoyable time, having been gone for nine days and having in the mean time participated in eight different debates. Prof. Queener says the trip can be called a success since our men lost only three out of eight debates. The following teams were debated, Berea College, Center College, Bethony College of Pennslyvania William-Jewell teams No. 1 and 2 of Missouri, Intcliffe of Missouri, Central College of Missouri and Georgetown College of Kentucky. Young and Hopkins had the privilege of debating five times in one day, 3 times in the off. and twice on the negative. Both men agreed that they were willing to stop after their fifth debate. Prof. Queener was honored at the convention by being elected Provincial Governor of District No. Nine which includes Tennessee, Kentucky, and Indiana. Hopkins says some of the joy was taken out of the trip because Young and Queener were concerned about the widely advertised matrimonial confab which was being held on the Hill during their absence. Prof. Queener felt that the conference might be a failure unless he could get back in time to give a few parting words of condolence to the blissful delegates. However, taking everything into consideration the trip was a success and our men had a wonderful experience.

ECHO SHORT STORY CONTEST CLOSES TODAY

Today is Friday the thirteenth, April, 1928, and the Short Story Contest the Echo has been conducting closes today. Many manuscripts have been received, and new talent has been discovered. Most of the stories were above the usual "collegiate" standard. The judges will certainly have a hard task in selecting the winning story.

The name of the winner of the $5.00 prize offered will be announced at the earliest possible time. At the same time, the names of those submitting stories will be published. Then one may find out the names of the authors of the two stories published in earlier issues of the Echo.

The Echo wishes to thank those who have shown an interest in this contest, and aided in it anyway.

SMOKY MOUNTAINS ARE THEME OF 1928 ANNUAL

New Chilhowean Has Many New Features of Interest.

Yes the book is finished. The Chilhowean is now being printed in Knoxville and will make its appearance on Maryville Campus about May 10th. The staff have worked hard to make this early delivery possible, and so we hope that the different organizations will co-operate with us and pay their dues immediately.

The annual this year is "Bigger and Better" than it ever has been. A stiff cover of a very unusual design is the first characteristic to be noticed by the anxious student. The theme of the book is the Smoky Mountains. All the pictures used are actual views of Mount LeConte and the Big Smokies. The opening section is also rated by the Capitol Engraving Co., of Nashville as being the most outstanding in the South. The Senior border is a special design carrying out the mountain effect of the book and is another of the outstanding features of the annual. The regular book border and the Senior border are special designs dawn for our book. The cartoons are all original, drawn for us by Corky Crawford and Walter Matthews.

The athletic section is another feature of the "wonder-book." The football section is unlike anything used heretofore. It is a combination of action and smiling faces, with unique design and careful planning.

The feature section of the class beauties is a surprise to the editor. He expected something beautiful, but his fondest hopes were excelled. We can't announce the winners until the book is in your hands, or thereabouts. We are using a new ink on this section this year. This is the first annual to use it and we feel sure that the student body will like it very much.

There is little use in soaring into the heights about the book. When we say that it is a good one, we have said plenty. To over estimate our work would be boasting, and would no doubt disappoint the students. We have sold five hundred annuals and could sell more if we had them. There will be many sorry faces among the cautious when the annual arrives because its beauty and contents are the 'siren of the four dollars.'

The purpose of an annual is to give the Seniors something to take away with them in the shape of a book of memories. In the 1928 Chilhowean they have that. In the annual we strive to place those things that have been unusual to the College and the student life. That also is there. May every student enjoy the 1928 Chilhowean.

CARSON-NEWMAN PLAYS BALL HERE 19th AND 20th

Series Will Go For oward Deciding Conference Championship.

Maryville College will meet Carson-Newman here next Wednesday and Thursday April 19th and 20th, in what will possibly be the best series of home games of the present baseball season.

Carson-Newman has a good team and will fight hard to win both games, as two wins for either team would go a long ways toward settling the Smoky Mountain Conference baseball championship.

Maryville is rapidly rounding into shape and will make a good showing for the remainder of the season.

THE CAT CONVENTION

A Parable of Safred the Sage

Once upon a time there was a Convention, and I crossed the Ocean that I might be there. And I hearkened unto much that was said for the space of Three Weeks.

An a Delegate spake unto me, saying, What dost thou think of all this?

And I said, There was once a Convention of Representatives of all the tribes on earth that belong to the Cat Family. And the Lion was there, and the Tiger and the Panther, and the Leopard, and the Wild Cat and the Bob Cat and the Black Cat and the Yellow Cat and the Maltese Cat and the Manx cat and the rest.

And the Leopard spake and he said:

It is well known and recognized that all members of the Cat Family were Originally One, and modesty preventeth my saying which one it probably was. But we are in an evil case because we are divided. If all the Cats were One Kind, we could face the Wolves and the Bears undismayed. Wherefore, we must first consider whether it be true or not that there was but one kind of Cat in the Garden of Eden, and, if so, what Cats beside the Leopard may have been there, and secondly, under what conditions the Cats that can trace their Pedigree from the Original Leopard but have lost their spots can be admitted to the Cat family. But the Manx Cat answered, I am the Original Cat, and all others have disfiguring Accretions, and I insist that all members of the Reorganized Cat Family cut off their Useless and Unsightly Tails.

And the man who whom I told this piece of History said, that is most interesting. Tell me the rest of it.

And I answered, that is all there is to tell.

And he said, this is sure a bad place to stop.

And I answered, that is precisely where all such Conventions do stop.

And he said, Did the Cat Convention break up in a Fight?

And I answered, Nay, they all went home saying what a good time they had had, and that they hoped to have another Convention a few years hence, and that there ought to be a found for the payment of delegate's expenses.

And the man said, Wast thou a delegate to the Cat Convention?

And I said, I sate beside the Owl who was an Unofficial Observer, and I listened unto the Owl.

And the Owl said, I lead on the whole, a rather Solemn Life. But when I see a Convention like this, I store Up Smiles to last me a Long Time.

And he said, Which dost thou think was the Original Cat?

And I said, The one that ate the Carnary.

SOPHOMORES TO EDIT NEXT WEEK'S ECHO

Next week's Highland Echo will be the output of the sophomore class. It has been the custom for the sophomores to put out one issue of the Echo each year, and this year will be no exception. This custom is only fair to the sophomores. Seniors do most of the talking on this campus, freshmen are talked about, and juniors put out the Chilhowean, but sophomores get no publicity at all.

Let us suggest that the president of the sophomores have his class-elect an editor-in-chief at once, so that the Echo will come out on time next week.

HIGHLANDERS EXPECT TO AVENGE WATERY DEFEAT

Will Meet Tusculum Team in Home Pool Here Tonight.

Maryville's mermen left Maryville last Friday, April sixth with the avowed purpose of defeating Tusculum College but if they won they have been very quiet and unassuming for little has been said.

Some times alibis are in order and this is one time when one is in order. Some of Maryville's performers reached Tusculum in time to see the last events. Part of them arrived a few minutes before the meet began. All of this was because of car trouble and that trouble was so great that the boys hailed the passers-by and reached Tusculum the best way possible. There Tusculum scored 50-38 against them.

Friday night, April thirteenth Maryville meets Tusculum in a return engagement and the Highlanders expect to turn the tables.

As this is the first home meet of the season a capacity crowd is expected to cheer the local boys on to victory and to applaud the visitors in their performances.

GRADING WORK PROCEEDING

We are rejoicing over the fact that in recent weeks work has been started to grade certain spots on the campus. The red, raw, muddy earth is not altogether unlovely to our eyes, for we can imagine how it will look when it is level and green. Nature does very well, but Nature with the assistance of a grading crew does even better.

The uphill—downdale billows of earth near alumni gymnasium and Bartlett Hall have been smoothed over until it is one hill of mud, but—it is level! And what looks like the start of a first-class corn patch next Court Street will soon be graded. The road by Science Hall has been obliterated; would we could say that of the unofficial paths cutting up the campus. There remains but one task before the grading crew—we should hold a very Special Celebration were it accomplished—the leveling to some extent, of the clay bank between Carnegie Hall and Court St.

We forgot to mention an important event on our campus—the tulips in the flower bed on Anderson lawn are about to bloom!

FINAL RELAY DECIDES TRACK MEET FOR U. T.

Highlanders in Lead Until Final Event.

TAGGERT SCORED 18 POINTS

Maryville Took Six First-Places And Tied For One First.

Well, Maryville didn't defeat Tennessee in the track meet held at Knoxville last Saturday but the Highlanders threw a big scare in the Tennesee camp as Maryville led until the final event—the mile relay. When the mile relay was called Maryville was in the lead 57-55 and only lost this event by about two yards.

Maryville can go up against most any school on the track but the Highlanders showed a weakness in the field events. But in the running events Taggert and Williams took first and second places, respectively in the 100-yard dash and the 220-yard dash Taggart won in the 440 yard dash; Taggart also took second in the the broad jump to be high scorer of the meet with eighteen points.

Mann won the mile run but lost the two mile run when Stewart of Tennessee ran this event in 10 minutes 1.8 seconds. Captain Crawford bested Mitchell of Tennesse in the low hurdles. Otis Peterson stepped out in the 880-yard dash to take first place for the Highlanders. Lowell McDonald made his winged "M" when he won the shot put. Milling had to be content with a tie in the pole vaul

Other Highlanders who added to Maryville's score but did not take first place were: Mann, two mile; Leland McDonald, high jump; Millsaps, javelin.

Maryville took seven first places, tied for one first place, and won six second places.

Miss Rule Appears In Voice Recital Monday

Program Will Be Only Voice Recital Of Year.

On Monday evening at 8 o'clock Miss Jimmy Rule will, give a last graduate recital in voice at Voorhees Chapel. Last year Jimmy gave a graduate recital, we remember, the first voice recital given for a number of years, and this year her program is even better than last year's after her work this year with Miss Henry.

Most of us have heard Jimmy sing, and for those of us nothing more need be said. For those who haven't heard her let us say that there is a real treat in store for them, and nobody can afford to miss this the only voice recital of the year.

She will be accompained by Fancher Smartt

The following is the program:

THE HIGHLAND FLINGS

A seven-year-old boy recently told his parents he was pursued by a big pack of wolves and he finally fought them off by throwing his steel traps at them. We conclude that this boy will make an accomplished husband.

M. C.

Said the skunk to the hunter
With a shiver and a shake,
"What a whale of a difference,
A few 'scents' make."

M. C.

Contractor: watching Jack Cotton heading rivets on a large steel girder for a sky scraper. "That new hand you've got knows his job all right."

Foreman: "Yes, he won first prize in an endurance contest as an xylophone player in Maryville College."

M. C.

Miss Worley: Frances, Isn't that young man gone yet?

Frances Easly: No, but I've got him going.

M. C.

Jack: I see here where a woman married a man for money. You wouldn't marry me for money would you.

Lucy: I wouldn't marry you for all the money in the world.

M. C.

Ikey (to his son Moses) How much is twice two?

Moses: Six fadder.

Ikey: Twice times two is not six, it is four.

Moses: Ya, fadder, I knowed it, I said six so you could jew me down.

M. C.

Liza: What fo you buy dat udder box of shoe blackin?

Go on, Nigga, dat ain't shoe blackin' dates ma massage cream.

M. C.

Osborne: When I hear a woman sing I clap my hands.

Grinsted: So do I—over my ears.

M. C.

"Thanks for the pony ride," sang the student as he came out from exams.

M. C.

First Jelly Bean: Well, my father has another wife to support now.

Second Jelly Bean: Is he a bigamist?

First Jelly Bean: Nope, but I just got married.

M. C.

They call him Daniel because he is a boon to his family,

M. C.

SKILL

THE twist of the wrist, the "throw" of the arm, the shifting of the weight—these are among the many little points which make the skill that you admire in the javelin thrower as he hurls the shaft two hundred feet or more.

As on the track or the football field, in the gymnasium or on the water, so in industry, progress is the result of fine improvements a thousandth of an inch here—a minute variation in a curve there—slight changes foreseen by engineers and carried out by skilled workmen.

It is this attention to detail that is constantly improving General Electric apparatus and contributing to the electrical industry, which, though still young, is already a dominant force, increasing profit and promoting success in every walk of life.

Whether you find this monogram on an electric refrigerator for the home or on a 200,000-horsepower turbine-generator for a power station, you can be sure that it stands for skilled engineering and high manufacturing quality.

HIGHLAND TEAM CONQUERS FAMED SMOKIES

to the plate and took a swing in true Ruthian style. When the cheering had subsided Bird, Gann, and Stone had scored for Stone had hit a home-run to deep left field, the longest hit of the game. Clemens was safe when Rice fumbled a ground ball. Captain Clemens took second on DeLaney's bunt and scored on Blazer's single.

Only four Smokies faced Gabbard in the fourth. Davis was stranded on third after he had made a three base hit. An error and two hits netted the Collegians two additional runs in the fourth to end their scoring. After the fourth only thirteen Highlanders basemen faced the opposing pitchers. Davis and Mischlich secured these. Davis was left on the base and Mischlich was caught off first when Gallager, Smoky first sacker blocked him off the base.

The Smokies scored four runs in the sixth. Reno doubled and scored on Hamilton's single. "Ham" was out at second on a fielders choice, Osborne reaching first safely. Davis singled and Gallagher field out to Blazer for the second out. Rice hit a line drive over infield which ordinarily would have been good for a single but Stone, who was set for the ball did not get it, as it took a bad hop and eluded him. As Stone did not touch the ball Rice's hit went as a home run.

This ended the scoring altogether the Smokies made two hits in the seventh. Manager Gabby Sheet went in as a pinch hitter in the ninth but his best effort was a long fly to Stone for the last put out.

Reno, with three doubles, was the batting stars for the visitors. Gallagher played a good game at first.

Davis and Mischlich with two hits each led the hitting for the locals. Davis had twelve chances at first. Blazer was the outstanding star of the game. Playing his first game on the infield. Blazer handled everything that came his way, accepting ten chances without a bobble. Three of his chances were difficult but Blazer made them seem easy.

FIECHTL'S TYROLEAN YODLERS PRESENTS MUSICAL ENTERTAINMENT TUESDAY NIGHT

Varied Program Includes Vocal And Instrumental Numbers

WORLD FAMOUS AS THE "SWISS YODLERS"

An Opportunity To Hear Distinguished Artists

That exquisite form of mountain singing which reverberates from cliff to cliff and is known the wide world over as "yodling," finds stricking interpretation in the singing of Fiechtl's Tyrolean Yodlers, who are to give their unique musical entertainment on the Lyceum course here next Tuesday evening.

The piquancy of living and exuberance of song typical of these Alpine mountain in people pervade the program and exert a great fascination over American audiences.

The singing is unusually beautiful. The ensemble work is marvelous, years of singing together having given these singers remarkable control and blending of tone. The solo-features are equally well rendered. The program is varied with numerous instrumental numbers, played delightfully upon the instruments favored in the Yodlers' nattive land.

One of the most popular numbers of the entire program is a rendition of the famous Swiss "Echo" song by Anna Fiechtl and Jack Yost.

In the company are Anna Fiechtl, Elsie Fiechtl Kuester and Otto R. Kuester, well known the country over as leading members of the Fiechtl's Yodlers company and Jack Yost and Constantine Wunderle, celebrated Victor artists.

It is surprising how much genuine music and real art these lads and lassies from the Tyrol put into their beautiful diversified program. The ensemble maintained in the choruses seems perfect. What constant singing together will do for a chorus has been done for these singers through their long association.

There is an irresistible freshness and charm about the entire program. The scene enacted on the stage is a striking reprduction of a chapter from Alpine life. Clad in their colorful, picturesque native costumes these artists bring home to the audience the music of the mountains, pulsating with life and throbbing with human sympathy.

The girls of the company are like bright, animated birds, brilliant and dazzling, the men no less resplendent as to plumage, no less vivacious as to deportment.

Various folk and yodle songs are sung. Some of the songs have been translated into English, but many are sung in the native tongue. A few American sons are put in for good measure, the native facial expressions and marked Swiss accent of the singers giving a piquant flavor to the amfiliar melodies.

Instrumental numbers played upon the unique musical instruments of the Tyrol are a delightful feature of the program.

MARYVILLE TAKES TWO GAMES FROM C. N.

Takes Easy Game Thursday

MARYVILLE TROUNCES OPPONENTS 11 TO 1 IN OPENING FRAY

Gabbard looked good on the mound, allowing only three htis; when Maryville took Carson-Newman into camp here in a slow game on Thursday.

Hitting by Stone, Blazer, Bird and Davis featured the game.

Stone relieved Gabbard in the seventh and held the visitors to a few scattered hits

In Wednesday's game Blazer displayed good control and allowed only five scattered hits. The game was a thrilling one for the first five innings, but the Hinianders soon bunched their hits for a big lead, and were not in danger afterward.

COLLEGE ORCHESTRA IN ANNUAL CONCERT

Assisted By Talented Aritists From Knoxville.

MONDAY NIGHT

String Ensemble Will Play

Maryville is justly proud of her orchestra this year, and we are not afraid to say that it is the best one that has ever been assembled at Maryville. Miss Mildred Butcher, the conductor, has been working hard and the program which is to be rendered Monday night speaks much for her efforts. Those who love music, especially the inspiring symphomy of the full orchestra cannot afford to miss this concert.

The assisting artists who are to appear in concert Monday evening are among the most prominent musicians of East Tennessee.

Mrs. Marjorie Whaley has been the solist in St. John's Episcopal Church, Knoxville, for the past ten years. She has made a number of concert tours thru Ohio, has sung with the Redpath Chautauqua and as soloist with the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra.

Mr. Frank Nelson has been organist at St. John's Episcopal Church, Knox ville for more than thirty years. Not only is he widely known as an organist, but has an equal reputation as pianist.

It is a most unusual treat for Maryville to have two such artists on one program, and a very large house will undoubtedly show the appreciation of the music loving people of Maryville.

RELAY DECIDES MEET FOR HIGHLANDERS

Sewanee Tigers Take Eight Firsts But Lose By Ten Points.

TWO RECORDS GO

Leaving on Friday the thirteenth with thirteen men, the Highland track squad made its way to Sewanee for a meet with the strong Tiger team, which last year so easily romped over the best of U. T.'s cinder artists. The trip was long and tiresome, but upon their arrival the local lads refreshed themselves with a light worko-ut on the Tiger's track. Due to the altitude of Sewanee, which is located on a mountain some of the men had difficulty in accustoming themselves to the atmosphere. However, they must have been feeling natural by two o'clock the next day for when they started for home they had the great Sewanee Tiger securely tied down to a slow track and a muddy field, holding the short end of the 55 1-2-65 1-2 score.

This is the first time in history that a Maryville College track team has so clearly outshone a strong Southern Conference school. Maryville started the meet as the under dog but ended by giving Coach Bennett's men their first set back on their own grounds. The spectators who braved the cold winds that swept over Hardee field last Saturday afternoon were repaid for their efforts for the meet was in doubt until the last event. Sewanee won 8 of the 15 first places but failed to come thru with enough second

Miss Catherine Rule Sings To Large Audience

Delights Hearers By Lyric Soprano Voice And Pleasing Personality.

Last Monday evening the Music Lovers had a real treat when Miss Jimmie Rule gave her post-graduate recital in voice.

The opening numbers were two difficult selections from Handel's "Messiah". These were a proof of her remarkable talent, for the most difficult passages were sung with great skill. The second group, songs by Brahms, were sung in German. This was followed by the popular Aria, "Oh, Je Veux Vivre," from Romeo and Juliet. In the last group Jimmie displayed her histrionic ability and sang in that engaging manner of which only Jimmie is capable. The prolonged applause at the end of the programme was a proof of the audience's appreciation of her ability.

We are all sorry that this is Jimmie's last year at Maryville college. We know that we shall miss her and her unselfish manner and charm that she has shown through her talent while here.

Miss Fancher Smartt at the piano showed her skill as an able accompanist.

Seniors Select "Icebound" As Class Play

Written By Owen Davis. Cast To Be Picked Soon.

For many years one of the most important entertainments on the hill during the school year has been the Senior play, given each year by the out-going class. This is truly the last chance the Seniors have, while in college, of displaying their ability to the under-classmen and faculty and consequently it has always been a performance worthy of much praise. We well remember "The Enemy" of last year and the ability that was displayed when it was given.

This year the Senior Play Committee has selected the play "Ice Bound" by Owen Davis. This play, which will be given on June 5, is one of special note, having won the Pulitzer prize of $1000 for the best play of the year 1923.

We have indeed had a variety of types of plays this year; "The Lucky Break" with a modern American small-town setting, "Romeo and Juliet" with its settnng in Italy, "The Patsy," again the modern setting but still entirely different, "So This is London" with its scenes laid in England, "Old Lady 31" in old fashioned costumes, and "The Rivals," again English, but the England of the seventeenth century.

"Ice Bound" however, is still different. It is a strong modern drama of simple New England life, dealing with ordinary people. Contrary to the meaning which its title suggests it does not deal with Artic regions but with cold personalities.

The cast, which will probably be selected by the end of the week, will be made up of the best dramatic

"Y" Men Elect Officers For Next Year

Hopkins Is President

Here, there, and everywhere these past few days one has heard the question "who will be our next 'Y' president?" When one realizes that our 'Y' stands for the best on college hill he can account for the fact that great interest is showed in the selection of the officers for the next year.

The older students in thinking of the Y. M. C. A. of the past years are reminded of such leaders as Charles Johnson, "Bob" Harvey, and our own Walter Courtenay. Anyone who was here wnen these first two men lead our 'Y' can appreciate the high standard set for "Red" Courtenay. But these same students are aware that "Red" has kept the standard of the 'Y' at the highest point. Congratulations on your most excellent work, "Red."

As Tuesday night drew nearer interest seemed keener as to the outcome of the election. Election hour, immediately after suppr, found an unusually large number of men on hand to participate in the voting. With "Billy" Crawford Y. M. C. A. Vice-President, presiding during all but the first ballot, the election was conducted rapidly and smoothly. The men chosen as officers for the ensuing year are as follows:

Ingram Fell, Treasurer; Albert Tull, Secretary; Gene Gabbard, Vice President; and Florian Hopkins, President. Maryville men are to be congratulated on choosing these high-class men in whose hands the 'Y' can be safely trusted. Especially are we fortunate for having as president a man who has had experience in Y. M. C. A. work for the two past summers, has been trained for appearing before the public in his climb to first rank as a debater, and a genuine all-round good fellow interested in every activity, designed

Sophomore Girls Again Victorious In Athletics

Are Champions In All Branches of Sports

Mondy, April 2, brought to a close the Co-ed Volley ball season. The Frosh, Sophs, and Juniors met in Alumni gymnasium; the Frosh hoping to avenge the defeat which they suffered at the fee of the Sophs in the soccer tournament, the sophs, hoping to uphold the name of champion which they had won, and the juniors hoping that at last their time had come.

In order to have a uniform playing time games were played in halves.

In the first round the juniors met the Frosh and conquered them by a score of 12-18. The game was very interesting as the juniors were never sure of victory until the final whistle.

The junior's hopes fell when they submitted to a 27-10 defeat from the sophs. Nothing daunted, the sophs faced the frosh and carried away a 34 to 12 voctory. This game was not very interesting as at no time were the Sophs in danger.

Much of the credit for the Soph's success was due to the Captain, Helen Crowder, who at all times kept her team mates enthusiastic and set a good example by her strong serve. She was able to play many points for her team.

However, the entire team showed consistent playing and the majority of their points were made on fail ure of their opponents to return the hard balls which were served them by the Sophs.

The victorious team was composed of:

Helen Crowder, Captain.
Vera Boyd
Virginia Pearson
Olive Clopton
Edith Burns
Ruth Sharp
Grace Kelly
Esther Hunter

OUR HERITAGE

As we, the members of the Sophomore Class find ourselves in the position of editors of our college paper, we cannot but feel that a mile-stone has been reached in our college course and that we have changed a great deal since we passed the last one in our tender Freshman days. Many wonder wherein this change has come. We often find ourselves in the same quandary.

According to tradition, sophistication is synonomous with sophomore. Perhaps sophistication is not an unnatural consequence of being able, at the first of the year, to call the football men by their first names, of being recognized by at least one or two members of the faculty at the faculty reception, and of selling chapel seats to unsuspecting Frosh. True it is that we sneer contemptuously at the yearlings' struggles with expository themes, unaware that they but mirror yesteryear. Then too, we consider the errors of the seniors merely stepping stones to the unpecedented success of the class of thirty, unconscious of the stumbling blocks we leave in the way. We are sophisticated; and far be it from us to deny such laurels, which we have received "greener from the brow" of our predecessors.

Priceless as is the heritage of sophistication, we have a more valuable one in that intangible somthing known as the "Maryville Spirit." When we were Freshmen we heard about it, were confronted by it, but did not recognize it. Chapel speakers expounded it, old alumni eulogized it, and our cheerleaders pled for it, but still it was to us as elusive as a will-o'-the-wisp.

About two weeks before school opened and we were about to assume our roles as sophisticated sophomores we felt an indescribable desire to get back to "Old College Hill"—our first real comprehension of the "Maryville Spirit." Since then we have come to recognize it as being within us a spirit of loyalty, fair play and altruistic service, and we have done our best this year to merit our part in it.

If we can but hand on our inheritance untarnished and undimmed, we shall not count our sophomore year a total loss.

If

(APOLOGIES TO KIPLING)

If you can come to Maryville and not love it,
And not desire to come again next year,
If you can find another school above it,
We won't object to your not being here;
If you don't have the good old Maryville spirit,
In which those all about you moves and dwell;
If you dislike this place, or even near it,
Then you can very gladly go to—
Well, some other school.

AMERICAN THINKING

The saying "no two people under the sun are alike" is one which is accepted almost universally, which is likely to stand long centuries after the "snap" has been abandoned as the favorite indoor pastime of Maryville College. To say that Americans as a people have a marked oneness of thought or action is to invite immediate controversy. However, according to a recent writing of George Jean Nathan, there is a definite set of basic thinking principles, perfectly simple in content, by which almost every American's actions are governed, and from which we can safely deduce what will be his reaction under practically every situation. Why a man continues to brush his polished pate years fter the lst belved hair has departed, why at football games he will throw away a perfectly good Stetson in the heat of excitement, and other similar doings, are difficult to explain, but in most of them a good student can discern invariably the composition of the underlying rock upon which the American builds his philosophy.

A few of Nathan's "doctrinal faiths of the American masses" follow:

1. That whistling is a sign of idiocy.

2. That chess players and infant prodigies invariably end up in the insane asylums.

3. That Heaven will protect the working girl.

4. That if a man loves his mother he will always love his wife.

5. That every chorus girl had a mother once and is therefore entitled to some respect.

6. That the majority of college students are atheists.

7. That a bagpipe is the only musical instrument a Scotchman can play.

8. That people who endorse massage creams, cigarettes and underwear, never themselves use the things they exploit.

9. That an undertaker never embalms a member of his own family.

10. That all doctors make love to their women patients.

Already, Nathan has secured almost two thousand cardinal units in the mass philosophy of the American people. But the end is not in sight. With the aid of scholars, both in this country and abroad, he is gradually completing and perfecting his contributions toward an understanding of the democratic mind. Perhaps in years to come the actions of the American people, even of us college students, will not seem so uncountable.

SMOKIES DEFEAT THE HIGHLANDERS, 10-1

Playing their first game in almost two weeks the Maryville Highlanders bowed in defeat to the Knoxville Smokies at Knoxville Monday afternoon 10-1. The Smokies out-hit the college boys but the fielding of both teams was about even. Maryville garnered four hits off the delivery of Steidel and Sawyer. Mischlich made two of these, Stone one, and Gabbard the other one.

Bird fielded brilliantly at short accepting eight chances without a hobble.

U. T. BOWS TO MARYVILLE

Maryville stepped out in tennis circles on Wednesday to hand the Vols a drubbing on the university courts. Coulter, Maryville, won from Lee, Tennessee 9-7, 6-4. Rogers, Maryville beat McCammon, Tennessee, 7-5, 2-6, 7-5, and Franklin, Maryville beat Brown, Tennessee 6-2 5-7, 10-8. Pope, Maryville, lost to Burns, Tennessee 6-2, 8-6.

In the double matches, Rogers and Coulter, Maryville, defeated Morgan and Brown 6-3, 6-3; while Burns and McCammon, Tennessee, defeated Pope and Franklin 6-1, 6-3.

Dr. McMurray is suffering from an acute attack of plurisy, and the entire student body joins in wishing him a speedy recovery.

Jimmie Rule had as her guests over the week end her, brother and his wife Mrs Rule is visiting with her daughter for several weeks.

WELL, DID YOU EVER

From the turrets of old Fayerweather Hall could be seen a very motley crowd advancing in full array, yea verily! Kings there were, a knight, as well as those who were Smartt and Coy, and also the senior member of the Pierce and Arrow Company, auto makers and Howe!

This is only to say that the Preachers held a banquet on April 9th in the Home Economics Department or Apartments, and enjoyed a, not entirely, quiet Knapp. We were fearfully and wonderfully served by the girls of the Home Economics Department and are indeed grateful to them for their preparation of some food of no mean quality.

"Solomon in all his glory" could not give a toast as can our own "Daddy Knapp"; yet he seemed uneasy, due, as he said, to this, his first appearance as a moderator of the General Assembly, and also being afraid of these Preachers whose choirs murder hymns, whose organist drowns the choir, and who himself charges the audience.

After two or three solos by Walt Courtenay, Gordon Jeffries gave a couple of readings. The main speech of the evening was given by Prof. Bob Jensen. It was, as the women's skirt of today, brief enough to be interesting, but long enough to cover the subject.

NEW STAFF EDITORS ANNOUNCED; BUSINESS MANAGER NOT YET SELECTED

According to the provisions of the regulations regarding the management of "The Highland Echo", the joint committee of student council members and faculty members have selected the Staff editors for next year. For the editorial staff of next year there remain the six sophomore cubs yet to be chosen. The contest for the selection of these six is being conducted through the freshmen English classes, and results will be announced as soon as possible.

The editorial staff consists of four Staff Editors of junior or senior classification, these are Jack Cotton, Sarah Moore, Edna Baither, and Jesse Peirce and of two Associate Editors, juniors, these are Forrest Robertson and Elizabeth King. These officers elect the new Editor-in-Chief from among their number.

The remaining positions on the Echo Staff, those of Business Manager and Assistant Business Managers, are vitally important to the carrying on of the paper. Those who wish to file their applications for these positions must do so at once. The three student members on this committee are Arthur Young, Betty Jane Sharp, and Frank Baker.

The Business Manager and his Assistants are to be chosen by the following plan of the Regulations, Section III, Article 1; "A Committee of three members of the Student Council and of three members of the Faculty, including the Faculty Auditor of Student Accounts, the Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Student Publications, and one other, shall, during the last two weeks in April receive applications for the positions of business manager and assistant business manager. These applications are to be accompanied by statements and evidence regarding the applicants' business experience. On the basis of this material submitted, the committee shall select the most suitable candidate to be business manager and the next three in point of suitability to be assistant business managers."

After the coming school year, the assistant business managers will be given first choice in the selection of the business managers, so get in the game this year, students, if you wish future positions on the Echo.

RESOLUTIONS

Whereas, God in His infinite mercy has seen fit to call unto himself the father of our friend and classmate, Harry Gilbert Park, be it resolved that we, the Freshman Class of Maryville College, do hereby extend to him our deepest sympathy.

Be it further resolved that a copy of these resolutions be read in chapel, a copy printed in the Highland Echo, and a copy sent to the bereaved family.

ability in the Senior class. According to three prominent Seniors this is going to be the best Senior play that Maryville College has ever produced, so we are certainly looking forward to seeing it on June 5. And we are sure that if there is anything to the power of suggestion we will spend a comfortably cool evening even though it will be June 5 and "good ole summer time!"

"Y" MEN ELECT OFFICERS FOR NEXT YEAR

for the good of Maryville students. We are with you next year Y. M. C. A. officers, expecting you to conduct our 'Y' through the best year it has ever experienced.

WHO'S WHO AMONG THE SOPHOMORES

The ofifcers of the class of '30 are: President, Bob Jones; Vice-president, Marion Johnson; Secretary, Jess Peirce; Treasurer, Stanley McCool; and editor, Frank Baker.

Student council representatives are: Mary Ella Sullivan, Ed Sprouse, Margaret Mevis, and Brant Sterns.

Frank Baker has been chosen as editor of the 1929 Chilhowean. Jess Peirce will be business maaager.

The class Pi Kappa Delta members are Frank Baker, Betty Niles, Bob Jones, Allen Herdman, Alice Rhea, Hayden Laster, Margaret Mevis, and Jorest Raluston.

Soph members of the ochestra include James Tweed, Agnes McQuire, Katherine Hoxworth, Nick White, Margaret Haynie, Jean Kerr, James Birch, John Taggart, and Evelyn Howard. Tweed, White, Birch, and Elbert Thompson, with his big bass drum, are also members of the band.

Marion Johnson and Garnet Manges are graduates in Piano this year.

The Soph boys have taken an active part in athletics this year. Bill Hope, Ira Morrison, and Lowell McDonald lettered in football. Jimmie Hoyt was the efficient football manager last season, assisted by Brute Crow.

Louise Carson is the May-Day representative.

Paul Everett and Jess Peirce are two energitic and inspiring cheer leaders. Who could forget Jesse's 'You Don't Know Mary -v-i-l-l e" or Paul's immortal words "Oh, it cuts me to the heart—."

Elizabeth King made the largest number of quality credits last semester.

Last and least (in size), Brute Crow is assistant manager of the baseball and track teams and served as assistant manager of the basketball team.

RELAY DECIDES MEET FOR HIGHLANDERS

places to give them a mapority of points.

Sewanee got away to a fast start by winning the 100 yard dash, the high hurdles, the 220 yard dash and the pole vault. Maryville took seconds in these events. Antin, Sewanee star, won the two dashes, the low hurdle and the broad jump which made him high point man.

One of the most thrilling races of the day was Huston's tie for second at the finish of the mile. For a freshman he iss howing great form in this event.

Milling did his best work for this year when he went to eleven feet before missing in the pole vault.

Holman ran one of the feature races of the day when he flashed out from behind to finish first in the half mile in the winning time of 2:06

Two college records were broken in this meet. McDonald made a leap of 5 feet 8 inches to set a new mark in the high jump while Mann lowered his time in the two mile run to 10 minutes and 37 seconds. Both men hope to do even better before the season is over.

The final event of the day was the relay. The score stood 55 1-2 to 60 1-3 which meant that Sewanee would tie if they won the relay, but would lose if the Highlanders finished first. Maryville started out a little in the lead but by the fourth lap Sewanee was ahead. It was a close race all the way but in the last few yards Taggart was able to nose ahead of Antin enough to break the tape that meant victory in the meet.

The team meets L. M. U. away next Saturday.

SUMMARY

100 yard dash, Antin (s) first; Williams (m) second. Time 10 4-5.

Mile, Mann (m) first; Houston (m) and Deaver (s) tied for second. Time 4:45 3-5.

"BEN HUR" FILM RECLLS STORY'S FAME AS NOVEL

Only Book That Has Ever Approached Circulation of the Bible.

The long awaited Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen version of "Ben-Hur" whach has been three years in the making, recalls some of the historical and interesting facts about this immortal story by General Lew Wallace. The photoplay version of this dramatic success of a thousand premieres will be shown at the Palace Theatre, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday.

For forty-five years "Ben-Hur" has been a best-seller and is said to have reached a circulation as large as the Bible. The novel was first published in 1880 following five years of study and research by General Wallace. One of the most unusual facts about this work is that it is the only book of fiction to be blessed by the Holy See. "Ben-Hur" was ordered translated into Italian and then blessed by Pope Leo XIII. "Ben-Hur" was translated into the Arabic, being the first return of the Aryan world for the literary treasure of the Thousand Arabian Nights.

NOTED NEGRO SCIENTIST SPEAKS TO STUDENTS

Dr. Geo. W. Carver, Of Tuckeegee, Gives Talk On "Inside of a Peanut."

To some it is given, at least once in a lifetime, to stand in the presence of greatness.

Those five or six hundred students who heard Dr. George W. Carver, Negro scientist of Tuskeegee Inst., who spoke to us on last Tuesday afternoon, are confident that then they sat under the voice of one deservedly called great. If one may judge from their interest and overwhelming enthusiasm, he is confident also that those students were aware of the greatnes of their opoprtunity and were humble.

As a personality, Dr.Carver proved to be more than we who had been reading his biographies had anticipated; as a speaker, he charmed us with his directness and delightful whimsicalities; as a creative scientist, he so astounds us that one forgets whatever praise-souiding words he once had known, but they would not have been adequate anyway. One sayls, Here is a man who has really caught the spirit of Science. Another says, Here is a man of God! And both are right, for, as Dr. Carver himself would say, Science is Truth, and all Truth is of God.

For us the humble peanut has become glorified, for out of it we now know that one man has taken the materials for compounding two hundred and two usetul products, he himself giving us the assurance that its possibilities are not yet exhausted. What with peanut milk, buttermilk, and cream, cheese and coffee, relish and sauces, coffee and peanut sprouts, cooking fat and mock oysters, one is tempted to say that we might have a balanced diet of peanut products alone. Add to these paper made from peanut shells, artificial silk from the same source, other peanut products such as soap stock, ink, tooth paste, dandruff cure, wood stains, dyes,

CAST FOR SENIOR CLASS PLAY IS SELECTED

"Icebound" Is Provided With An All Star Cast.

The cast of "Icebound," the senior class play for this year, has been selected. The annual senior class play is always an event of great importance, and the talent and experience of those making up the cast of "Icebound" promises to make it one of the best senior plays seen in recent years. The record set by "The Fool" and "The Enemy", senior class plays of recent years, is a high one, but "Icebound" can easily rank with them, judging from the cast.

Gordon Jeffries and Inza Marler are stage managers, and Josephine Parker is wardrobe mistress.

The cast is as follows:

Henry Jordan ..... Stirl Rule
Emma, his wife..... Majorie Frey
Nettie, her daughter .. Ellen Cowan
Sadie Fellows ..... Emily Minton
Orrie, her daughter .. Genevra McDonald
Ella Jordan ..... Elizabeth Crow
Ben Jordan ..... Wilbur Franklin
Judge Bradford ..... Wriggins
Jane Crosby, Mary Eleanor Welbon
Hannah ..... Lillian Robison
Jim Jay ..... Maynard Layman
Dr. Curtis ..... Luther Hammond

CHATTANOOGA TRACK MEN TO BE HERE TOMORROW

Meet Will Be Only Intercollegiate Track Meet Held Here.

Coach Thrower and his cohorts have been performing away from home in all of their meets this year. But Saturday the local fans will have an oportunity to see the Highlander cinder path artists perform as the University of Chattanooga will be entertained by the local team in a dual meet Saturday.

Maryville has won one meet and lost one. Tennessee won 60-57 while Sewanee fell before the local team 65 1-2, 55 1-2. Then Tennessee went down to Sewanee and defeated Sewanee by a large score which showed that Maryville really had put up a good fight. Yet, according to the dope Maryville should have defeated Tennessee.

With a good team to represent Maryville and a strong team as Chattanooga always has as an opponent, lovers of track should be out on the terrace (and please note terrace and not field) Saturday cheering Coach Bob and his winged artists to victory. Come on, students and faculty, turn out for the only intercollegiate track meet to be held in Maryville this year.

MARION JOHNSON GIVES PIANO RECITAL MONDAY

On Monday evening, April 30th Miss Marion Johnson will give a graduate recital in piano at Voorhees Chapel, at 8 o'clock. This is the third of the series of music recitals of the year and this promises to be as enjoyable and worth while as the first two. Marion has endeared herself to the students here during her two years with us, both through her lovely disposition and through her piano playing.

Most of us have heard her play either as an accompanist or in solo work in concerts and other programs and we all can expect a program of real musical value Monday night, and one which we can all enjoy.

The following Monday evening, May 1st, Fancher Smartt will give a graduate recital in piano.

Miss Johnson's program is as follows:

Impromptu Rosco ,for two pianos) Schueet

Prelude, op. 40, ... Grieg

Will sing at Voorhees Chapel On Night of May First

The Glee Singers will present their annual home concert on next Tuesday night at eight o'clock. The club is well primed for this concert by its recent trip to Erwin and Morristown. The Erwin house was appreciative, since it hadn't had any real talent since Bill Franklin left.

The program given has, of course, been completely changed from the one given with the orchestra last fall. The changes have even gone so far as to substitute "Dear Old Maryville" for "Alma Mater."

Since the home concert will be given on the first night in May, the opening number, "A Night in May," could not have been more appropriately selected. On May the first, the moon will be almost full.

The quartet will step out with can.... in their first number. Every one from the last senior girl in Pearsons' and the last freshman girl in Baldwin to the last rat in Memorial must be sure to see this attraction.

The quartet dons Eskimo garb in their second number, "Ice Cream", to show how the inhabitants of Oogiewawa college keep warm. The dance, appended to an otherwise warm number is hot enough to reduce the North Pole to boiling water.

Loyal highlanders will appreciate the second group by the club, which will consist of melodies imported from the land where the men wear short, loose dresses—that being the only loose thing about them. We'll all want to lay down and die for bonnie Annie Laurie, and we'll all want to help the "Hundred Pipers" pull the famous Gideon stunt in defeating "Two Thousand Britishers."

Music will be abandoned for a short time for a double action chalk talk, put on by artists Matthews and Crawford. There's no doubt about it, both the gentlemen are good, and the two of them together are twice as good as either one of them. The club will assist by singing a charming ballad about a teething baby, and the quartet will sing, a really romantic waltz, "New Moon," dedicating it especially to the shelf.

To those who haven't met the xylorimba, and still think the word is profane, an introduction is in order. The xylorimba is a cross between a xylophone and a marimba, combinin the brilliance of the former with the deep, sweet tones of the latter. The Cotton-Buchanan twins spend their Sunday afternoons arranging songs for xylorimba playing. Just see if you don't get pep enough to hit your neighbor on the side of the head when they play the "Song of the Vagabonds."

The most remarkably foolish number that will ever have graced a

ALPHA SIGMA

Last week an exceptionally good program was enjoyed by all that came out. The weather was fierce but they braved the rain storm and when the program ended everyone was happy.

This coming Saturday evening we celebrate our semi-annual meeting with our sister society. This is an unusual opportunity for two reasons First you can have the pleasure of having by your side one of the dear sisters. Second there is an excellent entertainment prepared for all.

Come! boys, get yourself a date. Don't forget the time, place and the girl.

MAY DAY PROGRAM WILL BE FULL OF SURPRISES

Ethyl Proffitt, Director, Promises An Exceptional Program.

Spring is here! Late April showers —bright, nodding tulips—fresh green grass—white clouds—and May Day is here!

May Day with her lovely queen. The Day that rain drops, bees, spring flowers, gay butterflies and dancing sunbeams come forth from their hiding places and make merry as the smiling servants of our queen.

Tuesday afternoon, May 1st the college woods will be the scene of this enchanted fairy land. Just to see these lovely spring things clad in their fresh bright garb will be a beautiful picture, but in addition to them we will see Cinderella herself.

The charming Cinderella (Jimmie Rule) as the old story goes is tormented by her haughty sisters (Nelle Caldwell and Hazel Bowers) Until the entrance of Prince Sunshine (Chillie Bowles) and Happiness reigns! Oh, you can't miss it!

There is one outstanding feature which the social chairman called the surprise. It sounds interesting but she won't tell what it is.

The beautiful young lady to be crowned queen of May is Josephine Parker while Arthur Young is every inch a king. The queen's attendants are:

Another interesting feature is that refreshments will be present under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. Also the authorities have agreed that we shall have a half holiday to celebrate the occasion. You won't have far to go to find another entertainment more pleasing.

LENA STRAWBRIDGE WINS SHORT STORY CONTEST

Her Story "Patterns" Judged Best of Those Submitted in Echo Contest.

The short story contest conducted by the Echo has been decided. The judges have awarded the prize of $5.00 to Miss Lena Strawbridge for her story "Patterns."

"Patterns," it was decided was the best short story of the fourteen manuscripts submitted. It is the love story of a surgeon, and is splendidly worked out in plot and characterization. The judges were emphatic in praising it. Miss Strawbridge is to be congratulated on her story writing ability.

It is to be regretted that the length of "Patterns" prohibits its being published in the Echo.

The first of the stories appearing in the Echo was "Life and Everything," written by Miss Margaret Lawrence; the second story, "A Matter of Death and Life," was written by Edward Conrad. The story published in this copy, "Fate", was written by John Wienand.

This contest has shown in some measure the creative ability along this certain line among Maryville students. It is hoped that in the future other encouragements may be offered to the coming writers of our generation.

WHY NOT A REGIONAL COLLEGE MAGAZINE

Apropos of the Short Story Contest conducted by the Echo, the question arises, "Is there any possibility of a regional college magazine in this part of the state?"

Of late we have noticed a rising interest in creative literary work among Maryville students. It appears that some of them have rightly thrust their inferiority complexes behind them and have attempted to write, humbly, honestly, and truthfully, of what they themselves see and feel and think. In this respect Maryville students are not unusual. College students in every state are thus trying for self-expression. The tendency of literary Young America is to lengthen its own lines and strengthen its own stakes, not to follow blindly the direction of older masters.

Other students have found this situation in their schools and have offered an incentive to it in a college magazine. Such magazines are "Letters," published by the students of the University of Kentucky, and "The distaff," published by Florida State College for Women. There are many others. All fill some need in encouraging original and creative literary endeavor among their contributors and readers.

Why should not Maryville sponsor a regional college magazine—regional because it would not necessarily be confined to Maryville students, but might also count students of other colleges in this part of Tennessee as contributors to its coumns.

We have—here in this part of Tennessee—those whose literary abilities and talents would make such a magazine a worthy enterprise, and we have those who are interested enough to sponsor such an undertaking. Where is our magazine?

A regional college magazine is a practical, definite, and worthy goal towards which Maryville students should strive.

Why not have a regional college magazine?

BIG LAUGHS IN COLLEEN'S LATEST

Anyone who has read the "feature section" of the newspapers will get a tremendous laugh out or "Her Wild Oot," Colleen Moore's new picture at the Palace Theatre on Monday and Tuesday, April 30th and May 1st.

This delightful screen story deals with a little girl who decided to spend her savings of years for one grand adventure in the social whirl of an exclusive Atlantic coast resort. A newspaper feature writer knew just the way to make up her Sunday supplement material—and thereby intrigue aristocracy.

Marshall Neilan directed "Her Wild Oat" for First National Pictures with Larry Kent, Gwen Lee, Hallam Cooley; Fritzi Ridgeway and Martha Mattox in the supoprting cast. John McCormick was the producer.

NEEDS OF OUR SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

Science is a hard subject to keep up with. Its advancement in this present age is so rapid that it leads those who would follow a merry chase. In an institution such as ours the problem of keeping up to date has become a real one.

We are succeeding quite well, however, considering the handicaps under which we must work. Our present science department is quite comparable to that of our Knoxville neighbors despite the fact that the departmental appropriations here are often smaller than we would like for them to be.

Our physics department is growing rapidly; much new equipment has been added in the last few years. This department in particular has a rather big advantage over the chemistry department where most of the annual appropriation must be spent for chemicals and glass ware, which reach the trash can or sink before the year is over.

One addition to the department of chemistry has been made in the last two years which should stay a while. Twenty balances have been purchased for use by would-be (or wouldn't be) chemists. This represents over a thousand dollars investment.

The biology department is also developing steadily. This year a new course has been offered in cat anatomy.

One of the biggest needs now is for more room. Chemistry and biology sections must attend lectures in the Y. M. C. A. auditorium. Classes have become so large that the present teaching staff is kept pretty busy. There is a possibility that more space will be available in the next few years if a few of the faculty dreams can be realized. But, as things are, we have every reason to pride ourselves on this department of our Alma Mater.

FATE

By John Wienand

Story submitted in Echo contest

The bright-gold moon of the semi-trophies shone in all its refulgent splendor on the grim, brick walls of old Fort Gaines, lighting up at once the small island on which the fort and village stood, and the placid Gulf which came up to the very wall of the fort on the south. A sudden cloud darkened the radiance of the moon. A ray of light sifted through a small rift in the cloud and searched out a sinister whirlpool at the foot of the wall of the fort, then the cloud passed on and the earth and sea were again lighted by the bright moonlight.

Jean Bolivar slowly paced his guard on the south wall of the fort, engrossed in his thoughts. This was the last night of his bachelorhood. He looked across the fort to the village chapel, whose cross seemed to him to touch the moon. On the morrow Father Leon was to perform his wedding ceremony. How proud he had been when, with Maria at his side, he had heard the banns read. How he had joyed in the envious looks of his comrades as he and Maria walked about the village. Was she not the prettiest of a village famed for its beautiful girls? Was not her father the Commandant of Fort Gaines and Governor of Dauphin Island? In truth, she was worthy of a king—and she loved him, a mere nothing in the King's army. He had every reason to be proud—Jean Bolivar paced his guard engrossed in his thoughts.

As Jean neared the sentry-tower on the end of the wall, a girl, dressed in spotless white, silently stepped out from the shadows, with hand outstretched to him. Jean smiled as he took her hand and drew her to his side. What cared he that all rules of military procedure forbade her presence? The officer in charge was to stand with them at the ceremony of the morrow, and her father, the Commandant himself, was in favor of the marriage. Jean knew he need not fear disciplinary measures for thus violating orders.

So it was that Maria and Jean walked post together that last night; silently, hand in hand. Each was busy with thoughts of the morrow, with heart full of tenderness and love. The moon shone brightly, lighting their path. Indeed, life was very good.

The quiet noise of the forming of the midnight change of guard did not disturb the lovers, and slowly they paced on. The relief guard came up to the sentry-tower just as Jean and Maria reached the other end of the Wall.

A sudden cloud hid the moon from view as they turned. A pebble rolled—a shriek—Jean was alone.

A ray of light sifted through a small rift in the cloud and searched out the whirlpool at the foot of the wall of the fort. A tiny handkerchief danced and whirled about on the surface for a moment before it was sucked down and out of sight.

BOOK OF THE WEEK

"Jean Christophe"
By Romain Rolland

Always the mystery of life fascinates us, challenges us. We try to fathom it, but its numerous phases baffle all our endeavors. It is only by identifying life with truth, and seeing it thru the eyes of a man who knows it as such, that we can begin to understand a little the ultimate trend of our experiences. Such a man is Romain Rolland, who experienced in his own life the stifling fetid atmosphere of twentieth century civilization and convention. The inevitable outcome was his book, "Jean Christophe"—the story of the development of a musician of genius. We see this Christophe, this intensely human character, laughing, keenly alive, thru the first years of his life, then sobered as the restrictions of his home, and of his native village gradually close in upon him, criticisms arising from his apparent lack of properity in his relationship with women, his revolt against the blind reverence for the old masters, his own creative genius awakening and setting him apart as the forerunner of a new era in musical theme and interpretation.

The soul of Jean Christophe "is stainless enough for him to have the right to speak and his voice is loud enough for him to gain a hearing.

"Jean Christophe is the first great book of the twentieth century, showing us civilization as a whole, and each individual as a part of it—where we stand. It reveals the past and present, and leaves the future open to us."

BATTING AVERAGES

John Stone, hard hitting Highlander leader, is leading his teammates in hitting with the high mark of .476. Stone has ten hits out of twenty one times at bat. Included in this lists are the only Highlander four base hits, Stone, having two homeruns to his credit. Davis is trailing Stone with an average of .333. Davis' hitting against Carson-Newman brought his average up as he had failed to hit consistently previous to that series.

Stone is leading in runs with seven. Gann and Clemens, with six runs each, are tied for second place.

The following averages are for the first six games of this season (This does not include any of the games played on the present road trip.)

	AB.	R.	H.	Pct.
Watkins	2	0	1	.500
Hanna	2	0	1	.500
Stone	21	7	10	.476
Davis	21	5	7	.333
DeLaney	24	3	7	.291
Gann	18	6	5	.277
Mischlich	22	3	6	.272
Bird	25	4	6	.240
Williams	17	2	3	.176
Blazer	20	2	3	.150
Clemens	21	6	3	.142
Gabbard	11	2	1	.091
Totals	204	40	53	.2598

The above figures recall the fact that the Highlanders have averaged 6 2-3 runs per game and also that they have averaged 8 5-6 hits in each game played. The teams batting average is .2598.

NOTED NEGRO SCIENTIST SPEAKS TO STUDENTS

beauty creams and lotions various valuable pharmaceutical preparations —emulsions for goitres and creosote that are stable and satisfactory, etc., and one is tempted to say that we could lead a normal, comfortable life using only peanut products to meet our daily needs.

Dr. Carver had time to only hint at the work he has done with pecans and potatoes. He has succeeded in producing one thousand dyes from vegetable substances, including forty nine from the scuppernong grape alone. His work in producing beautiful, lasting colors from the clay of Georgia and Alabama sounds like a miracle, and whether his talk of sextuple oxidation, a reaction not recognized by chemistry, was more mystifying to the scientific or the non-scientific listener is a queston that remains to be settled

We know that, though he talked to us for an hour and let us crowd about him while he packed his bottled specimens, we glimpsed at only the fringe of his vast knowledge. But at least we may sense anew something of the infinite possibilities tied up in the ordinary, everyday things. More important than that is the new vision of Man's unlimited capacity for a growing understanding of the mind of the Maker, and, as a consequence of that a new reverence for this being we call Man.

GLEE SINGERS TO COMPLETE MAY DAY FESTIVES WITH HOME CONCERT

Maryville stage will be the club's act of up-to-date Grand Opera. The fun begins when Mrs. Tyler thinks she smells smoke. Mrs. Tyler is played by Bowles, our best coluratura soprano. Mr. Tyler is skeptical about the smoke. He goes right on ahead reading the paper and pulling on his cigar (it isn't lit). The dramatic moment comes when the janitor, played by Professor Jensen himself, informs them that the house is on fire. This worthy janitoro has his synapses well connected on his part. He sweeps through it with the vim, vigor, and vitality characteristic of him.

"Girl of My Dreams" will mark a change back to the more impractical things in life. It will be a real treat to see otherwise healthy men get almost as sentimental as they did on "Bring Me Again" last year.

The ocarino, or "sweet potato" duet of former years has evolved this year into a quartet. It is expected that in 2734 A. D., there will be a regular department of ocorina playing at Maryville College, holding graduation exercises all of its own.

The club goes everybody one better in its twelve hand piano arrangement of "Dear Old Maryville" Jensen, Cotton, Copley, Crawford, Matthews and Buchanan contribute a total of 120 playing fingers.

The program will be capped by the broad, rich harmonies of "Holy Art Thou," arranged from Handel. This will make a great conclusion to a worth-while program—the immortal melody of an immortal composer.

HIGHLANDERS WIN SECOND VICTORY OVER L. M. U.

Visitors Defeated 9-8 In Second Game

BLAZER IN RARE FORM

Stone, Davis, and DeLaney Have Two Hits Each.

Earl Blazer was in rare form yesterday afternoon and Maryville defeated Lincoln Memorial University 9-8 for the second victory in as many days. Blazer yielded eight hits and struck out fourteen of the visiting batsmen.

Galloway, on the mound for L. M. U., pitched a good game, holding the hard hitting Highlanders to eleven safe blows.

The pitching of Blazer was so outstanding for Maryville that his teammates had few chances to show what they could do if a ball were hit toward them.

The fielding of Carson and Carter was the outstanding performance put on by L. M. U. Carson handled six chances on the "hot corner" without a bobble.

Stone, Davis, and DeLaney, with two hits each, led the home boys in the heavy stick work. Hobbs and Galloway were the hitting stars for the visiting team.

Captain Clemens, Highlander catcher, retired from the game in the third inning after his finger was split by a foul strike. Everett, who succeeded him, caught a good game.

Tennessee Fellowship Banquet Here Tuesday

Last fall the Athletes and members of the Y. M. C. A. of the University of Tennessee gave a banquet in honor of our athletes and Y. M. C. A. officers. It was a very successful banquet and considered a great succes.

Next Tueday night the Tennessee crowd will troop to Maryville to attnd a return banquet given by our boys. The Volunteers will give the program of the evening and we furnish the grub. The proceedings will take place at 6 o'clock next Tuesday evening at hte Northern Methodist church.

This is one of the big nights of the year and we are hoping that a big crowd of our fellows turn out for the feed and the good time. Only fifty (50) Maryville students can attend. The price will be fifty cents.

ANNOUNCEMENT

John Lewis Morgan, of the class of '27 and editor of the Highland Flings column for last year, will write the Flings for next week. He is teaching at Rogersville. The Flings for next week will be exceptional, to say the least.

ALL ABOARD FOR TREMONT WEDNESDAY

School Will Turn Out For Mountain Hike On May 9th

If it be in thunder, lightning, or in rain, the mountain hike to Tremont will take place Wednesday, May 9, which is a mild way of saying that at last the date has been decided upon.

Wednesday morning, promptly at 7:00 o'clock, the train will start with all aboard for Tremont. Mr. Franklin, Student Council president, stated rather emphatically that the homeward journey from Tremont will be begin at 4:30. It is hoped that someone will see to it that the afore mentioned Mr. Franklin himself is on the train at that time. It is a matter of debate as to whether these blond gentlemen are to be trusted.

If any man wishes to encumber himself with excess Baggage, there is no rule against his doing so. But it is explicitly specified that he provide the Baggage with a round trip ticket, costing $1.85, and a chaperone. The said Baggage the rules likewise state, must provide the lunch.

Including the Baggage, there is every reason for going on this hike. The scenery along the railroad is beautiful. The weatherman has predicted a wonderful day, but adds the warning "changeable." At Tremont are places and trails for every hiker, the Earnest Hiker, the Hiker-by-Proxy, and the Moonstruck Hiker, who is the slowest.

All Maryville is expected to turn out for this day. "Back to Nature" is the campaign slogan.

Five Queens Take Part In May Day Pageant

One of the prettiest May Day programs it has been Maryville's lot to see was presented last Tuesday afternoon in the college woods.

Josephine Parker, senior, was an exceptionally queenly May Queen. She was accompanied to the pink throne waiting for her by Arthur Young. Her attendants were dressed in costumes of rainbow tints. Mattie Gregg, junior attendant, was accompanied by Allan Herdman. Louise Carson was the sophomore attendant and was escorted by Norman Vaughn. The freshman attendant, Naomi Agans, was accompanied by Bill Hope. Nelle Watkins, senior, was the maid of honor.

An unusual feature of the procession was the presence of four former May Queens. They were Mrs. Leslie Walker, who was Marguerite Sullinger, Mrs. Charles D. Pardue, who was Margaret McSpadden, Kathleen Purdy and Nelle Montgomery.

The program given in honor of the May Queen was a pretty flower pageant. Jimmie Rule and Chilton Bowles took leading parts. Several dances were given during the program.

Ethyl Proffitt, director of the afternoon's entertainment is to be congratulated for the unusual and enjoyable program.

The May Day celebration ended Tuesday night in the Glee Singers' annual home concert. The concert was enjoyed by a large audience. An unusual feature was the presence of the day's May Queen on the stage in a particularly effective tableau.

The college students and townspeople enjoyed to the full the half-holiday given for May Day.

CIRCUS IS COMING TO TOWN SATURDAY NIGHT

Clowns, Tight-Rope Walker, And Performers Will Appear in Greatest Circus on Earth, Not Excepting Barnum and Bailey.

(Mabel Dickerson)

The Circus is really coming! May 5 is the day which has finally been decided upon, and this time we are promised that we shall not be disappointed. Every report of the plans going forward sounds better than the last. It is to be a regular circus with clowns, a ring-master, and tight-rope walkers.

As all good circuses begin, the big parade will be the opening event. Paul Everett's ready wit, which he displayed as cheer-leader, recommends him highly as the ring-master. He, unaided, is a circus; but just consider that in addition there will be clowns, tight-rope walking, tumbling, pyramid building, fencing, boxing, and other interesting and difficult feats! The circus bids fair to be one of the most enjoyable performances that a Maryville audience has been privileged to see.

Rumor has it that Jack Cotton and "Little Buck" are tight-rope walkers of unusual ability and skill. There will be a fencing match between Jack Conghlin and "Farmer" Watkins, and a boxing match between Jimmie Cox and Porter French. Boys of marked ability, chosen from the gymnasium classes, will perform drills and calisthenics, and will further prove their skill at tumbling, pyramid building, and apparatus work.

Lest we forget the girls, they will be represented by members of the girls' gymnasium classes who will give drills and dances. We are expecting much from them. Vague reports have been heard of rose-drills and other difficult drills which the girls will perform. Another attraction which a Maryville audience seldom enjoys is girls tumbling and pyramid-building.

For those who enjoy music, the band will furnish entertainment. We have not heard the band so often as we should like, and are anticipating the prospect of hearing them again.

There are certain items of information which have been withheld by the managers of the circus. One of these is who the cowns will be. As the clowns furnish most of the laughter and fun, they are very important. Another mysterious item on the program is the "Sword Dance." Can you emagine what that will be? The only way to satisfy your curiosity is to go and find out for yourself.

The last, but certainly not the least important of the attractions are he stunts which will be put on by the different societies on the Hill. The society who produces the best stunt will win the coveted loving cup. This intense rivalry can have only one result—the production of "bigger and better" stunts.

The Circus is sponsored by the Y. M. C. A., and is under the supervision of John Taggart. Jack Coughlin, our swimming and fencing instructor, is general chairman of the committees. With two such able men in charge, the Circus can be nothing but successful.

Save your pennies as you used to do when the circus came to town. Ten cents for students and twenty-five cents for townspeople. Hurrah! The Circus is coming to town!

CLASS OF '23 PLANNING REUNION JUNE, 5, 6, 7,

Roy Buffat Sends Letter Urging Members to Come

The class of '23 is planning a class reunion here on June 5, 6 and 7. Roy S. Buffat, of Knoxville, has written each member of the class, urging the class reunion. The campus will see again during Commencement Week those who have found it possible to return for a few days.

Maryville is waiting to welcome them home.

Perhaps you would like to read Roy's letter:

April 28, 1928
Knoxville, Tenn.

Dear Scattered Classmates:

Ethel says, "The best rooms go to the ones who register first..... I do wish they would hurry..... our program will consist chiefly of recreation."

Some extracts knock you cold and out of the running, but these extracts from letters received will warm your heart and start you toward Maryville College, Tennessee in time for the '23 Class Reunion June 5, 6, and 7.

Read Ye: Reva Rankin Hammer writes from Memphis, "No, I'm not a knocker and never will be tho I am a Hammer....we should have a reunion....From those who do not come a letter should be sent to be read at the roll call...."

Alice McAnulty says, "She never knew less class (Maryville) news." Which is to say that she is hungry

Fancher Smartt Gives Piano Recital Monday

Last Monday night, despite a steady downpour of rain, a very appreciative audience listened to one of the best programs of the year, when Miss Marion Johnson appeared in her graduate recital.

From the dainty, well-polished Impromptu Rococo, thru the Dutch Dance, Gavotte, and Gromen-Reigla and finally to the heavy Concert Etude and the brilliant Hungarian Rhapsody at the end, she presented a well balanced and exceptionally well rendered program, and one which everyone enjoyed.

The two numbers from MacDowel's Set Pieces were a note of weirdness which was in pecular contrast with the other numbers of the program, and especially with the Concert Etude which followed them; and the dainty Brahms' Gavote contributed much in sweetness and tone color.

Miss Johnson showed excellent technical ability as well as power of interpretation througout her program, and certainly it was one of the most interesting and best prepared programs we have attended this year.

Miss Fancher Smartt, graduate in piano, and Miss Virginia Sting will give the last recital to be given by the piano department on Monday night, at 8 o'clock.

The program follows:

Waltzes 1-2-3-14-15	Brahms
Harp solos
Nocturne	Chopin
Waltz	Chopin
Scotch Poem	MacDowell
Winter	MacDowell
The Lark	Balokireu
Harp Solo
Liebestraum	Lizt
Concerto in g minor (for two pianos	Mendelssohn

D.. Lucius Smith Gives Instructive Series of Lectures.

FRED HOPE HOME ON FURLOUGH

Dr. Lucius C. Smith has come, and talked, and conquered. He has lectured for the Fred Hope Missionary Drive which is conducted by the students in order to aid Fred C. Hope, missionary to Africa. The college students have responded nobly to the eloquent appeal made by Dr. Smith and have subscribed nearly $1,000.

Dr. Smith is an exceptional speaker as well as a wonderful man and Christian worker. When one hears of his sorrows and joys and triumphs in Africa as a medical missionary, one stands in awe before the indomitable Christian courage of a man who fought crime and disease and filth so horrible that one can scarcely credit the telling of it. Dr. Smith helped Fred ope in his work in Elat. and is continuing to aid him in the United States by telling of Fred Hope's marvelous service to Africa and by presenting the needs of the missionary to those who will aid.

Maryville students have aided materially in this work. This money is used entirely for the work in Fred Hope's industrial school in Elat. All of the money is used for the education and advancement of the natives there. A building has been erected with the money Maryville has sent in past years. It has a seating capacity of over four hundred and is known as, "The Maryville College Chapel." When Fred Hope heard of the large amount raised last year he sent a radio message to thank us, but it was not picked up by anyone. Then, again, at the dedication of the chapel he sent another which was destined to the same fate.

Fred Hope has just arrived in the United States on furlough. He was unable to visit Maryville this year, but in all probability will do so next year.

He graduated from our beloved institution in 1906. Upon graduating from College, and after one year's training in a Bible school, Frederick H. Hope was appointed superintendent of the Frank James Industrial School, located in Elat, Ebolowa, Cameroun, West Africa. There he has for many years carried forward one of the most remarkable and successful pieces of mission work to be found in any mission field. Despite loss of his first wife, attacks

Annuals Ready For Delivery

Last fall when the Editor-in-Chief and Business Manager of the Chilhowean met, they made one paramount decision, namely, that they should cooperate to produce the best annual ever put out at this school, and also to have the book in the hands of the students before May 10. Our work has not been in vain. The staff worked well and the results are that the book has been waiting delivery for two weeks. When do you want them? There are still some clubs that are stalling along with their payments and the annual will not be issued until these students pay their dues. It seems foolish to have a few students keeping hundreds from receiving their annuals, but such is the case. Pay your dues and

DID YOU KNOW IT?

(Jane Glascock)

Just how much do you know about Maryville College? Do you know that Maryville College is a member of the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges? And that it is in the grade A of that Association therefore on an equal standing with the University of Tenn., Vanderbilt, Peabody, the University of Texas, the University of Georgia and other Southern Universities and Colleges.

Did you know that Dr. Wilson is the fifth president of Maryville College? Did you know that he was born in Syria? He has written five books and various shorter booklets. Did you know it?

Did you know that Dean Barnes has been Dean for fourteen years?

Did you know that Prof. Knapp was one of the eight best mathematicians in the United States, and that he is considered one of the best of them? He is a member of the Mathematics Association and the National Geographic Society.

Did you know that Dr. Gillingham has studied in Palestine and Syria? His writings on those countries are well known.

Did you know that the present site of Maryville College is not the original one? The first site was where the New Providence Presbyterian Church now stands and was the Theological Seminary and the female academy. The College was burned along with the business section of Maryville, during the Civil War and was rebuilt on its present site by the heroic efforts of Thomas Jefferson Lamar.

Did you know that Bartlett Hall was built by the students of Maryville College as laborers? They made a great many of the bricks used in it. It was made possible through the efforts of a Japanese boy who wished to show his gratitude for the things Maryville had done for him. Did you know that the Captain of our first foot ball team was Kin Takahaski the same Japanese boy who did so much in the building of Bartlett Hall.

Did you know that Sam Houston, Texas hero and first president of that republic, attended the Academy of Maryville where it stood on its original site?

Did you know that Maryville College has seven hundred and eighty-six students enrolled this year? And if all those seven hundred and eighty-six students want to know more about Maryville College, it would be a good idea for them to read "A Century of Maryville College" written by our beloved president, Dr. Wilson.

Chattanooga Defeated

The Maryville College speed artists were too strong for the University of Chattanooga trackmen, local performers won 81 1-2-30 1-2. Maryville had the best team and deserved to win.

The only real competion for the Moccasins was Strong, a candidate for the Olympics. Strong defeated Williams in the 100 yard and 220 yard dashes in the prettiest races of the meet. Taggart, who had taken third in the century and 220 runs, stepped the 440 yard dash at a lively clip to defeat Strong by a yard's margin. Strong collapsed as he crossed the finishing line.

In the distance races Maryville had very little competition. Houston, a new man, by finishing second in the mile and two mile runs earned his winged "M."

Maryville captured ten first, ten seconds, and tied for second in the pole vault. Chattanooga took four firsts, 4 seconds and tied for second in the pole vault.

Summary of events:

100 yard dash, Strong (c) first, Williams (m) second. Time 10.1 seconds.

Mile run Mann, (m) first, Houston (m) second. Time 4:47 2-5.

Higth Hurdler, Crawford (m) first, L. S. McDonald, (m) second. Time 17 2-5 seconds.

220 yard dash, Strong (c) first, Williams (m) second. Time 22.4 seconds.

880 yard Run, Holman (m) first, Peterson (m) second. Time 2 min. 8.2 seconds.

Low Hurdler, Crawford (m) first, Davis (m) second. Time 27.4 seconds.

440 yard Run, Taggert (m) first, Strong (c) seconr. Time 53.3 seconas.

Two Mile Run, Mann (m) first, Houston (m) second. Time 10 minutes 45.4 seconds.

Shot Put, Griffin (c) first, McDonald (m) second. Distance 36 ft. 10 in.

Pole Vault, Milling (m) first, Davis (m) and Grass (c) tied for second. Height 9 ft. 2 in.

High Jump, L. S. McDonald (m) first, Gross (c) second. Height 5 ft. g 1-2 inches.

When Dad was a "Modern Youth"

BICYCLES, stereopticon lectures, and the "gilded" youths with their horses and carts; at night the midnight oil burning in student lamps while the gas lights glared and flickered across the campus—the gay nineties when Dad was in college seem primitive to us to-day.

Now it's sport roadsters, the movies, and radios. At night the MAZDA lamp replaces the midnight oil in dormitory rooms, while modern street lighting sheds its friendly glow over the campus.

Without electricity we would have none of these improvements. To-day's marvel of electrical invention becomes to-morrow's accepted utility. In the coming years, by taking advantage of new uses of electricity you will be able to go so much farther that the "tearing twenties" will seem just as primitive as the "gay nineties".

Scientists in the research laboratories of the General Electric Company keep G.E. a leader in the field of electrical progress. Skilled G-E engineers develop each latest invention. The G-E factories carry out the engineers' designs with high-quality material and expert workmanship.

NEEDS OF OUR COLLEGE

Reporters for the Echo in the last few weeks have been conferring with the heads of the various departments of the College in order to find the definite, immediate needs of the departments, and to present those needs to the readers of the Echo. We believe that finding out the needs of Maryville is the first step towards supplying those needs.

We have found that some needs are urgent and immediate. Work cannot improve in quality unless these needs are met. Instructors are hampered on every hand by lack of space or equipment. Maryville cannot develop her capacity for good until these needs are met. If we have brought one of those needs to the heart of one person who will work towards meeting it, we are happy indeed.

It is interesting, this discussing with heads of departments the needs in their departments. It is a means by which one may catch an idea of the dreams a professor in charge has for his department. And we who are students know the intensity and unselfishness with which our professors give themselves to their work, their department may be more efficient.

The Home Economics Department

The appeal to he Home Economics Deparment brings forth an interesting array of needs. A Home Economics building, equipped with modern kitchen units, gas or electric heat, etc., would be very acceptable. That evidently must, for the time being remain a castle in Spain. Among the more modest wishes are: new equipment, in the way of stoves, ovens, etc., for the present cooking laboratory; dining-room space for laboratory use; improvement of present classroom facilities, or, better still, one additional classroom. Lockers would be very welcome, both for the sewing laboratory and the cookinp laboratory, and especially does the sewing laboratory need lockers in which the girls might deposit the materials upon which they are working. The laboratories are also in need of general renovamay be lighter, but that the work of tion, refinishing of walls, and the like. Another desirable improvement offering interesting possibilities would be a perpetual exhibit case, a case in which speciments of the work done in the department might be kept on constant display, the speciments being changed from time to time. These are some of the most immediate needs of the Home Economics Department.

L. M. U. DEFEATED IN FIRST GAME

Lincoln Memorial University was easily defeated by the Maryville Highlanders on the local diamond Wednesday afternoon. The final score was 19-7.

Gabbard was touched for ten hits by the visitors while his teammates garnered twenty safe knocks. Gabbard struck out eight opposing batsmen.

Stone continued his heavy hitting by connecting for five hits out of six times at bat. Two of Stone's hits were home runs, the second homer being one of the longest hits ever made on the local diamond. Incidentally these two homeruns ran Stone's string of homers to six. Blazer and Davis, with three hits each, also starred at bat.

Bell, Hobbs, and Roberts did the heavy stick work for L. M. U. These three garnered nine of the ten hits made off the delivery of Gabbard.

Two base hits: Hobbs J. Davis (2) Mischlich, Gabbard, Watkins. Three base hits: Bell. Home runs, Stone (2) Sacrifice hits: Blazer, DeLaney.

Stolen Bases: Bell, Bird (4) Gann, Stone J. Davis Williams.

Base on ball: off Roberts: 3, off Gabbard 3. Struck out by Roberts 4; by Gabbard 8, Passed ball, Wiliams (2) Everett 2. Time 2:00 hours.

MARYVILLE STUDENTS SUBSCRIBE $1,00 TO FRED HOPE CAMPAIGN

of African fever, separation from his family, overwork, wars, and many other troubles we know not of, he has heroically carried on the work that is entrusted to him. His work was thought so extraordinary that the directors of the college in 1926, conferred upon him the degree of Dr. of Laws, the highest academic honor within their power to grant: "for they know of none more worthy of Maryville's honor than Ferd C. Hope of Africa."

The Fred Hope Drive is the only drive to raise money that the College authorities will allow. It was begun several years ago by the students and is fostered by the students. Each student pledges as much as he thinks he is able and pays the full amount in separate payments. This year there will be only two payments, because of lack of time. The drive is three weeks late due to the death of Dr. Smith's father. The two payments will be made as follows: on May 3 the pledge will be made at the chapel service; the first payment will be due not later than May 10; the second payment will be made on, or before May 30.

Fred Hope is interested in Maryville and Maryville is interested in him. Let us all give what we can toward the forwarding of this worthy cause.

CLASS OF '23 PLANNING REUNION JUNE 4, 5, 6,

for the reunion. We know that if she can walk at all she will be there, jovial and gay.

From Blue Mt., Miss; Buck Ellis writes, "We ought to have a reunion before we get too decrepit. You and the committee go to it and I will O.K. it all." Buck, you had better begin the designs on your tombstone or you do not plan on being with us. Ina. tombstone could be a letter as proxy.

From Miami, Fla Hospital) Louise Sheddan writes, "I am coming to the reunion but a recent letter to me from Mary Mac in Calif., states that her boy (not man) has been sick." Glad you are coming Louise and Mary Mac, it would be a treat to see that son in Maryville in June held by its proud mother.

T. J. Marler writes in full and in brief from Cleveland, Tenn., and here it is, "Look for me and mine in Maryville in June." He says, "Would like very much to be back on the Hill this Spring. There is just a bare possibiity that I might. In any event my best wishes.... I am still in the unmarried state." Me too "Ici," but that won't keep you from dressing up that "bare possibility" and making your way to M. C. by June the sixth at the latest.

Smiling August J. of Chattanooga Tenn., Y. M. writes, "Boy, I do not know just yet about the reunion ....Dollie and I were talking about it the other day.....We want to come." Atta boy, Johnnie, you had better give Dollie the preference in speech and in choosing to run to Maryville!

Quiet and wide awake Dedmon says, "I am glad that our class is not dead. I think you have the right idea and can assure you that you may count on my presence at the gathering."

Ethel DeHaven, Ruth Gamble, Geraldine Odell Anderson, Reva Rankin Hammer, Ben Houston and Leslie Poe are requested to be in Maryville by three p. m. June 5th for our first and only thorough Committee meeting.

I saw Poe in Knoxville recently and he said that if he at all was able to move he would be there.

Sincerely yours,

ANNUALS READY FOR DELIVERY

let us give you a real treat.

It would be foolish for us to boast about the Chilhowean of 1928, because it might get you started off wrong. There are, however, a few things that should be explained before we go farther. The cover is unusual as you will discover, and the bronze work is all hand painted. The cover is hand-tooled design costing a large sum of money. This is the latest thing in covers for college annuals. Last year Princeton used almost the same cover. Another feature about the book is the mountain scenes in the opening section and the division sheets. These pictures are all actual pictures in the Big Smokies taken by Thompson Bros., Knoxville, Tenn. The class section for the Senior class is unusual and specially drawn for book, also the regular book border is a special design which has since been purchased by our printers. The foot ball section is the most expensive ever put in a Maryville College annual and we think the most outstanding. The cartoons are all original and fitting.

From cover to cover you will find much to interest you. We have put everything in the book that we thought should go in the annual. There are no doubt a few errors, but then we are human.

Pay your dues and get your annuals at once.

DOLORES DEL RIO STAR SIX MONTHS AFTER FILM DEBUTE

Most actresses have a hard road to screen success, but Dolores Del Rio, who plays the fiery Charmaine in the William Fox production of "What Price Glory" achieved stardom in six short months. A Mexican society girl, and the wife of a member of the diplomatic corps, she had no ambitions toward a film career, knew nothing about acting, and had never even been inside of a motion picture studio.

Edwin Carewe, the motion picture director, met her while on a trip to Mexico City, was struck by her great beauty, and after some troube, prevailed on her to return with him to Hollywood for a film test.

This was so favorable that she was immediately given small "bits" in photopays for technical experience, and after a very short time was assigned an important role in "Joanna." So great was her success that she was offered the leading part in "Pals First," and was co-starred. Exactly six months after her arrival in Hollywood, she was cast as Charmaine, a remarkble record even for the movies.

She is playing at the Palace Theater Monday and Tuesday, May 7th and 8th.

Y. M. C. A'S OF U. T AND MARYVILLE GET TOGETHER

Men of Both College's Foregather At Banquet.

Tuesday evening at 6 o'clock ninety-five men from the Y. M. C. A.'s of Maryville and the University of Tennessee sat down to a dinner at the Northern Methodist Church. This is the third year that these Fellowship banquets have been held between the two schools. They are arranged by the Y. M. C. A. with the hope that it will create a spirit of friendship and promote cleaner and better athletic relations between these two great institutions.

Several weeks ago some thirty-five Maryville men went over to Knoxville and were guests of the University Y. M. C. A. Maryville furnished the program for that evening.

U. T. came to Maryville fifty strong with an excellent program. Ed Newell was master of ceremonies and displayed quite a burst of oratory.

Violin and saxophone soloes were well received by all the fellows. Some of the popular ballads were played on the violin while the saxophone drolled out a few novelty blues.

Walter Courtenay gave a toast of welcome to the U. T. men. Charles Houk president-elect of the U. T. Y. M. C. A. was called upon to give a response. In his talk he stated that he hoped there would be simular pilgrimages next year and that through such meetings a strong bond of friendship shall come to exist between the two schools.

Then a black-face skit was presented which proved to be a very humorous and entertaining.

The program was brought to a close by an address by Ralph McDade, president of the U. T. Y. M. C. A. and by the singing of the Fellowship hymn.

Fancher Smartt's Recital Enjoyed By Large Audience

The last graduate recital of the music department occured last Monday night when Miss Fancher Smartt gave a program of unusual beauty and one which in no way departed from the high standard which had been set in the preceding recitals.

Miss Smartt's chief charm lay in the distinct individuality which she somehow puts into her numbers. There is also a refinement and richness of tone which reveals her very artistic nature and skill.

In "The Lark" by Bolakerew and in "Liebestraume" by Liszt the beauty and delicacy of her interpretation was remarkable. MacDowell's "Scotch Poem" was a revelation in tone and color.

The crowning number was the brilliant "G Minor Concerto" by Mendelssohn, which gave abundant evidence of the technical as well as the interpretative ability of Miss Smartt. In this number Miss Smartt was ably supported by Miss Lola Batt who played the orchestra part on the second piano.

An unusual and attractive feature of the program was the harp selections played by Miss Virginia Sting. Her playing of Handel's "Largo" and Papini's "Gavotte" were particularly remarkable.

So successful has been the series of recitals given by the Music Department that we deeply regret the conclusion of these delightful programs.

Music Department To Give Knoxville Concert

Honored by Tuesday Morning Musical Club.

The Tuesday Morning Music Club of Knoxville, next to the oldest musical organization in Tennessee, has invited Miss Hale to give a program in the new Central Methodist church of that city

Since the personnel of the Tuesday Morning Music Club is made up of the best musicians in Knoxville, the honor that has been shown the college is evident.

This is the third time that a similar program has been requested of the music department.

The concert will be given next Tuesday night. It will be presented by this year's graduates in music, the ensemble class under Miss Butcher and by Miss Lucy Horton and Miss Virginia Sting.

LAST HOME BASEBALL GAME HERE NEXT WEEK

Maryville College's baseball season will soon be over. The Highlanders will appear for the last time before the home fans next Wednesday and Thursday when they play the strong Emory and Henry diamond artists.

The Highlanders have not tasted defeat on the home field this year and will play hard to keep a clean home state. Baseball fans, he out there next week to help the boys win and remember that Stone, Mischlich and Gann are closing their college careers as baseball players. Give them a hearty cheer for the valiant services they have rendered on the baseball field. Don't forget to cheer the boys who will be back next year. Come on, fill the stands and see the best baseball games of the season.

HOME GUARD FLAG OF CIVIL WAR HISTORY IS IN MUSEUM

(Vera Coy)

Among the many interesting articles which may be seen in the Museum of Maryville College is a tattered American Flag. According to history, the ones who were organized under this flag did much to brighten the dark days of suffering of people in Blount County during the time of the Civil War.

The flag is six feet in width, and eight feet in length. The field contains thirty-four stars. The usual number of stripes is present. The opposite side of the field has the coat of arms of the United States on it.

The makers of the flag were the ones who served their neighbors under it. A group of girls, five in number, took pieces of materials from their own clothes to make the flag. Each girl did some of the sewing necessary to make the flag.

At preent the flag is very worn and ragged. The yellow stains show the marks of passing years.

The Home Guards of Blount County, who made the flag, were five girls organized for the purpose of carrying messages for soldier friends and neighbors for warning of an enemy's aproach, and for protecting soldiers who were at home to visit.

The girls had a captain, a lieutenant and flag bearer, and three privates, there were certain places which were used for meeting places. Soldiers might come with letters which were to be delivered to mother or sweetheart. Sometimes a mother or sister was brought to meet the soldier. A few minutes conversation, a kiss, a farewell, and all were

DR. MAGILL TELLS OF MARYVILLE'S SERVICE STARS

Philippine Missionary Gives Interesting Talk In Chapel.

MISS BABTISTA SINGS

Dr. C. N. Magill, Presbyterian Missionary to the Philippines now home on furlough, spoke to an interested chapel audience on Thursday morning, May 10.

Dr. Magill has been an able and devoted worker among the Philippine people for many years. One of his many labors was the revising of a version of the Bible in Tagalog, a native language. Dr. Magill did not speak of his own service in the Islands, but told of a few of that company of Maryvillians who have gone to all parts of the world in order to carry the Word.

He spoke of Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Walker, the first Maryville missionaries to the Philippines, and of the great service which they have rendered. J. W. Ritchie, also a Maryville man, was with Mr. Walker, but is now editor of the World Book Company, which furnishes text-books for the Islands. L. B. Bewly, another alumnus, is at present director of education in the Islands. One of the most prominent lawyers of the Islands, Captain Leonard S. Goddard, is also a Maryville man.

Maryville's representatives in Asia are numerous. The brother-in-law of Dr. Wilson, Dr. John A. Silsby, with his wife is at present in Shanghai, China, carrying on his mission work. O. R. Magill, for twelve years served as the secretary for the Chinese Y. M. C. A. Edwin S. Cunningham, consul-gneral to China, comes from Maryville.

Two Maryville women are teaching in girls' schools in Egypt. Miss Christine Alexander is teaching at Cairo, and Miss Fidelia Duncan at Alexandria. Miss Lois Wilson is principal of a girls' school in Sidon, Syria. In the highlands of the Lebanon mountains works Mr. Will Friedinger, who adds the duties of superintendent of schools to his other arduous duties as missionary.

So from Shanghai to Sidon, concluded Dr. Magill, the chain of Maryville's inspiration and devotion stretches to bind the whole world in its compass.

Dr. Magill presented to Dr. Wilson as a token of his esteem a Philippine bolo-knife, a murderous-looking weapon, but one which he assured Dr. Wilson could be used in many of the pursuits of peace.

At the close of Dr Magill's speach Miss Panfila Babista, dressed in her native Philippine costume, arose and expressed to students and faculty her thanks for the reception given her during her stay at the school. Then she sang "My Philippines, My Philippines", first in English, and then in her native tongue. Miss Babista returns next year to the Philippines where she will work as a missionary among her people.

Howard Tennis Team Wins Match

Howard College Tennis team outplayed Maryville yesterday afternoon winning 3-2. Howard had a strong team and played good games to win. The playing of Pope was the outstanding feature of Maryville's performance.

In the singles Miller of Howard defeated Strain (Maryville) 6-2 7-5. Coulter of Maryville was defeated by Bargo of Howard 6-4, 7-5. Pope of Maryville triumphed over Herbert of Howard 6-3, 3-6, 6-3.

In the doubles Prince and Pope defeated Herbert and Burns 6-3, 3-6, 10-8. Miller and Bargo downed Rodgers and Coulter 6-2, 6-1.

Officers For Pi Kappa Delta Are Elected

Florian Hopkins Is New President of Debaters.

The local members of Pi Kappa Delta, national debating fraternity, met on May 10 and elected officers for the school year of '28-'29.

William Rodgers this year's president will be succeeded by Florian Hopkins. Mr. Hopkins is an experienced and hard working debater and deserves the honor of his office. Forrest Robertson was elected vice-president, Betty Niles, secretary, and Margaret Mevis, treasurer

Plans were discussed for the Pi Kappa's spring initiation and banquet to be held soon.

PROGRAM FOR EXPRESSION RECITAL IS INTERESTING

Four graduates of the department of expression will appear in recital on next Monday night, May 14th. These four are Miss Lillian Robison, Miss Genevra McDonald, Miss Nellie Caldwell and Mr. Luther Hammond.

Mr. Hammond will read a cutting from the story "England to America". Mr. Hammond is familiar to Maryville audiences because of his work on the stage in midwinters and in the productions of the Maryville Players.

Miss Caldwell has only recently appeared before a Maryville audience as the charming Lucy of "The Rivals" and as the pretty English girl in "So This Is London". She will read "The Prince Who Was a Piper," a whimsical play.

Miss McDonald will read "The Londenderry Aair," a one-act fantisy. Miss McDonald, it will be remembered, took a leading part in the midwinter "Old Lady 31".

Miss Lillian Robison will read a play, "Uncle Jimmy" for her recital piece. Miss Robison has worked long and hard for Maryville dramatics both on the stage and behind the scenes. Her protrayal of the mother in "The Patsy" was an excellent piece of work.

MANY VISITORS ON HILL LAST WEEK

Last week-end saw many old familiar faces on Maryville campus. It began to look as if a few alumni had mistaken the date of Commencement week.

Henry Welbon, of Harvard, was one of the visitors. Pete Sneed was back home for the week-end, as was Jimmy Holland.

Merlin Usner, of the Harvard Theological Seminary, returned to Maryville for a few days, and spoke in chapel. Usner brought us news of what Maryville graduates were doing at Harvard and his reports were gratifying. A graduate of Maryville, Wick Broomall, has just received a scholarship entitling him to a year's study in any university in Europe. Another Maryville graduate Francis Kinsler, has acquitted himself well at Harvard and leaves next fall, unmarried so Usner says, for Korea.

Bob Jones returned to Maryville from his work in Chattanooga.

THETA ALPHI PHI ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Today at noon the local chapter ofT heta Alpha Phi met and elected the new officers for the next school year. They are: John Wienand, president of Maryville Theta Alpha president, Sarah Moore. secretary. and Albert Tull, treasurer.

Mary Eleanor Welbon, the first president of Maryville Theta Alpsa Phi and charter member of the chapter, retires from her office. She has worked hard during her year of office, and her work is appreciated.

The members voted to have the

VICTORY OVER EMORY-HENRY CLOSES TRACK SEASON

Billy Crawford is High Point Man of Meet.

Last Saturday Maryville closed the track season with a victory over EmoryHenry. The school record in the 100 yard dash of 10 seconds and the broad jump record of 21 ft. and and 2 in. were tied by Hayes Williams, and a new record was made by B. Crawford in the low hurdles. The old record was 26.8 and the new record was 26.4.

Crawford was high point man with 14 1-4 points. Taggart was second with 13 points. Williams had won first place in the 100 yard dash and the broad jump, and if he hadn't brogen his ankle on his last jump he would have been high scorer.

The hundred and 220 yard dashes were the feature races of the day. Williams received credit for running the hundred in ten seconds, but one watch timed him at 9.9, and another at 9.8, and the third watch timed him at ten seconds. Taggart was close to Williams at the finish.

Mann ran a good race in the two mile, leaving Emory Henry men far behind.

Summary of the meet:

100 yard Dash, Williams (m) 1st Taggart (m) 2nd miles (e) 3rd time 10 seconds.

Bland Morrow Wins Prize For Interracial Theme

Miss Bland Morrow, senior of this college, is a winner of a twenty-five dollar prize offered by the Commission on Interracial Cooperation in its annual Southwide college competition for themes on race relations.

The subject of Miss Morrow's paper was "The Negro and Education." We are glad that among the fifty institutions represented in the eighty papers entered one of the prizes should come to a student of Maryville. Miss Morrow has shown herself a brilliant writer and a keen thinker, and has justly deserved the prize.

The first prize of $100 went to Miss Selese Hunter, of Baylor University, Waco, Texas; the second prize of $50. was won by Miss Martha H. Hall, of North Carolina College for Women, Greensboro, and the third prize of $25. went to Miss Morrow.

Officials of the Commission expressed themselves as greatly pleased with the results of the contest, which appears to have enlisted wide and serious interest.

CORRECTION

Last week's batting average had John Stone hitting .500. This was an error as Stone has been to bat 44 times and has made 24 hits giving him an average of .550.

MR. SHAKESPEARE, MEET MR. TUNNEY

A storm has arisen over this fair land of ours. Professors are flinging vituperation and editors, inkpots at the blonde head of Mr. Gene Tunney. Wherefore? Mr. Tunney has raised his voice in lecture upon the wonders of William Shakespeare in the hitherto inviolate halls of Harvard.

A storm has therefore arisen, and the general grand chorus is "Oh! and oh! and what-is-this-world-coming-to?" in a despairing wail.

While Mr. Tunney proceeds on his pugilistic way, and the students enjoy the situation, and Bill Shakespeare, among the shades of the famous, laughs long and humorously. But Shakespeare, we assert, is laughing at the scandalized professors and editors.

Shakespeare, say they, is a Classic. He is rightly kept in a glass cage and is not to be handled by one whose hands are muscular with the muscles of a prize-fighter. Read him, my dear fellow, say they, and understand him as far as your understanding can grasp, but lecture on his plays? Well, hardly.

But Mr. Tunney has lectured on the forbidden subject. And we are proud of him. For he has gone up against and flouted the Popular Ideal. He has proved that a red-blooded, two-fisted pugilist need not be a brute, but can be and is a man with a fine appreciation of the best in literature as well as in life.

Talk of Saint George and the dragon! We prefer Gene Tunney and the professors.

And we feel fairly certain that Shakespeare, in his appointed abode, is wagging his classic head and smiling understandingly at Gene Tunney. He recalls the fact that several hundred years ago he slipped off from the scene that just wouldn't be written and refreshed his mind and lungs by cheering lustily at a wrestling match in the streets of London.

NEEDS OF OUR COLLEGE

When one goes out on a survey of the growth and needs of the various departments at Maryville College, he discovers one important thing. Though the needs are many, and the final standards have not yet been attained, we are improving, and rapidly. This is found to be true in all the departments.

History

There has been an encouraging growth in the History department during the last three or four years. Four years ago there were eight sections in history, and now there are twelve. Among the new courses are those in Ancient and English History.

The most outstanding development is that a major is now possible. Formerly this was impossible because there were not enough courses to work off required and major hours, but now the student who wishes to do so may, by careful planning, work out a full major in

(Note to Editor—I'm sorry that I haven t sent you a snapshot of myself with a dog to head this column, for I know that a picture of an author petting a dog always makes a hit with the readers. It shows them that he is only human, after all, like you and me and Elynor Glynn. But I haven't been in this vicinity very long and if you think I'm going around slapping strange dogs on the back and calling them Charlie, just for the sake of publicity, you are mistaken.)

I have come to the conclusion, without jumping, that this paper should have six pages next year. If I'm wrong don't sue me—maybe we can settle it out of court.

M. C.

Everything in life is reasonably easy to manage except the women.

M. C.

Some girls live on the interest men have in them.

M. C.

Modern women seldom resort to tears, but really here isn't much left to cry for.

M. C.

As a rule when a man begins to look for trouble he overestimates his capacity.

Every woman has a certain look with which she thinks she can squelch a man.

M. C.

Money is everything to the poor fellow without a cent.

M. C.

The best way for a girl to keep a man at a distance is for her to chase him.

M. C.

A thing of beauty isn't a joy forever if she's dumb.

M. C.

An open mind sometimes means that it won't hold a thought.

M. C.

It takes a smart man to argue with a woman—if he's very smart he won't do it.

Sunspots don't cause storms. Freckled girls are the least temperamental.

M. C.

Maryville College has the best all around athletics in the state and don't let any one tell you different. (Note to printer: Please print this in orange and trim it in garnet.)

Girls haven't changed. It's just that they find it no longer necessary to faint or sprain an ankle to get into somebody's arms.

M. C.

The woman who takes the conceit out of a man adds a little to her own.

M. C.

Getting into trouble is pretty expensive, but some people just will have expensive things.

M. C.

Most girls carry lipstick these days. They have to draw the line somewhere.

M. C.

Never explain. If it isn't necessary it's foolish; and if it is necessary it doesn't help matters.

M. C.

Up to a certain point most girls think about marrying. After that they worry about it.

M. C.

A girl often speaks without thinking but never thinks without speaking.

M. C.

And haven't any soap.

M. C.

Some persons are so dense that the sun is the only thing that ever dawns upon them.

M. C.

Some people seem to have such respect for the truth that they seldom make use of it.

M. C.

Marriage is like a railroad sign. When you see a pretty girl you stop; then you look, and after you've married you listen.

M. C.

It is better to have loved and lost—much better.

M. C.

The only place I can be sure that you will find sympathy is in the dictionary.

M. C.

Well, dear little friends of Radioland, I am signing off. There are two prizes for the best letters telling me why this column was or was not liked. The first prize is a beautiful sixteen jewel garden rake and the second award is a magnificent fur lined bath tub. Try your luck.

SUMMER TRAVEL

Only a few weeks remain until the first student tour of the Orient, sponsored by Upton Close and The New Student, and under the leadership of Mr. Close, is under way. Students and teachers throughout the country have shown great interest in this first expedition to the Orient at student rates. The course of travel has been laid out to give thorough contact with Japan, Central and North China, Manchuria and Korea. Two weeks will be spent in Japan and on the Island Sea; ten days in the Shanghai region, with an optional 600 mile tour up the Yangtze River; two weeks in North China, old Peking and Tientsin, the Western Hills and the regions of the Great Wall; and several days in Manchuria and Korea. In keeping with the "learning-seeing" program, members of the party will be free to follow their own bents and study on their own. Applications for membership in the group may be sent in care of The New Student.

NEEDS OF OUR COLLEGE

History.

As to the needs, there is a need for a course in the History of Civilization which shall serve as a sort of basis for all other courses. It is planned to introduce this course in the next year or two.

Books for parallel reading are also in demand. however, while we do need more, those we already have measure up well to the ones used in other schools. Our library contains the same standard reference books that are used in graduate work at the University of Virigina. Thanks for this good foundation library are due Mrs. Alexander who planned and carried out the purchase of these books while she was in charge of History. With such standard volumes to build on, and with new books coming in all the time, the outlook for the History department is very promising indeed.

English

The interest that is shown in our English department can readily be seen from the fact that twentythree out of the class of eighty-five seniors are majoring in English.

The next aim of the department to be realized in the near future, or as the English instructors hope, is to have the survey course in English Literature made compulsory The reason for this step is that the instructors feel that a Liberal Arts college should certainly furnish to all who graduate from it a basic knowledge at least of the literature of their mother tongue.

Among the courses which the faculty hopes to provide in the future are those which shall offer an advanced study in various periods in the history of English literature, particularly of the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries.

The department has been greatly aided this year by the many new books that have been added to the library. The next hope for the book collection is that it will be strengthened by duplicate copies, which will be of great aid to the students in parallel reading work.

A project not directly connected with the English department, but which has most certainly been aided and encouraged by it, is the Writers' Work Shop. This organization of students seriously interested in writing has been of great benefit not only for the actual work that has been done, but for the fellowship of those with common interests and the establishment of high standards of literary excellence. One of the ultimate aims of the Work Shop, which the Enlish department heartily endorses, is the establishment of a literary magazine here at Maryville. we feel that there is certainly enough talent among our students to make such a project worthwhile, and we hope that in the not too distant future it may be accomplished.

This Saturday all of the best track men compete in the pentathalon. The pentathalon will consist of the 100 yard dash, shot put, low hurdles high jump, and 880 yard run. The man that makes the best score in all these events will receive a silver cup from the Y. M. C. A. This year there will be some bitter competition among several of the contestants. Last year this was the most exciting track event of the year. It is a test of speed, strength, and endurance.

Everybody who hasn't seen a pentathalon run off should be out on the track Saturday at 3 o'clock. Everybody who has seen this before will surely be out again Saturday.

gone.

A story is told that one time a soldier was to visit his family at a time when Confederate soldiers, his enemies, were in the neighborhood. The Home Guards arranged matters so that the mother and sisters could meet the soldier in a grove. Unfortunately guests arrived during the evening making necessary an absence of only one member of the household at a time. Nevertheless the deedw as accomplished. The soldier was permitted the hasty words with each of his three sisters and his mother without the guests having knowledge of the proceeding.

In November of 1923, the captain of the Home Guards passed away. She had reared a large family after having been of such service to her friends.

The worn and weather-beaten flag signifies happiness for which there was a great struggle. It signifies unselfishness on the part of tohse who worked under it. It signifies bravery on the part of those who used it for their banner.

CHILHOWEAN FOR 1928 UNUSUALLY INTERESTING

Louise Goodson, Freshman, is Blonde Highland Queen

ANNUAL IS DEDICATED TO DR. HUNTER

John Stone Chosen As Best All-Round Athlete

They're out at last, and we're glad to see them. Oh, the annuals, of course. Everyone's talking of the 1928 Chilhowean. We extend our hearty congratulations to the Staff who have worked on this beautiful annual.

The cover was the first unusual thing we noticed. It gives the beautiful effect of one of those books of ancient times when book binding was a work of art. If real hammered brass and hand-tooled leather had been used we doubt if the effect would be prettier.

Throughout the pages the general decorative scheme was the Smoky Mountains.

We usually turn first to the feature section to find who is the year's Highland Queen. This year's Queen is a very comely blond young lady of the freshman class, Louise Goodson. She is another of those reasons that gentlemen prefer blonds. Next in order came the picture of Betty Griffes, senior senior. We missed her usual flashing smile, but then why bother to smile when one can look as charming when serious? Lois Miles represented the juniors with her curly locks and general petiteness. Lucy Goddard gained great honor for the sophomores by representing them. We wonder what her big brown eyes were thinking of when the picture was taken? Mary Swaim and Harold Bird were chosen as the most popular couple on the Hill, and the picture is self-evident reason for the selection. One young lady was heard to remark irreverently that the picture would serve beautifully for a Pepsodent smile advertisement.

John Stone's picture, as the best all-round athlete, completed the feature section.

This year's Chilhowean is dedicated to Dr. Edwin Ray Hunter. We think this very appropriate. Dr. Hunter has labored long and well for the good of the college, and we are glad that this public recognition of his services has been given. Dr. Hunter has made friends of the students by his ability and fairness and unfailing good humor. In fact, we might repeat the Chilhowean's dedication word for word and add a loud "Amen" at the end.

Yes, sir, this year's Chilhowean is splendid.

Tennis Team Takes Road Trip, Wins And Loses

Maryville College's netmen took a two day road trip last week. At Greeneville the local team won from Tusculum 5-1. At Johnson City the players did not fare so well and lost 3-2.

In the Tusculum match Prince of Maryville won from Pyler of Tusculum 6-4, 6-0 Strain defeated McCurray 6-0, 6-1. Hughes of Tusculum downed Coulter of Maryville 6-3, 6-4. Pope triumped over Light foot 6-3, 5-7, 6-3. In the doubles Prince and Pope won from Hughes and Lightfoot 6-3, 6-1. Strain and Coulter took the last match from Pyler and McCurry 6-3, 6-2.

At Johnson City in the singles Pope trimmed Clarke 6-3, 4-6, 6-3. Conner of the Teachers conquered Prince 6-2, 3-6, 6-4. Strain continued to play well and won from Young 7-5, 6-2. Aslinger and Harrison defeated Coulter and Strain in the only double match played 9-7, 6-1.

NEW MEMBERS FOR WORK SHOP

At the last of the spring semester the members of the Workshop met and voted on new members for next year. They are: Allan Herdman, Albert Tull, Jesse Pierce, Professor Howell, Grace Gamble, Edna Baither, Mary Fitzgerald, Elizabeth King, Hubert Welsh, Helen Plant and Frank Baker.

The new members have already shown marked ability and interest in things literary, and much is expected of them.

SENIORS BOAST MANY EXPERIENCED ACTORS

(It's Too True; We've Seen Them Moonshining.)

"ICE BOUND"

No, this is not going to be a report on the progress of the senior class play. I merely want to put down a few chance thoughts which struck me the other day, when I was sitting under one of our much admired shade trees of our campus at high-noon. Dinner had been safely stowed away, and I was trying to feed my brains with material that was likely to be of use in my 1:10 class. But my efforts were in vain.

I soon found myself watching the people about the chapel. Some of our star actors were going to some kind of a meeting. They must have been responsible for the trend of my thoughts for the next ten minutes or so. At first there seemed to be a wild jamboree of names of plays, flashed on the screen of my brain. You and I, Alice Sits by the Fire, Friend Hannah, The Goose Hangs High, The Lucky Break, Romeo and Juliet, Seventeen, So This is London, titles like that came to my mind with no connection whatsoever until my head was about to refuse to be a play-house. Then a girl passed by. I recognized her as one of the characters in "Patsy." My planless projection of play-titles ceased to worry my brains. I began to pick out the members of the class of '28 whom I had seen in plays during my four years in college. With more or less success my thinking apparatus turned itself into a statistician's office and managed to produce quite a list of disciples of Mrs. West's fine art. The manager of the senior class play, Ed Conrad, passed me with a big, blue book under his arm. "Play practice," he shouted. My mind was off again on another exploration. This time my neuronic connections made me pick out the cast of "Ice Bound" from my improvised statistics of actors. Because I am a member of the class of '28 my lack of energy was not sufficient to keep me from wriggling my ears with pleasure when I discovered that ten out of the cast of twelve players had been in at least one of the plays whose titles had flashed through my mind a little earlier. I got even more aroused when I found that eight of the cast are graduates of the expression department.. Surely, such a cast with so much experienced talent warrented an extra kick of the green sod where my heels rested. Again I dropped into meditation. One after the other of the members of the cast passed in review before me. Stirl Rule, Marjorie Frey, Ellen Cowan, Emily Minton, Genevra McDonald, Elizabeth Crow, Wilbur Franklin Luther Hammond, John T. Wriggins, Mary Eleanor Welbon, Lillian Robison Joe Marshall; perhaps names only to some, to others personalities who show up well in the glare of the footlights and actors who will make "Ice Bound" a success on the

TAGGART IS PENTATHALON WINNER BY CLOSE MARGIN

Taggart and Crawford Each Win Two Firsts.

Saturday afternoon four of our track and field event men took part in the annual pentathlon, which is sponsored by the Y. M. From the performance of each man it was very evident that each one was out to win. The throught of the award, a beautiful trophy spurred each man to spend every ounce of effort in the several events.

Taggart and Crawford each won two firsts. Brock captured the remaining first by heaving the shot 33 feet 6 1-2 inches. Headrick, throwing it 32 feet 8 inches placed second. Taggart broke the tape in the 100 yard dash with Crawford close on his heels. By winning the high jump Taggart gave every one a big surprise. Crawford won the low hurdles by nosing out Taggart by just a few inches. He also took the lead in the half mile and held it to the finish. The spectators were given a real thrill when Taggart made an attempt to pass Crawford on the last lap.

Summary of Events:

100 yard dash, Taggart 1st, Crawford 2nd time 10.6 seconds.

220 low hurdles Crawford 1st Taggart 2nd, time 288 seconds.

880 yard run, Crawford 1st Taggart 2nd time 2 minutes 18 seconds.

Shot put Brock 1st Headrick 2nd Distance 33 ft 6 1-2 inches.

High jump, Taggart 1st Headrick 2nd Height 5 feet.

DR. WILSON TO SPEAK AT ALUMNI BANQUET

Annual Event Will be Held In Library.

The Annual Alumni Reunion and Dinner will be held in Thaw Hall, on June 6th, beginning promptly at seven-thirty o'clock.

Last year, the college granted permission for the Alumni meeting to be held in the library in Thaw Hall, on account of the presentation, at that time, of President Wilson's portrait, which was to be placed on the library wall.

So many visiting alumni expressed their delight in having the opportunity for renewing acquaintance in this commodious building, that arrangements have been made to gather in the same place this year. We wish to thank Prof. H. L. Ellis, our librarian, for his assistance in making this possible.

This year marks the fiftieth anniversary of the class of 1878. All four of the members of that class are living.

At the February meeting of the executive board of the Alumni Association, it was unanimously decided to invite President Wilson, of this class of 1878, to deliver the Annual Alumni Address this year. After some persuasion on the part of the committee, Dr. Wilson accepted the invitation to speak for the fifty year class and we are eagerly anticipating an unusual treat. We know that many alumni will be glad to travel far, in order to be present on this occasion.

For most of us, memories of student days center around Dr. Wilson and no speaker could be obtained, who would make a stronger and deeper appeal for visiting alumni than will our president.

SIX TO SPEAK FOR BATES PRIZE

The Bates Prize orations this year will be delivered by six girls of the junior and senior classes. These six will speak on Monday night, June 4, in the chapel at 8:00. The Bates Prize contest is always looked forward to with a great deal of interest since it is one of the outstanding programs given during Commencement Week.

Elizabeth Crow and Bland Morrow will speak on "The Decreasing Influence of the Cultural in Education." Dorothy Ferris and Constance Fitzgerald will both speak on "The Breakdown of Justice." Reba Millsaps subject is "The Victories of Peace," and Sarah Moore will speak on "China Tomorrow."

The judges have not yet been decided. Anna Warwick will play a violin solo and the men's quartet will sing.

THETA ALPHA PHI INITIATES ELEVEN TONIGHT

Old and New Members Will Attend Banquet After Initiation.

Did you see that page in the Chilhowean with "Theta Alpha Phi" topping a list of names and Pierrot and Pierrette at the bottom of the page? Well, those people were the charter members of the dramatic fraternity. But eight new members are to be initiated into the fraternity tonight. The initiates will be lead through weird and mysterious rites, impressing upon them the serious and high honor to which they have attained. If they are very good under the trying circumstances they will be allowed to become members of Theta Alpha Phi.

The new members are: Bernice West, Harry Gauding, Jimmie Rule, Stirl Rule, Dorothy McCulloch, Ed Driscoll, Alice Gillingham and Emily Minton.

After the ceremony of initiation the company will repair to the Coffee Shoppe for their annual banquet. Members of the neighboring chapter of Theta Alpha Phi at the University of Tennessee will be present. Miss Jennie Edwards will officiate as toastmistress. Mary Eleanor Welbon, the retiring president, will give a toast "To the Future." The new president, Jesse Pierce, will give a toast "To the Past." Emily Minton will respond to the toast "To the New Members" given by Sarah Moore. Albert Tull will give a toast "To the Visitors."

Jimmy Rule will sing a solo and Dorothy McCulloch give a reading.

The program finished, new and old Pierrots and Pierrettes will wend their homeward way, expecting a busy and happy year for Theta Alpha Phi next fall.

Jack Cotton Elected New Editor-In-Chief

At a meeting of next year's Echo Staff this noon Jack Cotton was elected editor-in-chief. Jack was a member of this year's Staff and has shown ability for his new task of responsibility. Bob Dance, the capable business manager of this year, was re-elected last week by the Committee to the same position. With these two men in charge we can look forward with confidence to a new year's college paper of unusual excellence.

The Staff Editors are: Edna Baither, Sarah Moore, and Jesse Pierce.

The Junior Associate Editors are: Elizabeth King, and Forrest Robertson.

The Sophomore cubs are: Thelma Klassette, Mabel Dickerson, Robert Davis, Samuel Kidder, Travis Hitt, and Jimmy Jarvis.

The last issue of this year's Echo will come out on May 25th. The new staff will have charge.

EMORY-HENRY TROUNCED 3-0 BY HIGHLANDERS

Last Home Game is Twelfth Victory of Season.

STONE PITCHES BEST GAME OF HIS CAREER

Davis, Bird, and Blazer Outstanding Players.

John Stone entered Maryville's Hall of Fame yesterday afternoon when he turned back Emory and Henry with two hits and a 3-0 Maryville victory. During Stone's four years at Maryville he has never pitched as good a game as he pitched yesterday before the home fans.

Not only was this victory important because it was the second game of the series but this was the twelfth victory for the Highlanders over college teams. The Highlanders have played fifteen games and thirteen have been won. The games lost were to Chattanooga Lookouts of the Southern Association and the Knoxville Smokies. The local team has not been defeated on the home diamond this year.

After issuing two base on balls in the first inning, Stone pulled out of the hole as Blazer and Davis fielded brilliantly. The visitors went hither until the fifth inning when Youell singled. Again in the eighth the visitors touched Stone for a single when Barker hit for a single.

Maryville garnered one hit in each of the first four innings but the Highlander bats were silent in the fifth. In the sixth with two away Clemens singled, stole second, and scored on John Davis's screeching single. The Highlanders pushed two other runs across in the eight. Bird, first up, singled, took second when Gann was hit by a pitched ball. Stone sacrificed Bird to third. Gann stole second. Both runners crossed the plate when Captain Clemens laid down a perfect sacrifice toward first base.

The playing of Davis, Bird, and Blazer was outstanding for Maryville. Davis handled twenty chances at first. Blazer and Bird fielded everything that came their way. The outfield had no chance to star as only two balls were hit to the outfield.

FAREWELL

This is the last issue of the Echo the staff of 1927-28 will publish. The one remaining issue of the year will be in the hands of next year's staff.

We resign our inky task with mingled regret and relief—regret that we have not accomplished all that we dreamed, and relief that we can once again draw an untroubled breath.

We wish to express our thanks to those whose kindness has helped us in publishing the Echo. To Mr. Emert and his capable staff of assistants we give our thanks for their skill and kindly aid, to Dr. Hunter, for his thoughtfulness and interest, and to Dr. Wilson for his sympathy and hearty support.

There are others to whom our deepest thanks is due—to the readers of the Highland Echo. For nine long months they have perused these columns. And for nine long months they have been exceedingly courteous. To speak frankly, we realize that some of the weighty or flighty editorials we have evolved would have provided more entertainment for the mice that occasionally visit the editorial waste basket than for the readers of the Echo. But the readers can console themselves with the information that oftentimes the waste basket received more contributions from our pen than did the editorial columns.

To those earnest and harassed members of the staff who scribbled desperately that the weekly columns might be filled we also express our thanks. They have labored long and well. May they be rewarded.

We look forward with pleasure to next year's Highland Echo, confident that it will, as a bigger and better paper, truly represent Maryville and her ideals.

NEEDS OF OUR COLLEGE

German

The growth of interest in the German language here in Maryville College has been periodic.

At the present time the library consists of about seventy-five volumes of books of the period before the war. In addition to grammars, readers and dictionaries, there are books of German literature, dramatic works, comedies etc. A few copies have been added in the last two years. Books in the James R. Hills Memorial Loan Library date from an early period, but these are gradually being replaced by some of the more modern books.

The one great need for an interest in the revival of the German language is the necessity of the repeal of the state law forbidding the teaching of German in the school. Due to this law, the need has not been felt of adding to the library.

As a general impression it might be said that it is recovering some of its earlier improtance.

FRENCH

As in other departments on the Hill there has been a steady growth and development in the French department; now there are eleven, with two full-time teachers. Beyond the beginning work, there are two full years in literature, and a valuable new course in Methods of Teaching French.

The library is well supplied with parallel readings for all the French courses.

Among the chief needs is one for more courses. These are especially necessary for those who wish to major in French. The curriculum is now three hours short of having enough for both required and major work. A three-hour course would remedy this deficiency.

SPANISH

The increasing interest in Spanish over the United States today has made itself felt in our college by the greater numbers who enter the Spanish Classes. And the department has been steadily expanding to meet the needs of those numbers.

The chief need seems to be for more parallel reading material. The money given to the department this year from the new library fund has been of great help; and it is hoped that the Spanish library which has been started will be added to each year.

It has been felt for a long time among the students tha a course in Commercial Spanish would be of great value to supplement the basic work of the literary courses. There is also need for a good methods course for those who intend to teach Spanish after graduation.

For several weeks there has been a series of articles on the needs of the college, to give information in regard to what the different departments of the school are doing, what their plans are and what they need to carry them out. We now come to the music, experssion and art departments.

Music Department

Our music department is one of the largest in East Tennessee. and one of the best in the state. One of the greatest needs here is for more and better rooms, to be able to accomodate all the students of music. Many or the practice rooms are artificially lighted and are in great need of refinishing or decorating, as are also the halls and studios. One of the greatest needs is for a new instrument for solo purposes in the main auditorium, and it is hoped that a Steinway may be forthcoming from some kind-hearted person with an oversupply of money.

We have a very efficient group of teachers in the music department, Miss Hale, at the head, having graduated from and taught in the Cincinati Conservatory of music, and having attended summer schools in most of the large conservatories of the country. The teachers have all had work in large conservatories.

Expression Department

Thinking next of the Expression Department, we find quite a list of needs, also among the first is a stage, that overhead hangings might be used and back drops let down from the top. Also stage properties are in much demand. Another thing which would mean much to the department is practice rooms, we can all see the advantage of having these practice rooms in connection with the department.

An interesting feature of the Expression Department is the beginning of a costume wardrobe. Equipped with a new cedar-lined wardrobe, the next thing is to fill it with costumes, and when this is done the department plans to rent its costumes to other schools, to the literary societies here, and the like, but this can not be done until the wardrobe is sufficiently filled. Many contributions have been made, and we are looking forward to having a well equipped costume wardrobe before long.

Our Expression Department is one of the best if not the best, in the south, in fact, investigation has shown that there is, as far as can be found, no other school in the south which supports three teachers in this department. Expression students who have done creditable work here, going from Maryville to Leland Powers' school at Boston are given credit for some of their work here, a thing which is done for no other school in the United States. We should be, and are, justly proud of our Expression Department.

Emory-Henry Loses 7-1 In First Game Of Series

Good fielding, excellent pitching, and hitting when hits were needed aided Maryville in winning over Emory and Henry Wednesday afternoon 7-1.

Gabbard turned in a neat day's pitching. Only thirteen men faced him in the first four innings. He did not issue a single base on balls and retired four of the visiting batsmen via the strikeout route.

The playing of Bird and Blazer around the Keystone station was the out standing performance of the Maryville aggregation. These boys handled everything that came their way and many of the chances were difficult. John Stone starred in the outfield accepting five chances, two of which were difficulut plays which Stone made appear easy.

Greear and Dungan were the luminaries on defense for the visiting team.

Clemens hit safely three times out of as many time at bat. Stone had a walk, sacrifice fly, and one single out of two official times at bat. DeLaney made two hits.

"EAST SIDE, WEST SIDE", TRULY AN EPIC OF CITIES

With George O'Brien in the leading role, Allan Dwan has directed a marvelous picture from Felix Riesenberg's successful novel, "East Side, West Side," which will be shown at The Palace Theater next Monday and Tuesday.

Dwan planned the screen treatment of "East Side, West Side". He also chose Virginia Valli as the leading woman. O'Brien had just completed his part as the prize fighter in "Is Zat So?"

Although young O'Brien is well known to motion picture fans as the result of his portrayals in "The Iron Horse," "Fig Leaves," "Three Bad Men," and many others, this picture occasioned his first trip to the East and in it he has done the finest work of his career.

"East Side, West Side" is first the story of a rugged man's career and, second, the story of Greater New York. The scene sweeps from the river fronts, through the slums, along the Bowery, up Fifth Avenue to Harlem, Morningside and Washington Heights. The novel has already become a best seller.

ANCIENT LANGUAGES

The department of Ancient Languages has been enlarged during the past two years by the addition of a new member to its teaching force, which has made possible the introduction of several new courses. Besides the regular work in translating Latin and Greek authors, courses are now offered in Greek and Roman History which give the student an excellent back-ground for his study of the classics. A teacher's course in Latin is also offered every other year and will be run next year.

It is hoped that soon courses in Greek and Latin literature to be studied in English, can be added to the curriculum. This will give students who do not possess a reading knowledge with Greek and Latin a chance to become acquainted with the literature of those languages. A course in mythology is also needed.

The department also needs new equipment in the way of maps, city plans, photographs and stereopticon slides. New books are needed too, though our library is now fairly well equipped for this work and a good set of translation of Greek and Roman authors is to be added in the near future. The Classical Journal is also to be found among the magazines in the library.

While the department of Ancient Languages does not attract so many students as some of the more practical courses it is and will continue to be one of the best departments on the Hill.

VOL. 13 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FRIDAY, MAY 25, 1928 NUMBER 30

SENIORS PRESENT ICE BOUND JUNE 5th

NEW ENGLAND FAMILY LIFE PORTRAYED

Senior Actors to Make Their Farewell Maryville Appearance.

Previous senior class plays have always excelled in theme and cast. The play selected by the class of '28 promises to be no exception in this regard. The requirements on the cast are high, but right requirements met by a star cast promises an evening of unusual interest to a discerning theatre audience.

The three-act play "Icebound," of which Owen Davis is the author, unfolds the story of a New England family and pictures to the audience the cool reserve and cold manners of the natives of Maine. Greed and distrust, hate and malice, love and confidence, faith and patience, all alike are important in the portrayal of the characters. Blood-relations and family reputation conflict, and money shows its power over greedy human beings, yet in spite of the conflicts, the audience is left in a happy mood when the final curtain falls.

The unexpected changes and disappointments, producing the cool feeling between blood-relation are at times so humorous and pathetic that one does not know whether to laugh or cry, but whatever the situation is, the members of the cast are always its equal. The following is the dramatic personal:

Henry Jordan,..... Stirl Rule
Emma, his wife ..... Majorie Frey
Nettie, her daughter,by a former marriage.... Ellen Cowan
Sadie Fellows, once Sadie Jordan, a widow ..... Emily Minton
Cora, her daughter Genevra McDonald.
Ella Jordan, the unmarried sister ..... Elizabeth Crow
Ben Jordan ..... Wilbur Franklin
Doctor Curtis .... Luther Hammond
Judge Bradford . John T. Wriggins
Jane Crosby, a servant Mary Eleanor Welbon
Hannah, a servant Lillian Robinson
Jim Jay, deputy sheriff. Joe Marshall

The play will be given on Tuesday June 5, 1928, at eight o'clock in the the evening, in Voorhees Chapel.

DR. STEPHENSON SMASHES CAR

Gets A New Nash

All of those who have seen Dr. Stevenson driving around in a new car recently do not know the near tragedy which caused him to get another car.

Last Sunday morning Dr. Stevenson, Mrs. McGill, Miss Babista and Allen Grindstead were driving to Knoxville where they were going to conduct a chuch service. On the way they were struck by a car in front which was just passing another car. Dr. Stevensons car was thus turned side-ways across the road. The momentum of the car turned it over on its side.

No one was hurt seriously, though of course everyone was badly shaken up. The car was damaged to such an extent that Dr. Stevenson accepted a trade-in offer and bought the new car which he now has. Incidentally, the wrecked car passengers went on to Knoxville and conducted the church service as per schedule.

LEARN ABOUT LEAGUE OF NATIONS

On Monday afternoon, May 1, 28 at Voorhees Chapel a model assembly of the League of Nations will be given. The purpose of it is to acquaint students with the League of Nations, with some of the things it does, and with its efforts to establish world peace, in order that a greater spirit of world fellowship may be felt among the nations.

It is sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

Students of the college and all the town people are invited.

DR. GILLINGHAM AND MISS HENRY BACK

Dr. Gillingham Visits Louisville Theological Seminary

Two members of Maryville's faculty, Miss Clemmie Henry, student self-help secretary, and Dr. Clinton H. Gillingham, have returned within the week from their journey in the interest of the College.

Dr. Gillingham said that his trip was instructive and very successful. He represented Maryville College at the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Louisville Theological Seminary.

Miss Henry traveled in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Connecticutt, and Massachusetts in the interest of the college. When interviewed she said that her trip had been very successful and pleasant. She was enthusiastic over her first glimpse of a New England Spring. She laughed and said, "Well, gorgeous is the only word to describe the whole New England country. The fruit trees were in bloom and they were, yes, gorgeous. And Boston, well, I quite fell in love with the quaintness of the place."

"No, I didn't see much of New York. The bigness of it rather frightens me.

"One of the entertaining incidents of my trip. I heard Clarence DeMar speak one evening. He is the world's greatest Marathon runner, you know. I think he won the race of twenty-six miles six times, or perhaps it was eight. When he stepped on the platform I was immensely surprised. I'd expected to see a young athletic sort of man. He was as thin as a pole, and he must have been about forty years old. He spoke on the subject, "Let us lay aside every weight and run with patience the race that is set before us." He was as witty as could be, and I certainly enjoyed hearing him.

"I don't remember much else that you would be interested in. I was gone six weeks. It was nice to take the trip, but it's very nice to get back home."

MUSIC CONCERT AT KNOXVILLE

The guest concert which the Music Department of the college was invited by the Tuesday Morning Music Club of Knoxville to give in that city last Thursday night scored one of the most brilliant triumphs ever attained by the musicians of the college.

The beautiful new Central Methodist Church made a very appropriate background for the presenting of a musical affair, and a large crowd was present to listen to a program.

The numbers were well arranged to show a wide diversity of talent. Besides the advanced musicians from the piano and voice departments, a new feature was added in the ensemble of strings, under the leadership of Miss Butcher, this group adding attractively to the program.

Miss Molly Caldwell; Mrs. Butcher, and a large number of people from town attended the concert.

Last Chance For A Swim

Boys, Friday night will be the last time for a big swim with the crowd. All who have not been enjoying the pool should, by all means, be at the pool Friday night. Come out and take Shorty Bower's championship away from him. The pool will be open Saturday morning before breakfast. Saturday afternoon from three to four will be the last regular period of the year.

The girls have been enjoying their early morning plunges. Between fifty and seventy-five girls have been going over regularly. Saturday night the girls will be permitted to use the pool after the society program. Every girl is urged to come out. There will be some added attractions that you shouldn't miss.

Students, the pool is yours. Avail yourself of the opportunity to learn to swim or to keep in practice. Many students have derived benefit from the pool this year. The official record shows that from all the girls who took swimming ninety-two passed the required tests, eighty-three can swim one length of the pool, one hundred thirty-seven can swim one width of the pool, and only thirty-nine have not learned to swim. There were thirty boys taking the Senior Red Cross Life Saving examination. Ten of these thirty have passed the examination. Instructor Jack Coughlin says, "this is the biggest swimming year Maryville has ever had, and from all appearances, next year will be one hundred percent better."

Campus Dons Gay Clothes For Departing Students

Nature has certainly fixed things so that departing students will carry away with themselves a picture of Maryville in its most beautiful attire. Never has the campus looked better. Rain may be a pain in the neck to some people, but it certainly is a blessing to the campus, trees, grass and shrubbery.

Those who intend to return next year may not notice just now how good the old hill really does look. A few months hence, however, recollections will begin to appear and the allurement of the "hill-top crowned with cedars" will begin to call us back. The writer speaks with several years experience. The thrill of getting out of schools fades into insignificance when compared with that experienced when returning the following September. The old campus may seem by then to have lost some of the bloom of youth with which we left it, but usually the thrill of meeting old friends and learning new ones makes us overlook this fact.

The present state of Natures' affairs on the hill may make the Seniors lot in leaving a bit harder. It will, however, leave a picture imprinted on the memory book of the mind which will help make future thoughts of the Alma Mater, pleasant ones.

NEW Y. M. C. A. OFFICERS INSTALLED

Officers of the Y. M. C. A. for the school year 1928-1929 were installed Sunday evening at 7:00 o'clock in the chapel. The retiring officers had charge of the service, with Maynard Layman presiding. Seated on the platform with them were our leaders for the coming year: Florian Hopkins, President; Eugene Gabbard, Vice-President; Albert Tull, Secretary; and Ingram Fell, Treasurer.

Professor Davis gave the oath of office to the new men, both officers and members of the cabinet.

We can look forward confidently to another good year for the Y. M. C. A., for we have leaders who have proved their ability in past years.

ART EXHIBIT JUNE 2

Two Students Graduate This Year.

From three until five o'clock of Saturday afternoon, June 2, the annual Art Exhibit will be held in Dr. Gillingham's old classroom. Each year, during Commencement week, the Art Department of the College sponsers an exhibit of the outstanding work done by the Department. This year's exhibit promises to be an exceptional one.

Two groups of work will be placed on exhibit. The first group will contain examples of the work done by the free-hand drawing students. The public will have an oportunity to see a number of original sketches and studies done in charcoal by these students.

The second group of work will be that done by advanced students. There will be paintings done in oil, pastel, and water color, China painting, too, will have a place in this section of the Exhibit.

Perhaps the two pieces of art work which will most attract the attention of the public are those which the graduates of the Department, Mary Clopton and Mary Fant, call their masterpieces. Mary Clopton has painted a piece of tapestry, which she has named the "Return of Miles Stanish." Mary Fant's masterpiece is a large snow scene which is interesting because of the study in sheep which it includes. These two graduates have also painted portraits of people about the Hill. The exhibit as a whole is well worth while and anyone who will take time to visit it will be well repaid.

The Art Department is receiving recognition for the splendid work that it does. With Miss Nan Bird at its head it gives excellent training in art work. This year the two graduates, Mary Clopton and Mary Fant, have been especially honored. They have been asked to join the University of Tennessee chapter of Kappa Pi, a national honorary art fraternity. Maryville can well be proud of her Art Department.

KEMP DAVIS WILL LEAD SOPHOMORES NEXT YEAR

At a recent meeting of the Freshman class Kemp Davis was elected to succeed Jesse James as president We are sure Kemp will prove to be as effective in his new executive position as he was on the hardwood floor this winter. The other officers elected are:

Travis Hitt, Vice-President; Ruth Lawhead, Secretary; Reuben Crawford, Treasurer.

HIGHLANDERS DOWN TUSCTLUM 6-5

SEASON CLOSED VICTORIOUSLY

Another Successful Year

Yesterday afternoon the Maryville baseballers tucked the last of fourteen straight victories against college teams into the bat bag and called it a season. When all shouting was over Maryville was on the long end of a 6-5 count.

For the most part the game was well played and sparkled with bits of fast fielding and opportune base knocks. Parks, pitching for the home team and Hill, the opposing moundsman, turned in creditable performances. The latter also led his team in hitting. Byrd and Clemens secured two hits each to lead the Maryville batsmen. McConnoughay, although playing against many of his countrymen, fielded his position well and drove out Maryville's first hit of the game. This blow went bounding through the tall grass of the outfield sounding like the hired man eating celery.

Tusculum threatened to tie the score in the ninth, but with two out and the tying run on third Parks made a Houdini pass in front of the batter's lamps and he carved three nicks in the weather.

This contest was the last on this year's schedule. Although we have dropped two exhibition games to professional teams, Maryville has not met defeat in any of the intercollegiate games. Fourteen wins out of as many starts is an enviable record and the school is justly proud of the honor the team has brought to it. Numbered in our victories is one over the Knoxville Smokies. It was in this game that the team really showed that it was of championship calibre.

Maryville has made a just claim to the State championship and as the challenge has so far been undisputed we may well believe what our record has indicated, that Maryville has the best college baseball team in the state.

It would be hard to discriminate between the play of the individual members of the team. Every man on the team has performed well. The records show that Stone is leading the hitters and Gabbard has been the most effective pitcher.

Our entire star outfield will be lost this year through graduation. Mischlich, Stone, and Gann have patrolled the outer gardens for the last time in Maryville uniforms. All three have been outstanding performers and it is with much regret that we witness their passing. It will probably be a long time before Maryville will be fortunate enough to have three outfielders as good as these.

The baseball season was a fitting climax to the successful year that Maryville has had in all brnches of athletic.We look forward eagerly to next year when we trust we may do even better. Coach Honaker has urged that all foothball men keep in condition through the vacation period and, due to the early start that marks the coming season, it will be a distinct advantage to have every man in good shape when the first whistle is sounded.

EDITORIAL

The names of those on the new Echo staff may be found at the head of this column. We who compose the first staff to be selected according to the new Highland Echo regulations begin our task with the conventional amount of trepidation, but look forward with considerable hope and some eagerness to next September.

We would prefer not to be judged too harshly by the impressions you receive from this, our first issue. As yet, the staff organization is not definitely established and plans for the coming year have not been formulated. The writer especially feels his inexperience, some of which he hopes to overcome before next fall.

It is our intention to make next year's Echo uphold the standards which have been set in past years. With the cooperation of the student body we feel quite confident of our task.

For the next three months most of us will be from Maryville. Over seven hundred students let loose for three months upon an unsuspecting world can do a lot for good or ill in influencing opinion concerning our Alma Mater. If you know high school grduates you would like to see added to our family, use that magnetic personality of yours to bring them in. Remember, however, applications must be in early to assure admission.

Alumni-to-be: keep the Echo coming to you next year. Keep that Maryville spirit alive! Maryville won't forget you—don't you forget Maryville. See Bob Dance and make arrangements for next year now.

BOOK OF THE WEEK
"Heart of Emerson's Journals"
Edited by Bliss Berry

Some there be of us who by compulsion or voluntary interest have read the grand thoughts of that kindly philosopher, Ralph Waldo Emerson, and who value him highly. To such, a new book in our library will prove fascinating reading. The book is "The Heart of Emerson's Journals," edited by Bliss Berry.

Emerson, throughout his life kept a series of journals wherein he put down random thoughts, whimsical reflections or recorded incidents which might be of use to him later. Because of the public demand the journals were published in their entirety. They were published in ten volumes. Since then Professor Michand issued, in French a condensation in two volumes. Bliss Perry's single volume condensation is the only one hitherto attempted by one of Emerson's countrymen.

Emerson's Journals contain racy records of local happenings, shrewd comments upon outstanding men, records of his readings and thoughts throughout the years in which one may see the shaping of his mind for the famous essays and orations. Here one may see the valiant voyages of an exploring soul.

Emerson himself called his Journals his Savings Bank, into which went the reserve capital for his hour of need. To one who reads his Journals understandingly the Savings Bank is a mine of golden coins—hundreds and hundreds of them.

For sheer brilliance of tone, for deep and true thinking, for stirring and whimsical touches, we recommend "The Heart of Emerson's Journals".

Here are only a few of the many brilliant bits:

"The world can never be learned by learning all its details."

"Some books leave us free and some books make us free."

"Life consists in what a man is thinking of all day."

"I admire answers to which no answer can be made."

"'Tis curious that Christianity, which is idealism, is sturdily attacked by the idealists."

TENNIS DOPE

Our tennis team was handicapped this year by a rainy season, but in spite of a lack of practice they have had a good season, winning 4 out of 9 games. They have played some of the best teams in the South.

The season was opened by a 4-2 victory over U. T. Rogers and Coulter in the doubles and Coulter in the singles were the outstanding stars.

A few days later the U. T. team came to Maryville and won a 4-2 victory over the local boys.

Pope of Maryville was the outstanding player of the game.

Just before the Howard game a shift was made in the line-up. Prince replaced Franklin as a regular member of the team.

His playing in the Howard game was very satisfactory. On the Maryville court Howard won a 2-3 victory.

The next game was also lost. State Teachers' College played at Maryville and won by a 2-3 score. Dick Strain, the flashing freshman, was an outstanding player in this game.

At Greeneville, the Maryville team won a 5-1 victory over Tusculum.

Prince and Pope in the doubles were the stars for Maryville.

On the final trip of the season Maryville defeated Tennessee Wesleyan at Athens, Tenn., and lost to Howard College at Birmingham, Ala. In the Tennessee Wesleyan game "Bill' Rogers struck his old stride and helped us win a 3-2 victory. We lost to Howard, in spite of the fact that Prince and Pope played their best double game of the season.

The season will end with the Tennessee Wesleyan game Saturday. When Maryville wins that game Captain Pope will have lead his team to 5 victories out of 10 games.

SENIORS ENJOY OUTING AT McILVAINE'S PLENTY OF FUN AND GOOD EATS

Only one more social function remains for the Seniors to engage in and that is the Senior Hike next Friday.

Yesterday afternoon a jolly crowd of Seniors cast their troubles aside and "trekked" out to McIlvaine's for picnic. Most of the crowd, with four exceptions, had reached the picnic grounds by four o'clock.

Miss Lillian Robinson had charge of the program. She kept the already tired Seniors busy at play. To give the names of some of her games would be telling a secret for she announced no name for most of her games. The most interesting part of the program was a mock class day program. Mr. Walter Buchanan composed and sang, (accompanied at the piano by Mr. Sargis?) the class song. Miss Bland Morrow was the class poet. Her poem, though short, was impressive. Miss Emily Minton gave the class history, singling out Gordon Jeffries as the target for most of her remarks. The Class Day exercises were brought to a close when Mr. Edgar Candler gave the class proprecy He portrayed the class in the dim and distant future. Drawing upon his imagination vividly he disclosed the possibilities of the future. After this was over the better part of the program awaited nearby where a huge bonfire was burning. Ice cream, candy, sandwiches, salad, weiners, coffee (and sure enough sugar and cream) tempted the appetites of all present. As the fire was slowly growing dim and the shades of night were rapidly approaching a campfire singing was enjoyed. Many of the old popular songs were sung and lastly the Alma Mater as each one present pledged anew his loyalty to his Alma Mater.

Then the chaperones, Mr. Griffitts, Misses Gamble, Wilkinson and DeHaven began to round the crowd up for the slow return to college "Hill." It was a tired yet refreshed group that slowly wended its way across the campus to the several dormitories about dark. The last Senior Party was History and the "Swan Song" had almost been sung. Only the last lap of the once long race remains for the Seniors to run and then all that the Class has done will be history.

ATHENIANS TO ELECT OFFICERS

Tonight all loyal Athenians are expected to come out and help in the election of next year's officers. The nominees as selected by the nominating committee are as follows: for president, Courtenay and Cotton; vice-president, Gabbard and Peterson secretary, Holman and Williams; program secretary, Jones, Fell and Driscoll; critics, Marston, Rusk, Morrison and Sharp; treasurer, Cox and Crow; editor, Pierce and Whitman; Sergeant at Arms, Hull, McDowell and Hunter.

We Wish To Thank You

For the business given us this year. To the Seniors we wish you success and happiness. To rest of you, we are looking for you back next year.

THE SENIORS FLOP THEIR WINGS

On a certain Friday morning 84 black birds flapped 168 black wings; on May 31 and June 3, they will flap again; and finally, on June 7 there will be one long flap from those 168 black wings, belonging to the 84 illustrious black birds.

It is appropriate that senior robes are black, for truly we do mourn, though perhaps spasmodically, at leaving our Maryville. That last flap is certainly one of elation as one of farewell. It is for the right to flap that flap that we have sighed, suffered, and slept these four long years.

In actual wing-flapping we have only four opportunities for practice, and those are regarded as our four flaps of farewell. And perhaps even those are symbols of something else—symbols of the soaring of spirit for which our Alma Mater has been training us. Fledglings, we came to college hill; patiently and with infinite wisdom our "Spirit Mother has encouraged our feeble efforts at flight, waiting patiently for broken wings to heal, then pushing us off the ledge of hesitancy or complacent inactivity to try again.

is certainly one at flight, waiting patiently for broken wings to heal, then pushing us of the ledge of hesitancy or complacement inactivity to try again.

At last she has faith in us to push us off on a long flight, a strenuous flight, a flight in which failure is regarded with impatience, and broken wings have little opportunity to heal.

We leave the home nest with reluctance, this flock of 84 called the class of '28. Perhaps away from the training ledge our spirit will not be strong enough to soar. Perhaps instead of soaring, some of us will only flap. Each says, "Perhaps in me the spirit mother has misplaced her trust." The reluctance is short-lived We have tried our wings in four flops. We are young, though not fledgings. The space between heaven and earth is limitless. Our spirit mother watches with eagerness and hope.

And we interpret the the flapping of our 168 black wings: black, to indicate our sorrow at leaving the influences that for four years have been all in all; wings, that mean the spirit free must soar.

GIRLS MYSTICAL

TENNIS TEAM CHOSEN

tested matches, will represent Maryville on the courts this year. The following were chosen. Katherine Gregg, Carol Cushman, Olive Clopton Imogene Crowley, Helen Crowder, Margaret Hayne, Evelyn Sherard, Sophia Masterson, and Mae Masterson. These players have earned their places, and although the team is a mythicial one as far as intercollegiate competition is concerned, it can be said that this is the best team we've had in years.

The girls' champion, however, has not been determined, and as a consequence the above mentioned condidates have continued the tournament. At the time of the writing it narrowed down to the semi-finals; and Evelyn Sherard, Mae Masterson, Imogene Crowley, Sopha Masterson, and Helen Crowder are the remaining contenders. One of these five will be our champion, but as to which one, only time will tell.

Girls have taken a greater intrest in tennis this year than ever before. Of the 1928 team, only two, the Masterson sisters, are seniors. Sophia was the champion of the Hill last Fall, and Mae put up a good fight. Of the seven which remain, there will be excellent material for next year's team. Tennis is beyond a doubt, good wholesome exercise for girls. So let's get out on the courts, you tennis lovers, practice up, and come back next year prepared to make the team.

COLLEGES VOTE FOR HOOVER

Herbert Hoover continues as the presidential favorite in the colleges with Al Smith trailing along as outstanding Democratic choice. Of 2210 ballots cast at the University of Cincinnati, Hoover received 1281, which was 58 percent of all votes cast, and 75 percent of the Republican poll. Smith stood second with 136 votes, which represented 88 percent of the Democratic choice. The Anti-Saloon League might be interested to know that Smith's main support came from the law college. Here Hoover defeated the New York governor by only four votes. Coolidge and Dawes followed the two leaders in the order named. Willis did not fare well with his fellow Ohians, receiving only 32 votes.

At Middlebury College the high men were again Hoover and Smith. Of 529 votes cast, Hoover received 357, and Smith 110. Smith's support came mainly from the men.

On March 19 colleges throughout the country took part in a two-day straw vote on the presidential possibilities. Seventy institutions were represented in this first comprehensive attempt to measure college opinion on the forthcoming nominations. Five Republicans and five Democrats were named on the ballots, although voters were free to write in the names of other choices. Those listed were: Curtis, Dawes, Hoover. Lowden, Willis, Donahey, Reed Ritchie, Smith and Walsh, of Montana.

Stanford University, which has high hopes of becoming Alma Mater of a president, will dedicate its 1928 year-book to its most prominent alumnus, Herbert Hoover.

Y. M. C. A. TOURNAMENT

NEARING CLOSE

The last events of the Y. M. C. A. inter-class athletic tournament are being run off rapidly. John Taggard, the man in charge, seems to be getting in a hurry to get the cup engraved. He has ordered that all tennis matches must be played off immediately so that the big silver cup he is so zealously guarding may be properly inscribed for its first recipients.

The Sophomore—Freshman baseball game which was played yesterday had a rather important influence on the class totals. The sophomores won by dint of a last inning rally, thus raising their total in the contest to twenty-four, four points ahead of their nearest contender, the juniors. The score of this base-ball game was 6-5 in favor of the sophomores, four of the sophomore runs being scored in the last inning. The pitchers were: Watkins for the Soph's, Peters for the freshmen.

This contest includes various sports, the only requirement being that entrants must not be on the regular varsity teams. The sophomores are ahead in basket-ball and swimming; the juniors lead in baseball and track. The score totals at present are as follows: Seniors, 17; juniors, 20; sophomores, 24; freshmen, 14.

The only sport remaining to affect the score is tennis. Matches are being played off daily to decide which class has the best tennis players. Enough matches have not been played to make an accurate fore-cast as to who will come out ahead.

There are still some Fred Hope pledges that have not been paid. Pay up now and avoid the rush.

We understand that Bob Jensen is going to a summer school of music at Salem, North Carolina. We may look forward to some radical changes in his song leading technic next year.

People in the small towns of the country had better be getting out their sales resistance methods and giving them a good polishing up if they hope to save their money this summer. It seems that more and more Maryville fellows devote their time each summer to the spreading of knowledge and literature along the road by selling books. Experienced salesmen like Holman and Bowles say that this is one of the most lucrative summer occupations open to the college man.

It is reported that a man in Carnegie has an annual in which he has asked no one to write. A special committee of the hall which has been appointed to investigate the case reports that so far the investigation would point to the fact that the man in question has abstained from the practice voluntarily. The committee is divided as to whether the man in question should be sent a note of sympathy for his lack of finer feelings or be sent a Carnegie medal, a shoe horn finished in orange and garnet duco, for his sacrificing spirit in not taxing the originality of his fellows by making the regular request, "how about writing in my annual?"

This is about the time of the year whentrunks and suit-cases become regular order of the day. Many a lost artical will be found in the next few days packing makes it necessary to move some of the things heretofore untouched.

Let's see, now, it's only about a hundred days until school begins. Whoopee.

DELEGATES ARRIVE EARLY

Dance Orchestra Tempts Students in Vain

September 10—This morning after the last delicious breakfast at Kinzel Springs Hotel at Sunshine, the group of about fifty Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. officers who had spent the week-end in their annual Fall Conference left in the College truck to return to the Hill.

The Campus began to show some signs of life on Saturday when the students rapidly gathered, crowded hilariously into the truck, and left for the conference place. Dr. Clifford E. Barbour of Knoxville opened the Conference on Saturday night with an inspiring address in which he compared some lives to fresh flowing, life giving springs and other lives to wells that must be slowly filled and laboriously emptied.

The more energetic members of the Conference group were well rewarded when they arose early on Sunday morning and walked up onto a mountain to hear Dr. Hunter urge every one to make a practice of starting each day right, physically, mentally and spiritually. The rest of the morning was

New Teachers on College Faculty

Some members of the Maryville College faculty have recently decided that two can live as cheaply as one, and have set sail upon the blissful sea of matrimony.

Miss Norton and Prof. Queener have been bound together by the ties of marriage. Miss Edwards is now Mrs. Louis Veech, and Miss Bessie Henry has become Mrs. Olin.

Miss Mary Kellar, a graduate of U. T. with a masters degree from Columbia is filling the vacancy left by Prof. Bob Jensen who has joined the Dayton Westminster Choir. Miss Ethel Adkins of Birmingham will take Miss Crawford's place as teacher of piano in the music de-

FACULTY TO GREET AND FEED STUDENTS

This Saturday afternoon at three o'clock the faculty of Maryville College will hold its annual reception on Baidwin lawn. The main idea of the reception is to give new students a chance to meet all the various teachers and professors in the school and to give the older students a chance to renew their acquaintance with the faculty. There are a few new faculty members everyone should meet and all of the old ones are eager to tell you where they spent the summer, ask you if you had a good time, are ready for hard work, etc.

There are five or six faculty members with whom every Freshman and new student will become very well acquainted this year. These are the ones who will teach the classes in which each student finds himself. Outside of this small group, becoming acquainted would be a slow process if it were not for this reception.

Refreshments will be served. This should help bring out the undecided.

Auto Party, Plan For Y. W. Reception

Girls, Old and New, Requested To Be at Gym Saturday at 7, in Knickers

New girls, we are glad you are here. Y. W. C. A. is going to tell you so at a reception Saturday night in the gym at 7:00 o'clock. Come on old girls and bring your little sister with you. Wear your knickers because you're going to enjoy an automobile party. You "auto" have a good time and when you "retire" you'll feel satisfied.

KEEP OFF THE PATHS!

The frequent rains of the summer have been beneficial to the campus and have enabled the grass to remove some of the paths which we made last year. Taken altogether, the Hill appears much better than it did when we left.

Many of the paths we left last Spring were unnecessary. If you walk on the grass, don't pick on one poor defenseless section.

Sarah's Five Simple Rules Solve Numerous Perplexing Problems

It is usual, when three hundred newcomers invade the Hill, for some superior upperclassman to evolve a set of ten commandments which shall be as the law of the Pedes and Mersians, by which heads shall fall and rise. However, we hold to the theorem which is daily proved in Daddy Knapp's classes, that a frog won't swim until put into the water. Therefore, we are placing the freshmen gently in the middle of the placid waters of the lily-pond and are telling them to "Go to it!"

There are several minor details of the swimming process about which we have not the heart to withold our information.

Number One: Buy your chapel seats as quickly as possible. Those nearest to the back are more to be desired than those immediately bordering the platform, as the former allow unlimited facilities for snoring—if one's monitor is deaf.

Number Two: Enter into the annual college seal-hunt with enthusiasm and abandon. An invitation to this exclusive ceremony is the open door to one's success as a good sport and a high-brow and blue-stocking.

Number Three: Do not moonshine. Miss Molly is dead set against the appearance of any more moonshiners on this Hill.

Number Four: Lay in a plentiful supply of midnight oil. One must have something with which to discourage ambitious mosquitoes.

Number Five: Do not take more than four pieces of fried chicken when the plate is passed your way.

In Memory of

FRANCES MARCH

Member of the Class of 1928

Mary Frances March, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Frank March, was born at Cincinnati, Ohio, April 5, 1906. In her infancy her family moved to Walnut, North Carolina, where her father began a period of years devoted to home missions. At the age of twelve, Frances united with the church. In 1922 her residence in Maryville began. She became a member of New Providence Presbyterian Church; studied and taught in its Sabbath School; held in turn most of the offices in Christian Endeavor; kept the nursery during the morning hour of worship; taught in the Battle Branch Mission, and had an active part in the Y. W. C. A. here on the campus. In fact, there seemed no bounds to her eagerness to be of service

In June of this year she graduated, having for two and one half years held assistantships in chemistry. She had taken the Smith-Hughes course in Home Economics and was to teach in Walland. We were confident that her enthusiasm would communicate itself to her pupils, that she would be efficient in the class-room and unconsciously influential in turning young people toward high ideals and standards of purity, of refinement, of Christian fa[illegible] and service.

Her school was to have opened on Monday, September 3rd, but she was taken sick and died the following Friday.

Her sudden taking away startles us into strange questionings, but the fact that she was ever given is a richer proof of love and does more for faith than the problem of her taking away can ever do for doubt.

Glee Singers To Get Early Start

Aspiring New Men Are Urged To Attend Tryout

The preliminary try-out for places on the Maryville College Glee Singers organization will be held during the latter days of next week. Notice is being given this far ahead so that those who aspire to a place on the club will have plenty of time to get in good shape, vocally.

New men have an equal chance to make the club. Since the club success depends on the quality of all the individual voices, it is the duty of men who have made the club in the past year to improve, rather than to sit back, thinking their position secure. This makes it possible for new men of ability to secure a place, even though an older member might be left out thereby. There will probably be vacancies to be filled by from six to ten new men.

The try-out will be conducted in such a way as to determine one's natural musical ability, voice quality and range, and sight-reading ability. Other factors, such as previous singing experience and stage appearance will enter into the selection of members. To have had or to be taking private voice lessons

HERBERT OR ALBERT? STUDENT VOTE COMING

A presidential preference vote is to be taken here on the campus sometime during the coming week. Straw votes are being made extensively throughout the country, especially by the Hearst system of newspapers, and whether or not they provide a reliable source of election fore-casting, their results are read with interest by advocates of both parties.

The result of this Echo preference vote may not materially influence the result of the election, but it will provide a means for measuring the student opinion in regard to the matter. The Echo will conduct no campaign for either nominee. The vote will indicate the preference of students as already formed.

Ballots will be distributed and collected in front of the chapel one morning next week. They may be marked for either Hoover or Smith and then signed by the voter. Cast your vote and help Maryville show her opinion.

Saturday, Pow-wow; Sunday, Dr. Wilson

Y. M. C. A. Offers Attractive Features For All Fellows

Tomorrow night, at seven o'clock every fellow will be found near Bartlett Hall steps. Ask any old student what he is doing there and he'll answer: "I'm going to the big Annual 'Y' Pow Wow." Then one will be told that this night chuck full of fellowship, entertainment, and refreshment is one of the biggest events of the year. New students, old students, the Y. M. C. A. extends to you a most cordial invitation to attend its annual Pow Wod. Every man out at seven o'clock Saturday night, the fifteenth.

Sunday Afternoon

Sunday, at 1:00 p. m. brings our first 'Y' meeting of the year. Our college president, Dr. Wilson, will deliver the principal address of this meeting. Looking over the past history of the school, we find that Dr. Wilson is one of the most capable leaders Maryville has ever graduated. He had the old Maryville spirit in those days and since then this spirit has developed into a love so strong for our school that he has given the best his life has to see this spirit continue in existence. Then one might add that our president is a nationally known man in religious circles as well as an author of note, but these bits of information are not necessary. Hear him speak to us next Sunday at 1:00 P. M. and you will spend an hour in a most profitable and enjoyable way.

FRESHMAN PHOTOS

Sept. 12—Most of the Freshmen and New students had been photographed by noon today. The total number so far photographed stands at 319. Of this number 198 were photographed Tuesday and 121 today. By the time everyone has been "shot" the number will probably stand somewhere over 350.

There was some delay in getting started Tuesday due to camera trouble. This was soon remedied, however, and the work went on until nearly noon.

Successful Team In Preparation

Nine Letter Men Return To Furnish Foundation for New Team

WORK BEGAN WEEK EARLY

Last Year's Scrubs Bent on Making Team

Although September 11 marked the beginning of the collegiate year for most students, some eighteen or twenty men began practicing football exactly one week earlier. The majority of the players reporting for the first workouts were men who have had previous experience under Coach Honaker. The first week was spent in conditioning the men and in teaching the fundamentals of the game.

The squad has been increasing daily since the first of this week and now numbers forty-six men. A few more will be added at the completion of registration and more than fifty men will try for a place on the team.

That many new faces will be seen in the line-up this year is evidenced by the fact that there are only nine letter men returning. Theya are: Capt. Davis, quarterback; Billy Crawford and Hayes Williams, halves; Byrd and Morrison, fullbacks; McDonald, center; Hope, tackle, and Taylor and Harris ends. All of these men have demonstrated their worth, but some new men must be developed to aid them if Maryville is to hold the place she has gained in this sport.

A number of last year's reserves are working hard for places on this years team. "Bulldogs" Storey, Cherry, Goddard, Biggs, Johnson, Morton, Jarvis, Whitehead, Headrick, Peterson, Watkins, and Davis are out again this year. Many of these men very nearly made a varsity letter last season and will probably play a great deal this year.

Newcomers on the squad are linemen Teffeteller, Ferguson, Farr, Murray, Tolliver, French, Kiaser, Vanderslice, Carr, Shields, Gillespie, Martin, Vinsant, Overy, and Brown. The new men trying for a backfield berth are: Vinsant, Calloway, Payne, Durant, Jarvis, Cox, King, Wilson, and Peters. A goodly number of these give promise of

DOC JAILED FOR A NIGHT; WEEK ON ROAD

Thousand Miles On Bike Is One Way to Train for Football, He Says.

Maryville is getting up in the world. One of her students has had the satisfying experience of spending a night in jail. But, then, one would not expect less of a man from Chicago, where bullets are as usual as rain. This notorious Chicagoan, "Doc" Morrison, declares that he never slept better in his life.

The night in jail was only one of a vast number of thrilling occurences during Morrison's lone bicycle ride of a thousand miles from Chicago to Maryville College.

"Pleased to Meet You!"

All of this passing week we have been hearing and saying this polite expression, or its equivalent, over and over again. There is no doubt about our sincerity in repeating it, but an introduction during these first days of school is quite apt not to stick very long. Our memory depends entirely on our mind, and the mind is constantly reminding us of its limitations.

Old students seem to have as hard a time getting acquainted with all the new collegians as the new ones have in learning their classmates and everyone else on the Hill. The new student has the hardest job, however, since nearly all of the college's 750 are strangers to him. Old students find only from 350 to 400 new faces on their return to college.

If the writer were only endowed with a remarkable memory, he would know the face and name of every new student on the Hill. He has seen nearly everyone of them and helped in the photographing of them as they sat behind a card bearing their name. Yet, after photographing about 320, he is not at all sure that he has any advantage over anyone else so far as knowing who's who among the latest arrivals on the campus.

It will be a distinct help to all of us if every new student and every old student will get a card tacked, stuck or tied on his or her room door at once.

Calling a person's name correctly in greeting him is the first step towards making a mutual friendship with him. Important? Well, rather!

Politics At Maryville

Of course there is politics here at Maryville. By this, we refer to politics as it influences our opinion in regard to the coming election. If there is not, there should be. The election of a president of the country should be a matter of concern for every student. If we do not vote in this election, we probably will in the next.

As we are college students, our opinion is more or less respected, at least off of the campus. For that reason, the straw vote which is to be taken next week may do more than indicate the school opinion for the benefit of curious students. The results will be known off the campus and may do its bit in influencing voters to our way of thinking.

We suppose that by now everyone has carefully weighed the merits of the two candidates for president. We suppose that fairness has been given in this estimation to the men's personal ability, experience and ideals. For that reason, the Echo will do no campaigning, at least until after the preference vote has been taken.

When the vote is announced, don't fail to secure a ballot, mark it as you prefer and sign it. This vote should indicate the preference of the ENTIRE student body.

—O—

Why All The Questions?

Thursday, the Freshmen were asked to answer a fairly long list of questions by the Echo. The questions seemed to be of more or less importance, and in fact there were questions of both types.

The questions were of two types. Part of them were designed primarily to find out about the student himself, his record in high school outside of study activities, his ability musically, etc. The rest of the questions were asked to find out things about the Freshman class as a whole. The answers to these questions will be collected, classified and presented in statistical form to the student body. Thus we will have statistics on how the Freshmen are distributed between the two principal political parties, how many already have a definite life work planned, how many have become air-minded by having been up in an airplane, etc.

Information such as this should prove of interest especially to upper classmen. Freshmen are our chief source of interest and amusement for a goodly portion of the year and the more we can find out about them, the better. The statistical issue is coming sometime between now and Christmas. Watch for it!

Lots of new ash cans on the campus. Nice repository for freshmen overnight.

"Boy, I'll tell the world she gave me a wooden look."
"Beam, eh?"
"No—bored."

If you wish for a sudden and violent death, ask a freshman how he enjoyed the English exam.

Miss Molly: (scandalized) Walter Courtenay! Young man, I shall report you.

Walt: Now, Miss Molly, there's nothing to worry about. I'm going out for dramatics, and I'm brushing up on my love scenes.

HIGHLAND FLINGS—

The Dean says that a young child will make swimming movements when held face downward. Try it on some of these freshmen.

We have seen ourselves as others see us. We caught a glimpse of our identification snapshots. Some mug!

Some old—very old—grads are on the Hill. We observe that their motto is, "catch 'em while they're young." Be warned, new girls.

We hope the freshmen got their fill of fried chicken before coming to Maryville. It doesn't grow around here, although there are plenty of spring chickens.

Mr. So-and-So (We forget his regular panhandle), loudly advocates lipstick for women. We suggest that he take the field against Hoover and Smith. He will probably paint the White House ultra-geranium red.

Dr. Hunter has a new car. Nothing has happened to it, as yet, but we're picking out likely looking telephone poles that may later have close acquaintance with it.

Getting a Cum Laude depends on whether you work 'to Be or not to B."

One sweet young thing observed to us last night that she didn't like straw votes—they gave her the hay-fever.

The best seller of the month is "The Truth About the College Seal", by a Freshman.

Ed says somebody misspelled the names when they said, "Adam and Eve". It was originally, he affirms, Ed and Eva.

We're getting to be a real "sassiety" paper with all the wedding announcements.

Which reminds us: Prof. Queener disclosed the fact to us that he and Mrs. Lewis Veech will stage a debate in chapel on the question, "Resolved, that two can live as cheaply as one". Mrs. Veech, when interviewed, said that she was busy gathering data for the negative.

"I don't care to keep that school girl complexion", said the football star as he brushed his coat sleeve.

Clerk: Lipsticks? We have those for $1.00, $1.50, and $2.00.

Customer: Give me the $2.00 one for her. I'm the guy that's got to eat it.

A freshman was heard to carol gaily, "Oh, I just adore college life—particularly the standing in line."

Now you tell one.

Incidentally

——Things are beginning to look familiar again. The Sophomores are feeling pretty chesty about being old students, and the seniors are doing their best to assume an intellectual air.

——And have you noticed the questioning look in the boys' eyes when they see a group of new girls? Or the "come hither, I'm waiting" look in the eyes of the girls?

——It's good to see the couples starting again to improve every shining moment, and to find the choice moonshining places.

——It has been noised about that the boys are sharpening their razors preparatory to assisting Speedy to part with that little baby's eyebrow over his upper lip. It is generally understood that Speedy has one week of grace.

——It makes us homesick to see Inza around, but always with her hat on as if she were just leaving. That hat won't let us forget that Inza—although she is still "our" Inza—no longer belongs to us alone. We're glad that she lives so close, and only hope that she and Linton will not forget us entirely.

——The new girls had better take warning here and now that if they want to fall for one of the professors, it had better not be Professor Queener. And, boys, just because some of us make slips and continue to call the gym teacher "Miss Norton", doesn't prove that she isn't already taken—that's merely what is known as circumstantial evidence.

——Cupid has been doing his worst —or best— indiscriminately with members of the faculty and student body alike. Besides Professor and Mrs. Queener, Miss Edwards, Miss Bessie Henry, and Miss Eleanor Crawford have succumbed to cupid's wily and subtle tricks. They have decided that single blessedness in no way compares with married happiness.

——Lillian Jackson is making the best kind of use of her Smith-Hughes education. She and Percy Rosa have an appartment over in Knoxville.

BARTLETT BASEMENT SUFFERS REVOLUTION

Drastic Changes Being Made in Locker and Shower Equipment.

Maryville has been in need of a modern and conveniently arranged gymnasium locker-room for several years. Within the next two months, Maryville will have gymnasium equipment that will equal that of the best colleges in the country.

Most of the work is being done on the basement floor of Bartlett Hall. The old football dressing room will be an assembly room and a lobby. One half of this dressing room will be dressing quarters for our visiting teams. The regular gym classes will also use this space for dressing.

Six modern showers will be installed. The shower stalls will be eight feet square with six sprays in each stall. The center of the basement floor will have more showers. A new feature will also be in this room,—a drying kiln used for drying the football uniforms each day after practice. This kiln is an up-to-date piece of equipment. Its use will assure our football men that they will not have to work in the same sweat twice.

The space occupied by the old manual training shop is to be converted into a large locker room. Four hundred lockers in this room will be for the use of the boy's gym classes.

Offices for the coaches will be on the basement floor on the the side of Bartlett Hall facing Bartlett Avenue. Each office will have a private bath.

The gym will also be painted on the first and second floors. We will soon have a gymnasium that we can be proud of.

The swimming pool is being repaired. Some steel girders are being put in to reinforce the roof.

We can rest assured that even the smallest detail will be complete with our college engineer as boss. The work will be pushed along as rapidly as possible.

BYRNE DRUG INSTALLS NEW SODA FOUNT

The Byrne Drug Co., so they can better serve the students and the people of Maryville have installed a new and modern soda fount. We want to compliment Dr. Byrne on his progressiveness and efforts in giving us the best of service that can be had.

——Marjorie Bell surprised her Maryville friends when she married Clarence McCorkle of White Pine on August 23rd. The wedding took place in Morristown, and the bride and groom are now making their home in Springvale, Tenn.

——Elizabeth Fischer must have had a hard time deciding which to choose—Maryville College or Knox Williams. Knox had the upper hand, however, since he was right on deck. Although Elizabeth had already bought her railroad ticket to Maryville, she suddenly changed her mind, and was married last Monday evening at six o'clock. We'll miss her like everything.

Then came supper and a sing led by Mary Chris Benn. The crowning event of the Conference was an address by Dr. Wilson in which he called for a closer following of Christ's footsteps.

The team is captained this year by the quarterback, John Davis. "J. D." has been one of the school's best athletes for the past three years. He is a hard worker and has the admiration and cooperation of the entire student body as well as that of the team.

Jimmy Hoyt will manage the team this season. He has commenced in a very business-like manner and will doubtless be of much value to the team and coaches. He will be assisted by Brute Crow and Freshman McCoullogh.

The coaches need no introduction to Maryville students. Head Coach Honaker and line-coach Thrower have been working with the men since the opening practice. "Shorty" McCall has been assisting them for the past few days.

The team as a whole will be somewhat green and inexperienced at the start of the season. It will, however, improve rapidly and should play a better brand of ball with each succeeding game. Do not expect too much at first; but as the Fall days go by "watch Maryville!"

DOC JAILED FOR A NIGHT

When interviewed, Morrison said that the trip was undertaken with a view to getting in shape for the football season. He declared that he never felt better, but that the bicycle was still rather tired from the trip.

Apropos of the jail incident, Morrison said that he was not really arrested, but the sheriff of the town on whose courthouse lawn he had elected to spend the night was such a kind-hearted fellow that he insisted on taking him to a nice place to sleep, which happened to be the jail. "Jail life isn't so bad", concluded Morrison, "you get a free breakfast. Even Pearsons, won't do that."

Becoming a glee singer involves certain responsibilities. There are regular weekly practices which all members are expected to attend regularly. To put on a program properly requires consistent practice.

The advantages of membership are worth working for. An improved voice, the enjoyment of helping in the production of chorus music and trips—these are a few of them. Ask any old member if trips are important.

COMPETENT COACHES CAUSE GRID SUCCESS

Football Tutors Have Much To Offer in The Way of Physical And Mental Training.

It is no cause for comment when a college happens to put out a winning football team, or for that matter, any kind of team that can win a large number of games in a season. Any school can do that once in a while—most schools do. It is not sufficient to startle the sports world that a college occasionally finds within its number, "eleven men tried and true" who can so work together as to cause formidable foes to quit the field with the small end of the score. Even when a small school, with no great reputation, comes through to take a game from a large university, it may be called the "breaks of the game". But when a small college, where no financial inducement is offered to athletes of any kind, regardless of ability, reputation or desirability, turns out, year after year, teams that give every opponent a worthwhile game and win a majority of games played, there must be a reason.

When a school of less than four hundred men puts on the field teams that one year tie the University of Tennessee, beat St. Xavier 28 to 0 the next, hold Kentucky State fo a seven point victory, and then hold up the round end of a 7-0 moral victory over Tennessee, you must admit that your curiosity is aroused.

To satisfy your curiosity about Maryville's outstanding football record, we point you to the "little grey-eyed man of destiny", the mentor of the Highlander's pigskin passers, Coach Lombe Scott Honaker.

Coach Honaker's success as coach of all branches of sports has been remarkable. Athletics have gained their rightful place on the campus under his tutilage. But all this will be realized after a year's time spent watching him take green, untrained men, put them through the mill of intensive training, and turn them into athletes. The only way to really appreciate him is to come in daily contact with him on the field and in the locker room. There you get to know Coach Honaker the man—a man whose philosophy of football will better enable you to play the game of life. Coach Honaker's first thought is to develop men, and incidnetally, football players.

Such phrases as" Don't fumble—better had you died when a pup", "Anybody can be a good loser, it takes a man to be a good winner", —and "Don't swear, it wastes breath", are words that will be sound advice long after you have left College Hill.

Assistant Coach Thrower, who is a graduate of the Honaker school of football, will help whip the line into shape again this year and we don't know anyone better qualified for the job. It will be worth a lot of anybody's time to listen to "Big Bob" talk football as seen from the tackle position of the "Champions of the Appalachians", and see him demonstrate how to "get your man". If you want a little exercise these afternoons, get out on the field with Coach Thrower's bulwarks of the line and see what happens.

So freshman, new students, and those of you who are just in school here, if you can play football, if you like to play football, or think you would like to play football, go out and see what Coach Honaker and his assistant, Coach Thrower can make of you. If it is impossible to make a football player out of you, they will at least make a better man of you. That is the spirit that has placed Maryville in an enviable position in athletic circles.

PEP PARAMOUNT AT CHAPEL WED. NIGHT

Fire Company, Disappearing Quartet, Hot Chorus, Wild Westerners Entertain.

Sept. 12—The pep meeting sponsored tonight by the Y. W. C. A. and the Y. M. C. A. was thoroughly enjoyed by all the students who attended, judging from the heartiness with which they joined in the yells and the applause which followed each of the stunts put on by the four literary societies.

After singing the Pep Song and the Alma Mater, the old Howie How was given with such vigor that the Chapel rang. The new students soon got into the spirit of the meeting and helped make noise

The Bainonian Literary Society put on the first stunt. A more heroic fire company has never been seen in this part of the country. The rescue of the poor child on the second floor was affected without loss of life, although the cheering throng feared at every moment that the wall would collapse and the whole company would be ouried in the ruins.

The sad fate of the Alpha Sigma quartet moved many to tears, but all rejoiced because the strolling violinist escaped with his life. (It is believed that the kind soul who put the members of the quartet out of their misery thought that there could not be more than four such musicians in town, and consequently had failed to provide himself with ammunition.)

The Athenians came out with the hottest girl show ever staged on the campus. With Miss Cotton as leading lady and Mr. Courtenay as her partner, the show went over with a bang. The gracefulness of the dancers was the admiration of the whole audience. (An expert mathematician sitting on the first row estimated that each "young lady" received not more than eight kicks from her companions.

Theta Epsilon staged a "Wild West" play such as we have not been privileged to see for many days. The fierceness of the Indians, the bravery of the cowboy, and the sacrifice of the heroine left the audience in a state of mingled emotions, not knowing whether to laugh or cry.

New girls, as you wander about over the campus you will see Theta posters on trees and posts and everywhere. We are trying to tell you by these posters that we are glad you are here. Theta welcomes every new girl. We are delighted to have you in our college family and we want you to feel at home. We want to help you through the first trying days of home sickness, matriculation, book lines and all of the other ordeals. We hope that you will feel free to ask us to help you at any time. Again, we welcome all new girls! Don't forget to watch the posters, for Theta has some pleasant surprises in store for you.

Bainonian

Are you trying to locate someone whom you do not know? Is there something you need which you don't know how to get? Do you want to know where certain classrooms and certain teachers are?

Here's where to find out—BAINONIAN is eager to help the new girls in any way she can, so don't hesitate to take advantage of her hospitality. By some quirk of human nature we all like to have nice things done for us and Bainonian has the reputation of doing just those things for the freshmen each year.

Bainonian is the oldest literary society on the hill, and after looking over the freshmen ranks and seeing the fine possibilities there, she is expecting a bigger and better year than ever before.

"No, I'm not married yet. I'm the most single man on the Hill"—Professor Griffitts.

"The swimming pool will be open next week and we're looking forward to a big season. I attended the State Y. M. C. A. Convention at Delaware, Ohio and visited the Ohio Wesleyan University. While there I received new ideas on improvements in heating and sanitary conditions for our own pool."—Jack Coughlin.

"The old girls have a great responsibility in being a good example to the new girls and helping them to get the right start in college."—Mrs. Snodgrass.

"Next week is Bainonian week, and to make it a success, it is absolutely necessary to have the cooperation of every old Bainonian. We want to do our very utmost in giving the new girls a hearty welcome."—Mary Chris Benn.

"Say, have you seen that good-looking girl with dark curly hair and sparkling bright eyes. I've forgotten her name, but she certainly is a wow!"—Almost any new boy.

"Are you absolutely sure that these girls will eat at your table, and not go back on you at the last minute? I can't possibly let you have the table unless you are sure."—Miss Darby.

DRUG STORE FIRE DOES $20,000 DAMAGE FRIDAY

A fire of undetermined origin in Badgett-Costner Drug Store early Friday morning did damage that is estimated at $20,000. The fire was discovered by the baker at the Maryville Bakery who noticed the smoke and blaze when he came to work. The fire department responded promptly and did excellent work, but the entire prescription department was burned out, and smoke and water had ruined the stock in the front of the store.

An inventory is being taken of the stock, and damage to the fixtures is being estimated. As soon as it is physically possible the store will be reconditioned, new stock put in, and fixtures replaced where necessary, so the store may resume with the minimum delay.

It is thought the fire originated from crossed electric wires.

CHAPEL REDECORATED

All old students were happily surprised to find that the interior of the chapel has been redecorated during our absence. Money could hardly have been spent to better advantage on the Hill, for the chapel is usually the first building seen by visitors, and we all spend, in four years, several weeks of our college lives in it.

The walls and ceiling, tinted a rich cream, and trimmed with gold, make a pleasing appearance and the light colors reflect the light well, giving the auditorium an airy tone. The dark oak window frames stand out in contrast to the walls.

The floor has also been repainted the former color being used again on the main part and varnish on the platform.

SENIORS HEAR FRESHMAN ADVICE

This Friday morning every student was allowed to hear Dr. Hunter's address to the Freshmen concerning extra-curricula activities, what they are, how much time they should take, etc. This address was made open to the school by courtesy of the Freshmen, according to Dr. Wilson.

ALUMNI JUSTICE

There have been complaints at times by the alumni that they do not get their names in the paper often enough. They want to read more about the fellows and girls that walked the campus when they were here. There is reason for their complaint. The Echo this year will contain more of such news each week; in addition a special alumni issue is coming soon.

This special issue will contain a directory of all of last year's graduates, so far as addresses are known. Other special features are being planned to make this issue as interesting as possible to the alumni in particular.

Alumni news is not abundant in this first issue, but this is due chiefly to the fact that the staff is working under difficulties this week. Several members are not here to help with the work. It is hoped that everything will be in better shape soon.

WHO'S WHO ON THE HILL

The Y. M. C. A. distributed cards this morning which bear this important information on their faces. New students will do well to stick them up about their walls for awhile, at least.

A blank space is left for the name of the Freshman president. This is a space that the Freshmen class will soon have to fill.

HIGHLANDER ELEVEN DEFEATED 13-6 BY TENNESSEE WESLEYAN IN OPENER

Maryville Starts Rally too Late to Change Outcome, But Looks Good.

September 22— The Highlanders failed to stop "Pinky" Walden, flashy Wesleyan quarter, in two sensational runs, and lost a hard fought game here this afternoon. Maryville's aerial attack in the fourth period counted for one touchdown, but the pistol cut short her hopes of another.

With Maryville trying to wipe out an old score, and Tennessee Wesleyan anxious to repeat last year's performance, tension ran high as the whistle blew for the initial gridiron contest of the season.

Wesleyan booted the pigskin out of bounds the first time, but the second time it fell into the hands of "Tillie" Bird, who returned it for a good gain.

The local lads did not seem to be able to find a leak in the visitors' defense, and before the end of the first quarter, had watched "Pinky" romp thru their ranks for a 7 point lead. Maryville then settled down to real football and was never in danger during the second quarter.

At the beginning of the second half, Wesleyan opened up with a barrage of overhead plays which netted them a couple of good gains, "Pinky" nabbing a few petty passes, but being unable to score. Thomas carried the ball over for the score of 13-0.

The Highlanders bent every effort to take the ball up the field in the last quarter, Lee Calloway, Freshman highlight throwing three passes which were picked from the air for substantial gains. On the last pass, Davis stepped across the goal line for the only tally of the home team.

With but a few minutes to play, and with Maryville's rooters in a frenzy of expectation, the Highlanders failed to utilize the time to advantage and lost the ball to the invaders just before the final whistle which left the score 13-6.

Bainonian Week Chuck Full of Attractions: Bell Hops, Hobos, Fashions

New girls we hope you have enjoyed Bainonian week as much as we have. It started off with a bang last Monday afternoon at the opening of Bainonian Hotel, which was celebrated by an elaborate Bell Hop Tea.

Wednesday afternoon at 4:00 the campus was suddenly infested by swarms of hobos in most outlandish costumes. These poor unfortunates received a rather cool reception at Pearsons' dining hall, but otherwise the Maryville people were very kind to them.

Thursday afternoon from 5:00 until 6:00 Bainonian was at home to the new girls in Bainonian Hall.

Friday afternoon Bainonian held the formal opening of the Bainon-

Class of '28 to Give New Memorial Gateway

The Class of 1928 intends to build an ornamental gateway at the Bartlett Avenue entrance to the College grounds in the near future. As soon as the money which was subscribed is paid, work will begin on it. The secretary of the class is now endeavoring to collect the pledges.

It is the desire of the class to leave a memorial which will be beautiful as well as useful. The college authorities figure that the work will cost from $1500 to $2000. The amount subscribed by the members of last year's class is somewhat less than the necessary sum, but another class has left a fund which will probably be applied on this work.

Watch for Freshman Cheering Section.

Herbert Hoover, Maryville's Choice

Herbert Hoover, the republican candidate, was born in West Branch, Iowa. He received his degree in engineering at Leland Stanford University in 1895 and has since been honored by twenty-seven other universities. He held the position of Food Conservator during President Wilson's term.

Hoover Receives 400 Vote Majority in Echo Preference Vote Friday

545 Votes Polled by Hoover in Vote Open for Students And Faculty.

OVER 700 VOTES CAST

Men and Women Represented Equally in 145 Votes for Smith.

September 21—Out of 690 legitimate votes cast in the Highland Echo straw vote this morning, 545 were for Herbert Hoover and 145 were for Alfred Smith. This gives Hoover a majority of 400 votes or a percentage of 78.9% of all legitimate votes cast.

Six voters marked their ballots saying that neither candidate was worthy of their preference. Of six ballots dropped in without signatures, five were for Hoover and one for Smith, These twelve ballots were not counted, of course.

In order to investigate the minority vote, the ballots were counted to find how many votes were cast for Smith by the ladies and the gentlemen of the campus, respectively. The responsibility was found to be about equal: of the 145 Smith votes, 74 were cast by boys and 73 by girls. A committee may be appointed to see if this is a frame-up of moonshining couples.

Twenty-Five Men Begin Work on Fall Concert

Famous Songs and Choruses to Feature New Club's First Home Concert.

September 18—at a meeting of the old members of the Glee Club tonight it was decided to begin work at once on a Fall concert to be given with the aid of a chorus of girls. This concert will feature songs and choruses from operas, operettas, and musical plays. Such justly famous songs as "The Soldiers' Chorus" from Faust, "The Anvil Chorus" from Il Trovatore, and "The Italian Street Song" from Naughty Marietta will probably be used in this program.

This will not be a "high-brow" program full of music too deep for popular approval. The songs that will be used have made themselves famous through their popular appeal. It is planned to present these numbers with appropriate scenery and lighting effects. Work will begin on the songs for this program as soon as the music arrives.

Preliminary Tryouts Held

September 20—Twenty-five men have been temporarily selected as members of the Maryville Glee Singers. Within the next two or three weeks the number will be cut down to twenty men.

The men selected from this preliminary tryout are as follows: Vaughn, Bowles, Lawson, Courtenay, Matthews, Cotton, McCool, Holman, Dance, Anderson, French, Davis, Berry, Duncan, Blair, Wallace, Marston, Shirley, Gilmore, B. Brown, West, Buchanan, Lucas, Hughes, and Shelley.

Competition was strong. There were forty-five men who tried out for the club. Probably the keenest competition now will be in the baritone and second tenor sections.

Class of '28 if your addresses are different from that in the Spring catalog, let us know

Girls Lead Boys in Recent English Test

Misses Correll and Voorhees Tie For High Honors.

The English test given to all freshmen during the first week of school has been the subject of some speculation and debate. Some students may have felt that the purpose of the test was to separate the brilliant from the "dumb" students. However, this is not the case. The object of the examination was to classify students according to the preparation which they have received in high school. Realizing the disadvantages under which students work who are not as well prepared as others, the college is trying this year to give to each group of freshmen the particular sort of instruction which that group most needs.

The test given is known as the Cross English Test, Form A. The highest possible score for the test is 187 points. The twelve students who made the highest grades are: Dorothy E. Correll and Lucy A. Voorhees, 170; Anita Ellerbee, 168; Nellie Jo Knight, 167; Bertha L. Allen, Hubert Duncan, and

M. C. Included in Nation-Wide Poll

The presidential preference vote returns given in this issue of the Echo are to become a part of a nation-wide college vote which is being conducted by the College Humor Magazine. News of this extensive college vote has come to us since our announcement last week.

Both candidates are highly interested in determining what the colleges think about them.

Results of the poll will be announced in the College Humor Magazine and in the Highland Echo about the first of November.

AN APOLOGY

Last week in the rush of getting our paper started we left out the advertisement given us by Doc Roy of City Drug Store. We know that the old students wondered why the AD did not appear because the City Drug has always cooperated with us in every way. Of course he wanted to advertise in our paper and we wish to call your attention to the fact that it was an oversight that his ad did not appear in the first issue,—but you will notice that it appears in this issue.

Korean Student at Maryville Plans Return to His Own People

By SARAH MOORE

I found him on the second floor of Anderson, putting away brushes and brooms after the day's work—a short, sturdy fellow with a shock of black hair and twinkling black eyes. His fingers played nervously with a broom handle as he considered my request that he tell me all about himself.

"But there is not much to tell—," he answered in his quick speech that runs the words together and gives added depth and quality to our often-slurred vowels.

But it soon appeared that there was a great deal to tell.

His name is Chung Ryung Kim, and he was born in Kyeng San, Korea. He has attended an American missionary school in Korea, a Japanese college, a Chinese college at Shanghai, Beuna Vista College of Iowa, and is now at Maryville. He speaks five languages, Korean, Japanese, two dialects of Chinese, and English, and is learning French and Spanish.

But Kim's first love is history. He is an ardent student of the subject and hopes to go to Harvard in order to study. "History," he says, "gives you a better conception of the human race. It gives you a better understanding. You see? When you know the history of people you cannot hate them. We need more history!"

"Tell me something of your country, Kim. Isn't Korea rather small? Is it a part of China?"

"No. Korea is Korea. It's history begins with Chinese history, four thousand years ago, but the language and customs are different. It is small when you think of this country. There are twenty million of peoples. They are not educated. Very little. The Japanese do not like us," he explained simply. "We wish to regain our lost freedom, and they do not like it, so they do not want education."

"How, then, did you secure your education?"

"By working."

"What do you intend to do when you are educated?"

"I got lots to do. I must go back to my people."

"Are there any more Koreans in

To The Alumni

We are sending you this issue free. Would you like to keep pace with Maryville during this year, to know each new improvement, to learn her students? As you have noticed we are getting our paper out on Monday, which enables us to keep our football news etc., up-to-date. We are planning on getting out a six column paper in the near future but our subscription rate will remain the same, $1.25. Place your name and address on this cutting and send it to the Echo. We assure you that we will send you our first issue, too. Number four is going to be our Alumni Edition. Would you like to get it?

"U. T.", We're Coming!"

The big event of the pre-Christmas school days is coming this Saturday. To get out of town for even part of a day is a treat for many students, but to see one of the fightingest football games ever fought at the same time, makes it truly an unforgettable day.

As you may read elsewhere in the paper, our team isn't so strong for this game as it has been for certain previous U.T. games, yet it is ready to fight to a finish—with your backing. Probably you new students got a touch of this "Old Maryville Spirit" we hear so much about at the Wesleyan game. Develop that spirit this week and go to Knoxville ready to "show the world" what real college spirit is.

—o—

No, The Echo Isn't Late

Among other plans we came back to M.C. with this Fall was one to change the day for the issual of the Echo. Nearly all of the big games are played at the last of the week. A write-up of a Friday or Saturday game coming out on the following Friday might well be classed as history rather than as news. True, it serves as a permanent record to file away among our souvenirs, but it fails in coming under the class of sport news. By putting out the paper on Monday, the events of the game are still fresh in the reader's mind so that the write-up is of much greater interest.

There are some apparent disadvantages. Club programs will have to be prepared over a week in advance if the coming program is to be printed in the Echo. Yet, this is a disadvantage that may be easily overcome if club program secretaries and editors will cooperate. Last week there was some turmoil among the Bainonians when it was discovered that there would be no Echo on Friday to carry their article for the new girls concerning Bainonian Week. We regret this inconvenience to the Bainonians. We hope that things will soon become adjusted to the new time of issue.

—o—

Hoover Carries Maryville

The straw vote is over and Maryville finds itself practically unanimous in its opinion as to who should be president. Hoover has received a sweeping victory on College Hill. There is no doubt that if all our Smith Sonians (a practically new word) were to get together they could raise a big racket. Yet, Hoover supporters have put through a vote large enough to amend the constitution, if that were their object.

All ballots turned in last Friday morning have been destroyed with due ceremony. Every vote has been transformed into ashes, even down to the last slow-burning ballot for Smith. This information is given for the benefit of several who were somewhat concerned last week about the secrecy of the Echo vote.

A mere majority of four hundred votes will probably not be enough to dampen the ardor of the Smith supporters. We hope it will not. Campaigns come but once in four years so we should make the most of them. Noise is not dependent on numbers. We have seen that demonstrated.

—o—

We Invite Contributions

A rather large number of freshmen expressed their interest in Echo work when the Echo questionaire blanks were signed. The Echo is interested in getting in touch with such students, but must leave the introduction largely to the individual. The process by which new students are worked onto the staff will be discussed in a later issue of the paper. It is possible, however, for new students to be getting a start now.

Studying the methods of the journalist will be helpful. There are books in the library on the subject which will help you. The Echo box is ever ready to receive and transfer worthy material into printers' ink. Highland Flings are always welcome, items for the "Incidentally" column are equally well received. Short news items which others have missed will help us to get acquainted. Sign your contribution, of course.

—o—

HIGHLAND FLINGS—

Stump Speaker: (furiously) I have been standing on my feet for ten minutes, and there is so much confusion I cannot hear myself speak.

Voice from rear: Cheer up, old chap, you ain't missing much.

This one is too good to keep. The Dean told it in class last week, but we're passing it on to the Dear Public.

A little boy was told by his guardians, an old maid and an equally old bachelor brother, that his Satanic Majesty would punish him for misdeeds. One day the little boy buried a slip of paper in the garden. The two guardians unearthed it. It read:

"Dear Devil—Come and get me quick."

Miss Jewell wishes to give a Terrible Example of an answer given last year, in a test in American history. She hopes that the incoming sophomores will take warning. The following information was handed in:

"General Braddock was killed in the Revolutionary War. He had three horses shot under him and a fourth went through his clothes."

Have you seen Bob Dance's new plaid shirt? He says he's advocating equal rights for men in the matter of color.

We've seen hobos before this time, but we've never seen such queer looking specimens as appeared on the campus last Wednesday.

She: I'm sure I've seen your picture somewhere. Aren't you in the movies?

Morgan: Well, not yet. But I pose for eyeglass ads.

The girls in English 18 raised the question as to whether a date can properly be termed "hot". Somebody ought to show the poor things.

Peg: And, my dear, her new boy friend is a Scotchman!

Meg: Really! How does he treat her?

Peg: Very reluctantly.

"That is one person who agrees with me", said the cannibal.

Some freshmen think an intelligence test is a physical examination.

Miss Heron: Is U a consonant?
Freshie: No, I'm a boy.

Why not try counter-suggestion on the jay walkers and tell them to stay ON the grass?

Dumbell: (at the game) Did you see that player kick off?
Dumdora: No! Is he dead?

Yes, Maryville is just one big family. Still, aren't some of the brothers and sisters mighty affectionate?

Prof: Have you an excuse for absence?
Stude: No, but if you'll tell me when it was I'll get one.

CURRENT CAMPUS COMMENT

"And now I have talked thirty minutes on the use of the library, and only one minute on its abuse. Let's make the percentage better still by having 100% use and 0% abuse."—Prof. Ellis.

"You may tell the Registrar that you have a cross History teacher if you like, but if you aren't going to study this year, I wish that you would change your course and not be in my History class."—Miss Jewell.

"Theta Epsilon has a calendar this year which includes events which will please every type of girl. The new girls had better make their plans for the 'Trip Around the World' which Theta is going to give you."—Mary Davenport, Pres.

"Take that temper of yours and direct it against wrong and injustice in your community. Hold up before your pride and ambition worthy objects. Do not attempt to eradicate them, but to discipline and use them."—Dr. Stevenson.

"My classes are getting along very well, I guess. The other morning in the "b" class, however, we were saddened by the absence of Jack Cotton."—Miss Griffes.

Happy Moments

When you're introduced to just about the most gorgeous girl you ever laid eyes on—

And she tells you she ADORES a man who dresses with careful good taste—

And when she remarks how UNUSUALLY good-looking your Florsheim shoes are—say—that's a happy moment you never WILL forget!

There's a certain assurance about the smart style of Florsheim Shoes which somehow is passed on to the man who wears them—wherever he goes. And maybe Florsheim good looks alone won't win a girl's favor, but from what we've been told—they certainly do help!

PEP MEETING OPENS COMMITTEE CAMPAIGN

Plans Laid For Systematic Organization of Pep at Coming Games.

September 20—The big pep meeting held in the chapel tonight marked the opening of an extensive campaign for more whole-hearted support of the college athletics. Tonight's meeting opened with the pep song and a big "Howie How", followed by the Alma Mater and several rousing yells. A new song was introduced by Cotton, French, Holman, and Courtenay. Merlin Usner, a former yell leader of Maryville, led in a few yells as an introduction to the feature of the evening, Coach Honaker's brief (?) talk on the fundamental principles of football.

This pep meeting is the first of many interesting events planned by the Pep Committee to stir up interest in the coming games. The Pep Committee consists of Professor Howell, faculty representative, Ed Driscoll, chairman, Jesse Peirce, Marion Johnson, Mary Davenport, Fronie French, Francis Courtner, "Brute" Crow, and Travis Hitt. This committee is the backbone of all pep activities.

Each class is to be responsible for a game. The Junior Class is in charge this week. All plans, however, point to the great game of the season, the game with U. T., which will be preceded by a roof raising meeting on Friday night, September 28.

Within the next few days the cheer leaders for the year will be elected, new yells and songs will be introduced, and very soon a real live band will be organized by Miss Butcher.

The Pep Committee, with the earnest support of every student, will help make the team a winning one.

The appearance of the Maryville aggregation in their first fray of the year made their supporters confident that the game in Knoxville will be something to write home about.

PHOTOGRAPHIC CONTEST ANNOUNCED BY ANNUAL

In order to adequately mirror college and student life, an annual must have a number of representative photographs. To obtain these the Chilhowean staff has decided to conduct a contest for the best photographs with a useful prize to be given to the winner. For particulars see "Doc" Morrison. Should you freshmen aspirants be unacquainted with him ask Lutie Toole for an exact description.

Incidentally

——The Snap on Baldwin lawn went over big the other night, although some of the girls did say that they had never run after a boy, and they weren't going to begin now.

——Things are pepping up more and more now that the football season has begun. Some of the boys have begun again that old threat of not shaving until Maryville wins a game. It won't be long now, though.

——Lucy Horton came back last week-end to look the school over, and to assert her freedom from rules by driving around on the campus. It must be great.

——The Y. W. reading room makes a very pleasant place to spend the afternoon. It's just like home, with comfortable chairs, good books, current magazines, a piano, and a victrola.

——The tennis courts were just being smoothed over and lined when along came a deluge of rain. If winter doesn't come, the fall tennis tournaments will begin soon, and all tennis players should enter.

——The students file out of chapel with smiling faces, and marching in time with the music, which Miss Adkins, a member of the music department, plays. And all during the day, the cheerful strains of the "Glow-Worm" are whistled or sung all over the campus. It seems to be very popular.

——Speaking of misplaced baggage, what is this about Ed Buchanan's suit case? It seems that it was sent up North somewhere to Algy Sutton.

——Another freshman started off from the book store with an armful of books, having neglected to pay for them. When gently requested for the money, he was chagrined to discover that the bills he had paid to Mr. Proffitt did not include the rental of books. It IS a sad life, isn't it?

——Warning to the freshmen: It's very bad form to break up a game of Snap once you have started, and will not make you very popular with the couple who are waiting for your return. Let your conscience be your guide.

Highlanders Lack Experienced Men As They Face Vols In Knoxville

Tennessee Not the Team It Was Last Year; Coach Confident Scoring Will Be Small

As the time approaches for Maryville to meet her ancient foe, the University of Tennessee, everyone realizes that the places of Stone, Gann, G. Crawford, M. Dunn and Sneed wil be hard to fill. But the unexpected aching voids left by such men as Clemens, Proffitt, Hunt and Gene Dunn, who failed to return, are especially hard on our team. The football men realize this as much as anyone else and they are doing their best to get in shape to present a formidable front to U. T. assault.

Several of last year's luminaries are exhibiting excellent form in the backfield, namely Captain Davis, Williams, Bird, Crawford and Morrison. The linemen of old are Taylor, Hope, Harris and McDonald, and will no doubt serve as strongholds in Saturday's game.

A lot of last year's scrubs are going to see active service on the varsity this year. "Red" Johnson, Storey, Whitehead and Taggart are among those who are crashing through with some real football.

It is a bit early to foretell just what the new men will do, but at the present time Lee Calloway, a product of Maryville High, Gillespie, Durant, Toliver, Overly and Payne must be easy on Coaches' football eyes, for they seem to be picking up the game creditably.

Several injuries are reported, but, much as we may need an alibi, they will not seriously interfere with the U. T. encounter.

There is no use trying to make ourselves believe that we have the football team that we sent against U. T. last year, because we haven't got it, that's all. Our men lack the experience that made last year's team hold U. T. 7 to 0. This fact in itself discomforting, would be more so if U. T.'s aggregation compared favorably with last year's but it doesn't. They are good enough however, to beat us by a big score if we don't stay in there and fight every minute of the game. Coach Honaker is never prone to make rash statements concerning the showing of the team, and he is even more conservative than usual in his comments on our chances against U. T.

All of which may or may not mean anything. Coach says that if U. T. scores they'll have to work for it, and he is confident that the score will not be large.

There is one thing we are sure of, and that is, that no matter what kind of football team goes to Knoxville on Saturday, the student body will be the same cheering, enthusiastic crowd that year after year has made Maryville play super-human football against Tennessee. When the student body leaves for Knoxville, it will raise that old battle cry of "Beat U. T!"

Maryville Songs Everyone Should Learn

DEAR OLD MARYVILLE

Near Chilhowee's mountain blue,
Stands our Alma Mater true,
Dear old Maryville, to thee we lift our song,
'Neath thy cedar grove so fair,
We shall breathe the mountain air,
While with merry hearts the chorus we prolong.

CHORUS

Sing we a song of our dear old college home,
Fondly we love thee still;
And wherever we may be,
Fond mem'ry turns to thee,—
Our Alma Mater, dear old Maryville.

Highland Fling

We come from Maryville
To show that college hill
Can hold her own in any game.
Our fighting Highlanders
Can set a pace that stirs
The hearts of loyal sons of Chilhowee.
We're going to hit that line,
We're going to score this time,
We'll fight to win for old M. C.
When U. T. meets her fate
We'll go and celebrate
Our Alma Mater's victory.

Senior Rings Wrong; Returned to Dealer

September 15—What should have been a joyful event for the seniors today proved to be a sorrowful one when the newly-arrived senior rings were found to be wrongly made by the manufacturer. The class rings were to have had the Maryville seal set on an onyx background, but in some way the seal of some other college was placed on the Maryville rings.

The entire order has been sent back to the dealer who promises to remedy the mistake as soon as possible. It is hoped that the rings will be ready for distribution within the next two weeks.

Bainonian Theatre presents equally fine programs each Saturday night and now that our opening week is over, don't forget us.

the United States at present?"

"Very few. Only two hundred twenty-five."

"Are they, also, going back to help your people?"

Kim stared for a moment, apparently surprised by the very absurdity of the question, then answered emphatically, "Surely! Of course, they go back. My people need us. They need religious education. We will give it to them and help them. But I must study so I can teach them."

Kim went on to speak of his beloved country, his phrases tumbling over each other in his effort to make himself understood quickly, his eyes alert and eager.

As I finally concluded our talk, I wondered if Washington and Lincoln were not somewhat of the same type—sturdy and eager, with the thought ever in their hearts and minds, "My people—I got lots to do."

Athenian Literary Society

Next Saturday, the twenty-ninth, being the day of our U. T.-Maryville game at Knoxville, there will be no regular meeting of the Society. However, when the final whistle has been blown, Athenian men will have done a full day's work for old Maryville. In our teams' line-up Athenian will be represented by such stars as Williams, Morrison and Storey, while on the sidelines, rooting to their utmost, will be found every Athenian not on the team. Fellows, we will meet you at the game where we'll use every bit of available energy to beat U. T. One and all, let's beat U. T.

MIDDLE TENN. CLUB

September 14—The Middle Tennessee Club had its first meeting tonight in Pearsons'. There were twenty-three present. The election of officers for the coming year was held. The officers are:

Edward Sprouse - - President
Frances Cortner - - Vice-President
Fancher Smartt - - Secretary
Mark Dance - - - Treasurer
Travis Hitt - - - - Editor

There are others in school who should be in our club. They are urged to attend the next meeting and get acquainted with the others of their section.

COURT IMPROVEMENTS COMING, BROWNIE SAYS

Enthusiastic "Racqueteers" will be glad to know that work is progressing rapidly on the tennis courts. Mr. Brown, under whose supervision the net areas are being conditioned, promises to have them rolled and lined by Monday afternoon. This is encouraging, If ideal weather continues they will be much in demand.

The courts are in need of backstops again this year and they be furnished with these time savers as soon as possible.

Pope, captain of the net men, sees a good season ahead. A few old men with quite a sprinkling of aspiring yearlings bespeak interest in tennis surpassing that of other years.

Tennis is a good game and Maryville has some good courts—what more could a man want. Ready? Serve!

PIANO-TUNER TO SOOTHE OUTRAGED MUSICAL EARS

Sept. 19—The piano tuner is making his rounds. The two pianos in the chapel auditorium were tuned today, and it is hoped that by next week all those in the chapel basement will have been tuned also. This certainly must be of great interest not only to the pupils in the music department but to all the students, for it should make a difference in the music at the chapel services.

KNOXVILLE CLUB

September 19—The Knoxville Club held its first meeting tonight in the Bainonian hall. Officers for the year are: Mary Elizabeth Deaderick, president; Jimmie Cox, secretary and treasurer.

Students eligible for the club are requested to give their names to Jimmie Cox immediately.

Freshmen Meet For Pep Purposes Then Consider Officers

Nominating Committee Meets And Decides on Possible Men for President.

On Tuesday night, at the suggestion of the Student Council, the freshman class met in the chapel. After the class was led in a few of the college yells, an accordion solo was rendered by Lloyd Cipra and a vocal solo by Ann Rob Smartt. The students sang several popular songs, Elsie Slader acting as pianist and Paul Edris as song leader. Ed Driscoll and Jesse Peirce talked about a freshman cheering section for Maryville at the games this year. A number of the freshmen whom the cheer leaders thought were peppy were selected to make up this group. They will form the letter M and will be the center of cheering.

The question of nomination of officers came up, and after much discussion it was decided to appoint a nominating committee to select possible candidates for the various officers of the class.

September 27—Tonight a nominating committee, previously chosen by the freshman class, selected the following men as nominees for the office of president of the freshman class: Paul Edris, Lee Calloway, Ralph Teffeteller, and Lawrence Somers. Nominees for the other offices will be selected at an early meeting of the committee and the officers will be elected by the class from among the nominees.

Nu Gamma Groups To Conduct Y. W. Program

The Y. W. C. A. program next Sunday will be in charge of the various Nu Gamma Sigma groups. This fact assures everyone that the program will be well worth-while. New girls are especially invited to come and help us make this a big year for the Y. W.

Dr. Rodgers taught Bible at the Presbyterian Summer Training School in Wooster, Ohio during the summer.

ALUMNI ISSUE

Next week it is our plan to feature news concerning Maryville alumni. There will be letters from various members of last year's graduating class, providing they get their letters in soon enough. Prof. Bob Jensen of Glee Club, Echo, and Psychology fame will give his solution for this moonshining problem.

Present addresses of the class of '28 will be given if they are different from that given in the catalog, in so far as we are able to obtain the new adresses. Members of the three upper classes will find more of interest in this issue than the new students. Bear with us freshmen, you may be alumni, bye and bye.

Midwinter Order of Presentation Given

Specific Plays To Be Worked on Not Yet Chosen

The dates for the presentation of the annual midwinters by the literary societies have not yet been set although the order of presentation has been determined. The Bainonian and Alpha Sigma plays will come before Christmas, while those of Theta Epsilon and Athenian will be presented after the holidays.

None of the societies has as yet decided upon the play to be given but committees are at work planning for them. It is no easy task to select a play which will meet all the requirements of the societies. Suitable new plays seem unusually scarce this year, but we can rest assured that the best ones obtainable will be given.

HIGHLANDERS NO MATCH FOR STRONG VOLUNTEER ELEVEN

U. T. Runs Up 41 Points To Blank Maryville Before Record Crowd. Interesting Game Despite Big Score.

September 29— Unable to stem the tide of the U. T. backs, Maryville's grid men found themselves on the circular end of a 41 to 0 score when the final whistle blew. The Highlanders showed a lot of fight, but were outclassed by the enemy.

The big game had been played, and the Maryville crowd turned homeward with the feeling that they had watched a good team go down to defeat. Although not entirely squelched by the loss of the game, the students evinced the sting that the defeat had left by leaving the streets of Maryville undisturbed by their shouts when the special train came in from Knoxville.

Maryville held her own with U. T. in the early part of the game. The Highlander line charged fast and the elusive backs of Tennessee had no chance to get started. U. T. scored first when the first quarter was almost over. They scored again in the second period on a long pass.

During this first half Maryville performed in a most pleasing manner. Although U. T. scored twice there were sparkling bits of defensive play by Maryville men which indicate that our team has improved considerably since the first game of the season.

In the third quarter Tennessee's strong offensive game began to function perfectly and the Scotties could not stop them until 21 points had been scored. Tennessee made an additional touchdown in the final quarter to bring the score to the overwhelming count of 41 to 0.

In the last half Maryville uncorked an offensive game which netted five first downs. Eight passes were attempted by our team and five of them were completed. Bird gained 11 yards on a fake end run. Calloway gained 8 yards on a line

Night Club, Final Feature In Theta Week Here, Tonight

Past Week Witnessed World Tour, Shubert Tea, and Famous Three R's.

New girls, we cannot begin to tell you how much we appreciate the splendid co-operation you have given us during the past week. You have made our hearts warm and you cannot know what a pleasure it was to plan a whole week of surprises for you.

Monday afternoon from 3:00 until 5:00, Theta offered the new girls a tour of the world. The customs of the Spanish senorita, the Dutchman, the Chinaman, the Indian, the African, and the American were observed. Although different in many respects, each was exceedingly hospitable. We liked beer and chili and jungle-grown bananas.

Wednesday afternoon from 3:30 until 5:30 Theta sponsored a Shubert tea in Theta Hall. Many selections by Shubert were played. Senorita Gruchy sang "Who is Sylvia" and Miss Griffes sang "The Serenade".

On Friday afternoon Theta unlocked the door to the "dear old golden rule days" when "readin' an' writin' an' 'rithmetic were taught to the tune of a hickory stick." There were the sly courtships of those days. The stick candy and lemonade were the crowning effects.

Tonight, October 1, we are concluding our week's programs with the "Blue Diamond Night Club". Girls, old and new, you cannot afford to miss this. Come out and watch the clowns and experience some real thrills. If the weather is fair we will see you on Baldwin lawn; if not, meet us in the Gymnasium.

Maybe You Know It, But—

Ben Blackburn who graduated at Maryville in 1927 is coaching and teaching science in Jefferson City High School, Tenn.

Roy Taylor, a graduate of Maryville is teaching at Oliver Springs.

Robert Harvey, Jr., member of the class of '27, and Katherine Lee Franklin, of the class of '26 were recently married and are now living in Chicago.

Ralph E. McConnell, a former student at Maryville was married during the summer to Miss Viola Blanche McGinley. Dr. Wilson performed the ceremony.

Edgar Buchanan was married during the summer, and is now living in Asheville, North Carolina, where he will teach in one of the city schools.

Lillian Jackson of the class of '28 and Frank Rosa of the class of '27 were married recently and are now living in Knoxville.

The Honorable Edwin S. Cunningham, American Consul General and Senior Consul of Shanghai, a graduate of Maryville, was honored with an informal birthday party on his sixty-first birthday given by Mr. J. E. Jacobs, American Administrative Consul. The entire foreign and Chinese staffs of the Consulate were present. Mr. Cunningham has been an official of the government more than thirty years.

Cold Cash Awaits Contest Shooters

Novelty Stressed As Large Item In Acceptable Annual Snaps.

Camera owners, it may pay you to get out the old snap-shooter and get busy. The Chilhowean contest has begun and will be going on until sometime after Thanksgiving. All pictures accepted for publication will be paid for and there will be special prizes announced later for pictures of particular merit. The picture judged to be best of all submitted will receive the first prize and also be printed in the Highland Echo.

Prints on glossy finish paper are preferred. Pictures a little bit out of the ordinary will stand a better chance for winning a prize. For instance if the wary photographic hunter succeeds in getting a view of some campus celebrity in an unconventional pose, his efforts are likely to be rewarded. Pictures taken at the football games are also highly desirable.

Hand your pictures in to Frank Baker or "Doc" Morrison. If you haven't made any pictures yet for entering in this contest you are urged to do so.

Student Councellors Nearly All Chosen

September 27—The junior and sophomore classes met today and elected their representatives for the year in the student council.

The senior girls elected are: Watkins, Sherrod, Miller and Smartt. The senior boys are: Gabbard, Holman, Thompson and Cotton.

Junior girls elected are: Johnson, Carson and Rhea. Junior boys elected are Sprouse, Whitehead and Baker.

September 28— The sophomore class met today and elected representatives to the student council. The girl representatives are: Hedden and Lowery. The boy representatives are: Hearst and Storey.

MORE VACUUM TO ENTER CHEMISTRY DEPARTMENT

The permanent equipment of the Chemistry Department is soon to be augmented by the addition of a vacuum pump. This pump will fill a great need and will be used principally by students studying organic and household chemistry. It will aid in filtering and distilling, hastening both these processes.

The pump is powered by a one-half horse-power electric motor. It is a compact little machine which will require no attention when in operation. A pressure as low as one half a millimeter can be obtained with it.

When the engineering staff can find time to do the work, the pump and motor will be installed. The entire cost, including the necessary plumbing, will probably be from $250. to $300.

Two Pittsburg Students Spend The Summer Awaiting Lighting Strokes

Six miles this side of Calderwood, at Chilhowee, two young electrical engineers from the Westinghouse Electric Company have been living all summer directly under an electrical power line carrying 154,000 volts. They are hoping all the time that lightning will strike the line nearby so that they can fulfill the purpose of their being there.

These two young men, J. J. Trucano, now taking work at Carnegie Tech, and M. E. Gainder, now working towards a Master's degree in the University of Pittsburg, have been sent to Chilhowee to take charge of equipment worth $35,000. which is designed to study the effect of lightning on an electric power line.

The principal and most expensive instrument is a large cathode ray oscillograph. There is only one other such instrument now in use in the United States in connection with lightning research, and that is also owned by the Westinghouse Company. The cathode ray oscillograph was first used in these experiments in Sweden. The one at Chilhowee is one of the first to be used in this country.

In the oscillograph, a thin stream of cathode rays are shot down through a tube directly by the side of a plate connected with the power line outside. At the base of the tube the rays strike a rapidly revolving film, making a narrow streak thereon. If lightning strikes the line, the ray is deflected for about five millionths of a second, thus making a record of the increase in voltage. From the photographic record, calculations are made concerning the voltage of the lightning surge, and other factors of use to high voltage equipment designers.

Chilhowee was chosen as a location for the station because records show that it usually has a great many summer thunder storms. This summer, however, the station seems to have served as very effective lightning insurance. Only one stroke has been recorded by the apparatus. This stroke caused a surge of 700,000 volts.

Both men are enthusiastic concerning their work and invite students to come out and look over the station and talk over the educational facilities offered by the Westinghouse Company to graduates interested in electrical work.—J.C.C.

Don't Be Fooled; Seniors Aren't All Seniors, Yet

Freshmen, don't let the fact that you asked some dignified senior at the last snap if he was a freshman embarrass you. We realize it is difficult to recognize some seniors for what they are, and now even the faculty has refused to recognize a small group of them as seniors, at least for this semester.

If there is a credit or two missing on the credit side of the student's account, he is not really what he seems to be. Some of the seniors have recently discovered that they would not be allowed senior privileges until next semester on this account. This is one reason why some seniors decided not to attend the party last Tuesday night.

Various methods were tried in the attempt to get permission for those left out to attend the party. The faculty was firm, however, and insisted that the rule be enforced.

Many of those will-be seniors are wearing senior sweaters and will be wearing senior rings. All all of which proves that clothes don't make the man.

Prepare For The Future

"Now is the time for all good freshmen to come to the aid of their memories." The various experiences we now have, the "bull sessions" we enjoy, the games we witness,—all these may be only passing pleasures of the moment. Yet they may furnish material for many happy recollections, if we choose to make it so. Psychology tells us that we cannot recall anything we have learned or experienced unless there is something to associate with the cortically buried material. The preservation of some means of association for use in the future should not be overlooked by college students.

The Chilhowean and the Highland Echo have as one of their major purposes, "The preservation of a bit of Maryville". Aside from these publications there are two more memory aids of a more personal nature we can use. These are the diary and the photograph album.

The keeping of a diary is the cheaper of the two, and for many things, the more satisfactory. It preserves for us not only a likeness of the incidents of the day, but also a bit of our mental attitude in regard to the incidents.

Photographs, dear to many of us now, may be doubly so ten years from now. Any freshman who came to college with a ukulele, but no camera, should try to arrange a trade at once. Snap-shots are of more lasting benefit than music, especially ukulele music. Something will be said about proper care in snap-shooting in a coming issue of the Echo.

U. T. Wins Again

The game Saturday was a heart-breaker for many Maryville students. We went to Knoxville with the feeling that we would probably be beaten, but we didn't count on such a defeat as was dealt to our Highlanders.

Yes, anyone can cheer a winning team, but it takes real spirit to keep up the old pep when everything is going against us. Yet, that is what we did Saturday and the student body is to be commended for doing it so well, at least outwardly. It wasn't lack of fight that caused our teams' defeat, either. Our opponents outplayed us largely because of the inexperience of our team this year.

Little Red Johnson deserves especial praise for the way he pounded into the bulkier University men. Dr. Wilson expressed his admiration for Red's spunk in the prelude to his Sunday School lesson Sunday. Keep it up, Red!

HIGHLAND FLINGS—

He: Let's kiss and make up.
She: If you'll be very careful I won't need to.

Jimmie Cox: (to her) I saw something last night I'll never get over.
She: What?
Jimmie: The moon.

Coach: Went to the movies last week.
Thrower: What ja see?
Coach: "The Noose".
Thrower: Um. What sorta picture?
Coach: Suspense.

"Suit-case" is so thin he could close one eye and pass for a needle.

Fronie: Hurrah! Five dollars for my last story.
Fancher: Who from?
Fronie: The express company—they lost it.

When the boys get through with their football season, they may be able to sympathize with Emmanuel.

Emmanuel, a mule-tender, appeared one morning on crutches.

"Man," exclaimed a friend, "ah thought you was one of de bes' mule-handlers in de business."

"Sho ah is," affirmed Emmanuel, "but we got a mule dis' mornin' dat didn't know mah reppitation."

"My uncle can play the piano by ear."
"That's nothing. My uncle fiddles with his whiskers."

Miss Clemens: What does "cubic" mean?
Her Star Pupil: Cubic is the language spoken by the people in Cuba.

We heard about the sad case of a man who died from hard drink. A cake of ice dropped on his head.

Junior: Is that freshman dumb?
Soph: Say, he's so dumb if you told him when the Seven Years' War started he couldn't tell you when it ended.

Freshman, looking over the city of Maryville: Have any big men ever been born here?
Senior: No, only babies.

"Henceforth, I shall exclude jokes from my Chemistry lectures."—Prof. Griffitts.

——The freshman class had a meeting the other night at which some local talent was displayed and the nominating committee announced. A great many people have said that this is an unusually good-looking freshman class. They ornament the campus well, and from the pep that they have shown, we'll undoubtedly hear from them.

MARYVILLE-KING GAME FRIDAY, 5

PLENTY OF WATER BUT NO SWIMMING, AS YET

Those who have been putting off taking a bath till the pool opens had better procrastinate no longer. On account of the slow progress on the work in Bartlett, the pool will not be open for more than a month.

The pool needs only the water but there are no dressing rooms for the swimmers. The football team is using the pool dressing rooms. Until the dressing rooms in Bartlett are complete and the football squad can make use of them, the pool can not be used. Three cheers for the dormitory showers!

Locker Room Gossip

At certain stages of dressing for football, it looks as if the fellows were trying to steal some of the thunder of the girls by parading around in rainbow track suits.

"J. D." says "Tillie" is changing girls so often because he's looking for one who looks like his former wife.

STONE HITS HEAVILY FOR DETROIT TIGERS

Last Year Graduate Making Rapid Headway in Big League Baseball.

Once again a Maryville College athlete has brought honor to himself and his school. John Stone, captain of last year's grid machine and an outstanding performer on our championship baseball team, is now playing left field for the Detroit Tigers in the American League.

He has held this post for about three weeks. During this time he has been pounding the pills of major league pitchers in much the same manner he used in hitting the curves of college hurlers last season. Every one here knows what that means.

As yet no figures on Stone's batting average are available, but his standing is sure to be near the .400 mark. Sporting News for September 20th states that Stone will probably be a regular fixture in the Tiger outfield next season. If both make the grade, Stone will have another Maryville product as a team mate next year. Arthur "Speedy" Ruble has been purchased from the Seattle club by the Detroit management.

Stone has been instrumental in many Tiger victories. On one occasion he won a game by a home run with two on base and on September 21, he was the deciding factor in his team's victory over the Philadelphia Club. On the latter date he got four hits out of five attempts, including a home run; and scored thrice. Not bad for a college rookie, eh?

Great Mystery

After long and untiring effort Harold Bird met with success in his hunt for Ira Morrison on Shields-Watkins field Saturday. A horse and lantern might have been of some use, for "Iry" was certainly lost!

buck. If we can gain against teams of Tennessee's calibre we are certain to score many touchdowns in our games with the lesser lights.

The score would probably have been much closer had Maryville had the reserve strength that our opponents had. It was very discouraging in that last half for our tired men to have to play a fresh team about every five minutes. And it seemed as though each succeeding team was better than the last.

It would be difficult to pick the stars for Maryville. In the backfield Capt. Davis, Bird and Calloway performed creditably. Johnson, Storey, McDonald and Hope stood out in our line. All in all our team showed itself on improved aggregation and we look forward to victories in our remaining games.

The one thing that kept the Maryville team fighting to the last second, was the fact that the student body never once let down in their cheering for the "boys in orange and garnet". If U.T. didn't respect our showing on the field, they had to admit we had them beaten in the fight on the side lines. The freshman cheering squad was the back bone of the noise, and we hope to have them on hand when the team needs some more encouragement.

KING COLLEGE NEXT TARGET FOR GRID MEN

Quiet Week-end Scheduled at Home; Team Goes to Bristol

Though not trying to be pessimistic, we must admit that the King College game is going to be a stiff one. Anyone who thinks a team can play like our boys did against U. T., and be in as good shape for the next week's contest, has never hit the line with the coveted bit of swine tucked under his arm, nor crouched before U.T.'s onslaught in the line position. It just can't be done.

Coach Honaker will no doubt be a little easier on the fellows this week, due to last week's gruelling, but they will have to work hard to get in shape for the royal fray on Saturday.

So far we have no "dope", which means there is nothing to be upset.

It is hard to tell how many rooters will go to Bristol, but judging from past experience, it is likely that such faces as "Speedy" Mann, Reuben Crawford, Ted Watson, and others will be seen on the list of waterboys, trainers and news-reporters that witness the fray.

Whether or not we go to Bristol we'll want to show the team we are back of them by putting over a big Pep Meeting this week. Let's talk up the game on the campus, and show the boys we expect them to win.

All together now, "Let's dethrone the King!"

"Doc" Morrison is looking for a girl with hair to match his sweater.

We're beginning to wonder where the fire is that Farmer Watkins is always paging.

A glance around the locker room will convince even the skeptical that coach is literally whipping the team into shape. For further details see "Missionary" Hope.

CO-ED ATHELETICS TO GET UNDER WAY SOON

Coach Preparing For Big Season in Archery, Basket-ball, Baseball, Soccer and Track.

Girls! Let's make this Maryville's greatest year for Co-ed sports. Why shouldn't we? The frosh have a lot of good looking material, at least from an athletic view-point, and they proved conclusively that they had the pep last Saturday. Upper classmen are going to have to work hard if they win the cup this year.

Perhaps the new girls wonder what kind of system we use and if any, why. We use the point system—and here's why. In intercollegiate athletics, a girl learns to play only one game,—basketball, while in the point system when a girl finishes the season, she has taken part in about ten different sports.

Last year out of the four hundred girls in school, about half that number took part in athletics, while under the old system, only twenty engaged in any sport.

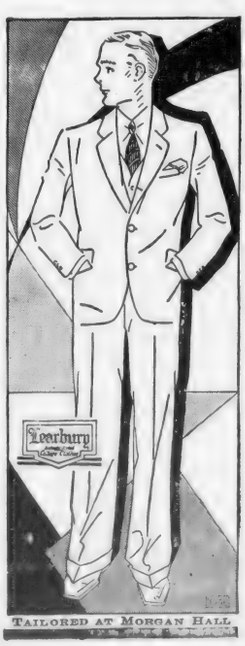
Who wouldn't enjoy such sports as archery? What girl wouldn't like to be quarterback on a soccer team? Volley ball, basketball, baseball, track, swimming, tennis, tumbling and hiking add to the list of sports.

Listen for an announcement in chapel regarding the meeting of girls interested in athletics. Pamphlets will be distributed giving full details of the point system. Read these carefully, and be ready to come out and help your class win.

Incidentally

——Dorothy Bassel went out to Colorado this summer to see how her ancestors, the Cliff-Dwellers, lived. We don't know whether she was successful in finding the exact ancestral home or not, but she saw some very interesting things.

——One of the freshmen asked the other day if these steel boxes around on the campus were mail boxes. We don't advise you to drop your letters to your most cherished sweetheart into them.



——The Maryville Times is trying to steal one of our best staff members, Miss Moore. Of course, we don't blame them for wanting her.

——Frank Baker is reporting our athletic activities to the Knoxville Journal. He is doing great work in putting Maryville sports before the eyes of East Tennessee.

——The junior class made a good beginning at the Tennessee Wesleyan game by decorating the field so artistically. And surely everyone was inspired by the—shall we call it pageant?—which was produced between halves. We're glad to get the tip, and we can all be on the winning side by voting for Will Rogers.

Athenian

For the weekly meeting of the sixth, Athenian Literary Society presents the following program under the direction of the Athenian Theatrical Company:

Andy Gump speaking on "The Present Presidential Possibilities"

Sir Harry Lauder, in person;

Dr. Mayo, leading surgeon of the age, demonstrating a surgical operation with the aid of the "vitaphone";

Greek Athletes showing some famous poses.

This program brings a wonderful opportunity to see and hear these interesting and famous people who will appear in person and on the screen. Athenian extends a hearty invitation to every fellow to be present.

Alpha Sigma

Alpha Sigma this Saturday evening offers a varied and entertaining program. A bulletin board cut out of solid mahogany and an ivory gavel, all presented by Fred Hope, our missionary in Africa, will be dedicated. There will be music designed to please the most exacting tastes, instrumental music, and songs of foreign lands. Provided the team plays at Elizabethton on Friday, Mr. Thrower will have an interesting paper on "Orange and Garnet." The climax to it all will be five minutes of side-splitting mirth, with Sam Broughton as the incentive. New men are urged to attend.

Law Club

The Law Club of Maryville College has been reorganized and the following officers elected:

Naomi Agans - - Vice-President
Almira Alexander - - Secy.-Treas.
Fay Hunter - - - - - Editor

Be loyal to your club—we're going to have a party very soon.

Chattanooga Club

The first meeting of the Chattanooga Club was held last Thursday with eighteen members present. Officers for the coming year were elected and a committee was appointed to make arrangements for a party to be given soon.

The following members will compose the official staff for the coming year:

President - - Mildred Taylor
Vice President - - Evelyn Sherred
Secretary-Treasurer - - - Catherine Copeland
Editor - - - Asa Murphy

Alumni Issue

VOL. 14 MARYVILLE, TENN., MON., OCTOBER 8, 1928 No. 4

Letters from the Alumni

Arthur Still Debating; Also Coaching Young Hopefuls

Spruce Pine, North Carolina,
September 28, 1928.

The Echo, Maryville College,
Maryville, Tennessee.

Dear Maryvillians,

I received a letter from the Editor of the Echo a few days ago asking for a short letter from me telling all about myself. It won't take long to comply with his request.

I have a position in Harris High School, Spruce Pine, N. C. I am in charge of athletics and debating—something of a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde role, you see. We have an excellent school with an enrollment of seven hundred students. Mr. Jason Deyton, a Maryvillian, is the superintendent of the school. The prospects for both athletic and debating teams are very good.

I often think of old Maryville and wish that I could be back on the hill. It is great to be an alumnus of M.C. but it is a still greater thing to be a student. I am keeping up with the work of the Highlanders and I am rooting for them in spirit if not in body.

I suppose that things have changed a lot from last year. What is the Matrimonial Bureau doing for a leader since Prof. Queener embarked upon the sea of matrimony?

Best wishes for a successful year,

Arthur Young.

"Our Nelle" Looks Back Longingly to Old Times

Greenback, Tenn., Oct. 5, 1928.

Greetings to the Student Body!

Are you keeping up the Maryville Spirit in all that you do? That's one thing you can hardly define, but something you miss more than anything when you get out into the world teaching school. Yes, it's that grand old M. C. Spirit.

Teaching is a wonderful occupation, but I believe I would rather be back with you enjoying the good old times again.

Success to everyone.

Nelle Watkins.

Life Not a Bed of Flowers for Graduates, Leland Says

Annville, Kentucky
October 2, 1928

The Highland Echo,
Maryville, Tenn.

Each succeeding year adds to the ever increasing number of Maryville College graduates. And as I am now an alumnus I feel that it is a pleasure and a privilege to write back to the Echo, telling of my work.

Before I say anything concerning myself I wish to say that the student who thinks he will find it easy after his graduation will be sadly disappointed. No work worthy of a Maryville College graduate is easy.

I have a position as Dean of boys at the Annville Institute (Kentucky). But I have found it a combination job. I plan the boys' work, supervise their study at night, coach athletics and also teach History and Physics. My work is extremely confining and I am never free from responsibility. I room in the boys' dormitory and eat at the dining hall, so in that respect, my life here is similar to my college life.

Sincerely, Leland S. McDonald.

P. S.—My present address is Annville Institute, Annville, Kentucky.

America "Gradually Enters" The "Commonest" Profession

332 North Street,
San Antonio, Texas.

Dear Maryvillians:

There isn't much I can tell you about myself. I am gradually entering that commonest of all professions, namely, teaching. I say "gradually entering" because at present I am on probation as a substitute teacher in the city system here in San Antonio. Yesterday the Board offered me a position in one of the Junior High Schools as music teacher, providing I could edit the school paper also and plan the weekly assemblies. I'm eager to do Junior High work, but I hardly think I could handle all that.

We had a Maryville get-together in August. Lena Strawbridge was here as director of the Y. W. Camp; Charles Jones, ex-'28 has a thriving business here. Jane Thrower came in from Lytle. The resident Maryvillians were Mrs. Alura Moore Painter, ex-'21; Martha Fullerton and her brother, who are now in Maryville, and myself.

It's lonesome 'way down here in Texas, but I'm happy to be at home again.—Best wishes to all of you.

Ever sincerely, America Moore.

Elizabeth Has Greatest Trouble Upholding Her Dignity

Lynn Bachman School,
Farner, Tennessee,
September 27, 1928

Dear Echo Staff, other important people on the Hill, and Freshmen,—

I've always heard that change is the order of the universe, and now I'm realizing it. About a year ago I was rushing frantically around, trying to find out who was sick, who had visited whom, etc., for Personals, or racking my poor brain (and the nerves of everyone around) to get up an editorial for Sarah, who insisted that it must be in by Wednesday afternoon. And now, here I am, many miles from the Hill (too many, in fact) writing a letter to the Echo. 'S funny.

This business of being out of school and on one's own is (to use a phrase which makes me hope Dr. Hunter is not censoring this letter) "not so hot." And yet—teaching has its compensations. I'm discovering new ones every day.

As to the drawbacks: I verily believe the worst is being addressed constantly as "Miss Crow" and answered in "Yes ma'am"-s and "No ma'am"-s. Sometimes I get so homesick for a good old "Yeah, Lib," or

Dr. Wilson Wishes To See Equal Classes and Equal Number of Men and Women

There are now seven hundred sixty-six students enrolled in Maryville College, thirty-one of whom are special students and seven hundred thirty-five regulars. There are eighty-nine seniors and Dr. Wilson says he hopes there will be one hundred candidates for graduation by the end of the year.

Dr. Wilson hopes to see the classes become more nearly equalized in numbers and also to see the men and women more nearly equal in number. At present there are three hundred twenty-seven men and four hundred thirty-nine women.

Class Gifts Preserve Memory of Old Grads

Rocks and Clocks at First; Streets and Entrances Mark Progress.

A freshman boy recently had an impressive experience while walking from Carnegie to town. It was raining lustily, causing certain parts of the sidewalk leading to Court Street to be quite slick. This freshman had just about reached Court Street when his rubber heel struck and slipped on one of the brass numbers set at the end of the walk. He sat heavily on the class of '25. Now he not only knows the location of that number, but also has some idea of its import.

For quite a number of years it has been the custom for each graduating class to pledge an amount of money for the improvement of the campus or some such use. Among the first gifts was the clock in the chapel, presented by the class of 1907. The following gives us an idea of what some of the classes are doing or have done.

HIGHLANDERS SHOW IMPROVEMENT IN SWAMPING KING COLLEGE 28-0

Bristol, Va., Oct. 5—(Special to Highland Echo)—Maryville gridders romped over the King goal line four times here today, swamping their royal foes 28-0. The King College representatives played hard, but were outclassed by the Highlanders in every department of the game. Both teams played loosely in the first half, two costly fumbles by King netting Maryville 14 points in the first quarter. In the second half the Kings started a march down the field for three first downs, but the Highland line tightened and the threatening advance was stopped. This was the only time Maryville's goal was in real danger.

Johnson, quarter, Simms, full, and Schwartz guard, were the outstanding performers for the King team. The Johnson to Simms aerial attack was especially effective.

Calloway's continued line plunges were little short of sensational, being good for five yards at a crack. Davis played his usual smooth game at quarter, and picked many of Calloway's offerings from the air for long gains. Bird was more elusive than ever. MacDonald made mistakes out of several of King's center rushes.

All in all, Maryville looked a lot more like a football team at Bristol than it did here two weeks ago.

First Quarter

Maryville kicks to King, who is downed on their 40 yard line. Maryville off sides, King gets first down. Neither side is able to gain, and after an exchange of punts, King fumbles on their 5 yard line. Calloway and Bird put the ball in position for Davis to score on an end run. Davis kicks for 1 point.

Maryville receives ball and Bird gets off a beautiful kick of 55 yards. An exchange of kicks takes place, and Maryville carries the ball thru center for a first down. Then Bird drops back and runs around right end for 20 yards. Davis thru center and Bird around end again, rolls the score up to 14-0.

This time King receives, and Johnson, flashy King quarter, skirts

Road to Vancouver Packed With Thrills In Buck's Trip Home

Little Buck Gets As Much As Possible For The Least Expenditure.

Walter Buchanan, better known as Buck, has bowed to the apparently inevitable and is now teaching school. He did assert some originality, however, by going to Japan to do his teaching.

It required 23 sheets of hotel stationery written on both sides for him to relate a bare outline of his experiences to the editor. In the space of this article much must be left out and only occasional extracts from his letter used.

Buck left the Cotton mansion in northern Ohio during the latter days of July. His ship was to sail from Vancouver, Canada, so he turned his steps toward the West and stood on the North side of the road. His "trunk" consisted of a 50c imitation leather shopping bag with a Maryville pennant conspicuously stuck on the side.

His second day out was his "lucky day". He crossed Indiana, Illinois, and half of Iowa, 460 miles in all. This was during the days just preceding the Tunney-Heeney fight. Buck argued consistently that Tunney was superior both "mentally and fistically", but the Westerners couldn't see it that way until after the fight.

From Denver he went direct to the base of Pike's Peak and since the morning was hot, started up in his shirt sleeves. After about two hours of steady climbing he wanted to stop to rest, but it had gotten so cool that this was impossible without a coat. He kept on and was soon climbing in the rain. As he says, "The rain kept on getting colder and colder until it couldn't get any worse and still be rain. That being the case, it turned to Marryville?

How Often Do Moonshiners Go The Limit? Statistics Afford Facts

Is Maryville College really "Marryville College?" It sometimes seems to live up to that title, but a great many of the college romances end with graduation day. Could the old cedars of this Hill speak what romantic tales they would tell! They have seen generations come and go and the procession of the years brings still more romances. Although many of these are broken up, there are some cases in which the romances of two successive generations have led to the altar.

The exact number of Maryville graduates who have married Maryville students is not known although a record of all the marriages known to the executives of the College is kept. Out of the classes graduating in the last four years, twenty-six of the graduates married either a graduate or an undergraduate of the college. Four graduates married class-mates while the other eighteen married undergraduates.

Alma Mater Composed By Eminent Scientist

Ritchie, '98, Wrote Words; Set To Music By Miss Lula Perine.

The first song to gain any popularity on the Maryville College campus was the song that today is our Alma Mater. It was written by John Woodside Ritchie and set to music by Leila M. Perine, then a teacher of music in the college.

Professor Ritchie was born in Sparta, Ill., on December 6, 1871. In 1898 he graduated from Maryville College, and was instructor in biology here during the term 1899-1900. After taking post graduate work at the University of Chicago, he was with the government school and Forrestry Bureau in the Philippine Islands, and later was Professor of Biology in William and Mary College. Since 1915 he has been science editor of the World Book Company, in Yonkers, N. Y., and for the past few years has been editor of the New World Health Series, New World Science Series, and other science texts. Since his graduation he has written many books on health.

During his college days, Professor Ritchie was especially noted for his humorous snake stories, some of them being published in Orange and Garnet, a magazine of which he was co-editor. He was a brilliant student and took a large part in college activities.

Prof. Ritchie now lives in Flemington, New Jersey.

Larger and Louder Echos

In defiance of Physics or of the temperature, the Echo is going to expand as cooler weather sets in. Echo number five which will be issued on the fifteenth of October will blossom forth with six columns instead of five, each column to be three inches longer than it is now. This is a big step for the Echo and one which we have been planning to make as soon as allowed. The faculty has only recently given its sanction to the enlargement.

CUMBERLAND VOTES

Hoover won in the straw vote held at Cumberland University. His victory was not so overwhelming as that at Maryville, however. The official vote was: Hoover, 66 votes; Smith, 62 votes.

"The sky is the limit", said the student as he slipped on his slicker.

Trip to Vancouver Packed With Thrills In Buck's Trip Home

hail." In four hours and twenty-five minutes he reached the top. Ordinarily, the climb requires from seven to nine hours.

Nearing the Yellowstone Park he came upon the Shoshone Dam. This dam "waters a large part of Wyoming which would otherwise go to the prairie dogs."

One of the first sights he saw in the park was the "Dragon's Mouth", one of the mud geysers. "It spit muddy steam at us periodically and we spit back." The Grand Canyon and Old Faithful Geyser came next.

Buck tried out the "Handkerchief Pool" and was disappointed. "This pool is supposed to take your handkerchief for a few revolutions and bring it up clean. It took mine and brought it up, but not clean. I didn't have much luck ironing it in the iron water either." Having seen many of Buck's hankies, the writer sees nothing strange in this.

One night while sleeping out in the park, Buck was awakened by an inquisitive black bear about six feet away and coming on. "I used all sorts of language before I could convince the old boy that I wasn't a sack of sugar or bacon."

On the way to Ranier Park, Buck left the highway and cut across country. The trail was poorly marked, causing him to become lost. After a day and night with practically nothing to eat, he was found and set right by three boy scouts on the way to the Park. Here he got plenty to eat and a place to sleep. Buck says that Ranier Park "isn't so big, but most of the land stands on edge and they use both sides."

On the next day Buck intended to ascend Mt. Ranier. There were no guides that day and if there had been he could not have used one, since they charge ten dollars per person in a party. Therefore, he set about preparing for a guideless ascent. Everyone told him he was foolish to try it, but of course that made no difference to Buck. That night he slept under nine blankets at Camp Muir, part way up the mountain. He and four Germans set out for the big climb at four A. M.

A biting cold wind soon put out the light in their lantern, causing them to lose the trail and get out upon a steep, icy glacier. The ice was steeper ahead; a deep crevice was a hundred feet behind. In turning to help one of the Germans behind him, Buck slipped. "It's a great feeling to ricochet down a glacier for fifty feet, knowing all the time that there's a crevice fifty feet farther on. The instant I slipped I grabbed the ice axe with both hands, and tried to get a grip with the sharpest point. I must have hit ten times before it caught, and then it was just luck. My lantern kept going into the crevice. It's still there."

Finally, Buck and two of the Germans reached the top. Two had turned back farther down the mountain. On top Buck enjoyed a wonderful view, did a hand-stand and went through a perfect yodel.

Some people contend that coming down the mountain is more dangerous than going up. Buck says not so. "Going up, you have four points of contact,—your two hands and your two feet. Coming down, you have five".

After a little difficulty with the Canadian Border officials, he arrived at Vancouver and enjoyed the extremely cheap prices of food there. Two glasses of buttermilk for a nickel, hot cakes and maple syrup for a dime and a fresh salmon dinner for twenty cents are a few reasons why Vancouver made such a hit with him.

On the 16th of August he boarded the Empress of Asia and "set sail for Japan, China, and all points down". Though holding a third class ticket, he spent most of his time on the first class deck, reading in the lounge, playing the grand piano, etc.

His letter closes, "I've had a couple of little arguments with the officers, but the voyage is practically over now. A day or two, and then—Japan—

"Smoky Bob" Takes Time Out to Drop a Word of Advice

213 N. Robert Blvd.,
Dayton, Ohio

Editor, Highland Echo:—Just received the first issue of the Echo. Strange sensations assail me as I read of the life on the Hill,—the literary society stunts, the Y. M. and Y. W. conferences, the chapel services, the outlook in athletics, and all the rest,—and I go back in memory to years when I was part of it all.

Some day those of you who now participate will know what I mean.

As for myself, the days are too short to get everything done that is expected. The Dayton Westminster Choir School is a wonderful institution, unique, and without an equal in the service it is rendering, so far as I know. For one who is consecrated at once to music and to Christian service, it presents the nearest to the ideal in training that one can find. We have four Maryvillians here now, and I hope the future finds more coming.

Does the old custom still prevail of regarding moonshiners as practically engaged after the second or third date? I remember that there has been considerable discussion about this in past years. Would you consider the suggestion of a mere alumnus in regard to the matter? Let each boy resolve, out of fairness to himself, to have one date with at least ten different girls, two dates with at least five, and three with perhaps two or three before he commits himself in any way to any one of them. With this general understanding, changing dates should cause no embarrassment, and some rather awkward situations later on could be avoided. The figures I give are arbitrary, of course.

Vocal work, piano, violin, theory, orchestra, etc., ad infinitum, are awaiting me, and I must close. I am interested to hear of everything happening at old M. C.

Sincerely, Bob Jensen.

(Editor's note: this department for letters from the alumni will be run from time to time throughout the year. Let us hear from you, old students.)

MARYVILLE MEETS TUSCULUM ON WILSON FIELD FRIDAY, 3:00 P. M.

VICTORY OVER KING GIVES HIGHLANDERS 22 POINTS ON PIONEERS; HONAKER'S GRID MACHINE EXPECTED TO MAKE GOOD SHOWING

MISS BUTCHER'S BOYS SUPPLY PEP AT GAME

Good Music Inspires Team and Spectators in Opening Games.

Did you hear that aggregation of wind-jammers at the U. T. game? And we ask you confidentially, who showed the most enthusiasm at the Tennessee-Wesleyan game? Yes, Maryville has a band that we are proud of.

Miss Butcher, who directs the artists, has been working hard with the boys, and we do not hesitate to say that we have the best band since Harry Banister directed the noise-makers back in '23.

We should let the band know how much we appreciate the support they are giving the team by the music they supply at the games and pep meetings.

The fellows with the sense of syncopation have promised to be on hand at all our home games and rumor has it they may go to Carson-Newman. We hope so!

Captain "J. D." Davis

John Davis, otherwise known as "J.D.", is one of the town's own favorite sons, and made a name for himself in all major sports at Maryville High School in the "good ole days" He is furthering his well earned reputation by starring in baseball, basket-ball and football here. He pilots the grid men this year in his last and best year in college football. It may be interesting to know that "J.D." was born in the town of Maryville about 1907, and attended the local schools. He is 6 feet tall and weighs 155 pounds. He indulges in moonshine, but we understand business of a more legitimate nature is to engage his attention in the future.

Harold Bird

Harold "Tillie" Bird, the handsome town boy, is another product of Blount County. He was born 22 years ago in Townsend, but got his education in Maryville, and his football training at Maryville Polytechnic Institute, under "Bill Joe" Henry's eyes. He played four years with "Poly", receiving the letter award two years. His position was half or quarter. Bird has lettered 3 years at Maryville, and is one of the hardest men on the team to tackle. He weighs 165 pounds, and is 5 feet 10 inches tall. "Tillie" plans to enter business, but will probably do some graduate work first.

Lee Calloway

Another boy we often ask about is Lee Calloway, that hard hitting, strawberry blond freshman. He was born in Maryville and got his schooling here. He played football for four years in high school, earning the "M" three years. Two years Calloway carried the ball from the half-way position, but was pulled back in his senior year to hold down the fullback job. He is only 17 years old, but weighs 175 pounds, which is mighty good for his 5 feet 10 inch height. With four years to stay for the Highlanders we look for a real back. Medicine is Lee's aim in life.

Gymnasium and Field Are Alumni Memorials

The building of the gymnasium used for basketball games and girls' physical training classes is part of the work accomplished by the Alumni and Former Students' Athletic Campaign which was started in 1922. This building, known as the Alumni Gymnasium, was first used in the fall of 1923. The funds for its erection were contributed by the alumni, old students, the students then in college, and by the local post of the American Legion. The cost of the building was about $13,500. It is one hundred and ten feet square, having an excellent maple floor and portable tiers of seats.

Another result of the Alumni Athletic Campaign was the grading of the athletic field which is five hundred feet square, affording ample space for football and baseball fields and a running track.

COLLEGE DIRECTOR DIES

John M. Pitner, a director of Maryville College, died last week from an attack of heart disease. He was at the home of his cousin R. W. Pitner on Sevierville Pike.

Mr. Pitner was elected a director of the college in 1923, and has given most careful attention to the interests of the College.

Mr. Pitner was one of the organizers of the D. M. Rose Lumber Company at Knoxville, and has been associated with that company for fifty-one years.

MARYVILLE MEN WHO MADE GRID HISTORY

Captains Thrower, Hamilton, Cartwright, Gamble and Stone Represent 5 Great Years For Highlanders.

Bob Thrower is remembered for his athletic triumphs. "Bob" was captain of Maryville's eleven in '23. He played tackle on the team that tied U. T. 14-14. "Bob" also showed ability as center of the basketball team. Coach Bob now holds the college championship for shot-put. It is useless to mention the good work he is now doing.

"Ed" Hamilton captained the football team in '24. He was a steady and dependable tackle. We last heard of "Ed" taking voice lessons at Nashville.

Joe Gamble was chosen as captain for the '25 team on which he played fullback. He was also a good basketball guard. Joe is now in Ann Arbor, Michigan, studying law.

"Gobo" Cartwright was football captain in '26. He taught and coached at Townsend year before last. This year he is at Everett High. During the summer "Gobo" plays professional baseball. "Gobo" got part of his baseball experience on Maryville's team.

John Stone whose good fortune is fresh in our mind was captain of the '27 team. John was one of the best centers Maryville has ever had. Stone, who has been here several days, is going home after a successful season of baseball in Detroit.

Jean McMurray, the best all-round athlete Maryville has ever had, is coaching and teaching history at Rockwood, Tennessee. Jean was a five letter-man. He always went at everything with a "never-say-die" spirit. Jean is now mastering golf.

"Shorty" Guy Sneed graduated from Maryville in the class of '25. Shorty is now at Vanderbilt. He intends to be a physical education director. At present he has charge of the freshman and sophomore physical education classes at Vandy.

TUSCULUM WILL FIGHT HARD TO DOWN M. C.

Maryville Must Stop Moreeno To Win; Both Teams in Good Shape.

Maryville's next football game will be played on Wilson field Friday, October 12, at 3 p. m. At this time the Highlanders will meet the determined gridmen from Tusculum College. The Pioneers have proven their ability by beating King 6-0. They will fight harder to beat Maryville, for they, like the rest of the Smoky Mountain Conference teams, would rather beat Maryville than any other school in the conference. This means an interesting game to all concerned.

In Moreeno, Tusculum has one of the fastest backs in the conference, and the Highlanders realize the necessity of stopping him if they want the game to go their way.

MARYVILLE KING GAME

the right flank for 20 yards, giving King first down. Unable to gain, King and Maryville exchange kicks, and the quarter ends.

Second Quarter

King has the ball on their 30 yard line, when Davis, center, passes a high one, and loses 20 yards. Failing to gain, King forfeits the ball on their 20 yard line. Bird goes through center for ten yards, and in a moment Calloway throws a pass to Davis who steps over the line bringing the score to 20-0.

Maryville kicks to King, and Johnson and Simms make two gains in succession for 8 yards, and then King punts. Maryville is penalized twice in the next four plays and King intercepts a pass. Johnson runs around end for 20 yards for a first down, and the next two plays fail. The whistle for half leaves the score 20-0.

Third Quarter

Maryville kicks to Johnson, of King, who runs the ball back 40 yards. Taggart is now running the Highlanders in Davis' place. King fails to gain and kicks out. Crawford goes off tackle for four yards, but fourth down finds Maryville lacking 5 yards, so Bird kicks out. King gets ball on 1 yard line, and prepares to kick out. Maryville blocks kick behind goal and falls on ball. A great deal of argument follows, and Banks referee, calls it a safety and Maryville gets 2 points. Score now 22-0. Neither side gains appreciably in the next trade of the ball, save that Trimble passes a nice one to Johnson to get a first down.

King receives ball on 40 yard line, and Johnson again comes around end for 15 yards, and a first down. Greenlee passes to Johnson for another first down. An end run and a line buck by Greenhoe gives the third successive first down. An untimely fumble, scooped up by Crawford gives Maryville the ball on their 30 yard line and this period ends.

Fourth Quarter

This quarter finds Davis back in the line-up. Williams and Calloway also are substituted. Maryville exchanges kicks with King, and receives ball on King's 40 yard line. Maryville gets a first down via Bird and Calloway. Maryville's line, heretofore brilliant only in places seems to have hit its stride and is opening wagon roads for the backs. Calloway scores on an off tackle play making score 28-0.

King is now receiving. An exchange of kicks, and Williams goes around end for gain of 8 yards. As time grows short Maryville tries a few passes, but fails, and King gets ball. Williams intercepts King pass, and after Davis tries the left end, and Vinsant goes 5 yards thru guard, the timekeeper's whistle ends the game at 28-0.

Class of '13 gave the stone bench near Thaw.

Class of '16 gave the fountain.

Classes of '23 and '25 gave the side-walk from Baldwin to Court Street.

Class of '24, besides giving the side-walk in front of Science Hall, has pledged toward a living endowment fund to the amount of $7500, the members paying five per cent annually on the amount subscribed, or $355 in annual payment.

Class of '26 has paid $530 on a pledge of $1000 for the paving on Bartlett Avenue.

Class of '27 has paid $35 on a pledge of $1000 for paving.

Class of '28 has paid $807 on a pledge for an entrance gate, and more pledges are coming in.

Class of '17 gave $350 toward the entrance gate. The gate will cost about $2500, and will not be the gift of one class alone.

Although these former students have had their day at Maryville, they are still showing their interest, and in these gifts we find a lasting tribute of their loyalty to their Alma Mater.

Bainonian

New members we welcome you! Bainonian is counting on you to make this year an unqualified success, so start the ball rolling out to our first meeting Saturday night in Bainonian Hall. Our program secretary has planned a splendid program consisting of—but no, we're going to keep it for a surprise. Remember also that a week from Saturday new Bainonians give their program. All out Bainonians—old and new!

Theta Epsilon

Theta is planning a big year and with the support of all the new Thetas, we are going to have a good time together. Our program next Saturday evening begins at 7:00 o'clock. Come to hear the famous Russian Professor Ivan Itch, and see his wonderful magic He can make ugly people beautiful, foolish people wise, and fat people slim. This is one entertainment you cannot afford to miss.

Athenian

On October 13th Athenian brings to her members and visitors the greatest of minstrel shows. This show is judged the best of them because the most famous men in this field have been selected and gathered into one company especially for this occasion. Here you will see and hear Al G. Fields, "Sugar-foot' Gaffney, "Lasses" White, and others. Everyone out to hear our entertainers cracking jokes, singing comical songs, strumming banjos, and best of all, in those good old buck dances.

Home Ec. Club

The Home Economics Club met Thursday afternoon. A short, interesting program was given by the girls who were initiated; after which a business meeting was held.

The club finally decided as its project for the year to help the T. B. sanitarium. A silver tea is to be given in order to finance the project.

Come on Smith-Hughes girls, let's make it a bigger, busier and better year for the Home Ec. Club.

Pre-Medical Club

The Pre-Medical Club held its first meeting September 19th. The following officers were elected:

Editor Baker Busy Evolving Ideas For Scottish Year Book

1929 Chilhowean Will Carry Out The Highlander Idea In Various Ways.

COLOR WILL PREDOMINATE

Startling Developments Are Promised in New Feature Section; Not Revealed.

By Howard Hull

A college is judged to a large extent by the annual it puts out. With the importance of this fact in mind, the staff of this year's Chilhowean is making every effort to produce a year-book that will truly and vividly portray the student life of the college.

The theme of the 1929 Chilhowean is to be the Scotch Highlander. This is an entirely new idea which originated in the mind of Mr. Baker.

On being asked something concerning the new book, the editor's first statement was, "The annual as a whole is to have more vivid coloring. Vitality in color is to be emphasized."

The editor refused to reveal anything concerning the covers of the annual, except that they are to be entirely different from any we have ever had before.

In order that the Chilhowean may be a true representation of the student life on the hill, the staff is offering a prize of one new annual for the best photograph of campus life. All other photographs used will be paid for.

"I am trying to produce an annual as different as possible from preceeding annuals," states the editor. He is searching for material from a number of annuals from other schools.

Even the humor which we enjoy on College Hill is to have a place in the new Chilhowean. A record of our college life could not be complete without a record of our fun.

Twenty Singers Left After Final Club Cut

Work Progressing Faster Now With Fewer Men To Be Directed.

October 8—After several weeks of practice by all the fellows whose names were given in the Echo for September 24, the final Glee Club cuts were made this morning. Out of about twenty-five men twenty were chosen who had shown themselves best fit for positions by their ability and their willingness to work. The club will have twenty members this year, so this is the final cut.

Following are the names of the Maryville College Glee Singers of 1928-'29. First tenors: Bowles, Matthews, Rusk, Lawson and Vaughn. Second tenors: Davis, Anderson, Brown, Buchanan and Carter. Baritones, French, Holman, Shelley, Marston and Wallace. Basses: Courtenay, Cotton, Blair, Berry and McCool.

Work on music for a Fall concert is progressing quite well. The club is now practicing three times a week: Monday morning, Wednesday morning and Thursday night.

NEW OFFICERS ELECTED FOR STUDENT COUNCIL

October 10—The student council tonight and elected officers. Elected are: Tommy Thompson, president; Edward Sprouse, vice-president; Fancher Smartt, secretary.

After the election there was considerable discussion concerning the time and place for the Fall mountain hike. It was finally decided to set the date for Monday, October 15. Calderwood was decided upon as the scene of our "return to nature".—that is, provided there is no objection forth-coming from the superintendent at Calderwood.

NO ECHO NEXT WEEK

The Echo will leave out an issue this coming week. This should be no cause for concern to anyone since we are supposed to put out only thirty issues per year and there are thirty-six weeks of school. This seems to be an appropriate week since there is to be no game Saturday.

As Many Students As Can Are Urged To Vote This Fall

Straw Vote Opinions Cannot Elect a President.

DON'T NEGLECT PRIVILEGE

Dr. McMurray Offers Students Aid in Untangling Red Tape.

EXTRA— students who have had their 21st birthday since January 10, may vote here in Tennessee if they will register immediately. See Mrs. N. T. Maxey on Indiana Avenue. No payment of poll tax is required.

The coming presidential election is probably attracting the attention of more college students than any previous national election has done. This is just as it should be. Harry S. Warner, General Secretary of the Inter-collegiate Prohibition Association says:

"Surely, among other factors, it may be said that democracy depends for its success upon votes and voters, upon ballots that get themselves cast into the ballot box. It is not enough that a student have freedom to vote and high intelligence; he must actually get his fraction of public opinion cast into the ballot box—or it is his opponent's opinion that counts.

"When intelligent young men and women, with mental equipment and civic and moral ideals far above the average, fail for any reason to vote on election day, they deprive their country of a valuable service, hurt themselves by starting a bad habit of weak action in politics, and permit the evil forces of society to have just that much more power in politics. Absence at college, failure to register in time, preoccupation with studies and college activities, lack of acquaintance with voting procedure, and all such objections are only the type of mediocre excuses offered by so-called "good citizens" who fail to make themselves count in present- day American civic life.

"Students, of all young people just reaching voting age, should not permit circumstances of any sort to keep them from voting their convictions; for the action or inaction, of these years may set their civic habits for life. The student voter who votes, whatever the 'red-tape' required, not only casts an unusually intelligent ballot, but, what is more, he seizes the practical opportunity of gaining that sense of responsibility and reality in politics without which he is bound to be a follower instead of a leader in civic affairs later in his career.

U. S. Runs Bootleggers Off Michigan Campus

The prohibition bureau will cooperate with colleges and universities in keeping bootleggers off the campuses, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Lowman says.

"We have a special squad of agents for detail to colleges if they are annoyed by speakeasies or bootleggers. These officers will be detailed for duty wherever there is a request for them.

"So far we have had only one call for assistance this year. The dean of the University of Michigan requested federal aid in driving bootleggers away from the campus and we were successful."

Indications are that bootleggers are not very troublesome on the Maryville campus, but a casual observer would have little difficulty in locating a couple of "moonshiners" in every cozy nook on College Hill on Monday afternoon. No federal aid is needed here, however.

WELCOME HOME!

The Echo welcomes our Maryville nature lovers back to the Hill. We hope you enjoyed everything and anything that happened.

Dr. Stevenson Opens University Program

Prominent Men on Cincinnati Y. M. All-University Program, Oct. 21.

Dr. Stevenson, our college pastor has accepted an invitation to open the program of the All-University Services at the University of Cincinnati on October 21st.

The University Y. M. C. A. conducts a series of services in the community churches during the school year. The foremost religious leaders available make the addresses on these occasions. In a letter to the Editor of the Highland Echo, Robert W. Bishop, executive secretary and former student of Maryville, writes that Dr. Stevenson has been selected along with such leaders as Rabbi Stephen S. Wise, New York; Judge Florence Allen, Ohio Supreme Court; Dr. C. C. Morrison, Chicago; Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, University pastor, University of Chicago; Dr. J. J. Mallon, London, England; and others.

The program is already being set up for the service.

ATHENIAN PLAYERS TO PRESENT "THE POOR NUT"

The order of the society mid-winter plays has been posted. The dramatic committees of the societies have been chosen and are deciding about the plays to be given. To date, only one has been selected, and that is the Athenian, the last to be given. This society has decided to stage "The Poor Nut", a rollicking comedy of college life. The characters have not yet been chosen. We are all looking forward with some degree of expectancy to these plays. In the past the mid-winters have been successful, and we are sure they will be this year.

Red Cross Drive To Begin Armistice Day

Disaster Relief Is Big Part of Its Work; Also Water Safety.

The American Red Cross will soon open a membership drive to replenish its ranks from college students. The time for the enrollment is from the eleventh of November to Thanksgiving Day. It looks to the colleges for its coming leaders.

Disaster relief is a phase of Red Cross service that is attracting the attention of the nation and of the world. With the first word flashed out of Porto Rico that local food stocks could not care for the feeding of the homeless, the Red Cross on that day sent $160,000 worth of rice, beans, flour, pork, and such

Pioneers Fail To Score as Highlanders Make 18 Points

Maryville Men Repel Attack of Moreeno, Fast Tusculum Back, and Tear Up Opposing Line for 3 Touchdowns. Line Drives by Calloway and Vinsant, Frosh, Look Good. Smoother Combination is Result of U. T. and King Encounters.

Coach Honaker's eleven trampled Tusculum 18-10. The boys have improved considerably since their last game on the home grid. Tusculum played hard but was unable to stand the continuous hammering of the Highlanders. They had some trouble throughout the game with their signals.

First Quarter

Maryville starts off with a bang. Tusculum kicks off to Maryville. Bird receives and brings the ball back up the field for about 15 yards. Bird again takes the ball and carries it to first down. An exchange of kicks takes place. Tusculum punts to Davis who makes nice return for 10 yards. The quarter ends, Maryville's ball on Tusculum's 40 yard line.

Second Quarter

The second quarter Williams goes in for Morrison. Calloway makes several good line plunges for first down. Bird takes the ball to Tusculum's 2 yard line and on the next play thru the line he takes the pig-skin over and lays it down for a touchdown. Jarvis comes in for Davis. Maryville kicks to Tusculum and they make nice return for 20 yards. Tusculum fails to make first down and punts to Jarvis who makes a short gain. Carper comes in for McDonald. Tusculum regains ball and punts to Maryville. No one on Maryville's team touches the kick and Tusculum picks up the ball and runs across our goal line. The referee calls it back. A few minor plays bring the half to a close.

Third Quarter

At the beginning of the second half Maryville marches an almost new team on the field. Tusculum kicks to Vinsant who makes a nice return. An exchange of kicks follows. Davis takes the ball on a "cut back" and races 40 yards for

Soph Cub Candidates In Novel Competition

Chilhowean Editor, Hi-Trail President Receive Curious Callers Wednesday

October 10—Five very inquisitive candidates for the position of sophomore cub reporter on the Echo bombarded Frank Baker with questions tonight concerning the Chilhowean to be issued next Spring. During this interview these five fellows secured data for an article which each of them is to write competitively, the best of which will appear in the same issue with this article.

After questioning the editor of the Chilhowean, the same group ascended to the fourth floor of Carnegie and went through a similar process with Walter Courtenay in regard to the Hi-Trail hike last week-end.'

These men are competing for the position left vacant by Bob Davis who decided to go to U.T. this year on account of better facilities there for the study of journalism.

"RUST DOTH CORRUPT"

We always hesitate to comment on the work being done on the campus or buildings, because we realize that financial conditions do not permit many desirable improvements we could mention. But we can't help thinking that the iron beams for the swimming pool that are now absorbing the atmosphere might be put under cover, where the elements would be less harmful.

This would not be a big job, and would keep the girders from rusting away, and—well, anyway Brownie, we mean well!

Freshman Officers And Councillors Are Gradually Elected

Teffeteller Holds The Major Position in New Class Organization.

The freshman class after two elections has selected its officers for the coming year. They are as follows:

President - - Ralph Teffeteller
Vice-President - - Ann Smartt
Secretary - - - Julian Terry
Treasurer - - Homer McCann
Editor - - - Robert West

Student council members: Charles West, Max Parsons, Jo Knight, and Louise Avery.

The general outlook for the class indicates that it will become a great asset to the school during the coming year.

11 New York Grads In Farewell Party

Parting of The Ways Soon To Separate These Student Volunteers.

FRANKLINS ARE HONORED

New Zealand May Be The Most Central Meeting Place Next Time.

On September 19, eleven Maryvillians gathered in New York City for a dinner and evening of comradeship at the Neighborhood House in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Franklin and Miss Elizabeth ("Beth") Torrey.

This was more than a Maryville reunion—it was a reunion of special friends who gathered at the parting of the ways. Those from Maryville were Sam Franklin, Mrs. Sam Franklin (Dorothy Winters), Wallace Merwin, Mrs. Wallace Merwin, Misses Mary Eleanor and Barbara Welbon, Elizabeth (Beth) Torrey, Annie Vandersliee, Eleanor Franklin, Rosalie Edmondson, and Charles (Red) Welbon. Mr. Gilbert Lovell of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education and Miss Elizabeth Hand also were present.

On the following day, September 20th, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin sailed for London. After a few days there, they went to Edinburg for a year's study before going to Japan. Seven Maryvillians were at the pier to see them off. For the next reunion, New Zealand will probably be the most central location, as most of this group will be going to foreign fields in two or three years. Beth Torrey expects to sail next week for Africa to teach on the West Coast.

Mr. and Mrs. Merwin have returned to the Seminary at Louisville, Ky. The rest are in New York either studying or working. Eleanor

CUB AND DIRECTOR QUESTION SETTLED

October 11—After the rehearsal tonight the glee club considered some rather important business. This business involved the tuxedo and director question.

After considerable discussion it was decided that the club should buy all the tuxes outright this year rather than continue renting them as heretofore. It will cost less than twice as much to buy as to rent so this looks like a wise idea. A committee was appointed to investigate arrangements for taking care of the suits during the year.

Outside directorial material being scarce, the club voted that Jack Cotton continue in service as club director. He has had charge of the directing job since the first of school, in a temporary capacity only.

TILLIE'S MUSTACHE IS GROWN FOR GOOD LUCK

Have you noticed Tillie's new moustache? Maybe you thought it was just an ordinary, everyday moustache, but it isn't. Harold calls it his good luck moustache. He says he thinks it will help Maryville win all her games, because we haven't lost one since he started cultivating it. As soon as we lose one, if that happens, the moustache will leave, pronto.

Jimmie Cox, our local statistician, has made measurements concerning the growth of the individual components of the hairy flock on Tillie's upper lip. He says that they are growing at the rate of 3 mm. per week. That means, if Tillie's moustache were really to remain faithful to him through football, basketball and baseball seasons, that he would have a beautiful flowing moustache about four inches long by June.

Dixie Vagabonds To Continue Good Work

Two Quartets Now Mastering Club Music; Should Speed Up Club Improvement.

The popular "Dixie Vagabond Quartet" of last year is getting ready for action again. The only vacancy on the quartet was left by the second tenor, Walter Buchanan. Buck's place will be filled this year by Walter Matthews. The quartet hopes to uphold its reputation gained last year as a novelty singing organization. Here is the line-up: Bowles, first tenor; Matthews, second tenor; Cotton, baritone; Courtenay, bass.

A second quartet has been chosen also. This quartet will not be known as the varsity quartet, but will make a name for itself by pe[illegible] ant work. The second quartet last year did not make much [illegible] way, but it is hoped that th[illegible] will be more industrious.

At present, both quartets are concentrating on glee club music, so that they will know this music well before beginning on any other; it is believed that this [illegible] in the club who know the music correctly will prove to be a material aid to the others who have not had the additional practice periods.

FIRST NOTICE OF FALL MUSIC FESTIVAL GIVEN

A great treat is in store for M. C. students. The Fall Festival of Music so enjoyed by all lovers of music each year is to be held within a few weeks.

Miss Hale and her pupils as well as Knoxville talent will furnish the music. The Y. W. C. A. has for several years sponsored this annual affair. Watch for the date. This is one of the best programs of the season.

Hi-Trailers Tramp Through Mountains At Cowan; Enjoy Fun, Food, Scenery

By P. D. Rodgers

A week ago the Hi-Trail Club took another hike, leaving here Saturday night and going to Cowan Springs. The club spent Sunday in that vicinity and returned here Monday.

The whole club, with the exception of Billy Crawford, who had a sprained ankle, went to Judge Gamble's cabin at Cowan Springs, near Walland. They spent the night in the cabin, which Courtenay described as being like a hotel except that there were no cooks nor waiters. Sunday, after they had had Sunday School and church services they took a fifteen mile hike in the vicinity. Monday they started back home. The report is: no accidents, plenty of incidents and lots of fun. Courtenay says, "It was the best hike I have ever been on since coming to College."

At this season, the leaves are turning crimson on the mountain sides, presenting views that were in themselves worth all that the trip cost them in effort. The effort was by no means small since they went where they wanted to in straight lines, instead of following the trails with their gradual slopes.

Did they have any amusements? Well, there's "Brute" Crow who was their greatest source; then their orchestra composed of two of the fellows with combs. Storey with his harmonica, and Courtenay with his tin pan snare drum assisted.

Most of us do not know the "Why" of the Hi-Trail Club and so we have this from their president, Walt Courtenay; "The club is for the purpose of exploring the mountains around Maryville and doing missionary work wherever possible. A new member must be accepted unanimously and must be of good character, have a strong body and be a good mixer."

Thirty Isues per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College. Subscription Rates, $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, Nov. 11, 1915

Monday, October 15, 1928

Well, Here It Is

Herewith we are submitting for your approval our first six column paper. We do not have the slightest intention of adding another column later on during the year. There is no press in Maryville that can print a larger paper, and the Enterprise management seems certain that their printing proceeds from the Echo will not warrant the purchase of a new press this year. Therefore, as to size, "Here we rest."

We do not need more space for a Maryville College newspaper. It will take considerable activity on the Hill to furnish material for the space we have. Of course, we could begin buying column fillers by the pound or the yard, but that is neither to be desired nor allowed. What we wish to feature each week is news,—Maryville news.

We trust it will not be necessary to start a fire, blow up the chemistry laboratory or begin scalping freshmen in order to have something to write about. Of course, these things may happen, but the Echo staff wishes not to be held responsible if they do. Interesting things are going on continually, anyhow, and we urgently request that all members of the student body assist in bringing them to the attention of the staff. Look over the list of names at the top of this page and get acquainted with the Echo staff members.

—o—

Have Clubs No Ambition?

There are over twenty organizations on the Hill that call themselves clubs. Most of these are composed of students from the same state, the same portion of some state, or else they are composed of students with like interests, e.g. the Ohio Club, the Middle Tennessee Club and the Chemistry Club.

Most of these clubs seem quite content to remain in obscurity during almost the whole of their existence. Aside from an occasional announcement in chapel or the Echo and a page or page portion in the Chilhowean, the school doesn't hear from them. Is this a sufficient way to represent one's home state or one's particular interest?

It is for the officers of these organizations to formulate some project whereby their clubs may be brought before the attention of the school. Here are a few suggestions: pay for and present a book or magazine subscription to the library; take charge of and carry out some minor improvement on the campus; conduct a campus survey of some ..., etc., et cetera, and so on. The ... promises plenty of publicity in ... pages for any such signs of life ... any of our too inactive clubs ... the Hill.

—o—

Society Programs

This week we are opening a new ... on page four to be used for write-ups concerning literary society programs, past and future. The coming programs are all listed under one two column head. The society editors will have an equal amount of space to fill and it will either be filled or not be filled. If no program or notice is handed in, that society's section will remain blank; many such omissions would not look at all good for a society. We trust there will be no trouble on this score.

The programs of the preceding Saturday night will all be reviewed under one separate article. Only the outstanding features of the programs will be discussed. This article will be prepared by a staff member from reports handed to her Saturday night. Editors and program secretaries are asked to cooperate in order that this plan may be successful.

—o—

There Ought To Be a Law

Part of the "editorial we" is just recovering from the slings and arrows of a sad case of poison oak. This is not the first time the insidious weed has left its mark on his highness. It has been one of the most effective, however.

Perhaps everyone is not familiar with this malady. For their benefit we can attempt a practical description of its effects. Poison oak is a more or less inconspicuous vine growing on the trunks of trees. Its results are more conspicuous. A successful inoculation with this plant produces a continual itching, an intermittent burning and an occasional explosion.

Speaking of club projects, what could be more helpful than the removing of poison oak and poison ivy from the vicinity of the tennis courts and halls? There is no danger in handling the stuff,—if one is prepared.

Some people are so punctual they keep their watches in their hip pockets so as not to be behind time.

Forrest: I have a cold or something in my head.
Mrs. West: Undoubtedly a cold.

Why did the umbrella stand?
Because it wanted to see the doorstep.

Radio is nothing new. We heard of a man who blew a bugle in Pittsburg, and went to Long Island and saw the sound.

We predict that a few of our illustrious seniors will become noted—that is, if they live long enough.

Wit: Because the stars made the knights more realistic.

"Fine! Net's always in the way when I play."

Incidentally

——Mrs. Minton wants her Spanish students to put their weak ends on parallel reading.

——We see new additions to the list of moonshiners. Timid at first, newcomers are now beginning to hit their stride.

——We have a fighting football team, and we're proud of them. The boys in every play are giving their best, and even if U. T. did romp on us, are we downhearted? No!

——Uniforms for the band might be a good idea. How would it look to you to see our horn-blowers and drum-beaters marching around the field after a georgeously decorated major domo? It would be an added inspiration to the college spirit.

——Now that the cheer-leaders have been elected, the only thing left is for each individual student to feel his own responsibility toward backing the team. The only way to manage that is by unified cheering, each person giving of his utmost vocal powers in following the cheer leaders.

——We wonder if Calderwood fulfilled Frank Baker's expectations as "Nature's Remedy for Losing Chaperones."

——John Stone looked very prosperous when he came back to visit his Alma Mater. He met with a hearty welcome, for the students are proud to have their former classmates excel as John has.

——We wish that Bob Thrower would take Systematics, so he wouldn't be so bashful about giving us a treat. It's terrible to want to hear and see anyone as badly as we did Prof. Thrower at the Pep meeting and meet with disappointment.

——The seniors should not become too cocky about the underclassmen who have been so accommodating lately. There may be method in their madness, you know; don't forget them when the open senior parties roll around.

——It is rather useless for the freshmen and sophomores to groan about something as inevitable as the required gymnasium work, and besides it is beneficial.

CURRENT CAMPUS COMMENT

"By way of explanation—you ardent moonshiners who deplore the infrequency (freshmen, this is a good word for your ever-increasing vocabulary) of snaps, please cease to blame me. Hitch your wagon to a star, but please remember Maryville's Faculty."—Tommy Thompson

"I don't trust those wooden bleachers. Maryville needs new stands to accomodate the spectators. The ones recently erected, however, are secure."—Brownie, Campus-expert.

"Frances seems to have a liking for lengthy subjects, but I prefer them short and snappy."—Lois Crotwell.

"There has been less pep since the U.T. game than before. Does this mean that the students cannot back a team that lost its most important game? Let's finish out this season with more P E P."—Jesse Peirce—Head Cheer-leader.

"The country seemed beautiful to me as I walked around the loop last week. All girls who have not yet enjoyed this short hike should try it. I guarantee they'll have a good time."—Louise Avery.

"Swimming? Well, last year was our first attempt, and although defeated we tried hard. Watch our team next Spring."—Ed Sprouse, Captain.

Generally speaking, Opportunity knocks. It is only to a woman that it comes with a ring.

The local Retail Credit Men's Association, which is a member of a chain of hundreds of such organizations all over the country, stands ever ready to help you establish, maintain and transfer from place to place, a good credit record. It is also necessary for this Association to keep on file and transfer from place to place the record that isn't so good.—

If you wish to get credit while in Maryville, it would be well to have the written consent of parents. But better still, if you will call 800 and give to the local Association the names of two or three firms anywhere who have given you credit, your record will be gotten from them and placed on file. Then when you need credit, just refer to the Credit Association. Do this now and be ready.

AS MANY STUDENTS AS CAN ARE URGED TO VOTE THIS FALL

"But the student has unusual difficulties in the way of freely casting his ballot. Is he a citizen of the college community, or must he go home to vote? Where is his home? How determined? Often permanent residents of the college community do not want students to vote on local issues and candidates lest they become a dominant factor where they do not remain long or pay taxes. Sometimes such protests are fully justified. What is the conscientious student to do?"

Registration in some form is required of at least part of the voters in every state except Arkansas and Texas and in these states the required poll tax answers a similar purpose.

There is no provision in any state which enables a resident of one state to vote at the polls of any other state on election day and have his ballot transmitted by the election officials to his home county.

There are twenty-one states which allow citizens to vote by mail. They are: Alabama, Idaho, Illinois, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Mississippi, Montana, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Virginia, West Virginia and Wisconsin.

In voting by mail it is important to follow carefully the provisions of the law else one may lose the opportunity to vote or may have his vote rejected.

All students who are eligible to vote should see Dr. McMurray soon. He will tell anyone the exact procedure to follow in voting by mail in any of the states allowing absentee voting. Many students have already inquired and are preparing to cast their vote for their favorite.

LOCKER ROOM GOSSIP

Merle Delaney has been telling everyone of the sad fate of the man who broke his arm.

They were discussing a certain co-ed.

"She's a really sensible girl," Bird said.

"Then why don't you ask her to go with you on the mountain-hike?" J. D. wanted to know.

"I did ask her, but she refused to go with me."

He—"You've been out with worse looking fellows than I am, haven't you?"

No answer.

He—"I say you've been out with worse-looking fellows than I haven't you?"

She—"I heard you the first time. I was trying to think!"

Much speculating is being done by all the boys in regard to what girl will be the lucky (?) one when Bob Thrower chooses his mountain hike date.

The remainder of this column was censored.

LASTING IMPRESSIONS OF THE KING TRIP

As is the custom when the new men go on a football trip, some nine or ten pledges were initiated into the "Royal Order of the Belt" and received the degree of B. S. (Belt Swinger) at Bristol. The initiation is a modified form of the game the fellows know as "Hot Tail". The difference is that the new men "assume the angle" while the old men wield the belt. This has become a time honored custom at Maryville and anyone who has gone thru the ceremony will tell you that time can but dim the impressions it left on him.

"On To Oglethorpe" Is Cry Of Students

Many To Visit Atlanta to See Highlanders Perform in Georgia Tech Bowl; Maryville Expects Anything.

The big game is two weeks off, and even now enthusiasm has been showing itself concerning the coming fray with the Georgia Crackers, to be held in Georgia Tech's new bowl, Atlanta, Georgia, Saturday, October 27.

When we meet Oglethorpe we are not against a little group like Tusculum. We are against a school that has put out teams good enough to warrant Georgia Tech's including it in a very good schedule.

Oglethorpe won two games this fall and is desirous of continuing to roll up the points. Maryville will have to play more consistent "good football" if she expects to hold her own with credit. We'll want to stay right back of the team, even if we can't go to Georgia with them.

But say, fellows, if you want a real trip, and can stand the marks in the roll book, go down to Atlanta and show them we've got a team we are proud of, and we're ready to back them to the last man.

RED CROSS DRIVE TO BEGIN ARMISTIC DAY

staples in New York, which were rushed into the hold of a Navy store ship and started with all speed for the sufferers. It also sent workers to Florida upon the announcement by the weather department that a severe storm was approaching.

Water safety is a Red Cross service which has been so widely adopted in colleges that a list would read like a college directory. Typical examples are: West Point, Yale, Northwestern, Universities of California, Arizona, Oregon, and Washington. In some institutions credit is given for Red Cross first aid and life-saving.

EYES OF MOVIES TAKE IN GAME AND STUNT

The movie cameraman who shot the highlights of the game on Friday, got some real action pictures, we understand, and Thursday, Friday and Saturday, plans to show them at the Palace Theatre. Not only is our football team getting into the football "four hundred", but we can picture some of our luminaries displacing Tom Meighan, Doug Fairbanks or Ben Turpin, as a result of the cinema publicity.

We know the "eyes of the world" didn't miss the stunt the sophs played on the freshmen between halves. It was highly entertaining.

The freshmen boys were called on the field, and responded en masse. A race was explained in which the Frosh were instructed to remove their shoes, race to the goal line and return, and replace shoes. They got off to a flying start, but while they were racing madly down the field some of these sophisticated sophomores (and we have a suspicion there were some juniors and seniors) scattered the unsuspecting freshmen's pedal encasements to the four winds.

We just want to say that we'd like to meet the frosh who placed his foot gear in his hip pockets before he started on the fatal journey.

The class of '32 has a lot of the kind of spirit we need at Maryville, and we congratulate them on the way they showed it between halves on Friday.

a touchdown. Maryville kicks to Tusculum. Wilson comes in for Whitehead and Teffeteller for Harris. Morrison intercepts pass and goes to Tusculum's 20 yard line, and the third quarter ends.

Fourth Quarter

Calloway comes in for Vinsant. Maryville is close to visitor's goal but fails to make first down. Tusculum tries to pass but is tackled almost on her own goal line and has to punt. Calloway returns the punt and after a few plays Bird goes over for the third touchdown. Bird fails to make extra point. Williams comes in for Morrison and makes several good gains around the ends but the team lacks the final punch. Jarvis goes in for Davis and begins aerial attack. The first two are grounded but a third one goes safely from Calloway to Bird. The whistle blows.

Theta Epsilon

All Theta girls are looking forward to an excellent program on October 27. The details of the program have not been worked out as yet, but it will be in the hands of

The New Girls

Put on your thinking caps, new Thetas and show us what you can do.

Alpha Sigma

There will be no meeting this coming Saturday night as we will have our first Lyceum number of the year, but on October 22nd, we will have our regular meeting, which will be put on by the new men. Program as following:

Piano Solo - Bob Overley
Tap Dance - - Chick West
Mouth Organ Solo - - - - Reno Smith
Saxophone Solo - - - Howard Schleman
Alpha Sigma Advance - - Bob West
Alpha Sigma Orchestra DeLuxe

Bainonian

Ghosts! Witches! Spooks!

One dark night our program secretary found a note slipped under her door signed with a skull and cross-bones. It read as follows:

"Woe be unto you and all your fellow-Bainonians if, on Saturday night, October 27, you do not, unconditionally, turn your hall and program over to Dame Hobble-Gobble and her band of goblins."

Of course we agreed to this and we are looking forward to much flourishing of broom-sticks, boiling cauldrons, ghostly dances, and weird tales and tunes.

Athenian

Many indications have been evidenced these past few weeks of talented new men but Athenian has not invited them yet to give a program at a formal meeting. Accordingly, next Saturday night has been selected for the date that new men give the entire program. This program is as follows:

Why I Came to Maryville - Calvin Loring
The Speech of John Adams - R. E. Wade
Impressions of My First Mountain Hike - Clarence Brachie
Selections - - - Quartette
Harmonica Numbers - - Frederick Comer

Night Before Last

Bodily Transformations
How To Love
Cornfield Minstrel
Matthews Chalk Talk

Theta was especially fortunate to hear the famous Russian magician, Professor Ivan Awful Itch, and to see the marvelous wonders he performed with his magic machine. The short were made tall, the blonde were made brunette, (and how!), and wonderful readers, violinists, opera singers, and pianists were turned out at the word of the magician. Fancher Smartt made an excellent magician and Fronie French was the able (?) assistant.

Bainonians found out all about love from their program. All opinions about it, both ancient and modern, as well as current campus comment on the subject were given in a short skit by Midget Lawrence and Helen Plant. Mary Chris Benn and Mildred Taylor in a very charming duet, gave lessons on the proper attitude for a lass to take toward her laddie.

The Athenian program was presented by Grandpa Ross and his gang of corn-field darkies. Hayden Laster was the "other end man". A dark-skinned chorus supplied the "music"; Ed Buchanan had trouble hiding the song book. The biggest hit of the program was Ross' buck dance. He has improved considerably since last year.

Walt Matthews furnished most of the entertainment on the Alpha Sigma program. "Ken" Davis assisted him in a duet after which Walt proceeded to show the new Alpha Sigmas the wonders of a piece of black chalk and a large sheet of paper. Old members also enjoyed the program though some of the scenes looked strangely familiar.

Blue Ridge Delegates Report Conference Sunday

The Blue Ridge Delegates have interesting things to tell about their conference which met in June. All girls be sure and come for the biggest year Y. W. C. A. has ever known. New girls are especially invited. You are needed in Y. W. C. A. Already you have shown your spirit toward Y. W. Help make it mean more to all.

Chemistry Club

On last Tuesday night the Chemistry Club met and elected the following officers:

Mary Sue Carson - - President
Viola Pettit - - Vice President
Ruth Laughead - - Secretary
Walter Headrick - Treasurer
Louise Carson - Program Secy.
Thomas W. Whitehead - Editor

It is the aim of the officers and those interested in the club to make this one of the outstanding years in the Club's history. So, students of advanced chemistry, don't fail to attend the next meeting, Tuesday night, October 23, and take part in the program that awaits you.

Fellowship Club

The Fellowship Club held its regular meeting last Monday night at which time a very interesting program was presented and plans completed for the presentation of a program at the next "Snap". The program promises to be something unusually good for entertainment at such an occasion.

Florida Club

About twenty-five students from Florida have elected officers for the Florida Club. The following people were chosen:

President - - Carol Cushman
Vice President - - Eloise Garrett
Secretary and Treasurer - - Ed Driscoll
Editor - - - Elizabeth King

EDITOR BAKER BUSY EVOLVING IDEAS FOR SCOTTISH YEAR BOOK

stating, "The annual will be dedicated to Mrs. Minton as being a true representative of old Scotland."

The arrangement of the senior section is to be carried out in the Scotch idea also. The pages will have a thistle border and the panels will contain a figure of a Highlander.

A new kind of ink, called "Essyew Taupe", will be used in the view section to add a touch of beauty to the scenes of old Maryville.

"I promise startling developments in the feature section," states Mr. Baker. He leaves it for us to decide just where the developments are to be made. Could it be that he has made a discovery of some new "material" for the feature section?

We must not forget the athletic section. The editor-in-chief says that the athletic end of the staff is functioning fine. The arrangement of the baseball section is to be changed more than any other athletic section. The football men are to have identification tags and each man is to have a write-up. Action pictures of our football games are especially desirable in the photographic contest, as this is one of the best means of preserving the memories of our games.

Another marked improvement in this year's Chilhowean is made by the requirement that all club pictures be uniform. To use the words of the editor, "Snap-shots do not harmonize."

The opening section and the book divisions are to be furnished in four colors and are ready for the press now.

Mr. Baker says that his work requires a lot of "just pure fanciful imagination." Those of us who know him feel that he is capable of exercising his imagination and whatever else is necessary to put out a good annual.

The staff hopes to have the annuals in the hands of the students by the 15th of April. This, of course, depends upon the time taken by the various organizations in paying their bills. Mr. Baker says, "I hope that all bills will be paid promptly and that the annuals will not be held up by deficient members of some organizations."

The price? Sure, it carries out the Scotch idea too. "A better annual for the same price," is the editor's promise.

Let's all cooperate with the staff and make this year's Chilhowean a true representative of the students and an annual worthy of the college!

Fred Hope Coming To Hill This Week

Will Lead Chapel Thursday and Show Pictures of Africa In Evening

WELL-KNOWN WORKER

Hope's Record Extraordinary Both In College and In Foreign Field.

Fred Hope, Maryville's own missionary to Africa, is coming back to visit his Alma Mater. Thursday, November 1, he will speak at the chapel service and in the evening he will show some pictures of his work in Africa. Again, Friday, November 2, he will speak at the chapel service.

In 1906 Mr. Hope graduated from Maryville College, after having completed here both his preparatory and college courses. During his busy years at Maryville, he took enthusiastic part in many college activities, and was a conspicuous and helpful leader in the Y. M. C. A., athletics, literary society work, and the social life of the institution. His frankness, his open-heartedness, and geniality made for him a host of friends; while his remarkable power of initiative proved of great service to the College.

Upon graduating from College he offered his services to the Foreign Mission Board, as a lay worker, and was soon appointed superintendent of the Frank James Industrial School, located at Elat, Ebolowa, Cameroun, West Africa. There he has for twenty years carried forward one of the most remarkable pieces of mission work to be found on any mission field.

Because of his splendid record of service the directors of the college have conferred upon Fred Hope the degree of Doctor of Laws, the highest academic honor within their power to grant.

For several years it has been the custom for the students and faculty of the college to contribute a sum of money to be used by Mr. Hope in his work in Africa. It is hoped that this year the contributions will be larger than ever before.

Explorer to Speak And Show Pictures of 28,000 Foot Climb

Captain Noel Brings Movies To Illustrate Lecture Here Next Monday.

To travel over Tibet—the Unfriendly—to visit the fortress monasteries of the Lamas, to venture into valleys, snowfields and glaciers never before seen by man, and finally to climb to the top of the wonderful mountain, venerated as the Goddess Mother of the world—these were the reasons for the 1924 Mt. Everest Expedition, which will be visualized in story and wonderful motion pictures, when Captain J. B. Noel appears here on the evening of November 5, at Voorhees Chapel at 8:00 P. M.

Colonel Norton was in command, with Capt. Noel as official photographer; Shebbard, in charge of transportation and luggage; Dr. Hingston, doctor and naturalist; the intrepid assistants, Irvine and Mallory, who now sleep in the snows near the top; and Odell, McDonald, Somervell and Beetham— these names are now gilt-lettered in the Book of Adventure, for they scaled to a height of 28,000 feet. Five hundred others took part in establishing food stations, camps and equipment relays.

It was Capt. Noel's camera that caught the farewell photographs of the two who lost their lives. It was Capt. Noel who recorded the whole drama of the expedition through the unfailing eye of the motion picture camera.

It is Capt. Noel's story through movies, still pictures and the spoken word, that tells more graphically than any written record, the epic drama of all time. Capt. Noel is coming direct from London, with his pictures and story, for a limited number of American engagements.

TEACHERS LEAVE SCHOOL

Students of about fifteen teachers were made sad when they were left without classes Friday. The Teachers' Convention at Knoxville was responsible.

College Players At Work On Two Plays

First Play To Be Presented In Town Before Coming Onto The Hill.

The College Players are at work on two plays which promise to furnish evenings of real entertainment. One of these, "Applesauce", is to be given at the high school under the auspices of the local Kiwanis Club. It will probably be given later, in the chapel, as the Y. M. C. A.'s annual benefit number.

"Applesauce" is a high class comedy. The cast includes: Mary White, Chilton Bowles, Margaret Haynie, Hayden Laster, Katherine Hoxworth, Paul Dickerson, and William Berry.

"The Thirteenth Chair" is a thrilling mystery play which will keep the audience shivering most of the time. There is a good mixture of humor along with the mystery. This is produced principally by Madame La Grange, an Irishwoman, who is portrayed by Roberta Hickman. The excitement starts in the first act when one of the thirteen persons attending a seance held by Madame La Grange is mysteriously murdered. The other two acts are concerned with finding the murderer. Madame La Grange saves her daughter, (Alice Rhea), who is suspected of the murder, and discovers the real murderer by pretending to go into a trance and watching the effect of her words on all the persons in the room.

Although most of the players are new to the Maryville stage the characters are well selected and we may expect some new stars to be developed. Nearly all of the sixteen persons in this play have an opportunity to do considerable acting. Several of them are freshmen, so in the next few years we may have a group of well-seasoned actors and actresses gracing our stage.

Margaret Mevis is stage manager for this production and Vinny Smithson is wardrobe mistress.

Three other plays to be given this year have been selected. The Bainonian Literary Society is to present "Graustark" on November 26. The Alpha Sigma Society will present "Seventh Heaven", and the Athenians have chosen "The Poor Nut".

STUDENT VOTE SMALL

Mrs. Maxey who had charge of the registration books here informs us that only twenty-one students on College Hill registered to vote here. Of course this does not include those living out in town, or a number of others who will send their votes to their respective states.

This light registration, however, does not indicate a low degree of interest in the election among the students. Politics is the big subject here at present.

DO SHE MOVE?

Prof. Knapp's astronomers are not sure whether the world is rotating or not. They could not get any conclusive results with the Focault experiment which they tried in the gym Thursday. Roger Rusk affirms, however, that one of the attempts was successful.

Student Volunteers Meet In Nashville

Rusk and Harold Represent Us In State Convention; Rusk Is Secretary.

October 26—Two Maryville students left this afternoon for Nashville to attend the state convention of the Student Volunteer Movement, an active branch of which is maintained on College Hill. One of our delegates is Roger Rusk, who also holds the position of State Secretary; the other is Willie Nell Harold. Both of them are deeply interested in the work of the movement and as a result have been honored in being chosen as Maryville's representatives to the convention. The convention lasts from the 26th to 29th inclusive and will be held in the Nashville Y. M. C. A. School.

For the benefit of those who have not yet been in attendance at the college long enough to learn what the Student Volunteer Band here actually is, it might be profitable to say a word with regard to the significance and purpose of the movement. It is an organization of students who intend to enter the foreign missionary field, if the way is open. The college has, from its earliest history, been identified with foreign missions and has sent out in all one hundred and three missionaries into seventeen foreign countries. Not many colleges have done more in the mission field than Maryville.

The local Student Volunteer Band was organized in 1894 and has been continually active since then.

FRESHMAN STEPS FORTH INTO MATRIMONIAL SEA

October 22—The entire campus was greatly surprised today when it was learned that Virginia Beck, a member of the freshman class, had been married. She had spent the week-end at her home in Erwin, Tennessee, and it was while she was there that the wedding was secretly planned and manipulated.

She and her fiance, Vivian Johnson, were married in Johnson City after which they came to Maryville in order that Virginia might attend to her affairs here.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will probably make their home in Chattanooga.

Ten Best Proverbs in Bible Selected By Bible Students in Rodgers' Class

The ten best proverbs in the Bible have been selected by the students of Bible 8F. Each student handed in an individual list and from these the final list was compiled. Following is a list of these proverbs, giving the position of the verse and the number of students including it in their list.

Proverbs 15:1—(17). A soft answer turneth away wrath: but grievous words stir up anger.

22:6—(13)—Train up a child in the way he should go: and when he is old he will not depart from it.

22:1—(12)—A good name is rather to be chosen than great riches, and loving favor rather than silver and gold.

16:18—(11)—Pride goeth before destruction and an haughty spirit before a fall.

27:2—(10)— Let another man praise thee, and not thine own mouth; a stranger, and not thine own lips.

16:32—(8)—He that is slow to anger is better than the mighty; and he that ruleth his spirit than he that taketh a city.

6:6—(6)—Go to the ant, thou sluggard; consider her ways, and be wise.

17:17—(5)—A friend loveth at all times, and a brother is born for adversity.

17:22—(5)—A merry heart doeth good like a medicine: but a broken spirit drieth the bones.

21:23—(5)— Whoso keepeth his mouth and his tongue keepeth his soul from troubles.

Probably this list would not entirely satisfy any single member in Dr. Rodgers' class. Therefore, it is to be expected that many would disagree with the class opinion on the selection of some of these.

Oglethorpe Narrowly Averts Defeat By Last Minute Run

Maryville's Touchdown in Last Three Minutes of Hard Fought Game at Atlanta Spells Victory for Highlanders Until Cy Bell Evens the Score With a Spectacular 65 Yard Run.

Atlanta, Ga., October 27, (Special to the Highland Echo)

In one of the most spectacular games of the South, Oglethorpe and Maryville divided the football honors here today. The score was a tie at 0-0 until within the last three minutes of play, when Oglethorpe's center passed a low one which rolled for ten yards before finding a resting place in Tillie Bird's anxious arms. Bird sprinted across the goal line for 6 points.

In the next minute, Maryville kicked off, the ball exchanged hands once, and when Maryville punted, Oglethrope returned the ball 65 yards for a goal. Their kick failed. The score was then 6-6. Time prevented more scoring and the game ended.

The Highlanders were backed by a handful of the most enthusiastic rooters that ever witnessed a grid fray. About fifty Maryvillians had assembled when the second half started.

Maryville opened up with a good aerial offense, and had the ball in the foe's end of the field most of the first quarter, while Oglethorpe seemed to have a slight edge on the visitors in the second period. Both teams adopted a passing game in the last half, with an occasional dash through the line for a good gain.

When the game ended, everyone who saw it realized that he had seen two good teams play a good game. The men in the press box, who saw Georgia Tech's game last week, paid both Maryville and Oglethorpe tribute when they said "It was a great game!".

Play by Play

Oglethorpe wins toss; receives on 5 yard line, but is downed there. Wilson and Hope, Maryville, mess two center plays up; Oglethorpe first down through center, then kicks out to Davis who fumbles, recovers, and gains a yard. Bird goes around end for 10 yards, then

Frosh Intelligence Judged By Answers Seems Questionable

Noah Webster Should Revise His Dictionary to Comply With New Definitions.

The intelligence test is over. The mentality of the freshman has been weighed in the balance and, as usual, found sadly wanting.

About the time the excitement caused by the "insult" of having to take such a test subsided, grades were given out. Comments on these lasted about a week.

The highest scores of this year's intelligence test were captured by a sophomore boy and a freshman girl. The names of these individuals cannot be made known, at present.

The intelligence of our freshman geniuses,—and Maryville, by the way, has many such,—surprises us all. There were almost enough new word meanings to enable us to revise Webster's Dictionary. The following is a fair sample of the brilliance of Maryville's new students:

A poem is a native, unskilled laborer of the Orient.

A placard of a decorative character is a flapper.

An alligator is any animal that devours its own kind.

A sun bonnet is a kind of broad-brimmed hat.

T. B. is a gradual recovery to health after sickness.

A Police force is a body of persons appointed to deal with some [illegible]

Biology is the science or art dealing with the prevention, cure and alleviation of diseases.

A monologue is a conversation between two or more people.

A figure having six sides is a biplane.

A dog of no definite breed is called a hound.

A hammock is any body suspended from a fixed point so as to swing freely to and fro.

A trust company is a person who has betrayed a confidence or trust.

History is a list for facilitating references to topics in a book.

A figure with six sides and six angles is a trapeze.

Collegiate Slouch No Longer Stylish

Sane Clothing Found at Yale, Princeton, and Even at Vandy.

The university man, acknowledged oracle in the world of men's wear, has returned to sanity in dress, according to surveys of three widely separated educational institutions.

In the North, Yale University was selected as a typical university in a "university town." In the South, Vanderbilt was chosen, for the same reason. And for a middle ground, Princeton was selected.

In all of these, observers found that almost unanimously, the students had reverted from the "slouchy" college fendency of recent years, to a tidiness and care in dress that was surprising.

In all the colleges, the starched collar was found to be so nearly universal that it appears to constitute almost a uniform. The comfortable low, pliant starched varieties were most in demand in both North and South.

Extreme cuts of trousers, absurd shirt, collar and tie combinations and other freakish effects have disappeared.

The college man, according to one student, realizes that he is a potential wage earner, and that he is judged by his habits in clothes as well as in his other practices. He is not attractive to his colleagues, to the co-eds or to his future employer in silly-looking clothes.

That is why he has decided to wear reasonable clothes.

27 Players Now On College Orchestra

Saxaphone Sextette is a New Feature to be Used in Coming Concerts.

BASS VIOL TO BE ADDED

Radio Concert Seems To Be A Likely Possibility.

For the past several years, the college orchestra has been one of the most prominent musical organizations on the Hill. Recently, a try-out was held to determine the musical ability of those aspiring to membership. Fifteen wind instruments and twelve violins were selected, the players of which are on probation for the present.

Although a number of valuable members were lost from the orchestra last year, there are thirteen old members back, and the remaining ones give promise of excellent material.

Every Tuesday night, when melodious strains of music are heard floating from the chapel, one may know that Miss Butcher and her orchestra are hard at work, for there are many plans for concerts ahead. There will be at least one concert program given here. In all probability, there will be an opportunity for the orchestra to give one broadcasting program, and perhaps more. A number of concerts will be given in neighboring towns.

Several unusual features will be worked out this year. There will be either a saxophone sextette or octette, which is bound to tickle the funny-bone of any audience. Duets for flute and clarinet, trios for flute, clarinet and violin, and especially, for flute, violin and harp, are being planned. A double-bass violin, a much-wanted addition, will soon be added to the orchestra.

The stringed ensemble, consisting of violins, harp, and piano, will again be a special feature on the concert programs.

Carnegie has a new directory of the hall. Each fellows' name and room number is on the bulletin board; the list is covered with a handsome cracked glass plate.

Shop Made Homeless By New Locker Rooms

Machines Lieing Idle Under Thaw Hall Awaiting New Home.

The equipment of the manual training shop which was formerly in the basement of Bartlett Hall has been removed to the basement of Thaw Hall. Need of space for more up-to-date lockers for the athletic teams forced the abandonment of the shop.

Since it would be highly objectionable to have the noise from such a shop under the library it is planned to do only necessary repair work in the new location. The poor lighting facilities and the uncompleted condition of the basement are also hindrances to the establishment of a permanent shop in this place.

In past years the manual training shop has furnished work for a group of boys who made various kinds of high grade furniture, etc. The passing of this source of income is lamented by some, but there seems to be no alternative at the present time. The solution to the problem would be the erection of a separate building to care for all carpenter work as well as plumbing and machine work. We hope sometime soon to realize this ambition and be able to fill the need adequately.

Outside Talent In Festival Tonight

Trio From Knoxville and Our Own Lucy Horton Will Appear in Concert.

Tonight at 8:00 o'clock one of the big musical events of the year will be presented.

The Fall Festival this year promises to be by far the biggest and best yet. In addition to the talent that we have on the Hill at present our own Lucy Horton is coming back to play for us. There will be a Knoxville trio of unusual excellence assisting. Mrs. Marjorie Whaley, soprano, will give a group of numbers, as will Miss Margaret Connor, a violinist of real ability who has been studying in New York the past year. Mrs. Whaley and Miss Connor will also give a group together. Mr. Frank Nelson, pianist, needs no introduction to Maryville music lovers.

No one can afford to miss the first musical event of the season. Tonight—Voorhees Chapel—8 oclock.

A Good Audience?

We of the audience were responsible for the success of the first lyceum number of the season, given Saturday night, October 20. Mr. Henry said so. He and his company gave us an excellent and artistic program of magic though working under considerable difficulty, having driven all of the preceding night in order to get here on time Saturday. He said that without the help of an appreciative audience he and his assistants might have gone to sleep on the stage.

Our conduct, really was commendable, being especially suited for the needs of a company of tired entertainers. Perhaps we can excuse some of the rhythmical clapping and foot-stomping which took place before the program, when, as in this case, it served to keep the lyceum artists awake. We hope, however, that entertainers in the future will not need such boisterous assistance from the audience.

It would be unjust to place the responsibility for this sort of horse-play entirely on the freshmen, in spite of the fact that it savors more of high school than of college. A few upperclassmen assisted in the racket, thus making it appear to the freshmen that such conduct is as common here as they have been used to, perhaps, in high school. Fellows, people do not expect anything of this sort from a college audience; it is not even "collegiate".

There is one other thing we hope some of the freshman fellows will soon "get on to". Lyceum programs are considerably more formal affairs than are pep meetings. Yet, some freshmen appeared in the audience Saturday night in their regular, informal pep-meeting regalia. Live and learn, froshes.

Teachers By The Hundreds

Figures furnish interesting material for speculation and deductions. On the front page of this issue there is a tabulation showing the number of men and women in each of the various classes who at present have the intention of teaching after leaving Maryville.

The first thing of interest which strikes one is the large total number of students preparing to teach. Over half of the students on the Hill are looking forward to a period of pedagogy after college. Approximately three fourths of the senior class have this intention. Judging from the record of the past, a considerable number of the remaining fourth will change their minds before September, 1929. Yet they say the Teachers' College is at Johnson City.

The next deduction of interest has to do with the relative number of men and women teachers-to-be, progressing from the freshman class on to the senior class. The number of men in the various classes stays approximately the same. This would lead one to believe that the men who enter with the intention of teaching continue on to graduation with the same intention. Not so with the girls. Before freshman girl prospects for the profession reach the rank of seniority, over half of them have either left school or changed their minds concerning their life work.

Fellows, when the lady friend informs you that she intends to teach after leaving Maryville, take the statement "cum grano salis", and don't give up the ship. Facts, figures and history are on your side.

A woman has never been known to kick when a man falls at her feet.

HIGHLAND FLINGS—

Little Bobby Hunter went to the drug store the other day. "Five cents worth of castor oil," he commanded. "The tasteless kind?" asked the clerk. "No sir," answered Bobby, "it's for father."

The Professor: My dear man, are you sure this hair tonic is good?

Clerk: I am. Last night I spilled some on a comb and now it's a brush.

She: What's the smell in the library?

He: The dead silence they keep there.

"That boy's a human dynamo."

"Really?"

"Yes, everything he has on is charged."

The difference between the 1900 kiss and the 1928 kiss is the difference between discussion and performance.

"And did her father come between you?"

"No, behind me."

"Poor guy. Cupid shot him with a machine gun."

"Eh?"

"He's engaged to four girls."

The height of villainy is for a professor to borrow a student's pencil with which to give him a zero.

"How far were you from the correct answers in that theism test?"

"Two Seats".

Here's An Article YOU OUGHT TO READ

Available Energy

by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, Science Sept. 28, 1928

Found! Birthplace of Matter

"Astronomy is often called the most useless of the sciences, and so it is from the standpoint of the man whose time horizon extends ten years forward and ten years backward; and that man, too, probably represents ninety per cent of all mankind. But for the smaller fraction of men who have been able to rise above the mole's outlook, who have studied enough of the past and understood enough of the present to have acquired a three hundred year time-horizon, for all such the foregoing statement is grotesquely incorrect."

Dr. Millikan points out developments in pure science which have disproved one popular notion of modern science. This is the idea that man may some day be able to disintegrate the atom and use the "tremendous energy" therein to run his engines and to take the place of the disappearing coal supply. Dr. Millikan says that 99% of all matter is already in its most stable form and if disintegrated would require rather than give off energy.

Dr. Millikan presents a novel theory to explain what happens to energy when it goes wandering around loose out in space. Heretofore it has been thought that the energy thrown out by stars was lost forever. Dr. Millikan, however, says this energy gets out in the extreme cold and low pressure of interstellar space and then changes back to matter.

His proof for this statement is very interesting and is directly connected with his famous researches of recent years with the "cosmic rays". He says, "the observed cosmic rays are the signals broadcasted throughout the heavens of the births of the common elements out of positive and negative electrons."

Incidentally

——One freshman persisted in speaking of the "physiology test" for freshmen. It turned out that the desired word was "psychological."

——Dr. Rodgers was telling his classes the other day about a man who was "so low-down that he had to reach up to touch the bottom."

——Dr. Gillingham heaved a sigh of relief Saturday when he snapped the picture of the last new student on the Hill. He was afraid another might get married and get away.

——Every year some couple very nearly misses the train at the mountain hike. This year saw three couples headed by Dr. Hussey come puffing and blowing into the station just three minutes late. Through the kindness of the engineer the train was halted and after a hard run the stragglers climbed aboard.

——On such an occasion as the mountain-hike Sam Broughton is not to be bothered. A certain freshman, having incurred the anger of the Arkansas Tornado, was properly squelched.

——Among the many happy couples who merrily romped over the hill and dale were Luke Foster and "Flaming Mamie". Next year will be a different proposition.

——A certain young man of an enterprising nature was heard to remark that his foot had fallen asleep. We wonder how far he hiked.

——Louise Goodson said she heard a Bird singing on the mountain tops. This has caused much comment, because Harold has never exhibited any musical ability around the campus.

——At the appearance of the conductor several stags were seen to dive hastily behind friendly seats. When necessary, the human body can be persuaded to occupy very little space.

——Several couples were known to have spent the day rowing back and forth across the river. If it were really imperative that they satisfy their maritime desires, they could easily have remained at home to throw stones in the gold-fish pond.

——It was a new experience for the freshmen. Perhaps they now can tell why mountain-hikes are popular.

——Can one imagine such an event as having taken place on one of our western prairies?

——Several complained of indigestion from too hurriedly eating their lunch. The call of the mountains must be strong.

——Paul Copley is mighty proud of his new rattle.

Electricity
opens a new era of ocean travel

Miraculously quiet and vibrationless, luxurious and swift, the new electrically operated S. S. California, largest American-built passenger ship, has opened a new era in ocean travel.

Electricity drives the California so efficiently that the fuel bill for the initial coast-to-coast trip was even less than the Canal tolls. Electricity mans the winches, bakes the bread, makes the ice, polishes the silver. And electricity cools the cabins and provides passengers with the comforts found in the finest hotels.

Complete electrification makes the California an engineering marvel and a commercial success; it is booked far in advance, a sister ship has just been launched, and another is under construction.

On sea or land, in every walk of life, electricity is in the van of progress. Undreamed of yesterday, the electric ship is a symbol of the electrical industry's part in modern civilization and a prophecy of even greater accomplishment.

This monogram is found on great motors that drive the California, and on a multitude of electric appliances which contribute to the comfort of her passengers. It is an emblem of skilled engineering and high manufacturing quality.

Locker Room Gossip

Byrd: How's Tennessee's team this year?

J. D.: Oh, passing fair.

Small Boy: How do you account for your football prowess?

Hero: Well, from the day I was born it was just bawl, bawl, bawl.

Hayes: What did you get on that quiz?

Billy: Zero, but that's nothing for me.

A sailor may have a girl in every port, but a college man has a girl on every davenport.

Bob Thrower tells this one. "Papa," asked the little boy, "Why does Fido wag his tail so much?"

"That's a means of expression, son," replied the parent.

"But, Papa, that isn't a means; it's an end. Ouch, Papa, that hurts."

"No, Dora, that's not Adolphe Menjou; it's Harold Bird, the handsome half-back."

J. D. tells this one on Farmer Watkins.

Two football men met in the dressing room.

"Say, Farmer, I've a lame back. What'd you do for yours when it was hurt?"

"I put Sloan's liniment on it and heated it. Let's go home, Ira."

Next day they met again.

"Oh, Farmer, I put that stuff on my back and it blistered it."

"Blistered mine, too. Let's go home, Ira."

Team Badly Crippled Goes Away Again Friday;

Lenoir-Rhyne Is Object of Highlanders' Onslaught This Saturday In Asheville

TEAM PLAYS AGAIN ON FOREIGN FIELD

Lenoir-Rhyne Game Promises a Hard Fight. Our Men Leave for Carolina Thursday.

Maryville fans who are anxious to see our grid team in action on the home field again must wait another week before they will have the opportunity to do so. Next Friday our boys tackle Lenoir-Rhyne at Hickory, North Carolina.

It will be necessary for the team to leave Maryville on Thursday in order to be in shape for the fray.

Lenoir-Rhyne is reputed to have a stronger team this season than those of recent years. Its latest accomplishment is a 14-6 victory over King College. Although Lenoir-Rhyne has met defeat several times this season, it has been at the hands of a strong foe on each occasion.

Let's all turn out on Thursday when our team leaves for the Tarheel State and give them a rousing send-off. If we're all behind the team they will surely bring home the bacon.

CONFLICTING DATES SPELL DOOM FOR THE Y.M.C.A. FALL HIKE

The Maryville boys who have been looking forward to the Y. M. C. A. mountain hike will have to wait until some time in the early spring. Other activities have taken up all acceptable dates for a Fall hike.

The date first decided upon was October 20, but the Lyceum number was scheduled for that time. Plans for November 3 were then considered, but society joint meetings made that date out of the question.

John Taggart, chairman of the athletic committee, says "We'll have to put the hike off, but we consider it such a good thing that we will have it early in the Spring."

How Does It Strike You?

—By TheSport

Ira Morrison

Ira "Doc" Morrison, that hard-hitting fullback of ours, was born March 7, 1907, in Crivits, Wisconsin. He went to Englewood High of Chicago, Illinois. Englewood is a large high school with an excellent football team. "Doc" played on the team three years. He weighs 165 pounds and is 5 feet 9 inches tall; he hauled all this from Chicago to Maryville on a bicycle. Everyone knows what a "hard-hitter" "Doc" is. He will make good as a medical missionary in Africa. When he finishes here he plans to attend Rush Medical College in Chicago. This is unauthorized, but Lutie Toole seems to be his "weakness now".

Hayes Williams

Hayes Williams was born at Mount Hope, Alabama in 1908. He went to North West High School at Haleyville, Alabama. When Hayes was in high school he played basketball, baseball and football. In 1925-26 he went to Florence State Normal for his first year of college. While he was at the normal he played baseball and basketball. Hayes has lettered at Maryville in track, baseball, and football. He weighs 150 pounds and is 5 feet 8 inches tall. After graduating from Maryville he plans to go to either Vanderbilt or Mercer to complete his study of medicine.

William Crawford

Billie Crawford, the boy that has more lettered sweaters than he has fingers and toes, was born at Montgomery, Alabama in 1906. Billie went to Central High School of Birmingham one year. He took part in track and football; he didn't letter, however, because freshmen weren't given letters.

Billie came from Central High to Maryville entering the "prep" department. He has taken a leading part in athletics since he has been in Maryville. He has lettered in football and track. His weight is 155 pounds and he is 5 feet 10 inches tall. Billie is going to study medicine next year at Vanderbilt or Tulane University.

Robert Watkins

Robert Watkins, known to most of us as "Farmer", was born at Winston-Salem, North Carolina in 1907. Farmer attended U. R. J. Reynolds High School at Winston-Salem. He took an active part in high school athletics, playing all four years on the football, basketball, and baseball teams. He went to Duke University in '26-'27, going out for football, baseball, basketball, wrestling and swimming.

The next year found Farmer at Maryville. Farmer was on the football, baseball and basketball squad last year. Everyone knows about this Tarheel's swimming ability and his famous bull frog dive that was a feature of last year's swimming team. After graduation Farmer intends to teach history and coach athletics. All of this athlete's 5 feet 8 inches and 165 pounds are for Herbert Hoover.

John Stone

A Knoxville paper says "They are not doing right by John Stone." We agree with the press. John broke into the Tiger line-up near the end of the season, after warming up a little with Evansville, and has delivered the goods since then like a veteran, but the sports writers have failed to give him the credit he deserves.

We predict that his name will be set in big type when they write up the Detroit games next year, and we base our predictions on the following record of this Maryville rookie:

Games	AB	R	H	RBI	Pct.
26	114	20	40	22	.351

The final American League Batting Record shows that Stone tied with Al Simmons of the Athletics for ninth place in the league this year. If this isn't an enviable record, what is?

GIRLS' POINT SYSTEM HEREWITH ELUCIDATED

Mrs. Queener, head of the women's department of physical education, has announced a complete and varied athletic program for the co-eds of the college.

In the list of sports in which the girls are to participate is to be found almost every activity of the sort that appeals to the girls of today. Soccer, volleyball, basketball, indoor baseball, archery, tennis, tumbling, swimming, track, field sports, and hiking are all to be on the sport calendar. It is hoped that the inclusiveness of this schedule will be such that each girl may have an opportunity to participate in her favorite athletic activity.

There are to be class teams in basketball, soccer, volleyball, indoor baseball, and tennis. Tournaments will probably be arranged in each of these sports.

The Maryville co-ed will have an opportunity to earn a varsity M on a sweater. An elaborate and well-planned system of point scoring has been arranged to determine which girls are eligible to receive awards.

The letter sweater will be given to girls who succeed in scoring 500 points. To girls who do not make 500 points but make 300 points or more a Maryville monogram, M. C., will be awarded.

Points will be given for proficiency in all branches of sports. They are, of course, given in proportion to the skill and effort required to fulfill the qualifications.

The majority of points scored will be made by dint of athletic prowess, but additional points are given for excellence in scholarship. For an "A" average in academic work during any semester, 20% of points won in that semester will be given in addition. Similarly for a "B" average, 10% of points won that semester will be given.

Points are also awarded for observance of health rules which are stated. Extra points are given to team captains and managers. The duties of these two are clearly outlined for them.

All in all this year promises to be the best yet in the history of co-ed athletics at Maryville. A competent instructor, adequate equipment, a representative program and a group of ambitious girls all indicate that interest in the "doings" of our girl athletes will be maintained throughout the year.

INJURIES ADD TO COACHES' WORRIES

Hard luck never travels alone, and this time it came in a crowd to cripple some of the best material the Highlanders could produce. In fact some of the older football followers say it's the biggest year for the injury crop this part of the country has seen in a long while.

Anyhow, Hayes Williams the "Mercury Heels" of Alabama is dragging one foot around because of a bad knee. Billie Crawford has an ankle that gave him trouble in the last game and doesn't seem to be improving.

"Doc" Morrison is another regular who is nursing an injury, having been hit hard on the hip. Lee Calloway, the freshman who romps through the line at will, certainly cramped our style at Atlanta by being home with a seriously wrenched ankle.

Vincent and Wilson, two of the frosh players, are suffering from injuries, and a few others have minor ailments that keep them from being in good condition.

We hope these boys will all be back in the line-up before long, and that lady luck will smile on them from now on.

Oglethorpe Narrowly Averts Defeat By Last Minute Play

through center for another first down. Morrison and Davis go through the line for short gains, then Bird goes around end for a first down. Oglethorpe substitutes Well for Gifford. After an exchange of ball, Ira Morrison hides out and receives pass from Davis for 20 yard gain. Maryville passes twice, gaining ten yards, then loses ball on downs. After a couple of attempts McLaughlin carries the ball through center for a first down, and in two plays has gone around end for another first. Wilson and Morrison are getting some pretty tackles. The ball goes out of bounds as the period ends.

Second Quarter

Herring passes to Martin for 20 yards and a first down in the first play, and Cherry makes a nice tackle. Williams knocks down a pass, but the next one by the air adds twenty more yards for Herring and Martin. Maryville holds and gets the ball on downs. Davis plays safe and kicks. Bell and Woodward, Oglethorpe, substituted for McKrassich and McLaughlin.

Oglethorpe finds sledding rough and kicks 40 yards to Davis. Bird hits the line, but Davis is forced to kick. Bell passes to gain 10 yards and a first down; Fox goes through the line for another first down.

Oglethorpe stands are in an uproar. Johnson and Vincent are now in for Maryville. A short pass from Bell to Wall, and an end run nets Oglethorpe 28 yards and a first down. They fail to advance ball, Maryville kicks out forty-five yards. Oglethorpe can take only five yards, so Clement kicks. Davis, now on defensive game, kicks again. Oglethorpe, with two passes in succession, gets as many first downs. Johnson, Maryville, makes a pretty tackle and Vincent knocks down a pass to finish the half. The score is 0-0.

Third Quarter

Bird kicks off to Oglethorpe; they fumble and MacDonald recovers for Maryville. Davis sends Bird through the line five times to make two first downs, and passes to Bird for a small gain, but loses ball on downs.

Oglethorpe rips up the line for two good gains and a first down. Overly stops a play through his side of the line. An exchange of kicks, and Williams, Maryville, recovers a fumble. Unable to gain, Maryville kicks. Both sides now playing a tight game, persistent efforts at bucking the line fail time and again. In the next six plays neither side is able to do much toward changing the score, but each gets a first down. As the whistle blows it is still 0-0.

Fourth Quarter

Oglethorpe fumbles and Maryville finds a cross buck useful for 5 yards, but fails to make the 10 yards. Oglethorpe gets the ball, and Bell goes through for a first down. Pass from Bell to Fox gives them one more first. Wilson, Maryville tackle, stands out in the line. An exchange of kicks takes place, and then with the crowd in a frenzy, Kratz, center, passes a low one to Oglethorpe's backfield, and MacDonald picks it up and runs thirty yards. With the ball on the three yard line Maryville sends Bird over the line on the second trial and Maryville fans go wild. Bird fails to kick. Maryville kicks and both teams open up a barrage of overhead plays, Oglethorpe completing 2 for first downs. Williams intercepts a pass, and Davis gets off a pretty kick. Bell of Oglethorpe makes a sensational run of 65 yards for a touchdown. Harris blocks the kick and with 45 seconds to play, Maryville substitutes Taggart, receives the kick-off, and runs two plays before the game ends 6-6. 6-6.

Saturday at the Societies

Athenian—Bainonian

Somebody said: "Let's get together on this." And so we shall. Athenians and Bainonians are planning for their joint-meeting this year to be the best ever.

The program is to be given in the chapel on the night of November third at 7:30.

Among the delightful numbers on the program we find enough types of entertainment to suit the tastes of all, for there are included athletic feats; a number of varied musical selections, including a duet by the presidents of the societies, Mary Chris Benn and Walter Courtenay, and a few numbers by a quartet whose reputation is widely known; remarks by various prominent characters, and, finally, an exhibition of the dramatic abilities of the two societies, in a one-act play.

Those who have attended these meetings before will want to go again, and those who have not attended before will soon find out that there are always plenty of good eats and lots o' fun when Athenians and Bainonians get together.

MARYVILLE MUSICIANS HEAR EDWARD JOHNSON

October 27— Over sixty students of the music department went to Knoxville tonight to hear the first of three programs which the music department is making available for its students.

This first program was presented by Edward Johnson, a renowned singer of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company.

The second one, The Salzedo Harp Ensemble, will be presented on December 3d. On February 23, the date of the last number of the series, there will be a program by Rosa Ponselle, one of the most beautiful and famous dramatic sopranos of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Springer—Caldwell

The Knoxville News-Sentinel carries the announcement of the engagement of Miss Mildred Springer of Anderson, Indiana, to Mr. Edward A. Caldwell of Maryville, to be married October 29.

Mr. Caldwell was a member of the class of 1922 and is now connected with the Kennedy-Gillespie Shoe Co., Knoxville.

Sevier County Club

On Wednesday, October 17th, the students from Sevier County met and organized a club. The following officers were elected:

President - - - Joe Sharp
Vice-President - - - Stella Huff
Secretary-Treasurer - - Sam King
Editor - - - Newell Carter

This is the first Sevier County Club ever organized at Maryville College.

Jack Cotton, our editor, says that one can make money at this writing job—if one is a stenographer.

Girls See Ghosts
New Athenians Entertain
Cheer-Leader Returns

A large crowd of girls gathered in Theta Hall to witness the joint program of the two societies. Bainonians opened the program with an interesting history of Hallowe'en, followed by a song and story about ghosts. Peggy Mevis, a Theta, gave a reading in a very clever manner. Then the girls guided by a ghost, were taken through a Chamber of Horrors where the remains of a poor old man were kept.

The Athenian program was presented entirely by new men. All the new men on the program made creditable showings. The quartette was handicapped in filling repeated encores because it had only two songs to sing. These embryonic opera stars are, basses: Berry and Wallace; tenors: Cooper and McCown.

Former cheer-leader Poe, of the class of '23, furnished the principal address of the evening at the Alpha Sigma meeting. Reports were made by the committee on pins and the Mid-Winter committee. Members wishing to obtain pins were asked to see Frank Baker.

FRENCH PLAY

October 26—Today our modern language department presented the French play, "La Surprise d' Isidore", at the East Tennessee Educational Association at U. T.

The play is under the direction of Miss Wilkinson and is to be presented here some time this week. It will be given either in the chapel or the Y. W. auditorium and will be open to all who wish to attend.

"La Surprise d' Isidore" was originally a Spanish play, but has been translated into the French.

The cast consists of some of Maryville's most fluent speakers of French:

Adolphe Picard, a doctor - - Roger Rusk
Suzanne, his wife - Hazel Bowers
Isidore, a friend - - Lusby Knick
Madame Dewal, Suzanne's mother - Virginia Sting
Jeanne, a maid - Ruth Laughead

The Texarkoma Club

The Texarkoma Club, composed of students from Texas, Arkansas and Oklahoma, was organized last week with thirteen members—nine from Texas, two from Arkansas, and two from Oklahoma. The club not only plans to have the usual picnic, but is working on a constructive project as well.

The following officers were elected:

Selma Baird - - - President
Henry Fullerton - Vice-President
Doris Niles - Secretary-Treasurer
Vera Boyd - - - - Editor

HOOVER LANDSLIDE IN 1104 COLLEGES

Tennessee Among Five States In The South Voting For Hoover.

HOOVER 3 TO 1 IN EAST

Smith Carries Student Vote in 10 States; N. Y., 9-5 for Hoover.

In the first American college straw vote ever taken by College Humor magazine and the college dailies Hoover received a two to one vote.

At the September registration this year there were 892,808 students in the 1,104 American colleges, of which 544,685 were men and 348,123 girls. This army of young voters (most of whom had never had any experience at the polls) have been termed by Democrats and Republicans as the hope of America. The two parties should be interested in figures obtained.

The co-operation of the college newspapers was secured, the majority of them running ballots on their front pages. Voting boxes were placed at strategic spots on the campus. Returns were wired to Chicago at the latest possible moment. Thousands of secret ballots were mailed by College Humor to fraternities and sororities in every college. In many schools, particularly in the southern states, the students did strenuous campaigning for their favorites.

Analysis of the vote showed that Herbert Hoover had the majority of student votes in thirty-eight states and the District of Columbia. Alfred E. Smith carried ten states: Virginia, Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana and Texas.

Dividing the country into zones, every one of the following eastern states voted for Hoover: Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, and Delaware. The largest vote for him was in Connecticut, nine to one. Smith made his best showing in New York, where the vote ran nine to five for Hoover. The total votes in the eastern states gave Hoover a three to one majority.

In the southern states, Smith carried every state with the exception of West Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Oklahoma, Arkansas and the District of Columbia. The vote was closest in Kentucky and West Virginia, Hoover winning,—curiously enough,—by only three votes in both cases. Smith's majority was a comfortable one in every other state he carried, Texas and Louisiana going over to his standards four to one. Of all votes cast in the sixteen southern states, Smith led bb a majority of seven to five.

Of the central states, Hoover carried every one of them. The west-central (North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, and Kansas) all went Republican by a total vote of three to one.

Hoover carried every western state (Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Arizona, Nevada, New Mexico, Washington, Oregon and California). Taking the total of all votes cast in this section he led three to one. In Colorado the Democrats were strongest, three to two and in Montana the weakest, thirty nine to one. Of all the states in the union, Montana was the strongest for G.O.P. forces.

Virginia cast the greatest number of individual votes for Smith, and Pennsylvania the most votes for Hoover. The largest percentage in any one college was twenty to one for Smith in Mount St. Mary's College, Emmitsburg, Maryland. The largest percentage for Hoover in any one college was eighteen to one at Wheaton College, Wheaton, Illinois.

Will Rogers obtained one-half of one per cent of the total student vote. The following was received from the St. John's Collegiate, Annapolis, Maryland: "Hoover 128, Smith 120, Texas Guinan 2, Students dry and faculty all wet."

Hope at Graduation

Fred Hope

November 1—The students of Maryville College had the great privilege this morning of seeing and hearing one of the noblest men who ever went out from this college. We who have heard of Fred Hope nearly all our lives were especially eager to see this man who, as Dr. Wilson says, is a greater hero than many persons who have become world-famous.

Mr. Hope told of the difficulties which hindered the missionaries who first went to the West coast of equatorial Africa. The ministers and teachers who went there a generation ago met almost insurmountable obstacles. The diseases common to the tropics attacked them, killing some and leaving others broken in health. Superstition and ignorance filled the land. Cruelty and deceit were characteristics of the natives. Transportation facilities were limited, the bicycle being one of the principal means of travel.

When Dr. Good went to these people carrying the Gospel they could not understand it. They did not believe anyone would leave home and friends just to tell the story of this Man who died many centuries ago that all men might have eternal life. And then again, no loving father would allow his son to die for a friend, while this white man said the Heavenly Father allowed his Son to die for strangers. Yes, this white man was a great liar. (Thus was Dr. Good complimented, for it was counted an honor to be called a liar.)

An organization among the natives, called the Gorilla Society, forbade the people to have anything to do with the white man's religion. The missionaries worked several years but they seemed to make no progress. At last the Foreign Mission Board decided to withdraw the workers and send them to more receptive fields. But the missionaries were not willing to give up. They asked for another opportunity. They remained on the field, and their efforts finally began to bear fruit. Dr. Johnson succeeded in exposing the Gorilla, thus making the work become easier.

Mr. Hope has been at work in Africa for twenty-one years. He has seen the work grow by leaps and bounds. People came to Elat from fifty, seventy-five, or even one hundred miles away to hear the Gospel. He has seen five hundred converts baptized at one time. The church building has been outgrown repeatedly. At one meeting when there was such a great crowd that many could not get in, the missionary tore down the walls so that all might hear. Once the people had to be driven back from the front seats to make room for the candidates for baptism. Finally, a church large enough to seat five thousand was built. At a meeting held about eighteen months later the church was full and thirty-five hundred people were outside.

The oratory class under Dr. Hunter met last week for the first time and began work. Six boys and one girl were present. The East Tennessee Oratorical Contest is to be held at Maryville this year, and Maryville students will have an opportunity to hear our own college orator.

HONOR ROLL
1927-1928

Eighty-one students attained a place on the college honor roll for scholastic work last year. These students deserve commendation for their good work. Their names are given below with the class in which they were registered last year.

MARYVILLE GRAD GIVEN LEADERSHIP IN MICHIGAN

Joe C. Gamble, who is attending the Law School of the University of Michigan, has been elected President of the Lawyer's Club of the University. This is quite an honor and a distinction. The President of the Law Department is ex-officio Chairman of the Student Council of the University. Mr. Gamble is a member of the Senior Class, and is the only Southern student that has ever held this position in the University of Michigan.

Joe graduated here in 1927. He was one of the most popular men on the campus. He was football captain in his Senior year.

MARYVILLE NOSES OUT LENOIR-RHYNE IN LAST QUARTER 7-0

Carolinans Have Good Team, Making Good Gains By Passing, But Never Threaten Opponents' Goal. Highladners Felt Need of Several Regulars Missing on Account of Injuries.

Maryville didn't look like the same team that held Oglethorpe to a 6-6 tie last week, but we did manage to get out on the long end of a 7-0 score. The Maryville eleven didn't get started soon enough to run up a big score.

Lenoir Rhyne won the toss and Delaney kicked off for Maryville. The ball was returned to their 40 yard line, and the game was in full swing. The first half found Davis, Bird, Williams and Crawford toting the pigskin for the invaders, and though they tried the ends in vain, they were forced to use line plays to gain. Williams made one long end run, however, during the first period, shaking off would be tacklers as he went, and it would have been a score had the Alabama flash not allowed his pedal extremity to wander outside the chalk by a few inches, six yards from the goal.

[illegible] men funefl[illegible] played together, at this period in the fray, and the team seemed to be in a fog as to signals.

In the second quarter Maryville attempted a few passes which were downed by Lenoir-Rhyne men, who in turn opened up a series of passes that netted some nice gains. Maryville got organized eventually and stopped the onslaught before there was any danger of scoring, and got its offensive game working so that the Highlanders found themselves twice on the Carolinans' 8 yard line, but unable to score. This half went two touchdowns in favor of the officials, and the score was still a blank tie.

During the half Lenoir-Rhyne staged a big demonstration, elated over the fact that Maryville hadn't scored, and it began to look like the Highlanders couldn't score when the third period rolled by. The quarterbacks decided that a punting duel was in order, and accordingly

Earthquake Suspected

November 2—Tonight about three minutes after ten a stray quake got by the night watchman and proceeded to shake up all the various halls and their occupants. Many were asleep and missed the fun. Some of the boys in Carnegie thought somebody was having a hot party on the third or fourth floor.

The college democratic headquarters is circulating the report that this is a republican campaign stunt. Hoover is trying to loosen up the Solid South.

To Have Or Not To Have Juries Is The Debators' Question

Pi Kappa Delta Debators In U. S. Colleges Will Attack Jury System

This year the colleges will witness a verbal attack on one of the strongest and oldest principles in vogue today.

Pi Kappa Delta debaters throughout the United States will discuss the query: Resolved, That a Substitute Should be Made for the Jury System.

This was the choice sent to national headquarters by the local chapter of Pi Kappa Delta and is the question that will be debated at Maryville this year.

It should be interesting to every college sudent and affords an issue for real debate.

The members of the debate class are showing some interest now, and soon they will be delving into the jury records to find out what should or should not have been. Professor Queener will ask that the question be broken up into all its details and reconstructed in two opposing facts.

Professor Queener is Governor of the Kentucky Province of Pi Kappa Delta and hopes to take representatives in debate, oratory, and extemporaneous speaking to the convention next Spring.

Hope Tells of Engine Trouble in Carrying Saw-Mill Into Interior

Two white men stood on the coast of Western Equatorial Africa and surveyed with dismay the huge pile of machine parts on the sand before them, left by the passing steamer. These parts represented a $2500 steam engine and saw mill, ordered from America, which was to be assembled, carried 120 miles into the interior and there set up as a unit of the industrial school.

The epic story of that trip was told in the Maryville College chapel Friday morning when Fred Hope, our Presbyterian missionary to Africa, closed his visit to the students. It was an intensely fascinating recital, and held the students' interest until the end.

"There we stood, Gregg and I," continued Mr. Hope, "and neither of us knew a thing about steam engines. How to get the thing assembled was the first problem. There happened to be a picture of the complete engine among the wrappings, and we spent the next eight days in making those parts look like the picture. And then when that was done, we blew out three safety plugs before it occurred to us that the blooming thing needed water."

After that, according to Mr. Hope, things went smoothly. It took a week to cover the fourteen miles of sandy bog immediately about the coast. By that time the whole native country was assembled to see the wonderful monster that ate fire and drank water. At times the crowds hindered progress so that the drivers had to clear the atmosphere by a prolonged shriek of the whistle.

To complicate matters, the governor of the colony had sent orders to close a newly finished bridge against them which spanned a tropical stream some miles ahead. The two Americans had no intention of building a private bridge to accomodate their train when the one already built might be used. So the two conferred and decided upon a plan of attack. Everyone in the country knew of their slow progress, and so they reasoned that the gate-keeper would not be expecting them for several days. A surprise attack was obviously the plan. Starting early the next day, they drove as rapidly as possible all day long, the trucks piled high with the other equipment bumping along behind, until by sundown they reached the bridge-head and with a roar, started across the bridge. Out came the surprised gatekeeper, forbidding them to proceed further. Mr. Hope, with a wink at Gregg, who remained on the driver's box, descended to argue with the gatekeeper. In the midst of a prolonged explanation of the governor's order, Gregg got the steam up, let the engine out, and in short order had pulled the remaining trucks off the bridge.

The two drivers were learning by this time to handle the engine and made much better progress. But in crossing another stream they met disaster. One of the mahogany timbers supporting the wooden bridge

Rev. W. B. Minton Dies

November 5—Rev. W. B. Minton, the husband of our Spanish teacher, Mrs. Minton, died this morning at about seven o'clock. He was a few months over seventy-nine years of age.

Funeral services will be conducted in the Presbyterian church tonight at seven o'clock. The body will be sent for burial to the home of Mr. Minton's brother in Carlinville, Illinois.

APPEAL TO EYE AND EAR TO BE COMBINED IN SINGERS' CONCERT

The Glee Singers fall concert which will be presented Tuesday night, November 20, is going to make use of the "talkie" moving picture principle; that is, there will be a simultaneous appeal to both eye and ear, thus making the club songs doubly effective. To carry out this idea, appropriate scenic and lighting effects are being planned for each of the club songs so that they will appeal not only because of their musical value, but also because of their stage presentation. Many features of this program will be distinct novelties on the college stage.

The Dixie Vagabond quartet will furnish a large share of the evening's entertainment. Those who heard this quartet last year have some idea what to expect. Everyone is promised something unique in quartet entertainment.

There will be a girls' chorus of twelve voices assisting in one of the principal club numbers. There will be another "xylorimba xylorization". Solos will be sung by Bowles and Countenay. John Chestnutt our violin virtuoso, will appear on the program.

The Last Act

Our much press-agented political show is about over. We who have attended, of necessity, are about ready to end the whole performance. We have watched the rival ring-masters, Work and Raskob, put the elephant and the donkey through their paces. We have watched and applauded acrobatic maneuvers of one or the other of the candidates. We have seen them do miraculous feats of balancing between opposing factions; we have seen them swing back and forth between lofty sentiments. We have seen Hoover swallow huge gobs of oil apparently without noticing it; we have seen Smith blandly plunge from the top of the democratic poll, splitting it on the way down, landing with a splash in a tub of light wine and beer. We have witnessed numerous clashes in the grand-stands. We have heard the bellows of the bally-hoo boys in front of the big tent. We have swallowed many of the marvels of the side-shows without noticing the strings underneath. We have had our fortunes told by Mme. Literary Digest, Mlle. Hearst and Prof. Babson—and have enjoyed it.

Now we are ready to verify or disprove these political prophecies. Tomorrow we will leave the enveloping campaign tent and deposit our checked slips with the gate-keeper. Tomorrow the "doubtful states" will become decided; the South determine whether or not solidity also involves density; New York City and New York State will have it out.

Outside it all, a world full of spectators will watch with interest this final act in one of the most interesting of all American presidential campaigns.

Classes meet as usual tomorrow.

Racial Justice

The Commission on Interracial Cooperation, with headquarters in Atlanta, is offering three cash prizes aggregating two hundred dollars for the best papers on justice in race relations, submitted by students of Southern colleges during the present school year.

In case the prize winning papers shall have been delivered as orations on some college occasion or published in college periodicals during the present school year, the prizes will be, respectively, one hundred dollars, sixty-five dollars, and thirty-five dollars.

If prize winning papers have not been so delivered or published, the prizes will be respectively, seventy-five dollars, fifty dollars, and twenty-five dollars.

Contestants will be free to choose any phase of the subject, but other things being equal, preference will be given to practical discussions of prevalent conditions and attitudes, with suggestions for their improvement. Papers should not exceed 2,500 words in length and must be in the hands of the Commission on or before April 1, 1929.

Further information and suggested reading list may be had from R. B. Eleazer, Educational Director, Commission on Interracial Cooperation, 409 Palmer Building, Atlanta, Georgia.

Walt: All of me.

Incidentally

——Ghosts, Goblins and Gnomes reigned supreme last Wednesday night. The entire student body gathered in groups according to their classes and explored the mysteries of Hallowe'en.

——The promised full moon was without its upper rim. This, however, did not diminish its attraction to the many couples who stopped and gazed at it longingly on the way to the parties. Many sighs were audible.

——Seniors enjoyed the various parties given last week by the other classes. The only consolation is that every dog has his day.

——When the innocent freshmen become a little older, they, too, may go off the hill once a year.

——For those of us who had never seen Fred Hope before, last week was a treat. He deserves every word of approbation spoken by Dr. Wilson, and is worthy of our heartiest support.

——The slides and lecture presented by Mr. Hope gave us some new ideas concerning the dark continent. Devoted to the task of instructing the nation of Africa in living a happy, busy life, his service is truly great.

——There are only three games left on our football schedule.

——Ed Gay is at Florida U. this year. His buddy, Jackie McKinnen is studying for the ministry at Davidson, N. C. Those of us who knew these boys, wish they were back with us.

——The Fall Festival of Music was an enjoyable event for all music lovers. Every item of the program was well-rendered, and worthy of the hearty applause which it received.

——The joint meetings of the societies went off in great style. The brotherly and sisterly love was quite in evidence, since each loyal brother escorted each loyal sister to the programs.

——When a Sig wants to date a Bainonian, or an Athenian wants to date a Theta, much argument ensues. The resulting decision answers the question whether the female of the species is more dangerous than the male.

——Days are being counted now, for Christmas is less than two months off. Some of the seniors look thoughtful as the time flies by so swiftly. The last year always seems the shortest.

——Tomorrow is election day. May the better man win. But do not ask Joe Sharpe which is the better man, for he might be prejudiced.

Lights that Fill the Skies with Commerce

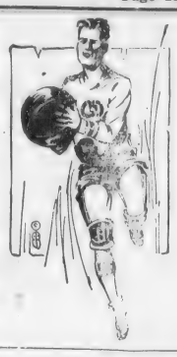
THE air map of America is now in the making—on the ground.

Ten years ago, there were 218 miles of air mail routes with two station stops; to-day, a network of sky roads bridges the country from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from Canada to the Gulf of Mexico.

Can you imagine this growth without electricity—without illuminated airports—without trunk lines studded with electric beacons?

Men of vision are building for increasing traffic of the air. Soon, the skies will be filled with commerce.

Just as electricity is helping to conquer the air, the land, and the sea to-day, so to-morrow it will lead to greater accomplishments in aviation and in every human activity.



A majority of the beacon lights used in airport and airway illumination have been designed and manufactured by the General Electric Company, whose specialists have the benefit of a generation's experience in the solution of lighting problems.

ELECTION RETURNS TO BE FLASHED ON SCREEN ON MAIN ST. TOMORROW

Election returns from all over the country will be brought to Maryville by special wire on Tuesday, November 6.

Citizens of Maryville and college students will have on election night the opportunity of seeing the returns of the election flashed upon a screen. Arrangements have been completed for a specially leased telegraph wire to be placed in the rooms above Walker's drug store. As fast as the returns are received over the wire and typewritten, a picture machine will project them across the street onto a screen on the front of Proffitt's department store. First the county returns, then the state returns, and later the national returns will be received and shown.

Because of the unusual interest which has been demonstrated in this year's election, a big crowd is expected to be on hand when the projection machine starts its work a little after dark.

These arrangements have been made possible by Walker's drug store, Proffitt's department store, the Maryville Times, and the Maryville Hoover headquarters. The office employees of the Hoover headquarters will handle the compilation and details of the returns as they come in over the wire.

ATLANTA GIVES M.C. BOYS ROYAL WELCOME

Those who went to Atlanta to see the Oglethorpe game brought home with them more than memories of one of the greatest games Maryville has ever played; they brought also a good impression of the Empire State of the South. Atlanta evidently outdid itself in an attempt to make the fellows realize what true Southern hospitality means.

Some former Knoxville residents, seeing a couple of Maryville students with nothing to do, took them for a drive in a Reo Flying Cloud, took them to dinner and then drove them to Emory University where the boys were staying.

Someone said, after seeing the peaches Georgia has to offer, that there were more pretty girls in Atlanta per square foot than in any other place per square mile. Atlanta seemed anxious to prove it, for Dean Fields, dean of men at Georgia Tech, entertained several Maryville boys along with some from Tech and Emory, by having a social hour Sunday night and inviting a score of Agnes Scott girls to help entertain. Needless to say, a good time is a very weak description of the evening.

Numerous tales of the big times had by various itinerant Maryvillians strengthen the theory that a Georgian must have written "Stay Out of the South".

How Does It Strike You?

—By The Sport

Andy Harris

Harris was born at Wildwood, only five miles from Maryville, in 1906. He went to school at Porter High two years. There he played on the baseball team. The last two years he came to Maryville Polytechnic. Andy played football and basketball both years he was at Polytech. Harris now weighs 155 pounds and is 5 feet 10 inches tall. Last year, his freshman year, he lettered on the varsity team, playing right end. Andy doesn't know exactly the line of work he will continue throughout life, but at present he intends to coach and teach Political Science when he graduates.

Carl Storey

The story of Storey upsets the bunk that a good athlete is not a good student. Carl has a brilliant athletic career joined with an enviable scholastic standing. He was born at Sullivan, Tenn. in 1907. At Culleoka High he played center on the football team for three years. He played basketball four years. Carl was also a good baseball player, playing center field two years. This is Storey's second year at Maryville. He has made a good record as a steady and dependable left guard on our eleven. He is also a good college baseball player. Carl has not decided on his work after graduating from college but his never dying energy will insure his success.

George Whitehead

The boy who plays tackle on our football team and has very black hair is named Whitehead. He was born at Walland, Tenn. in 1907. He came to Maryville one year in the Prep. Department and played on the prep ball team. He also played baseball for Porter High when he he attended that school. George went his last year in high school to Walland where he played football and was captain of the basketball team. Whitehead weighs 192 pounds and is 6 feet 1 inch tall. He is majoring in modern language, and intends to teach modern languages and coach after he graduates from Maryville.

Maryville Noses Out Lenoir-Rhyne in Last Quarter 7-0

each punted on the third down.

From the sidelines it sounded more like a debate than a football game, but in the fourth quarter someone discovered that silence was golden, and it was then and not till then that Maryville's grid men began to work like clock work, making repeated gains through Lenoir-Rhyne's line. When Maryville pushed the ball to the home team's 16 yard line, they were forced to pass on the last down, losing the ball on an incomplete pass. On the next play Lenoir-Rhyne fumbled and Maryville recovered. An off tackle play by Williams gave the Highlanders the ball on the 3 yard line, and Bird bucked it over,—and kicked a goal! From then on "Tillie" hit his stride, which was some step, cutting the opposing line to pieces at will. A few minutes of substitutions by both teams and the game was over. Score 7-0.

"Red" Johnson should be congratulated for the way he consistently threw Lenoir-Rhyne backs for a loss, during the few minutes he was in the game.

FLORIDA STEALS FROSH DUMB ANSWER LAURELS

Mary Chris Benn says the freshman intelligence test answers we printed last week were not so dumb. They produce much more interesting test question answers down in Florida. To prove this, she gives us the following extracts taken from high school test papers in her home town.

JOINT MEETING OF "Y"s NEXT SUNDAY

Fitting Program for Armistice Day Arranged.

Ten years ago next Sunday the world was gladdened to hear that the Great World War, which had been sapping its strength and energy for four long years, had finally come to an end and that peace and normalcy reigned once more. There was great rejoicing everywhere in celebration of the event and on its anniversary every year since, the country has turned in thought to that day and its significance.

Since November the 11th comes on Sunday this year the "Y.s" at Maryville are going to have a joint meeting in the college chapel at 4:30 p. m., and the program is to be made up of selections that are appropriate to the day. Since the war there have been many steps taken by the leading nations of the world in an effort to outlaw war as an instrument of the national policy of any nation, and the program is to be in commemoration of these steps toward international peace as well as in memory of those heroes of the Great War.

All students are urged to be present at this meeting and get the benefits that are certain to be there.

FELLOWS VISIT "BILL JOE" AT CHATTANOOGA

He Recalls Famous Poly Game In Which His Team Made All The Opponents' Points.

As he met us in the corridor, his rather full face broke into a grin, and he said, "How's Maryville?" and we saw that Professor Henry, for many years head of Polytechnic Institute in Maryville and now a headmaster at McCallie, Chattanooga, is still a Maryvillian at heart.

Of course, we talked football; about the Highlander stars that "Bill Joe", as he was affectionately called, had coached in prep school days. He got to reminiscing about the now famous Poly-Knoxville Central High game, and he told us how they put one over on the gamblers.

It seems that Knoxville was betting as high as 10 to 1 that Central would beat Polytechnic by 100 points. So "Bill Joe" just instructed his aggregation to run the ball for three downs, and on the fourth down, turn and run back to their goal line for a safety, giving their opponent 2 points, but allowing them to receive the ball.

This they did for the entire game, giving Central only 39 points. He chuckled as he finished, no doubt recalling the chagrin of the gamblers whom he had outwitted.

As we left, he called after us "Give Coach Honaker and the boys my best, and tell 'em I hope they win every game."

If everything's fair in love and war, what about the brunettes?

CHANGES IN RULES TO SPEED UP BASKETBALL

Dribblers Must Watch Their Steps; Less Protection Against Blocking Now.

In the new code of rules for 1929 intercollegiate basketball we find two drastic changes in rules. These rules concern the calling of fouls for blocking and charging.

Formerly when a player dribbled down the floor and an opponent got in his way, the opponent was charged with a foul for blocking. Not so in the new rules—the man advancing the ball is called for charging and the opponent throws a foul. This is also the case when a player makes a pivot and runs into an opponent. The player with the ball is guilty of charging, whereas last year his opponent was charged with blocking.

This change in rules is an attempt on the part of the officials to speed up the game, and we are anxious to see what the difference will be.

The National Association is urging all officials to call games closer this year, especially concerning the rule that prevents a man advancing with the ball, or as we ordinarily call it "taking steps".

So we see that we shall have much to look forward to when our basketball season opens a month or so hence.

Athenian Literary Society

On November 10 Athenian presents an Armistice memorial program, this year being the tenth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice declaration. This especially prepared program consists of the following numbers:

Piano Solo - - - Troy Soles
Address, "War—Causes and Consequences" - - - -
Robert Crosby
Piano Solo - - - -
Miss Ethel Mae Adkins
Reading—"It All Depends on The Way You Look at It" - Hayden Laster

Theta Epsilon

Theta's new girls are preparing a program to be given Saturday evening, November 10. From the various sounds heard almost every afternoon in Theta Hall, Marion Nooman and Mildred MacKenzie, the program committee, have started hard work on something worth while. Already we have heard rumors of a schoolroom scene, including several chorus dances; the wind brings whispers of a one-act play.

The new girls already have the pep essential to make Theta an outstanding literary society. They are trying to show the older girls what they understand Theta to mean.

Alpha Sigma

Some of the teachers are springing their mid-term exams and that reminds us that one fourth of the year has past. With every new quarter comes a new set of officers for Alpha Sigma. This Saturday night we shall elect the men who will lead the society until the the second semester begins.

A short program has also been prepared.

1. Alma Mater - Society
2. Clarinet Solo - Mr. Somers
3. American Folk Songs - - Mr. Topalian
4. Alpha Sigma Advance - - Mr. French

Georgia Club

This year we have a number of students from the "Cracker State" and expect to make things interesting for both the college and the Georgia peaches.

The following officers have been elected:

President - - George Williamson
Secretary and Treasurer - - Murle Underwood
Editor - - Walter Courtenay

Ohio Club

The Ohio Club intends to uphold its reputation this year as the best state club on the Hill. Just ask any one of the thirty-two loyal members if you don't believe it. The following officers have been elected for the year:

Jack Coughlin - - President
Virginia Sting - Vice-President
Douglas Marsh - - Secy.-Treas.
Mary E. Woodard - - Editor

Night Before Last

The joint meeting of Theta and Alpha Sig, in Thaw Hall Saturday night was a decided success. After the opening speech by Theta president, five excellent acts of vaudeville were presented, a tap dance, harmonica solos, a rag doll dance, a male quartette, and saxophone solos. The main feature of the evening was a one-act play, "The Trysting Place", by Booth Tarkington, a comedy so well acted that the audience was kept in hysterical laughter during the entire performance. The President of Alpha Sig then directed the way to the refreshment booth, nor were the people slow to follow his directions.

Alpha Sig may rightly be proud of its snappy little orchestra which delighted the hearers with many popular melodies between the acts of the program.

Athenians and Bainonians had an equal share in the excellent program presented at their joint meeting in the chapel. The string ensemble orchestra made a creditable showing. Misses Duke and Cupler, the "Drunken Sisters", put on a song and dance number that was a wow (Ed.—Amen!)

Sheppard surprised everyone with his ability to play his violin behind his back about as well as in the normal position. Courtenay spoke, among other things.

The rest of the evening's entertainment was of a more personal character. Athenian brothers seem to be quite pleased with their Bainonian sisters. The only complaint is that there are too few joint meetings.

Hope Tells of Engine Trouble In Carrying Saw-Mill

had been replaced by a careless native workman with a cottonwood timber. Everything seemed safe, but as the engine crossed the middle of the bridge the timbers beneath buckled under, and engine and drivers plunged into the stream beneath, the wreck of the bridge floating around them. Mr. Hope pulled himself out of the water and looked around for his companion. He pulled him out and found that a timber had smashed Gregg in the side, fracturing two ribs and a thumb. Mr. Hope sent a native ahead for a doctor and began to realize the calamity that had fallen upon them. The huge engine was upside down in the stream, with no wrecking crew convenient.

However, that did not daunt Mr. Hope. In the days that followed he began the slow task of raising the heavy machine to the original bridge level by painstakingly jacking it up, rebuilding the bridge underneath it, and with the help of 120 natives, pulling it to the shore.

There it remained until the rainy season had come to an end, and in time Mr. Hope brought the engine and sawmill to the mission.

It was truly an epic journey.

TWO REPRESENTATIVES IN HOSPITAL BETTER

November 1—Miss Margaret Huff, a local girl, who was operated on for appendicitis last Wednesday, was reported resting well today and is on the road to recovery. She is at the Howard-Henderson hospital in Knoxville.

Mr. Bill Grayson, who is at the Carson Hospital here in Maryville, is also much improved. He was in a serious condition for about four days but is now able to receive visitors. The operation was performed a week ago today by a Maryville surgeon. On account of the necessity for quick action, it was thought best to care for him here. Grayson also preferred to remain where friends would be able to see him occasionally. He expects to be able to leave the hospital in about ten days, although he will not be able to return to his classes until some days later. Bill says he has received many flowers and he appreciates them very much. Now that he is fairly comfortable he will be glad to have some of the students call and help him pass away the time pleasantly.

Will Rogers: I advocate Sunday golf.

Reporter: Why?

Will: It keeps people from reading the Sunday papers.

Mr. Veech: (at supper) These rolls are only half done.

Mrs. Veech: I know it, dear. That's as far as I got baking them when the wave length changed.

Henry Fullerton tells some wonderful stories. We thought he must be a great traveler, until we found out that his mind travels a lot.

Freshman Week-End Reveals New Talent

Many Pajamas Made Muddy by Slips in Exciting Game Between Halves.

FROSH PROGRAM TONIGHT

Entertainers of '32 to Speak, Sing and Dance.

November 12—Persons able to put two and two together and reach a conclusion have doubtless decided that the freshmen are not what they appeared to be about the middle of September. It has been observed that the freshmen have been taking a prominent part in the activities on the Hill during the last few days. This "Freshman Week", or rather "Freshman Week-end", is being held to furnish the freshmen a chance to show everybody what they can do.

The freshmen made their presence known at the pep meeting Friday night. All of the music produced by the band came from lusty yearlings. The freshman football men were also honored at the meeting. The Class of '32 boasts of many aspirants to honors on the gridiron.

Cumberland University was given a colorful welcome Saturday afternoon. The decorating of the field was done by the freshmen. Between the halves of the game the freshmen played a rather unusual football game attired in charming pajamas of the latest Carnegie patterns. The wet field made their capers more interesting.

Saturday night at the Snap, the Freshman Fellowship Club put some pep into a social hour which otherwise might have proved boresome to a few persons.

The crowning event of the week's activities is to be staged this evening in the chapel. A program composed principally of music and readings will be presented. Solos on the piano, clarinet, violin, and harmonica are promised. There will also be a quartet and other vocal numbers. Dancing, of the tap variety, is a feature of the entertainment. Two readings and whistling by a girl artist will round out the program.

INTERRACIAL COMMISSION

Knoxville, Tenn., Nov. 5—This afternoon approximately twenty Maryville students attended a meeting of the Interracial Commission held at Knoxville College. Ed Ross presided at the meeting and led a lively discussion in which many of the forty-five persons present joined. Ways of increasing the efficiency of the Commission were discussed.

The Interracial Commission is composed of students from Morristown College, the University of Tennessee, Knoxville College, and Maryville College, who are interested in promoting a better understanding between the white and colored races.

Miss Katherine McNabb had as her week-end geust, her sister, from Whitwell, Tenn.

"Applesauce" Next Week

The College Players will present their first play of the year next Monday night at the high school. The play, "Applesauce", will be given under the auspices of the local Kiwanis Club. Margaret Haynie and Chilton Bowles are the leading characters.

Glee Singers Make Opening Appearance

Songs for Armistice Day Are Sung at Chapel and at Church.

November 11—The Maryville Glee Singers of 1928-'29 made their second public appearance of the year this morning at the Presbyterian church. They sang "The Phantom Legion", an appropriate song for the Armistice day program which was presented in charge of the local chapter of the American Legion.

Yesterday morning the singers made their first appearance in the college chapel, singing this same song and also, "In Flander's Fields". The opening song was not rendered quite so well as the second due to nervousness on the part of some of the men in making their first appearance on the Maryville stage.

Work is being done every day on the songs to be used in the Fall concert on the twentieth of this month. The inspiring strains of the "Soldiers Chorus" are becoming more martial every day; "Goin' Home", a song from the New World Symphony, will be one of the most impressive numbers on the program in the special stage setting which is being planned for it. Every other song is being given a corresponding amount of attention in order to make it remain in the memory of the audience long after the program is over.

LAW CLUB WIRES HOOVER

November 7—The Maryville Law Club sent the following telegram of congratulation to Herbert Hoover at his home in California: "The Law Club of Maryville College congratulates you on your success in the race for the presidency of the United States and wishes for you the greatest success in the administration. We are at your service for the betterment of our country."

Members of the club were divided in their opinions as to who should be elected, but after the election all agreed to show the sportsmanlike attitude revealed in the above telegram.

"Lights!" on Third Floor

For several nights the halls of third floor have been brilliantly illumined with four electric light bulbs after ten-thirty. Other floors have had to get along with from none to one. We know no reasonable reason for this act of partiality; perhaps it is another preventive measure for the impending third-fourth floor pillow feud.

Three Plays Being Coached At Once In Various Parts Of College Chapel

(By Sarah Moore)

Chorus: (composed of Mrs. West, Mrs. Veech and Miss Schiebler) I haven't had that stage in a week!

Another Chorus: (composed of same) People, if you don't memorize your lines, I don't know what I'll do to you!

And so on.

By these tokens you may know that play practice season is at hand, when the villain and the hero stalk about the land, and there is much screaming and fainting of ladies.

Upstairs in the chapel Mrs. Veech is coaching a play. As it happens, it is a mystery play. "Get more mystery into your lines, Rosalie!" she commands, and Rosalie lowers her voice, rolls her eyes, and precedes in a dramatic fashion with her lines. The other members of the cast do not look sufficiently impressed, so they receive their share of instructions. "Helen, look guilty when the inspector glances at you!" So Helen bites her lip, and turns away her head from the glare of the inspector. Now, the atmosphere is becoming more convincing, declares Mrs. Veech. Then, the climax of the act—one of the members of the cast tumbles out of his chair and lies upon the floor in the customary manner of dead men. There is a horrified gasp, and everyone crowds about the corpse, too dazed to speak. The dead man opens one eye, glares, and hisses, "Say, go on, there! I gotta date at four!"

In another room Miss Sheibler is conducting the attempt of those assembled at staging a comedy. "My dear man, you're not treating your wife mean enough!" And a perfectly harmless young man procedes to browbeat the partner of his soul.

On the stage of the chapel Mrs. West is laboring with another set of characters. "Lorenz, can't you stagger around like a drunk man? Gabriel, you should be a real villain—now hiss that last line!"

The faithful minister of the police strides upon the scene in all the glory of his uniform—at this rehearsal a pair of enormous yellow canvas gloves serve for gauntlets and a yard stick carried at a belligerent angle serves for a sword.

Now comes an impassioned love scene. The hero, his arm about the heroine, shouts his undying love for her, while the object of his affection counts the buttons on his coat and wonders what her next line is.

Wardrobe mistresses, stage managers, and prompters hover about, tearing their hair over the prospect of ever staging that play.

Yes, these are hectic days. And soon the rest of the college will sit out in front and see the various plays of the year and think how very easy it all is.

Dr. Stevenson's Son Hurt

November 9—Dr. Stevenson left for Pittsburg this morning. His only son who lives at Sewickley, near Pittsburg, fell off a horse recently and broke his leg in two places. Dr. Stevenson, fearing there may be some internal injury, has hurried to his bedside.

Ballad Collection To Be Undertaken

Writer's Workshop Wants The Cooperation of Students in New Project.

The Writers' Workshop is at present sponsoring the collection of old ballads which are known to the students of Maryville College. A committee has been selected from the Workshop to find out as far as possible the many ballads and their versions which have been sung or heard sung by the Maryville students. Undoubtedly the results of this latest project of the organization will be very interesting, since the students represent many sections of the country and therefore must know a great variety of these old poems.

Although the Writers' Workshop is one of the newest and least known of the organizations on the Hill, it is by no means uninteresting or inactive. The Workshop, organized in the first semester of last year, consists of about twenty-five members, chosen from the faculty of the college and the junior and senior classes upon the basis of marked ability in literary work. Each member of the Workshop must prepare, once each semester, one original literary production. These original works of the members may be short stories, plays, groups of poems, essays, or translations.

At a recent meeting the following persons were selected as new members: Joe McClellan, Cecil Hardison, Fancher Smartt, Helen Gamble, Walter Courtenay, and Brenton Stearns.

JUNIORS READY FOR SOCCER TOURNAMENT

Junior girls are practicing for the soccer tournament to be played this week. This tournament promises to be a lively one. The juniors are preparing to give the sophomores and freshmen a hard fight.

The junior line-up is as follows: Virginia Pearson, captain; Vera Boyd, manager; Olive Clopton, Grace Coulter, Frances Craibill, Ruth Buchanan, Esther Hunter, Edith Burns, Edith Nash, Helen Crowder, Jeannette Moore, Margaret Haynie, Lois Lovett, and Eva Hampton.

Miss Wilma Dixon, a member of last year's sophomore class, was a week-end visitor on the Hill. Miss Dixon is teaching in one of the Bradley county schools this year.

Maryville Points In 13-0 Victory Come In Second Half Of Game

Bird Runs 85 Yards to Score First Touchdown on Cumberland.

SCOTS HOLD THAT LINE!

Cumberland Quarter, a Good Gainer, but Lacks Support.

Flashing a terrific line attack in the last half, the Maryville Highlanders scored a decisive 13-0 victory over the strong Cumberland Lawyers Saturday. A feature of the game was "Tillie" Bird's spectacular 80 yard dash for a touchdown on the first play after the opening kick-off of the second half. The other tally came soon afterward, when Maryville battered her way to Cumberland's 3-yard line, and a short pass, Davis to Bird, was good for the touchdown.

The first half was little more than a punting duel between Capt. Davis and Capt. Knee in which the latter had a slight advantage. Cumberland hung up two first downs in the opening stanza to none for Maryville, but never made any serious threat of scoring.

Taking the field for the second half, it was evident that the Highlanders were out for blood. Cumberland kicked off over the goal line and the ball was brought out to the twenty-yard stripe. On the first play, Bird dashed through left tackle, and aided by some brilliant interference, scampered 80 yards for a touchdown. Bird's placement for the extra point hit the cross-bar but bounded over. Score Maryville 7, Cumberland 0. A few minutes later Maryville's backs plunged and battered their way down to the Lawyer's 3 yard mark. Here Cumberland held, but on the last down Davis shot a pretty pass to Bird, who dashed over the goal-line. This ended the scoring.

The stellar defensive play of Maryville's line was outstanding. Cumberland flashed its best offense in the first half and netted two first downs but was unable to gain in the last frame.

The line-up:

Cumberland	Pos.	Maryville
Ackerson	l.e.	Taylor
Boyer	l.t.	Whitehead
Little	l.g.	Storey
Thompson	center	Watkins
Drake	r.g.	McDonald
Humphrey	r.t.	Wilson
Robertson	r.e.	Cherry
Baird	q.b.	Davis (c)
Floyd	r.h.	Williams
Lackey	l.h.	Bird
Knee (c)	f.b.	Delaney

Touchdowns: Bird (2); Points after touchdown, Bird.

Substitutions— Maryville: Crawford, Vincent, Overly, Headrick, Johnson, Jarvis, Gillespie, Goddard. Cumberland—High, Taylor, Clark, Newman.

Demand May Exceed Missionary Supply

Student Volunteer Discussion Shows Decreasing Student Interest in Missions.

"If student interest in missions continues to decrease at the present rate, the supply of prepared missionaries will in a few years be less than the demand." This fact Roger Rusk, delegate to the recent Student Volunteer conference at Nashville, reports to have been brought out in the discussion there.

This discussion included a brief review of the whole mission field, a statement concerning the present crisis to be faced by the Student Volunteer Movement, and plans for meeting student criticism and increasing student interest in foreign mission work. An interesting event of the conference was the discussion of what is expected of a missionary, by five persons from other lands.

Plans were made for the Spring conference which it is hoped will be held in Knoxville or some other East Tennessee town.

PAGEANT AT VESPERS SHOWS HORROR OF WAR

November 11—After preliminary devotional services, an Armistice Day pageant was presented at the regular vesper service tonight by the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. The title of the pageant was "Brothers All" and the scene was laid in one of the trenches in France. It was a good illustration of the two different attitudes taken toward the enemy in the late war: one of hatred and the desire to kill, and the other far less common one,—the spirit of brotherhood. Frank Baker, Florian Hopkins, and Ed Driscoll acted the parts of the three soldiers excellently. The pageant closed with the question: "Are we not all brothers and should we not outlaw war and live in peace?"

TEA FOR STEVENSON

Twenty-two Maryville alumni gathered at a tea in Cincinnati to meet Dr. Stevenson after he had conducted the opening service of the All-University Y. M. program on October 21. There were many favorable comments concerning Dr. Stevenson's address.

ORATORICAL CONTEST

Wide Range of Subjects Is Allowed Participants.

November 9—Announcement was made this morning concerning the beginning of the annual William H. Bates Oratorical Contest. The contest this year is open to men of the junior and senior classes. Manuscripts on one of the following subjects must be in by April 2.

The subjects are: Society's Responsibility for the Criminal; John Bunyan, the Interpreter; Citizenship Between Elections; The Smoky Mountain National Park; Woodrow Wilson and Idealism in Government.

THOSE TUXES AGAIN

In a preceding issue of the Echo we carried an item in which it was said that the tuxedo question had at last been settled. The club voted to buy the old tuxes from the college maid shop. Since then this action has been reconsidered. The club will continue to rent its tuxes. Four new tuxes have been ordered for use by the quartet.

$1000 Offered for Snappy Expression Regarding the Value of Music in Life

Why write home for money? Here's an easier way out.

The Music Industries Chamber of Commerce, 45 West 45th Street, New York City, offers $1,000 for a good, snappy sentence of only a few words, provided they are the right words. This sum is the prize to be paid for the slogan best expressing the thought that music is a prime means of self-expression and culture and that there are hours of pleasure in store for those who learn to play some sort of a musical instrument. No limit is put on the number of words in any slogan submitted, but contestants are reminded that the best slogans are short ones and that a single sentence, if brief and peppy, "packs a punch" more powerful than a whole volume of words.

Anyone is eligible to enter the contest and there is no limit upon the number of slogans any one person may submit, provided they are mailed to the Music Industries Chamber of Commerce before January 1, the closing date of the contest. The judges who will decide upon the winner are S. L. Rothafel ("Roxy"), New York movie impresario; Dr. Frank Crane, journalist-essayist; and Frank Presbrey, advertising authority.

Leaflets explaining the contest may be obtained at any music dealer's or from the Chamber direct.

Negro Schools Making Great Progress; Professional Men Still Very Scarce

Washington, D. C., Nov. 1—Colleges for Negroes in the United States more than doubled in number and their enrollment increased six-fold during the last ten years, according to a report just issued by the Federal Bureau of Education, after a comprehensive survey of Negro colleges and universities. The report states that in 1916 there were thirty-one Negro institutions offering college work, with an enrollment in their college classes of 2,132. In 1926 there were seventy-seven institutions doing college work, wholly and in part, with a college enrollment of 13,860, a student gain in ten years of 550 per cent. In the latter year 1171 degrees were conferred, of which 211 were graduate and professional degrees.

According to the report, the survey revealed "the immediate need of more education, better education, and higher education." Special emphasis is laid on the need of facilities for the training of Negro professional men—physicians, ministers, and teachers. It was found, for example, that there is but one Negro physician in America to each 3,343 of Negro population, as against one white physician to every 535 persons, while the proportion of Negro dentists was only one-third as great as that of physicians. Negro theological seminaries are turning out annually less than ten graduates to fill vacancies occurring in 19,000 pulpits. The report points out that the Negroes themselves are making strenuous efforts to meet this need, having established sixteen colleges and universities which they own, administer, and in large degree finance.

Election Over—What Now?

At least five hundred and forty-five students on the Hill are satisfied with the presidential election. The one hundred and forty-five students who marked their straw vote ballots for Smith may have been disappointed by the election, but they have a real come-back for any Hooverite who feels facetious. Smith polled a remarkably large popular vote, despite the "landslide" indicated by the electoral vote.

The first test of a good citizen might be said to come on election day. Then, if ever, America is really a democracy. It has been said that in America, the people are sovereign; once in four years the sovereignty rouses itself, elects a president, and—goes to sleep again.

This brings us to the second and major test of a good citizen. It comes on the days following the election. Then the good citizen may be recognized by his lasting interest and participation in the government of his country. The easier and more usual procedure is to settle a few election bets, either boast of fulfilled predictions or excuse incorrect ones, and then let the whole matter of government slide for four years. Corruption may flourish and "autocracy" increase until the spotlight of another presidential campaign reveals to a horrified public the grime of an administration left to run itself. Then the cry of reform is heard again.

The attitude of the college student towards politics is said to be changing. We believe it is. Politics is a real force in the country. It need not be inherently "crooked". It is coming more and more to be regarded as a gentleman's game. People are becoming tired of having so much trouble with "dirty administration". Students of average ability and sound principles have a good chance of success in this field. America needs such men to help raise her standing in world politics.

Our Paper

A graduate of 1926 writes a letter to the Echo in which he includes several helpful suggestions "for the improvement of our paper". This is the first written criticism of a helpful nature we have received this year. Several of these suggestions were well taken and will be followed out immediately.

Apparently, too many students do not realize that the Echo is "our paper". They leave the business of its editorial management entirely to the staff. They may be pleased, half-pleased, or totally dissatisfied. We have no way of telling.

We invite criticism and suggestions. We have considerably more space this year than the Echo has ever had before. Are we investing this space properly? Are we including the right sort of material in our columns? Is the make-up satisfactory?

We recognize the existence of considerable room for improvement. We are planning changes of various sorts. There are other features that could be improved which we may not see,—unless you take the trouble to point them out to us. Of course, we do not promise to carry out every suggestion, but we are willing to give anything a trial which seems to be reasonable and progressive.

Let's make the next twenty-two issues really "by the students of Maryville College".

If Winter Comes—

Winter is coming whether Spring be far behind or not. There is plenty of evidence. Leaves are beginning to hide the campus; frost is making its debut; sweaters are becoming more than merely ornamental; hot water fills the faucets in the halls; top coats appear on Sunday; more boys get to breakfast late; moonshiners find it necessary to stay closer together.

We are promised another cold winter this year. The promises did not seem to make a big difference in the last two or three winters, but the authorities have a new reason for this latest prediction. Sunspots will not be held so much responsible this time as the volcanic dust that is floating about in the air in super-abundance. Moral: wait till Spring to do your house-cleaning; it will be cold enough as it is.

A sleepy voice from the audience said, "Chloroform."

"Rastus, what makes your dog howl like that. He must be suffering."

"No suh; no, suh. He ain't in pain. He jest plumb lazy. He's settin' on a thistle, that's all."

"It's odd that you call me 'Marcelle'. Why do you do it, darling?"

"Because I can't expect you to be permanent."

Incidentally

——We had almost forgotten what our team looked like. After several weeks of foreign battles it returned to Wilson Field last Saturday to conquer Cumberland.

——Class basketball is under way. Last year the sophomores had an easy time of it, and their winning paved the way for their possession of the cup. This year it seems to be a toss up.

——Intermural athletics are important. It gives those of us who are not good enough for the varsity teams a chance to win distinction for our class. Fortunately this form of extra-curricular activities is being stressed more and more.

——The French play presented last week demonstrates what great progress our language department is making. Things of this sort are both educational and interesting.

——Miss Adkins does not play "Sidewalks of New York" with her former vim. It is discouraging,—but the Glow Worm is still popular.

——The state officials are after chariot owners. An out-of-state license is no longer good. Many campus cans will probably hibernate for the winter.

——The Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. reading and recreation rooms need the cooperation of every one. The magazines are recent enough, but the victrolas' latest records were issued by Edison in 1912. Hereafter, instead of throwing away your old records, bring them around to the reading rooms.

——The night-watchman is now a full-fledged electrician. After graduating with honor from a correspondence school, he was given the job of wiring Bartlett Hall. We miss his familiar face around the campus at night.

BASKETBALL SEASON APPROACHES RAPIDLY

Davis Keeps New Material Stirring in Preliminary Court Practice.

Kemp Davis is busy these days drilling some freshman basketball prospects in the Maryville style of court procedure. Several of the old men, too, are taking advantage of the pre-season training and may be seen almost any afternoon cavorting on the floor in an effort to get their eyes on the basket before real workouts begin.

Some of the new men who look good so far are: W. J. Hughes, Oakley Wooten, Francis Collins, Leighton Abshear and Walter Combs, with Don White, Bill Wooten, Ed Martin and George Fischback making an impressive showing.

With a wealth of new material and the old boys fighting for a berth on the quintet, Maryville's prospects are good. Interest in the cage game is manifesting itself as the grid season passes.

$10,000 GOES INTO GYM BASEMENT WORK

There has been a wonderful transformation in the basement of Bartlett since the first of September. If one considers what is being spent he can probably realize better the amount of work that is being done. The complete job will cost approximately $10,000. There is $2,000 worth of new concrete floor, $1,500 worth of plastering and about $1,500 worth of plumbing. All the material used is A-1 grade. The plastering is a beautiful light gray and is the water proof type.

Although the work is progressing at a rapid rate it will be about four weeks before the work is completely finished. It will take the plasterers about another week to finish and the carpenters have about two more week's work. The wiring is in conduits, ready for the fixtures to be attached.

"What is the plural of 'it'?"

"A chorus."

How Does It Strike You?

—By The Sport

George Taylor

George Washington Taylor, known to everyone as "Youth" was born at Oliver Springs, Tennessee in 1908. He went to Oliver Springs High School. There he lettered on the basketball and baseball teams for four years. He went out only one year in high school for football; he played end and lettered. This is Taylor's senior year, and his second year to letter in football. Taylor has been on the baseball squad three years. He always plays a good game and is a steady and dependable end. He weighs 160 pounds and is 5 feet 10 inches tall. "Youth" intends to coach and teach French or History after he graduates.

William Hope

William Hope was born at Flatrock, Illinois, in 1907. He played football three years at Mount Carmel High as guard. The fourth year Hope went to Lawrenceville High. There he played football and took part in track. If one reads the papers he can see what Hope does in a football game. He lettered here last year and will letter again this year. Bill was the captain of the class basketball team that won the class championship last year. He is 6 feet tall and weighs 185 pounds. Hope intends to practice medicine and will go to Rush Medical School to finish his course after he graduates from Maryville.

John Taggart

John Taggart was born at Williamstown, New Jersey in 1907. He attended high school in Glassboro, New Jersey. There he went out for track and lettered two years. He also lettered one year on the basketball team. John is an excellent track man in every sense of the word. He is one of the best dash men Maryville has ever had. He has lettered two years. Taggart is out his second year for football and seems to have a bright future. As to his future work, John is undecided. He is majoring in Political and Social Science and perhaps will follow some related work.

ROCKNE CONDEMNS BETTING ON GAMES

Big Money Gamblers Threaten Life of College Football, Says Notre Dame Coach.

Every year we read articles about what a terrible thing football is; how it swallows up thousands of boys," says Knute Rockne of Notre Dame. "But these stories are written by people who have never played football. Football is a lot of fun, but you have to have the proper point of view to appreciate it. The people who take it too seriously are alumni and townspeople who bet. Regarding them I have no brief whatsoever.

"I remember one year when we played Indiana the score was ten to nothing in favor of Indiana through the third quarter. In the last quarter Notre Dame pulled a great comeback. As a result, Notre Dame won thirteen to ten. I whistled gayly and allowed the managers an extra dollar for dinner. That's how good I felt. But lo, I found our townspeople and alumni who had bet on the game—and they had all bet we'd win by twenty-seven points—were as sore as a boiled owl at me. No one has any objection to friendly wagers made just in fun, but the big money wager is the chap I have in mind. Big money gamblers will ruin college football if they are not stopped. I have a thick hide for this species of poor sport and the only regret I have is that they don't lose more. The man who bets not only gets no fun out of it but is a hindrance to the game as a clean sport and he is lacking in a sense of humor, for every time he loses a bet he wants to have the coach fired.

"In fact, the biggest blot on the game is the alumnus without a sense of humor and the fellow who insists on betting big money. Eliminate both of these elements and everybody connected with football will have a lot more fun."

(College Humor Service)

Dr. Minton Had Enviable Career as a Great Baseball Player and Track Man

In our enthusiasm for the prowess of our own athletes, we often overlook the fact that we come in daily contact with older men who were better athletes in their day than most of those we now talk about.

Such was the case of Dr. Minton, who recently died at his home here. We had known him and loved him; but we never knew that he was the greatest baseball player in Illinois during his college days. Nor did we know that he was a track man of the swiftest variety.

Some interesting stories of "Daddy" Minton's athletic career have come to us since his death. His modesty even kept him from telling his children about them, and so we had to get them from folks who knew him many years ago.

Dr. Minton never really knew how fast he could run, because he was never passed by anyone on the cinder path. He won every race in college. He could circle the bases in half a second less time than anyone else then in the game.

Baseball, it seems was his favorite game. He played all through college, and even after he started preaching.

Perhaps the most fascinating event in connection with "Daddy" Minton's baseball career happened when he was pastor of a church in St. Louis.

The St. Louis team was losing games at a rapid rate, and something had to be done. The players knew Dr. Minton's prowess as a south-paw hurler, so they offered him a large sum of money to help them out of a hole. He refused the money, but offered to pitch if they would come to hear him preach. They agreed and he won five straight games for them. They lived up to their agreement.

At another time, "Daddy" Minton, in his younger days, was trying out for a position on a club in Illinois, and the manager asked him what position he played. His sense of humor must have been as keen then as it was when we knew him, for he answered, "Shortstop". Anyone would know that "Daddy's" six feet and some inches of baseball ability would fit better anywhere else than at short. Nevertheless, he was put at short, and after letting half a dozen hot ones go by, he told the manager he guessed he had better try the outfield, so out he went. He caught the first ball that came his way with one hand; it was a long high one that was headed for the bleachers. He pegged it all the way home for the longest throw ever made on the field.

Dr. Minton's interest in baseball continued as he grew to old age. He played with the faculty nine only a few years ago, and seldom missed a college game.

Ed Gone for New Cycle

November 12—Ed Buchanan left for Knoxville this afternoon on board his temperamental prewar model motorcycle. He went with the avowed purpose of buying a new one and selling the old one provided he can find someone who will buy it.

He has been working on his Indian colored Harley-Davidson for several weeks with a wrench or two, a claw hammer and a finger nail file. After reassembling the engine he had a nice assortment of bolts, screws, etc., left over. The carburetor was lost for a while but was finally located in the front cylinder.

PHYSICIST PETITION

Assistants in Physics are petitioning for equal rights this year. Assistants in chemistry usually have a theater party at least once a semester. Heretofore assistants in Physics have never asked for a similar privilege, partly because there have been so few of them.

There are three assistants in Physics this year,—an unprecedented number. They are Holman, Gillingham and Cotton. Their application for departmental justice is going forward soon.

Students Take The Air

Flying Clubs at Harvard and U. of Southern California Largest in U. S. Colleges

New Haven, Conn.—That the wheezing and coughing "collegiate" Ford must not have its sister conveyance in the air, is the warning of Mr. Edward P. Warner, Assistant Secretary of the Navy in charge of Aviation. Mr. Warner, in an address before the Third Intercollegiate Aviation Conference at Yale, pointed out the danger of flying with any but trustworthy planes.

College men are beginning to take to the air in appreciable numbers. The Harvard Flying Club and that at the University of Southern California are two of the most advanced student groups. The latter already owns several planes. European students, however, surpass the Americans in flying. One of the speakers at the conference cited a meeting in the Rhone River section last August where 400 planes were entered. Eight hundred pilots took part, ninety per cent of which were college men. College men won all of the prizes.

The popularity of flying has added a new prohibition to the list of "thou shalt nots" of the Wellesley College Handbook. The dean's office issued the edict that, "no student while under the jurisdiction of the college may ride in an aeroplane unless permission has been granted from the dean's office and the written consent of her parents secured."

The problem of chaperonage has not yet been settled, and is without doubt taxing the ingenuity of many a dean of women.

Saturday at the Societies

Bainonian

Old and new will mingle in our program Saturday night, November 17, and each will contribute its best to help make our evening together a most enjoyable one.

The chief number on the program will be a one-act play entitled "Jazz and Minuet" in which the modern age and that of seventy-five years ago is combined. The results of such a combination should be interesting.

Girls in hoops and powdered wigs
Danced the waltz but never jigs;
Girls in skirts a half-foot long
Call for jazz when they want song.

Athenian Literary Society

All the fellows who go to Athenian Hall on Saturday night, November 17 are sure to be well repaid for their climb up the stairs. The Two Aces will entertain Athenians with the newest and best jokes, and with several of the newest popular song hits. Any fellow who likes good music can not afford to miss this opportunity of hearing The Two Aces. You have heard them in the Glee Club but this is the first time they have appeared together before the Athenian Society. Do not miss this evening's entertainment which will be one of the most pleasant spent in Athenian Hall. November 17 is the date.

Theta Epsilon

Don't forget to go to Theta Saturday night. You cannot afford to miss seeing "Seven to One". This is our first play of the season and we are presenting an all star cast. Each player has had varied experience. The play gives a vivid picture of sorority life. Every girl out! You'll be sure to enjoy every minute of the program.

Alpha Sigma

Featuring Alpha Sigma's program for Saturday night, November 17 will be a showing of the movie "Who's Who in Maryville", which recently had such a popular run at the local theatre. At this meeting the officers recently elected for the last half of the first semester will be sworn in. The program follows:

1. Alma Mater - - Society
2. Installation of Officers
3. Musical Number
4. Movie—"Who's Who in Maryville"

Night Before Last

School Day Sweethearts
Variety at Bainonian
Alpha Sig Election
Futility of War

The new girls of the literary societies put on the programs. In Theta, a school room scene was portrayed, with readings, songs, and real school-day sweethearts. After this, Nellie Aills gave a humorous reading which was greatly applauded, and Charlotta Hultquist very charmingly sang a selection.

In Bainonian, the old girls were treated to impersonations of well-known characters of the campus. Dialogues, clarinet, whistling, and piano solos, and a quartette featuring a new Bainonian song made up the remainder of the program.

Last Saturday night, Alpha Sigma elected officers for the second quarter. The most exciting contest was for the janitor's position, which Frank Baker captured only after a spirited race for the honor. Somers' clarinet rendition of "Humoresque" was the outstanding number on the program.

Following is a list of the officers elected:

President - - Robert Dance
Vice President - - Albert Tull
Recording Secretary - - - Franklin Roberson
Asst. Recording Secretary - - Jesse James Program Secretary - - - - - Reggie Voorhees
Asst. Program Secretary - - Kemp Davis
Editor - - - Lloyd Overly
Censors - Ed Osborn, John Pectol
Sergeant-at-Arms - - Louis Reed
Janitor - - - Frank Baker

ATTENTION, POETS!

Several weeks ago, the poetic efforts of several of the freshmen were found in the Echo box. They have not been printed and possibly will not be; the idea is that we believe they can do better and we are waiting for the next contributions.

Writers seldom have their first efforts turned into printers ink; many a noble piece of work is written only to feed the gaping mouth of the waste-basket.

We have no aversion to poetry; there is no prohibition against it in the Echo policy. We will be glad to print any meritorious metrical measures our Maryville poets may hand us; try again, you who have failed, and let us hear from you who have not made an attempt.

The Dixie Vagabond Quartet

In The Club's Concert Tomorrow Night, You May Expect Your Money's Worth. Only 35 Cents Admission. Peppy Numbers By The Club And By the Vagabonds. Settings Aid The Music; Hear, See, It.

Singers All Set for Opening Chorus Of Concert Tomorrow at 8:00 P. M.

Club Has Worked on Songs for This Concert Since the First Practice.

INNOVATIONS FEATURED

Quartet Will Furnish Music of Sentiment and Syncopation.

Tomorrow night in the chapel the Glee Singers will present the product of several months intensive work. Each song the club will sing has been worked on since the opening practice in September.

As stated in a preceding issue, the club is featuring deservedly popular operatic music in this concert. The "Soldiers Chorus" from Faust will open the program. Probably everyone about the campus has heard stray strains of this song issuing from the chapel during club practices. Such a song as this is enough to make anyone throw down his ploughshare and march forth to battle. This number will be presented in an appropriate military manner.

Another pulse-quickening song is the "Anvil Chorus" from Il Trovatore. In this number the twenty Glee Singers and a special chorus of twelve girls will unite in the famous and melodious question, "Who makes the gypsies' a life with pleasure laden?" A husky smith will play a crashing anvil obligato.

"Goin' Home", an impressive song from the New World Symphony, is a song of a different character from the two preceding ones. It will be sung by the club while using a special stage setting: a night scene in a men's club, with everyone grouped about an open fire-place. This is expected to be one of the most appreciated songs of the evening.

A group that promises to be of special interest to those who have a little historical knowledge of music is a collection of song caricatures: the development of a single musical theme as it might be by composers such as Bach, Handel, Palestrina, etc., and the present day song-writers of "Tin Pan Alley". These songs will be sung in five different languages: Latin, German, French, Italian, and English.

Aside from club numbers there will be quartet music by the "Dixie Vagabond" quartet. Some of these quartet songs will also involve special stage effects.

Cotton will hammer the xylophone; Chestnut will play his violin. Both of these players will accompany Bowles in a solo, "Neapolitan Nights".

College Players at High School Tonight

May Bring "Applesauce" Here As Y. M. Benefit Number.

November 19—Tonight the Maryville College Players will present their first play of the season. "Applesauce", a comedy of American life, by Barry Conners, is the play which will be given at the Maryville High School auditorium. The Maryville-Alcoa Kiwanis Club is sponsoring the play for the benefit of that organization.

This will be the first appearance of most of the cast, but because of the capable direction of Miss Scheibler, the play promises to be worthy of the expression department. Not only has the cast been doing promising work at rehearsals, but also the play seems to be exceptionally good.

Members of the cast, in the order of their appearance, are: Katherine Hoxworth, Hayden Laster, Mary White, Margaret Haynie, William Berry, Chilton Bowles, and Paul Dickenson.

"Applesauce" is being considered as a benefit number for the Y. M. C. A. It is hoped that an available date will be found on which this comedy can be presented here on the Hill.

Local Astronomers Observe Meteors at 4, Thursday Morning

Celestial Attraction Nov. 27 Is A Total Lunar Eclipse at 2 in the Morning.

(by Edna Baither)

"Stars that idly shine above,
Moon that shimmers in the stream,
Each recalls an olden love,
Each recalls a summer's dream."

So the ordinary senior sighs pensively.

It is only a privileged few people on the Hill who have discovered the intensely interesting possibilities in actual study of the Heavenly bodies. Most of these few are members of Professor Knapp's Astronomy Class.

The casual observer may often notice between seven and ten o'clock in the evening, groups of students gathered around a telescope just back of Science Hall or wandering over the campus listening and star-gazing as "Daddy" Knapp points out various stars and the constellations in which they are located. The sky, it seems, is like a huge canvas on which are drawn numerous pictures. Members of the Astronomy class are learning that in the sky one can see the outlines of such figures as Orion, the warrior; Canis Major, the big dog; Leo, the lion; and Gemini, the twins. One can soon learn to recognize these constellations, but to see any likeness to a dog or lion in Canis Major or Leo requires more imagination than most of us have.

Last Wednesday and Thursday nights were of especial interest to the campus astronomers, for on those nights there was an unusual display of shooting stars. Although it was quite cloudy both nights, one group of students saw thirty-four shooting stars in the thirty minutes between 4:00 and 4:30, Thursday morning.

Another event of importance in the world of Astronomy will occur on the morning of Tuesday, November 27, about two o'clock. This is a total eclipse of the moon; this

"Graustark", First Midwinter, Monday

Plot Centers About Two Men of America Mixed Up in Royal Intrigues.

Monday night, November 26, the Bainonian Society will present the first midwinter of the season. The play chosen is "Graustark", by Geo. Barr McCutcheon. It is a play of action all the way through. Never have so many dramatic scenes been viewed on a Maryville stage in one evening. It is a story filled with the glamor of court life in a mythical kingdom—and with the gaiety and humor of two irrepressible Americans. It abounds with duels, abductions and last minute rescues, and it is an altogether fascinating combination of humor, splendor, intrigue and passion.

The cast is working hard and promises a truly adequate performance. Sarah Moore and Jesse Peirce play the leading roles—Sarah as the stately princess who comes to hate the throne which stands between her and love, and Jesse as the stalwart American who finally wins out over all the barriers of birth, title and custom.

The staging of this play is not easy, for there are five changes of scenery, but in spite of the way stage managers, carpenters, wardrobe mistresses, and electricians are tearing their respective hair, the prospect for some really impressive staging looks promising.

The supporting cast is large and unusually excellent. A number of old favorites as well as some new talent is in evidence. Among those carrying important parts are Ed Driscoll, Muriel Hall, Walt Courtenay, Forrest Robertson and Ada Bell Campbell.

No one can afford to miss this first midwinter of the season. Remember—Voorhees Chapel, 8:00 P. M., November 26.

Ten Apprentices Are Chosen From Freshman Class For Echo Staff

Joint Committee Chooses on Basis of Ability Shown In News Articles.

November 15—A joint committee from the faculty, the Student Council, and the Highland Echo staff met today and took the final step in the selection of the ten freshman apprentices for the Echo staff. From a graded list of about thirty names, five boys and five girls were selected by the committee. These are, girls: Nellie Aills, Kathryn Hodges, Jane Duke, Lucy Voorhees, and Julia Terry; boys: Asa Murray, Jr., Lloyd Overly, Phil Brown, Henry Fullerton, and Francis Durant.

Asa Murray was operated on for appendicitis Friday afternoon and will therefore not be able to serve on the staff. A boy to take his place will be chosen by the committee early this week.

The graded list of thirty names was prepared jointly by representatives of the three bodies above mentioned after each had read news articles written by all the members of the freshman English classes. The entire committee discussed the various students whose names were on the list, taking into account their writing ability, their appearance and their general attitude as displayed so far.

These new staff members will assume their new responsibility immediately. They will be distributed between the various staff editors, to whom they will be responsible.

At the senior party last Thursday night, part of the program consisted of imitations of numbers on the freshman program. We believe the originals were better.

Home-Coming Day is Launched; Alumni, Help Make it Last!

For the past few years some of us have seen lone alumni roaming around over the Hill as if lost. To the immediate surroundings at least they were lost, lost in wondering where their former classmates had been scattered, what they were doing, and if they would ever see each other again. Perhaps they were wondering, too, whether something could not be done to bring the old gang together again somehow,—a Home-Coming Day when they could meet their old friends and talk over with them the good times that they used to have on the Hill. Not only have we seen the forlorn look on the faces of alumni when they have visited their alma mater, but we older students about to leave the college have been thinking and wondering the same thing. We have looked into the future and tried to imagine how it will feel to come back to our college home only to find one or two people whom we knew when we were in school. Some of us have expressed our desire for such an occasion and hoped for the time to come when we would have a Home-Coming Day, a day when returning to the Hill we could hear old familiar voices and clasp the hands of classmates once more in real Maryville friendship.

The reason for this article is to tell you, alumni and students, that such an occasion is at hand, that your thinking has not been in vain. Your thoughts have materialized, and next Friday, November twenty-third, Maryville College will have her first Home-Coming Day. It is going to be a great day, furnishing a big event in the history of Maryville. The faculty has granted a half-holiday and one of the biggest football games of the season will be played with Georgetown College of Georgetown, Kentucky. True, Georgetown has a good team, but we have a better one. Alumni, this is the last game of the year and if it is at all possible for you to come we expect to see you here and hear you "make the welkin ring" with the old "Howie-How" again. On the night before the game there will be a big lively Pep Meetin' and a social in the evening after the game. The senior class has planned a complete program for this occasion, and expects not only to welcome the alumni but to make them feel right at home.

May this first Home-Coming Day be a happy beginning for what we hope in future years to be a firmly established custom in Maryville. Fifteen Rahs for Home-Coming Day! Fifteen for the Alumni!

Florian Hopkins,
Senior Class President

Our Line Impregnable; Their Line Can't Withstand Our Battering Backs.

TILLIE SCORES 18 POINTS

C.-N. Scores Twice During Last Quarter; Ellowitz is Responsible.

November 17—Maryville proved her worthiness to be called the Fighting Highlanders by defeating Carson-Newman 18 to 12. The score does not begin to tell the story, because our men consistently out-fought the Parsons. Had not a couple of backfield men napped a little during the last quarter the game would have been 18-0. Our line was impregnable. The Parsons failed to gain through it and had to take to the air, while Maryville, on the other hand, handled the Parsons at will, tearing through their line for long gains.

The Parsons, as Tennessee said, had a one-man team. Ellowitz at times gave our men plenty to worry about. Still you know that it takes eleven men to make a team, and Maryville had eleven men.

Ellowitz could not stop the devastating work carried on by Bird, Morrison and Williams. Bird has played some good football during the past four years, yet on last Saturday, he probably played his best game. Time and again, he slipped through their line for long gains. J. D. had the edge on Ellowitz when it came to punting. McDonald was missed in the line, but Storey compensated in part for the loss by playing a stellar game.

Play by Play

Maryville punts to Carson-Newman. C-N. gains only 4 yards on two plays and Ellowitz punts to Maryville. Maryville is penalized 5 yards. Williams gains 5 yards. Davis punts to C.-N. C.-N. returns to their 20 yard line. Ellowitz gains 12 yards. C.-N. fails to gain on next two plays so Ellowitz punts to Maryville. Bird goes for 30 yards. Morrison gains 10, putting the ball on C.-N.'s own 22 yard line. Bird goes for 19 yards more. Then over for touchdown. Fails to add extra point.

Maryville punts to C.-N. Word returns to C.-N. 40 yard line. Ellowitz gains 9 yards in two downs; punts to Maryville. Maryville fails to gain and returns punt to C.-N. Ellowitz gains went for 7. Maryville blocks punt on C.-N. 25 yard. J. D. goes for 9 yards. Morrison makes first down. Bird loses 5 yards. C.-N. receives ball on incomplete pass, fails

Proffitt's Celebrate Another Anniversary

Maryville's Largest Store Is Managed by Alumni of Maryville.

Back in 1919 when the Class of 1929 was just getting started in their senior year in grammar school, a young man who had graduated from the college three years before returned to Maryville, and after much planning and reorganizing, brought together the stock of Maryville's two largest stores and formed Maryville's largest department store. The young man was D. W. Proffitt.

For this store, the past nine years have been years of growth, expansion, and rapid development; nine years of successful merchandising, in which time it has deservingly earned the name "East Tennessee's Leading Small City Store."

Proffitt's have earned another name of which they are very proud, which is, "The Student Store". This has been a great source of pride and satisfaction to the management because they are alumni

Thirty Isues per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College. Subscription Rates, $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, Nov. 11, 1915

Monday, November 19, 1928

Staff is Enlarged

The ten freshman apprentices on the Echo staff have been selected. The details of the selection and the names of those selected are given on the front page.

In the Provisions for the Regulation of the Highland Echo which were adopted last year by the student body, provision is made for a competitive tryout for apprentice positions. This tryout was conducted this year with the cooperation of the English teachers, whom we wish to thank.

It was not entirely satisfactory to select these apprentices on the basis of their ability as shown in the writing of this one article, especially since different students wrote on different subjects. Members of the joint Faculty, Student Council, Echo committee made their selection with as good judgement as they could exercise, however. They may have chosen unwisely in some cases or they may have left out some good staff material.

You who may have aspired to such a position need not give up hope. Study to qualify yourself and sometime next March you will have another chance to get on the staff. Provision is made in the Regulations for the selection of as many as two sophomore cub reporters, outside of the apprentice ranks.

With the ten new staff members just added we hope to make the Echo a more representative student publication. There will be less likelihood of overlooking news of importance. A system of news "beats" is being planned; that is, each reporter will have a definite department of the school to "cover" and report on each week. In this way we hope to print everything of generrl interest which may happen in any department.

FRED HOPE PLEDGES ALMOST HALF PAID

November 15—The Fred Hope Fund subscriptions that were made on Nov. 2 amounted to $1,334.40, and since then an addition of $9.10 has been made, making a total of $1,343.50. To date, $580.40 has been paid. Some of the payments are not yet due.

The amount already paid amounts to almost half of the total subscription. It is commendable that so many students are paying their pledges so promptly.

FIVE DOLLAR REWARD

About a week ago there was lost between the House in the Woods and town, a small, brown hand satchel containing some toilet articles. The finder will be paid a reward of five dollars if the satchel and its contents are returned to the Treasurer's office.

HIGHLAND FLINGS—

Miss Adkins will now sing, "If Any Man Come After Me."

A quartet consists of four singers each one of which thinks the other three can't sing.

She: What makes you think you would be happier if I married you?
He: (very much in love) Well, I couldn't possibly be as miserable as I am now.

Some hosiery manufacturers might adopt President Coolidge's slogan: "I do not choose to run."

Last Thursday night the seniors saw themselves on the screen. They are planning to hitch hike to Hollywood next summer.

"They say that the people in Chicago don't bathe but once a month."
"The dirty crooks."

"Darling," he cried in tender tones,
"I ne'er have loved but thee."
"Then we must part," the maiden cried,
"No amateurs for me."

"Don't you think you could grow to love me?"
"I'm afraid not. I've stopped growing."

Overly: I play the piano just to kill time.
Copley: You certainly have a good weapon.

Miss Henry: Can't you reach that high C?
Mary Chris: Oh, I'd rather try for an A.

Incidentally

——The "Dream House" of the Y. W. C. A. is continually coming nearer to realization. This year's cabinet is trying hard to be the cabinet which can put over this long dreamed of project.

——"Systematics" is the password for that worried expression on the faces of many sophomores. The library is the meeting place where these nervous wrecks spend many hectic hours consoling each other and looking feverishly through the Reader's Guide.

——The most talent is in which class? The excellent freshman program of last Monday night has set us to thinking. Many of the upperclassmen have been wondering if their respective classes could have done as well. Would it not be a good idea to follow up this innovation of the freshmen, and have programs by each of the other classes?

——Snaps although not more numerous, are more dangerous. Many fair damsels "fall for" the gentlemen who are pursuing them, and vice versa. Peg Lomax suffered one of the most severe casualties last Saturday night when she sprained her wrist.

——A Book Club has been suggested by some of the more literary students. Surely there are enough who would be interested in reading and discussing new books to make this plan feasible.

——Posters of every description now adorn the walls of Miss Wilkinson's room. Outside the door is the placard announcing to the world that French is spoken there. The whole room is taking on a festive air which is reflected in the interest of the students.

——The World Week of Prayer has served as a reminder to us of our brothers and sisters in foreign lands. The devotional services which have been led by the Christian Associations have been very inspirational.

——The tennis tournament for girls is now in full swing. A great deal of interest is displayed as to who will be acclaimed the "Queen of the Courts."

CURRENT CAMPUS COMMENT

"Goodbye, boys. I'm off for Missouri and points West. I expect to reach California before I'm an old man. Come out and see me sometime when I'm a bank president."—Ted Watson.

"There are many religious activities on the Hill. Has anyone yet considered a Christian Endeavor Association for the boys and girls? Some of the best training in the world can be had in such meetings. We could easily meet sometime during the long Sunday afternoons."—Ernestine Hedden.

"When the library opens there is a rush for books. Everyone seems to want certain ones, while only a few can have them. Consequently many leave disappointed while at eight-thirty these same books lie idle on the shelves."—Red Laster.

"The Student Council asked for a holiday last Saturday, but——."—Tommy Thompson.

"My classes are all hard to teach, but the one that takes the most patience and energy is freshman Engish."—Miss DeHaven.

"Now, suppose I want a man—most any man will do."—Miss Gruchy.

"We Y. W. members of the upper classes wish that we were once more underclassmen with plenty of leisure time, for the reading room offers so many attractions. I'd like to read magazines and play the victrola up there all day long."—Fancher Smartt.

"Four years ago, three years ago, two years ago, one year ago, some of us were graduating from high school."—Teffeteller.

"Ou est mon mouchoir?"—Lusby Knick.

"I'll let you go now if you will be quiet and not disturb the tranquility of the sleeping multitudes in the other classes."—Dr. Gillingham to Theism class.

Guard your BEAUTY

IF YOU would look your loveliest all day long, and at the same time protect the delicate texture of your skin from harmful exposure, always use one of Dorothy Gray's special finishing preparations before going out-of-doors and before applying powder or rouge.

Dorothy Gray's Astringent Cream is a fluffy, finishing preparation for dry or normal skins. It gives your complexion a smooth, fine grained appearance and holds make-up softly and subtly for long hours. Dorothy Gray's Astringent Lotion is the ideal finishing preparation for skins inclined to be oily. It leaves a light film of fragrant powder on face and throat, checking the bothersome shininess of an oily skin.

Dorothy Gray's exquisite preparations may be obtained at our Toilet Goods Department.

Nu Gamma Season Over

New Girls More at Home Now Than They Were a Few Months Ago.

The freshmen are fitting into campus life now and are no longer objects for our pity or our kindly guidance. They have become at least fairly well accustomed to life on the Hill and are making themselves a part of it. They have also shown us that they have a marked degree of initiative and ability by their performances the past week-end.

Yet we who have been here longer like to pride ourselves on the fact that we had at least something to do with the success with which they have adapted themselves. Perhaps one of the most helpful agencies through which some have been able to work is the Nu Gamma Sigma organization which for years has been a part of the Y. W. C. A. program,—a part whose primary aim is to be of service to the new girls coming to college each year. Recently the Nu Gamma Sigma groups held their last meeting for this year and a final outing in the form of a breakfast hike terminated a most successful series of helpful discussions.

At the breakfast hike Nu Gamma pennants were awarded to the members of the groups who had had 100% attendance. Lively interest had been created in attendance by the desirability of securing these beautiful pennants and those who won them may well be proud of the honor. Although stress seems to have been laid on the matter of attendance in this contest it was not simply that, for to attend the meetings meant so much gained in the way of knowledge and ideas relating to campus life. These were taken up from the Christian point of view by the leaders. The new girls and leaders alike have found Nu Gamma meetings to be helpful and inspiring and though the actual meetings have ceased, the contacts made, friendships formed and benefits derived will last throughout the school year and probably on through life.

Smoky Mountain Conference Is Here Explained

TUSCULUM, MILLIGAN, CARSON-NEWMAN, KING, MARYVILLE ARE MEMBERS. DR. McMURRAY IS PRESIDENT.

Probably all Maryville students know that we are a member of the Smoky Mountain Athletic Conference, but that is about the extent of their knowledge. Six schools constitute this organization—Maryville, Emory and Henry, Milligan, King, Carson-Newman and Tusculum. Its purpose, as stated in the constitution and by-laws, is "to study various important phases of collegiate athletics, to formulate rules governing athletics, to promote the adoption of recommended measures, in order that athletic activities in the colleges of the organization may be kept on an ethical plane in keeping with the high purposes of education."

The officers are: President, Dr. McMurray, Maryville; Vice-President, Dr. Taylor, Emory and Henry; Secretary-Treasurer, Dr. O. R. Post, King College; Commissioner, W. O. Lowe. The first three men constitute what is known as the Executive Committee. It is required that the office of Commissioner be filled by some person who is neither a student, an alumnus, a former student, nor an employe of any member of the conference. His business it is to pass upon the eligibility of all players, being governed in his decisions by the rules of the conference, and to make decisions in matters of dispute between conference members, being governed in cases of this sort by the merits of the argument presented by each party. There is no appeal from the decision as handed down by the commissioner.

Championships in football, basketball, and baseball are awarded on a percentage basis. To be considered eligible in championship rating a team must have played the following:

1. In football at least four Conference games.

2. In basketball at least ten Conference games, with at least four different conference teams, and at least four of such games to be played on the road.

3. In baseball at least ten Conference games, with at least four different Conference teams, and at least four of such games to be played on the road. In case any member of the Conference plays more than four games with another member of the Conference, the first four games only shall be counted in the percentage.

Last football season the executive body could not declare a champion, because the three undefeated teams Maryville, Emory and Henry and Milligan had each played but three conference games.

The following amendment was adopted November 28, 1927:

"Any student who, having been declared eligible by the Commissioner, shall later be declared ineligible because of misstatement of facts, shall be ineligible for at least twelve months from the date upon which he is declared ineligible."

to gain and punts to Maryville. Maryville receives ball on 40-yard line, but is forced to return punt. C.-N. has ball on their 35 yard line. Ellowitz breaks loose for 40 yard gain. C.-N. copletes 20 yard pass, Ellowitz to Phillips. Maryville tightens and C.-N. punts. Crawford returns for 10 yards. Maryville fails to gain and punts. C.-N. returns punt. C.-N. line holds and Maryville is forced to punt again. Two passes, Ellowitz to Combs yield C.-N. 45 yards. C.-N. penalized 5 yards on Maryville's 8 yard line. Maryville holds and C. N punts. Maryville, after failing to gain on two plays, punts to C.-N. C.-N. attempts pass. Williams intercepts and runs for 30 yards. Ball called back and Maryville penalized for clipping. End of half.

C.-N. kicks to Maryville. Davis returns ball to our own 30 yard line. Williams breaks loose for 18 yards. Maryville fails to gain and punts. C.-N., after several attempts to gain, returns punt. After several interchanges of punts, Maryville receives ball and J. D. returns for 25 yards to their 40 yard line. J. D. goes four yards, Bird gains 6, then 8, then 3, then 2, then 20 for the second touchdown. After a series of uneventful plays Davis passes to Bird who runs for 24 yards. Taggart goes around end for 8 yards. Bird gains 2, then 2, then 4, for touchdown. Score 18-0. Maryville kicks to C.-N. 40 yard pass to Phillips, then throws another to Phillips bringing the ball to our 10 yard line. Word goes through line for touchdown. Score 18-6.

C.-N. kicks to Maryville. Maryville returns punt to C.-N. 40 yard line. Ellowitz throws 45 yard pass to Phillips who runs for touchdown. Score 18-12.

C.-N. kicks to M. C. Bird and Davis go up the field for about seventy yards before the game ends.

HOME-COMING TO BE BIG EVENT OF SEASON

Maryville Business Men Will Close Stores on Big Day of Georgetown Game.

The game with Georgetown College, of Kentucky, comes as a fitting climax to a successful football season for the Highlanders. It will be Maryville's first "Home Coming Game". The faculty has declared a half-holiday and the business men are going to close during the game. Friday bids fair to be one of the most gala days of the year.

The alumni who return will see one of the best games of the season. Georgetown holds the college championship of Kentucky for 1927, five of their number being chosen for the mythical all-state eleven. A couple of weeks ago they held Kentucky State to 8-0.

Georgetown has always given Maryville a good game, and this year is sending the best team it has had in years.

The student body will have to show a lot of fight if they expect the home team to play the kind of football it will take to defeat the invaders.

Alumni should find this Home-Coming game a great opportunity to show their loyalty to their Alma Mater and to support their team in a big game. It is also a good chance to renew old friendships and talk over the times when you galavanted on the striped field for the Orange and Garnet.

Coach Honaker plans to set a definite date for the annual Home-Coming game and make it a day that all alumni will want to be on the Hill.

Alumni, here's your chance to attend the first "Home-Coming." Don't miss it!

HEAVY ACTION FILM HAS U. S. EX-MARINES

Apparently Director James Cruze took no chance of a slip-up during the filming of "Old Ironsides," the gigantic historical and romantic photoplay which opens at the Palace Theatre next Thursday and Friday.

Five hundred ex-marines, most of whom had seen service in the late war, were engaged to play the roles of sailors on board the frigate "Constitution" during the recording of the stupendous battle scenes.

When production started upon "Old Ironsides", Mr. Cruze had his agents advertise for and selected five hundred ex-marines from all sections of Southern California. Each was required to prove his honorable discharge from the service.

The marines are probably the oldest branch of military service in the United States, being active as early as 1780. While their drill rules have been almost completely changed by modern warfare, these men proved invaluable to the production not only because of their physical and moral training but because of their ability to obey orders upon a moment's notice in true military fashion.

Featured players in the cast of "Old Ironsides", a Paramount picture, are Esther Ralston, Wallace Beery, George Bancroft, Charles Farrell and Johnnie Walker.

Maurice Carper

Maurice Carper, perhaps Maryville's "big boy", was born at Christianburg, Virginia, in 1907. He attended Radford High at Radford, Virginia. There he played basketball one year, baseball two years, football two years, and took part in track one year.

In a track meet of South West Virginia high schools at the University of Virginia Carper took three first places, one in the 440 yard dash, one in high jump, and one in shot put. He took his first year in college at Tusculum College. Last year he was ineligible to play on Maryville's team, but this year he has ably held down a position of tackle and sometimes guard. Carper intends to study electrical engineering at the University of Virginia after graduating from Maryville.

"BROWNIE'S" CAR BURNS

November 17—Mr. Ernest C. Brown, campus engineer, lost his car and garage in a fire today about two o'clock. The fire threatened his house, but the arrival of the fire engine prevented its being burned.

Mr. Brown was on the campus when he first noticed the smoke in the direction of his house. He hurried to the scene along with about thirty or forty school fellows, but was unable to save either car or garage.

The car that was burned was a new Chevrolet.

LAWYERS MEET

November 15—The Law Club met in the Athenian Hall Friday night, and one of the best programs of the year was rendered.

Joe Sharpe made a talk on "Suggestions for Lawyers, from Blackstone". He made suggestions that will be of practical value to every member of the club. Joe spoke in a conversational matter-of-fact style that was interesting to his audience.

Then James Tweed made a lively talk on "The Elephant and the Donkey Take the Air". This was permeated with humor, but was well constructed.

"PEP" MEETING

A "sure-nuf" pep meeting is being planned in honor of the last game of the '28 season. Those friends, alumnae, ex-students and other friends who can possibly make it, are urged to be on hand when the big noise starts Thursday night. Every student will be there, of course.

The seniors promise some big things in their last football pep meeting—Let's go Maryville! Remember the time, 6:30 P. M.

SOCIAL FRIDAY NIGHT

The Pep Committee and the Student Council are working together to put over a real "Home Coming" night after the game on Friday. Games and stunts will find a place, and an orchestra promises to furnish the crowd with syncopation guaranteed to put even the weariest school teacher's cares into the background.

Bainonian

Saturday night, November 24, is the date set for the election of new Bainonian officers. The nominating committee was appointed at the last meeting. Everybody come out to show your appreciation of the service the old officers have rendered, and to cast a vote for your favorite.

Following the election there will be a pleasing program presented by the Memorial Girls. We are wondering if we might not see reflected in this program some of the influences which cause the girls from Memorial to be such popular members of the student-body.

Athenian

For the meeting of November 24 Athenian is pleased to present a program given entirely by the group of fellows from Witherspoon College of Kentucky. This program will be as follows:

Quartet—Deaton, E. Gabbard, Hughes, Johnson
Address—"When the Mountaineer Says Stick 'em Up He Don't Mean Maybe" - Fred Gabbard
Speech—"Fast Horses and Pretty Women" - - - F. Hopkins
Piano Solo - - - H. Hughes
Quartet—as above

Everyone out to hear these talented fellows from way up in old Kentucky as they play and sing before Athenian.

Theta Epsilon

Girls, we want all of you to come to Theta Saturday night. This is the time for electing new officers, and it is very necessary that every girl be there. This is to be a strictly business meeting and cooperation on the part of all the girls is needed. Everybody out! Let's all stand together and be as ready to help the new officers as we have the old officers.

The retiring officers take this opportunity for thanking each Theta for her splendid cooperation, sympathy, and patience during their term of office.

Alpha Sigma

Alpha Sigma is ushering in its second quarter with a good program. In a year that has been featured by the excellent quality of entertainment, this line-up for November 24 should be second to none. Following are the numbers which will be presented:

President's Address - - Bob Dance
Violin Solo - John Taggart, accompanied by Miss Butcher
"The Humor of the Tall Story" - by the Hill's best humorist, Dr. Hunter.
Alpha Sigma Advance - - - Samuel Broughton
Football Scores - - Edward Osborn

Night Before Last

Jazz and Minuet
Moonshining Instinct?
Line's Busy
Who's Who Again

Bainonians enjoyed a very touching and well dramatized play, "Jazz and Minuet". The leading role was played by Peggy Byrd, who, we found, makes a charming heroine whether in the romances of today or of the long ago. The hero, Mildred Taylor, and the villain, Vera Boyd, were quite mannish and gallant. Betty Brooks was the solicitous mother, worried over the faults of the younger generation. Margaret Lowrance as the Irish maid added a dash of humor to the situation.

On account of the Carson-Newman game, the Athenian program in last week's Echo was not put on Saturday. An extemporaneous program was enjoyed instead. Tommy Thompson spoke at length on the first kiss. Ingram Fell answered the question, "Is Moonshining an Instinct or a Sensation?" These two men stood out on the program, probably because of their knowledge of the subject.

The Thetas were highly entertained. "Seven to One" was a real side splitter. We wanted to see the concert player whom seven girls invited to a fudge party. It was funny to see and hear the girls calling him. One by one they sought out the telephone, and through this means we met each girl. They represented several distinct kinds of characters, and each girl did her part admirably.

Alpha Sigma's program featured a showing of the film "Who's Who in Maryville", and it was viewed with a great deal of interest and enjoyment by the large number present. The other high light on the program was the swearing in of the new officers recently elected. It is likely that under the leadership of Bob Dance, Alpha Sig will have a very successful second quarter.

PICTURE PROGRESS

Frank Baker says he hopes to have the senior section of the annual complete early in December. About sixty-five seniors have been photographed so far.

All students may now have their pictures made. As many as can are urged to get this matter over before Christmas. Seniors, don't delay any longer.

ASTRONOMY

should be of interest to persons other than members of the Astronomy class. The event promises to be well worth the effort that it will take to crawl out of a delightfully warm bed and plunge into the cold out-of-doors.

If you do not wish to be bothered with star-gazing, and feel that you have no time to study the constellations, you must, by no means, ask yourself one evening's investigation, for if you do, you will find yourself so enchanted by Astronomy's charm that you will be unable to resist the temptation to further study. So beware, lest Orion pierce you, too, with his sword and claim you as a follower of this magic Science.

PROFFITT'S CELEBRATE ANOTHER ANNIVERSARY

and former students of the college, and are intensely interested in Maryville College, and in every activity of the Hill.

Mr. D. W. Proffitt, president of the store, graduated from Maryville College in the Class of 1916. Mr. Proffitt is a wearer of the Varsity "M", having played several years of varsity basketball. He was prominent in all other college activities. Since graduation he has been very much interested in the work of the Alumni Association, having just recently served as president.

Mr. Smith, better known as "Turkey", who has charge of the Men's department, says that he counts among the happiest hours of his life the years when he played fullback with the Orange and Garnet Eleven, and earned four or five "M's". Besides this, Mr. Smith was a member of the debating team and for four years represented the college in oratorical contests.

Mr. E. A. Storey, (known to the students as Shorty) who takes care of the advertising and has charge of the hosiery and yard goods department, is a recent graduate, having graduated from the college in the Class of '27.

Mr. L. G. Walker, secretary and treasurer of Proffitt's has always been very much interested in Maryville College activities and Maryville students, in fact so much so that when he went to make one of the great choices of life, his choice was a Maryville graduate.

With this organization of young men each anniversary is a celebration of a year of greater achievement for Proffitt's, "The Student's Store."

Proffitt's is one of the Echo's largest and most faithful advertisers.

VOL. 14 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, MONDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1928 No. 10

Maryville Victor In Final Game, 14-6

'28 GRID SEASON SEEN AS SUCCESS

Hard Schedule of Tenn. Wesleyan, U. T., King, Tusculum, Oglethorpe, Lenoir-Rhyne, C.-N., and Georgetown is Ably Met.

BEATEN ONLY TWICE

Many Green Men Rounded Into Football Players in Short Time.

Maryville has closed a successful season, losing only two games, and winning seven. From over fifty men on the field in September, including only a few experienced players, Coaches Honaker and Thrower have put out a winning team. Just to refresh our minds we will glance over the past season's frays.

Tennessee Wesleyan was Maryville's first opponent. In that opening game, "Pinky" Walden ran through the Highlander's unorganized ranks for a couple of scores. Maryville opened up an overhead barrage too late to win, but gained 6 points. The score was 13 to 6 in favor of Wesleyan.

Next came the big U. T. game. Although we didn't expect to win, when we came home with a 41-0 score piled up on us, we felt rather disheartened; but now that we see what the Vols are doing on the gridiron, we feel better about it.

In the King College game Maryville snowed her opponents under with four touchdowns, while the King boys didn't threaten the Highlander's goal at all. It was in this game that Maryville's hopefuls found that they could play football if they would, and from then on they got gone".

Tusculum brought Moreno, fast backfield man, down to romp through Maryville's offerings, but the Highlanders were in good form, and Tusculum's ambitions were doomed, for Maryville emerged with 18 points to the opponents' 0.

When the game opened with Oglethorpe in Atlanta, there were about fifty Maryville students on the sidelines, and "eleven men, tried and true" on the field. It was one of the best games in the South, neither team scoring until the fourth period. Within the last three minutes of play, both teams scored. Score 6-6.

The Lenoir-Rhyne game was a natural reaction from the strenuous game the week before; Maryville could score only 7 points while holding the foes to a zero. However, the next week we were able to trip up Cumberland, here, 13-0.

Then our old friends from Jefferson City, Carson-Newman, found the Highlanders too strong for them again this year, and lost to us 18-12, on their home-field.

Last Friday in our last game of the season, we upheld the honor of the Orange and Garnet by defeating Georgetown 14 to 6, in one of the best games of the season.

HOOVER WRITES CLUB

Immediately after the presidential election the Law Club sent a telegram to Herbert Hoover at his home in California, congratulating him on his great success. Last Thursday the following letter was received in reply:

"Mr. Forrest I. Robertson,
President of Law Club of Maryville College,
Maryville, Tennessee,
Dear Mr. Robertson:

I am grateful for your message, I would be glad if you would accept for yourself and convey to your associates my appreciation for your friendship and good wishes which it conveys to me.

Yours faithfully.
Herbert Hoover."

Vaughn: Don't leave me, darling. Why, you used to call me your constant delight.

Jane: Yeah. Delight that failed.

Honaker Pleased With Grid Record

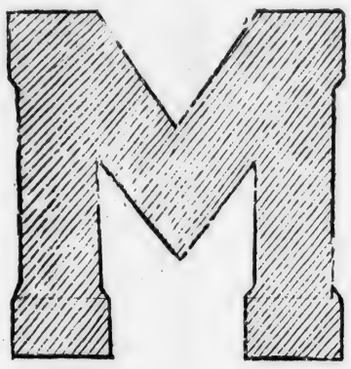
With Prospects Gloomy, Coach Brings Team Through Successful Season.

November 24—The football season, as a whole, has been successful and Coach Honaker says he is pleased with the work of his men. While it is true that the Highlanders have not run up large scores against their opponents, they have made 110 points to their opponents' 78, of which 41 were made by U. T.

Starting practice with nine letter men, several of whom were comparatively green, the coaches developed a team which was able to win a glorious victory over a strong football machine. In the tilt with Georgetown the garnet jersied boys played a game such as coaches are proud of. The heavy Georgetown boys lacked the spirit and fight which the lighter team had. Had they, with their superior weight and strength, been as well trained and imbued with the spirit of the Highlanders the result of the game would have been different.

At the first of the season it did not appear likely that only two of the nine games on the schedule would be lost. Coach Honaker told the boys frankly that they were no good and he doubted if they ever would be. Whether he meant this literally and exactly as he said it, or whether he was merely goading them on to work harder is left to people to guess. At any rate he let it be known that some defeats were to be expected and perhaps several. The large score run up by U. T. was somewhat disconcerting since Maryville has been holding her to a very low score for the last few years. However, as the season progressed this score began to appear less terrible, as U. T. has shown itself to be the best in the South.

Perhaps the Tennessee-Wesleyan game is the only contest which ended with a really regretable score. The Oglethorpe game was a great moral victory for the Highlanders although recorded as a tie.



The six men who are to be lost through graduation will be missed badly but some new men have been developing well this season and will be able to win steady positions on the varsity next year. The University of Kentucky and Vanderbilt are to be played next year and some hard games will probably be booked.

CONCERT GIVEN O. K.

The Glee Club Concert passed all expectations. Even those who knew what to expect were delightfully surprised. The program, from the opening number, the "Soldiers' Chorus", through the stirring "Anvil Chorus" and the impressive "Goin' Home" to the closing number, our own "Alma Mater", was varied enough to suit everybody. As for the quartet numbers—well, everyone heard a fair sample in chapel and nothing further needs to be said.

Carnival In Gym Coming Thursday

Gala Night of Confetti, Eats, And Novel Entertainment Will Close Holiday.

The annual Thanksgiving Carnival will be held this Thursday at 7:00 P. M. in the alumni gymnasium. Sponsored by the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., the Carnival this year promises to be one of the best ever, and an evening packed with entertainment is in store for all who attend.

Unusual variety is promised on Thursday's program. There will be stunts by each of the four classes, by each of the four literary societies, Athenian, Bainonian, Alpha Sigma, and Theta Epsilon, and by the Hi-Trail Club.

Aside from these attractions, four special features will be presented,—a novelty dance (authors unknown), a tap dance, music by a snappy orchestra, and some numbers by our own college quartette.

Just like any real carnival, several clowns are expected to make their appearance. Appropriate decorations, including lots of confetti and serpentines, will be much in evidence.

Naturally, no carnival would be complete without some good things to eat, and it is rumored that this particular carnival will not be found wanting in that respect!

Make your plans to attend and enjoy an evening full of fun! Remember, it's promptly at 7:00 P. M., in the gym, this Thursday evening. Be there!

Two-Thirds of Squad Men Withstand Strain

The life of our head football coach is no sinecure. Here at Maryville College there are probably three hundred men enrolled. Fifty-nine of them tried out for the football team at various times during the season, and of this number, thirty-nine finished the season,—a little better than two-thirds of the original group.

From these thirty-nine men, the coach has molded a team that has carried on gloriously in upholding the Orange and Garnet on the gridiron and jealously guarded the reputation established by heroes of yesterday.

Ends: Taylor, Cherry, Johnson, Teffeteller, Shelley, Reed. Tackles: Wilson, Hope, Overly, Whitehead, King. Ferguson, Blair, Carr. Guards: McDonald, Storey, Carper, Headrick, Tolliver, Kiser. Centers: Watkins, Delaney, White. Backs: Davis, Bird, Morrison, Williams, Calloway, Crawford, Goddard, Vincent, Payne, Gillespie, Peters, Taggart, Donaldson, Peacock, McCown, Jarvis.

"How do you study when your room-mate is typewriting?"

"That's easy; I read a chapter between clicks."

Novelty Social Is Sprung On Students

November 23—Instead of the usual snap tonight, the Student Council and Pep Committee presented a different form of entertainment. In place of the customary snap there was a snap prom. This is a safe and sane version of the regular "Snap". After the prom the Maryville College version of the Virginia reel was indulged in (this is also safe and sane). It was a great success, and many couples took part.

Then the activities switched from the dance to the game "Going to Jerusalem". Music was furnished throughout the evening by members of the orchestra.

Jimmy Rule and Chilly Bowles sang several solos. Refreshments were served to those who could pay for them. The evening ended successfully after a few popular selections and the Alma Mater led by Jimmie.

Anderson—Hammond

The engagement of Miss Cathryne Phyllis Anderson to Mr. Luther Miller Hammond has been announced.

Both were formerly students at Maryville and both have many friends here who will be glad to hear of their engagement.

The man pictured above is one of "Maryville's Moulders of Men". Coach Thrower has worked with the line for three years since his graduation, and this year he has, as usual, put on the field a strong line.

Vociferous Yells Launch Last Game

Seniors Receive Impressive Ovation at Last Pep Meeting of Year.

November 22—A record crowd attended the final pep meeting of the season this evening. The cheering was vigorous and spontaneous. Mr. "Turkey" Smith, representing the business men of Maryville, made a so-called one-minute speech in which he complimented the college for its fine spirit. He said that there has never been a better spirit of cooperation between the students and the townspeople, and that they stand behind the team and the college in every way.

Jimmie Rule of the Class of '28 was given a warm welcome and she sang three songs even more beautifully than of old.

The six men who are to play their last game of football for Maryville tomorrow, J. D. Davis, Harold Bird, Hayes Williams, Youth Taylor, Billie Crawford, and Walter Headrick, were called to the platform and each was cheered. Six senior girls presented a tiny red sweater as a souvenir to each. If these sweaters are ever used, it will require the organization of a junior chapter of the "M" club.

After cheers by and for the seniors, Jim Brock, football star and graduate of last year, was prevailed upon to speak. He expressed his pleasure at being back on the Hill for a visit and his faith in the team's ability to win. Jim says, "I only wish I were in there playing again." Well, so do we, Jim.

GRAUSTARK TONIGHT

November 26—Tonight, at eight o'clock, the chapel curtains will rise on the opening act of the first Mid-Winter of the season. The Bainonian Literary Society will present "Graustark" in the chapel at that time.

Never before has so much action been packed into one play. It beats the wildest "Wild West" thriller and is far more romantic.

HOPE STILL SPEAKING

November 22—Fred Hope is still making speeches. He was to have undergone an operation just after his visit to Maryville, but that has been postponed. At Thanksgiving he will have made approximately sixty talks concerning his work. Also, he has received two messages by radio since he has been in the States.

RECORD CROWD SEES "HOMECOMING" GAME

Highlanders Outweighed, But Use Speed to Advantage.

GILLESPIE, FROSH, SCORES

Georgetown Fails To Impress Highland Lads With All-State Full-back.

The Highlanders came out in grim battle array Friday and with a savage attack that could not be stopped, crushed a powerful eleven from Georgetown College under a 14-6 score. Facing the team that captured the Kentucky State championship last year, and which sported all-Kentucky men at quarter-back, half-back, center and tackle, Maryville fought with a ferocity that has not been seen at any other time this season.

The Orange and Garnet's first touchdown came early in the game when a fumbled punt was recovered within scoring distance. Georgetown retaliated soon after with a fifty-five yard march for touchdown. Maryville's second touchdown came late in the second quarter as the result of a cleverly executed passing attack, Gillespie plunging the line for touchdown. Bird, besides scoring the first marker, had a perfect day with his trusty toe, kicking both extra points.

Georgetown kicked off to Maryville. It was a short kick and they recovered on our 45-yard line. Failing to gain, Georgetown punted. The kick was a short one, going only 10 yards and Maryville took the ball. Capt. Davis got off a beautiful kick which Anderson mishandled badly, and Maryville recovered on Georgetown's 20-yard stripe. In seven plays the Highlanders scored, Bird driving over for the touchdown. His kick for extra point was good. Score Maryville 7, Georgetown 0. Maryville kicked off, and after an exchange of punts, Georgetown took the ball on their own 45-yard line. Here they started a rapid succession of first downs, in which quarter-back Anderson showed up brilliantly. This elusive little ball-toter scored on a deceptive triple-pass, taking the ball around right end over the goal line. Try for extra point failed.

Maryville opened up with a smooth-working attack featuring the forward pass, and after an exchange of punts took possession of the ball on Georgetown's 21-yard line. Two passes made first down on the 1-yard marker, from which Gillespie plunged over for the tally. Bird kicked goal.

The game was far from being safely won at this point, however, for Georgetown opened up with abandon and flung long passes recklessly. A stonewall Maryville defense nullified all their efforts. The Orange and Garnet threatened to score again in the fourth period when the ball was taken to Georgetown's 3-yard line, only to be lost on downs.

Maryville's team played heads-up football at all times, particularly the line, which charged with such viciousness that Georgetown's punts were all hurried and went for short distances.

A compilation of passes completed and first downs made shows that Maryville was superior at all times during the game. Maryville completed 12 out of 14 passes, and made 9 first downs, while Georgetown

STEVENSON'S SON BETTER

Dr. Stevenson's son, who some week's ago fell from a horse in Sewickley, Pennsylvania, and broke his leg, is reported very much improved. The cast has been removed, and he rests better. It will be some time, though before he will be able to be up. His mother is still with him.

The Curtain Falls

The game with Georgetown closed Maryville's football season for 1928. With the turning in of their uniforms Saturday, the squad severed connections with football for the year, some of the men for good, insofar as it involves their playing.

Sweaty jerseys, long suffering pants and shoes, foot-saving ankle wraps, etc.,—all have been turned in to be cleaned and locked up until another squad calls them forth next September.

The squad closes its season of practice with some regret, but also with considerable relief. Football is truly a great sport, but it as truly involves a large amount of real work. Football is a jealous sport; it demands that nothing stand before it. It asks almost every spare hour of the player's time in the day, and indirectly takes charge of several additional hours of the night in well earned sleep. If labor foremen throughout the country should try to adopt football coaching tactics on their men, the country would be involved in a universal strike at once.

Whatever honor our men have gained for our Alma Mater this year has been well-earned. They have spent twenty hours of work in practice to every one that we have watched them play. They have suffered bruises, breaks, dislocations, and bawling-out in order to give us a winning team.

The scrubs have had an even harder time. They have served as tackling dummies for the varsity and have had to do just as much work without having received even a small fraction of the credit the varsity gets. Their time will probably come, however. Most of them will be back next year. Their work during this season will stand them in good stead then.

The football season is past. For some of us it is the last season we will witness as students. For many more it is only the first. For all of us it has been a satisfactory one. We have not had many home games this year, but in every game the Highlanders have played before us we have seen them put their all into the winning of that game.

Men, we're proud of you!

CURRENT CAMPUS COMMENT

"I don't think that there has ever been a time when the townspeople have cooperated with the students more than this year. We're behind the football team and the rest of the college in everything. If there's ever anything we can do, let us know, for we'll be glad to help you out."—"Turkey" Smith.

"I can't tell you how 'enthused' and thrilled I am to be back on the Hill. I only wish that I could fight in that Georgetown game."—Jim Brock.

"The senior class is proud of their boys who have given so much of themselves in fighting on the football team."—Florian Hopkins.

"No, my name isn't Williamson—it doesn't miss it much."—Naomi Willingham.

"We're hospitable enough to hope that Georgetown will be happy when they leave Maryville, but we're optimistic enough to hope that we will be happier still. All in all, it should be a happy day."—Dr. Gillingham.

HIGHLAND FLINGS—

Go to the city, young man, and hustle. Then in the course of years you will get rich enough to live in the country.

Ali Baba: And when I said, "Open sesame," the rock split wide open.
Hagi: That was certainly some wise crack.

Ball-Player: We gave the umpire fifty bucks to let us win the game.
Friend: And still you lost?
Ball-Player: Yeah. The umpire was crooked.

Dr. Stevenson one Sunday afternoon met a small boy carrying a string of fish. "My dear son," he said, "did you catch those today?"
"Yes, sir," responded the culprit. "That's what they get for chasing worms on Sunday."

Squire Green: Hannah, after I die I want you to marry Squire Brown.
Hannah: Why so, Hiram?
Squire Green: He trimmed me in a horse trade once.

"You remember Fanny, the old fashioned girl in our old home town?"
"Yes, Jack. Sweet girl. Where is she now?"
"Still there."

Some guys are so self-centered they think "Hail, Hail, The Gang's All Here" is a solo.

She: Will you marry me?
He: No, I reckon not.
She: Aw, come on, be a support.

Dr. Hunter: I was tempted to give you zero.
Anybody: Yield not to temptation.

"Have you ever run amuck?"
"No, I drive a Ford."

Incidentally

——Jimmie's Homecoming to Maryville was quite an event on the Hill. She has the same charm of personality which always characterized her and made her the best-loved girl on the Hill. The freshmen this year wish that they might have been here the same "four or five or six years" that Jimmie was, for they agree with Jesse that she has "It" and plenty of it.

——Autograph-Collecting is evidently not Miss DeHaven's hobby. For no matter how famous may be the owners of the names which are carved on the chairs of the classroom, she is firm in her resolve to eradicate them, and only wishes that suitable punishment might be meted out to the offenders.

——The Monday-morning entertainment with which Prof. Griffitts has been accustomed to honor his Chemistry students, is now a thing of the past. That means a great deal more work for him because he will have to give lectures to the individual classes.

——The French Circle had its first meeting last Wednesday night, at which various and sundry committees were appointed. Miss Wilkinson, who presided, was very careful to inform the club that it is an organization for the students and not the teachers,—but that she wouldn't object to refreshments. The meeting was enthusiastically attended, with the masculine representation in the minority.

——The Glee Club offered everything from the sublime to the ridiculous. The sublime changed in mood as the music changed. We looked intellectual for the classical selections, laughed with the quartet, and grew sentimental with Chilly and Walt. The entire program was enjoyable.

——The last Pep meeting of the season was the best-attended and the peppiest. Everyone entered into the cheers with more eagerness than usual. Probably because we hadn't realized how much the 'Pep' meetings meant to us until the last one had come.

——A war "equal to the Revolution" was waged in Miss Jewell's American History classroom when the rat was defeated by an overwhelming majority.

——The sweaters which the senior members of the football squad received as tokens of the love and appreciation of their classmates did look small, but they represented a large amount of pride in the heart of each senior.

Soccer Tournament Furnishes Thrills

Clopton, Junior, Busy Gathering Points For Clasmates, While Yearlings Are Still Looking For a Tallie.

(Polly Covington)

The girls' soccer tournament started off last week full of pep—the lack of which hasn't been shown in soccer since the year '01. The frosh haven't scored on the upperclass teams yet but they've kept those juniors and sophs jumping like grasshoppers and kicking like antiquated Fords.

The first games that were run off resulted in two victories for the sophs, two for the juniors and one junior-frosh encounter ended 0-0. The scores were as follows:

Juniors—2	Sophs—0
Juniors—1	Frosh—0
Sophs—2	Frosh—0
Sophs—1	Juniors—0
Juniors—0	Frosh—0

That junior-frosh game was a "hair raiser". It was as thrilling as when Doug Fairbanks rides off a 200 foot cliff and lands on the one and only spot as big as a quarter that could save him. It was hard on people with weak hearts (that's why the moonshiners haven't been allowed down there yet).

The juniors were allowed a free kick 2 feet from the goal; Olive Clopton, the "Champeen" kicker, socked that ball, but all in vain. The very efficient frosh goal keeper, captain Burke, saved the day by intercepting the kick with her face: result, the juniors didn't score.

Moral: always use your head in playing soccer.

Exceptionally good playing was done by:

O. Clopton, junior,—kicked two field goals in crucial moments of the game.

Capt. Fullerton, soph.,—same as above.

G. Bowers, soph.—scored one field goal in soph-frosh encounter.

Burke, captain of frosh,—did good defensive playing throughout the series of games.

Heidle, frosh,—same as above.

V. Boyd, junior,— exceptionally good playing.

Captain Davis, Bird, Headrick, Taylor, Williams, Crawford, will not be seen on Local Grid Again

TOGETHER HAVE ROUNDED OUT 23 YEARS OF FOOTBALL FOR MARYVILLE COLLEGE.

On last Friday six senior football men went on the field for their last time to fight for the Orange and Garnet; and fight they did. No man could have finished his football career more ably than these six men did.

There was J. D. Davis, a likable chap who has so ably conducted himself the last three years that his teammates honored him by making him captain of this year's team. No one would say that the Highlanders haven't prospered under his leadership.

Then there was Bird, that boy whose one pleasure is to tear through some opponent's line. We saw him at Oglethorpe where he made them look sick; we saw him at Carson-Newman where he again did flashy work; and to climax it he did the same thing with Georgetown, thus more firmly establishing his reputation as that "Hard Hitting Back."

Also there was Williams, the man who threw the dust in the other men's eyes. We regret that he was hurt before the game was over, because he was going strong and had already caused Georgetown quite a bit of worry.

Besides these three men there are others who will be missed next year. They are Crawford, Taylor, and Headrick. Crawford can snag passes as well as any man we have, and when he does pull one down somebody had better watch out. Taylor, the man of few words, "doesn't mean maybe" when he cuts loose on the football field. He has in a modest way played end for three years, and he has never ceased to fight. Headrick, our 180 pound guard, has consistently and persistently fought for his letter this year, and we are glad to know that he will receive one. Many of us could prosper by his example of "Never Give Up Spirit."

Seniors, you have closed your foot ball career at Maryville, you have closed it gloriously. May we long remember you because of your willingness, courage, and faithfulness. The coaches are proud of you. The faculty is proud of you, and the students will not forget you.

How Does It Strike You?

—By The Sport

We have given from time to time during the season, a brief sketch of each of the "regulars"—their past football experience, their future plans, and other things of interest to their friends here on the Hill. This concludes our series of sketches and if we have told anything the men would rather have kept a secret, we apologize now.

Lowell McDonald

Lowell McDonald was born at Harrisburg, Illinois, in 1906. Lowell attended the Harrisburg Township High School. He was active in athletics when he was in high school, playing guard and center on the football team for four years. Lowell is a valuable asset to the Maryville line. After "Mc" graduates from college he intends to teach history and coach athletics. If "Mc" will be as steady in after school-days as he has been on the team success will surely be his.

Lloyd Overly

Lloyd Overly, alias, "West Virginia's Shiek" was born in Greensburg, Pennsylvania, on May 11, 1909. He attended Warwood High School in Wheeling, West Virginia, where he lettered in football, playing center and full-back for two years. He weighs 190 pounds, and is five feet eight inches tall. He is undecided as to his plans for the future.

Ralph Cherry

Ralph Cherry was born on January 29, 1909 in Atlanta, Georgia. He attended high school in Harriman, Tenn., where he played basketball and football for two years. He lettered while in high school, playing end on the Harriman eleven. He is six feet, two inches tall, and weighs 175 pounds. This is Cherry's second year here. He intends to take a full four year course, majoring in mathematics. After he leaves Maryville he intends to teach and coach.

Lloyd Johnson

Lloyd Johnson, whom everyone knows as "Red", is one of Maryville's best football players. Everyone from the greenest freshman to the college president admires Red's tenacity. Red was born at Brownsville, Tennessee in 1908. He went to Haywood High School. There he played on the football team three years. He played basketball two years and baseball one year. Red weighs only 140 pounds and is 5 feet 6 inches tall, but he can use every inch in the most effective manner. Last year, Red's first year at Maryville, he played on the team and this year he has made an excellent end for our team. As to his future work he is undecided.

Everette Vincent

Everette Vincent was born at Fort Madison, Iowa in 1908. Vincent went to Ottumwa High School at Ottumwa, Iowa. He played one year of high school football, four years basketball, and was on the track team for three years. This is Vincent's first year at Maryville. He has shown wonderful talent in athletics and will be an asset to the team in future years. Vincent weighs 150 pounds and is 6 feet tall. He is playing good football for Maryville as half back and he promises good material for the other athletic activities of the college. He intends to take a commercial course at the University of Iowa after he has finished two or three years at Maryville.

Don Wilson

Don Wilson was born at Ottumwa, Iowa in 1907. Don attended his home town high school. In high school he took part in football three years, lettered in basketball one year, lettered in track one year, and in wrestling one year. He was all-state champion high school tackle one year in the state "out where the tall corn grows and the West begins". He is 6 feet 1 inch tall and weighs about 180 pounds. Don has shown himself to be a capable and willing tackle this year for Maryville. Wilson brings some more material for Maryville's other teams.

Blue Ox in Alpha Sig
Bainonian Election
Election at Theta
Athenian Also Elects

Last Saturday evening at Alpha Sigma was the most enjoyable thus far this year. John Taggart had a fine violin solo, and Bob Dance, newly elected president, expressed his views about what could be done for the advancement of Alpha Sigma. As an added feature, the one and only one "Jimmie" Rule sang several songs. Dr. Hunter's talk on "The Humor of the Tall Story" was built around the prodigious exploits of one Paul Bunyan, the world's greatest logger, and his favorite animal, called the Blue Ox. This type of humor certainly appealed to those present, and all went away from the meeting vowing that they had never laughed so much at one time before.

The Memorial girls presented Bainonian's program Saturday night. The outstanding number was a rhythmic skit in two acts. Lucy Ann Voorhees played well the part of Prince Char Ming. The bankrupt king was Dorothy Franklin and the beautiful princess, Jane Glascock. While we lamented the death of all the characters we admired the heroic manner of their decease.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing term:

Lois Miles, President; Mary Sue Carson, Vice President; Betty Brooks, Secretary; Julia Terry, Eleanor Kuhlman, Program Secretaries; Emily Stanley, Sergeant-at-arms; Selma Baird, Publicity Chairman; Anna Gilmore, Critic.

Officers for the second term were elected in Theta, Saturday night. The new officers are: President, Evelyn Sherard; Vice President, Jodie Saxon; Secretary, Fancher Smartt; Treasurer, Margaret Haynie; Program Secretaries, Irene West, Eva Thomas; Editor, Cleo Wheeler; Poster Chairman, Willamara Minton; House Chairman, Hazel Bowers; Critic, Virginia Sting; Sergeant-at-arms; Mary Cortner.

After the business was over, the rest of the evening was spent in listening to Jimmie Rule, an old Theta, sing. Many requests both popular and classical, were sung in that charming manner which Jimmie has for her own. Elizabeth Crow, also an old Theta, spoke a few words.

Last Saturday was Athenian's election night too. Before the election a short program was presented by gentlemen from the wilds of Kentucky. Florian Hopkins barely escaped extermination during his speech at the hands of Mr. Deaton, who came prepared for action with two trusty 45's.

The election was a lively one, conducted in approved parliamentary fashion. Officers elected are:

President, Hayes Williams; Vice President, Walter Headrick; Program Secretary, Roger Rusk; Recording Secretary, Tom Whitehead; Critics, Howard Hull and Russell Gilmore; Editor, Otis Peterson; Sergeant-at-arms, "Two-Gun" Deaton.

THANKS!

I wish to thank my host of friends for the beautiful flowers they sent me, for the times they visited me, and for the many other ways in which they made my stay at the hospital as pleasant as possible.

WILLIAMS HURT

The final football game of the season played last Friday with Georgetown gave us many thrills but it was not entirely without its toll. One of the boys in Orange and Garnet who gave us the thrills with his flashy runs was hurt in the game and is still suffering from the injury. Hayes Williams was hurt just before the end of the third quarter.

An X-ray picture taken Saturday by Dr. Black showed that the collar bone was broken and some of the ligaments torn loose.

Dr. Black re-set it and bandaged up his arm so that it cannot be moved for some time.

Such incidents should make us appreciate even more the spirit in which our team goes out to play the game. It is just "What Price Glory" in a different measure.

VOLUNTEERS MEET WITH MINISTERIAL STUDENTS

November 21—Tonight a joint meeting of the Ministerial Association and the Student Volunteers was held. The program, which was given by the Student Volunteers, consisted of a talk by Beatrice Green, one by Paul Dickenson, and a discussion of missionary news of the world which was conducted by Eddie DeHaven.

There were about thirty-five members of the two organizations present. The meeting proved so interesting that it is planned to have others, similar to this one, in the future.

Headline: "Stolen Kiss Worth $2,500, Jury Says." Hope no juries come strolling around here on Monday afternoons.

Palace Soon To Have Music With Pictures

Organ Due for Demise Value of Music to be Bettered by Orchestraphone.

SHOW RUSHING DISCUSSED

Pictures Made on Campus to Be Preserved For Use Year's Hence.

(by Leland Gilmore)

Many of us have been wondering what is to become of the movies recently filmed on old College Hill, especially those students who have lately been anxious about the train fare to the Pacific coast. To relieve all troubled minds authoritative information has finally been secured, and now let it be known that ten, fifteen, perhaps twenty years hence, Maryville College students in the self-same Palace Theatre will view with wonder the curious dress and side-splitting antics of their own dear mothers and fathers. What other film could boast of such a long single run?. So help us John Barrymore!

On the other hand it seems our posterity is to be deprived of a pleasure that now is ours—that of listening to the quaint and "different" music of the Palace organ. That music hath its charms is recognized by the present manager of the theater, hence it behooves us soon to say "au revoir" to ye organ that so oft' hath moved us to tears. Yes, synchronized music for the Palace is not a mere fairy tale, but is soon to be an honest-to-goodness reality. Mr. H. G. Judkins, manager, has this to say about it. "I believe good music adds about 50 percent to any picture; therefore, I am doing all I possibly can in the way of better music for the Palace by having installed within a short time, the Orchestraphone, a device which furnishes music to fit in with the action of each picture. This is something that can hardly be bettered." So here we have another blessing to add to our long list at this season of Thanksgiving.

Then, too, in the person of Mr. Judkins, we students have one who is willing to work with us at all times. On being questioned about show rushing, he replied, "I can't imagine any of the business men of town not wishing to help the students celebrate a big victory. At the same time the fellows on the Hill should realize that show rushing can easily be made too much of a good thing by their forgetting that it involves other matters besides just a good time. Women and children, and the possibility of an accident when a crowd rushes in, also, a full house, and the fact that others have paid to see the picture; all these things must be considered. I am only too glad to help celebrate, however, if, after a victory, I am notified in advance that the students are coming. Then I could have it flashed on the screen, and be prepared."

Last year certain show-rushers had their spirits somewhat dampened when they encountered a demonstration of the fire-fighting equipment of the local theater, and also discovered that the city police force was a two-gun man who could flourish his goods in true Western style when aroused. Considering the dangers entailed and the fact that there is so much other rushing to be done on College Hill, is it not surprising to find that the boys and three de-merits still persist in rushing that city show? Recently, however, according to Mr. Judkins, more consideration has been shown by the students in this matter. He says, "When I first came here last year I thought, 'This is awful! Let me get out of this place before I get killed!' But this year things have been very good. Much better than last year."

With the recent showing of Douglas Fairbanks in "The Gaucho", Emil Jannings in "The Patriot", and "Old Ironsides", together with other big releases, the Palace has indeed been bringing us some of the best that Screenland has to offer. Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday of this week, "Wings" is being presented, starring Clara Bow and

BUCK'S BUSY TEACHING

Walter Buchanan, '28, is having a great time in Japan teaching English "as she is spoke". He sends a sample:

Teacher (that's Buck): What do you do in the morning?

Pupil: Every morning I get up and sweep the floor with my brother.

Teacher: What day was yesterday?

Pupil: Tomorrow.

Teacher: How are you feeling?

Pupil: Oh, I am very tiresome.

Teacher: What did you see at the top of the volcano?

Pupil: At the top of the volcano I saw the creator smoking.

Buck says he enjoyed reading the first Echo. He says "Doc" Morrison isn't the only one who has spent a night in jail. "Many years ago I remember being taken in at Harriman; they got me for fragrancy."

He is considering studying harmony in Germany, next year.

Smoke Dims Opening Scenes of "Graustark"

Blazing Oil Stove in Chapel Basement Causes Alarm In Audience.

November 26—Those who attended the Bainonian Mid-Winter tonight experienced an added thrill btsides the many afforded by the play.

At about 7:50 P. M. the gay chatter and expectant whispering preceding the play had changed to a low murmur of strained curiosity. Anxious glances were directed toward the center aisle where smoke was seen rising through the registers. Soon people were coughing and spluttering as the atmosphere became closer.

As the smoke became thicker, Dr. Wilson and Dr. Gillingham left the auditorium to investigate. During their absence the tensity of the audience grew stronger. More than one person gazed toward the back of the room, ready at the slightest intimation of danger to make a wild rush for safety. All fears were allayed when Dr. Wilson returned a few minutes later with the reassuring news that a defective oilstove had caused the trouble and that there was no need for worry about it.

Later, it was learned that some members of the producing staff had decided to make some coffee to fortify themselves for the business of clearing the stage when the play should be over. The burner in the stove, turned low, had in some way reached the oil which had burst into flame causing a great amount of smoke. Some damage was done the plaster of the harmony class room but no harm of a serious nature. The walls and ceiling of the room, however, are still mantled with a coat of soot.

Morgan Biggs is the hero whose timely presence of mind in securing a fire extinguisher from Anderson Hall averted what might have resulted in a calamity for Maryville College.

VAGABONDS ON THE AIR

The Dixie Vagabond Quartet will be on the air next Friday night from WNOX, Knoxville. An unusually attractive radio program is being arranged for that night in which twenty-five or thirty musicians of ability will perform.

The quartet will sing five or six different numbers. Cotton will probably play his xylophone before the "Mike". Chilly may cut loose again with "Neapolitan Nights."

The power of WNOX has been raised considerably recently so that this program will be scattered quite broadly over the country. Tell the folks at home so that they will know when to tune in on Knoxville and hear a bit of Maryville come in over the air.

22 Days Till Christmas

It is less than three weeks now until the beginning of the Christmas holidays. Some will head for home; some will visit elsewhere; others will stay here.

It won't be long now!

Constitution of the Student Council of Maryville College with Amendments Incorporated

ARTICLE I.

Section 1. This constitution, having been adopted by a three-fourths vote by ballot of the Student-body and approved by the College Faculty, there is hereby constituted a Council to be known as the Student Council of Maryville College.

ARTICLE II.

Section 1. The object of this Council shall be:

a. To furnish a representative body of students, who, by virtue of their position and influence in student affairs, shall be able to express the sentiment of the Student-body.

b. To cooperate with the Faculty in maintaining Maryville College ideals and the traditions and customs of the College; to furnish a student organization with the welfare of the school at heart; to establish a body by which proposals arising from the students for the betterment of the school may be heard, developed, and, when approved by the Council and by the Faculty, put into execution.

c. To serve, by means of group representation, as a medium of communication between the students and any other party seeking to carry out a plan approved by the Council and by the Faculty.

ARTICLE III.

Section 1. The Council shall consist of eight seniors, six juniors, four sophomores, and four freshmen, voting as one body.

Section 2. One-half of the representatives of each class shall be girls, and one-half boys.

ARTICLE IV.

Section 1. Representatives to the Student Council shall, in all classes, be elected from the entire class body, rather than from certain alphabetical groups.

Section 2. To become or to remain eligible for membership in the Council, a student shall be in good standing with the College as to scholarship and discipline.

ARTICLE V.

Section 1. Council members shall be elected by a majority of the total membership of their class, the voting being by secret ballot.

Section 2. Election of the Council members of the Senior, Junior, and Sophomore classes shall be held two weeks after the opening of College in the fall. Freshmen shall elect their representatives one month after the opening of College in the Fall.

Section 3. The class concerned shall have power to fill any vacancy arising between elections.

ARTICLE VI.

Section 1. The officers of the Council shall be a President, a Vice President, and a Secretary-Treasurer.

Section 2. Four weeks prior to the close of the academic year, the Council shall elect a President pro tempore from the Junior class representatives to serve until the permanent President is elected for the following school year.

Section 3. Immediately upon their election in the Fall, the President pro tempore shall call the members of the new Council together, for the purpose of electing the officers.

ARTICLE VII.

Section 1. The members of the Council shall be, and hereby are, charged by their fellow-students to hold the welfare of the institution constantly before them and to endeavor to prevent and restrain serious violations of College regulations. By casting the weight of its influence against such violations, the Council shall attempt to insure a change of conduct upon the part of the party responsible for them. In case the recommendations of the Council are not heeded, or in case the offense appears to the Council to endanger the welfare of the students or the reputation of the College, the offense shall be reported to the Faculty, either with or without recommendations.

Section 2. The Council is further charged and empowered to consider any constructive measure which may be given form by student opinion and transmitted to the Council, or which may occur to its members as they interest themselves in the common good.

ARTICLE VIII.

Section 1. After due and careful consideration, the Council may recommend specific measures to the Faulty, which, if approved by the latter, shall be put into execution by the Faculty with the cooperation of the Council.

Section 2. The Faculty, on their part, agree to give measures passed by the Council serious consideration; to act upon them as promptly as is conveniently possible; and, in case the measure is not approved, to return it with an explanation of their veto, unless, in their judgment, there are weighty reasons for silence.

ARTICLE IX.

Section 1. Individual students may bring matters to the attention of the Council through their class representatives, who shall present them to the Council.

Section 2. Any organization may, at any time, present any matter directly to the Council by a representative from its membership.

ARTICLE X.

Section 1. The Council representative is responsible to the Council, to his class, and to the entire student-body. Any member of the Council who betrays the honor and responsibility betstowed upon him may be discharged by a three-fourths vote of the Council, or recalled by a three-fourths vote of the body electing him.

ARTICLE XI.

Section 1. This Constitution may be amended by a two-thirds vote of the Student--body and a two-thirds vote of the Council, provided the Faculty approve the amendment.

Dorothy Sullinger Victim of Accident

Six Year Old Girl Struck By Car on Street Adjoining College Campus.

November 28—a very sad accident happened just off the college campus this afternoon at about three o'clock. Little six year old Dorothy Sullinger, who had been playing on the steep bank of the campus next to Court Street, ran down the bank immediately across the street from Mr. Clyde Ement's home into the path of an oncoming automobile, and was struck. She was hurried to the hospital, but doctors there said she had been killed instantly by the car.

Mr. George Miles of Alcoa was the driver of the automobile which hit the child. The accident was entirely unavoidable so far as he is concerned. Dorothy was unable to stop after running down the bank and ran out from behind a car which Mr. Miles was passing. He had no time to prevent the tragedy.

Dorothy was the youngest of the two Sullinger children. She was a talented little girl, already being quite proficient as a pianist. Friends of the Sullinger family sympathize with them in their sorrow at the loss of their daughter.

Mr. Mack Faints and Falls Down Stairs

Badly Bruised by Fall From Back Porch of His Apartment.

December 2—Mr. McCurry, Carnegie proctor, fell down the steps of his porch today about noon, bruising himself rather severely. Mr. Mack had not been feeling very well for sometime before noon. He went out onto the porch of his apartment and stooped to pick up something from the steps. As he stooped, he fainted and fell forward down the steps.

He was bruised considerably about the face. Luckily, there were no bones broken. He was picked up and carried into the hall by Professors Howell and Griffitts.

December 3—Mr. Mack is feeling much better today, but will probably be confined to his room for sometime. Some of the swelling on his face is disappearing, but he still shows the effects of his accident.

ECLIPSE WELL ATTENDED

November 27—This morning at about 2:30 o'clock, over twenty-five students gathered in front of Science hall to witness the total lunar eclipse which took place at that time. The eclipse took place as scheduled, not disappointing those who had risen at this early hour to observe the phenomenon. Many who had planned to come out to observe the eclipse found that it could be observed quite as well from their own room windows. The temperature on the outside had something to do with this sort of discovery.

Professor Knapp was present to furnish information for any who desired it. He was also a chaperon for the various couples who arranged to watch the moon together. Attendance at Science hall was not limited to the astronomy class.

A light haze in the air made observation somewhat difficult; the weather, too, was not that of the balmy Spring time. Regardless of these slight inconveniences, everyone seemed to be quite well pleased with the moon's performance.

Y. M. Benefit Number Is "Applesauce," Sat.

Rollicking Comedy Received Big Hand Last Month at High School.

On Saturday, December 8, the Y. M. C. A. will present as its benefit number, "Applesauce". This is a Maryville College Players' presentation.

"Applesauce" is a comedy of American life, and has a laugh in every line. The cast has been carefully selected and each player does his part remarkably well. This play was presented on the 19th of November in the high school auditorium here in town.

Ma and Pa Robinson (Katherine Hoxworth and Hayden Laster) start the play by a quarrel which continues until the third act. Jennie (Mary White), who has been disappointed by her husband, adds to the humor of the story. There are two young lovers who are "going to be sweethearts just as long as they live", (Margaret Haynie and Chilton Bowles). The play would not be complete without the rejected lover (Paul Dickenson) and the hero's Uncle Matt (Bill Berry), who in spite of his coldness falls for his nephew's applesauce. All ends well, of course.

SENIORS GET VACATION

November 28—The first final exam of the semester was given this morning in Dr. Gillingham's Theism class. From now until the beginning of next semester the seniors will have the first period free and open.

Theism is a three hour course, but has been run this semester in an unusual way; that is, the class has met daily at the "a" period since the beginning of this semester and has therefore, already finished the required number of recitation periods.

As the seniors filed out after this last exam there was a pronounced lack of tears.

Regular daily attendance at this class has been somewhat monotonous, perhaps, but now that the entire class has been given a standing period of vacation for the remainder of the semester, there is absolutely no complaint. And tomorrow is Thanksgiving.

FACULTY ORDERS MORE PROTECTION IN CHAPEL

November 28—At the faculty meeting today an order was issued for the installation of proper fire-fighting facilities in the chapel. The fire and smoke before "Graustark" has not been in vain. It requires a stimulus, however, to make even the faculty get busy.

Impecunious Moonshiners

For the benefit of new students it should be explained that this is the proper season of the year to "bust up" moonshining couples. Activities may be resumed after the holidays. If this doesn't appeal, the book-room has many beautiful Christmas cards for sale.

Day Of Thanksgiving Closed By Stunt Night In Gymnasium

Societies, Clubs and Classes Furnish Plenty of Variety

MANNISH MAIDENS SEEN

Hi-Trailers' Camp-Fire 'Stunt Makes Big Popular Appeal

November 29—Stunt Night always means good entertainment and the program given this evening in the Alumni Gym measured decidedly up to standard. From the dashing "Lochinvar" presented by Theta Epsilon to the campfire scene of the Hi-Trailers the audience was shown such a variety of acts that one did not know what to expect next.

Some extraordinarily beautiful young ladies were revealed in the sophomores. "A Bachelor's Dream". The ladies were pretty enough, but somehow they did not seem to be as graceful as the genuine article.

The fashion show of the Home Economics Club was greatly appreciated by the girls. What the bride of 1950 is to wear was noted particularly by many whose motto is "Be prepared".

The seniors revealed the astonishing fact that they still know their A B C's after completing Theism.

Band music as it should be played was demonstrated by the juniors. The Palace theater would do well to make a long-term contract with these artists.

Someone got stung in the freshman stunt, but the audience did not, if the applause can be taken as an indication of their enjoyment.

The Athenian sight-seeing bus tour of Maryville showed us ourselves as others see us.

Alpha Sigma was represented by Yervant Topalian who rendered an Armenian folk-song very well.

The Bainonian "Rhythmical Love Skit" showed a new wrinkle in love making. The Bainonians evidently have the never-say-die spirit, for they still had a kick coming after the suicides.

Tap dancing by Cotton, Bowles, and West was watched with interest.

Refreshments furnished by the Y.M. and Y.W.C.A., followed by a social hour, completed the entertainment. For many it was, indeed, the end of a perfect day.

Big Murder Mystery On Stage Tomorrow

"The Thirteenth Chair" Gives Detectives a Chance to Show Abilities.

Come out of the fairy land of Graustark and travel with us. First we will go to New York , then to Paris, and then again to New York, where royalty condescends to come off its throne and be one of us. The worried princess, ruler of Graustark, becomes a haughty, sarcastic, society debutante. But the countess cannot leave her past so easily. She must bring her fright and excitement with her, and add more mystery to this new world.

Murder, magic, mirth, and mystery keep the audience in a state of suspense and interest from start to finish. Here is a chance to test your detective ability. Spot the murderer, and claim the $5,000 reward. See how society acts when it becomes mixed up with the "lower class" of people.

See the searching and accusing looks which the actors aim at one another until the murderer confesses. Hear his plea! His reason! And finally his explanation of the technique used! Let him carry you into the land of mystery and magic.

Jennie Edwards Veech is coaching the play, and Margaret Mevis is stage manager. The cast consists of William Graham, Alice Rhea, Evelyn Sherrod, Forrest Robertson, Paul Dickenson, Sarah Moore, Marjorie Nelson, Vennie Leal Smithson, Sumpter Logan, William Berry, Henry Fullerton, Patsy Hall, Law-

Look Out For Fire!

A little over a week ago, "Brownie's" car and garage burned up; in a few days the Maryville fire department answered three calls, a large number for so small a town as this; last Monday an oil stove caught fire in the basement of the chapel before the staging of "Graustark" and threatened the safety of the building; near the latter part of last week, the blazes of a forest fire were visible out in the Chilhowees. Fire as an instrument of destruction is still in existence and we should get no false feeling of security because there has been no serious fire here in several years.

Carnegie Hall is not the original hall which was built on the ground it covers. The original building which was practically identical in design, was destroyed by fire in 1916. The building which now stands is a rebuilt Carnegie Hall.

Pearson's Hall had a narrow escape from destruction by fire in the school-year, 1926-'27. A fire which originated in the basement destroyed the kitchen and made an unsightly wreck of the dining hall, not to mention smoking out all the girls who roomed in the hall. Only the efficient work of the Maryville fire department saved the hall for our continued use.

These facts are not being recalled for the purpose of frightening anyone. It is only hoped that they will awaken us to the spirit of fire-prevention before it may be too late. A single misplaced lantern caused the great Chicago fire. A lamp or candle left without proper precaution in a dormitory room may easily be responsible for the destruction of the hall and the endangering of everyone therein. If you must stay up after lights are out, be careful with that private light supply which you use.

The recent fire in the chapel brought to light another fact which should be mentioned in an article dealing with the subject of fire prevention. After the fire was discovered in the basement of the chapel, several precious minutes were lost hunting for a fire extinguisher. Finally one was found and brought over from Anderson Hall. If there had been an extinguisher handy Monday night, there would have been no necessity for so much smoke in the chapel and the harmony room would not look as it does. The college should provide an adequate supply of extinguishers in the halls and every student should become familiar with the location of them.

The Faculty, at its meeting Wednesday, November 28, ordered the installation of proper fire protection in the chapel.

The installation of automatic sprinkler equipment in the girls' halls is a big step forward in the direction of fire prevention. We hope there will be no occasion for using this equipment soon, but it is a comfort to know it is there ready for automatic action whenever needed.

Preserve The Constitution!

This week we are devoting considerable space to the printing of the constitution of the Student Council. Officers of the Council desire that each student should have a copy of this constitution, so we are printing it in full and in such a form that it may be easily clipped from the page and preserved.

Even if you do not care to preserve a copy of this constitution, you should at least read it over once or twice to familiarize yourself with the organization and the rules governing its action.

HIGHLAND FLINGS—

Bas relief is how a calf feels when he finds his mother.

Me: How much will you give me for these jokes?
Editor Jack: Two yards' start.

He: (as they started to the dance) Pardon, but I didn't get the name. (Laughing) It sounded like Gugenschlocker.
She: It is.

"Will you join me in a dish of ice cream?"
"Do you think there'd be room for both of us?"

If, as a psychologist tells us, there is no such thing as pain, what is it some people give us?

Girls may not always keep their agreements, but they certainly keep their compacts.

"That guy's not at all a bad fellow. At any rate he throws himself into any job he undertakes."
"Then I wish he'd go and dig a well."

Turkey disposed of, we can look forward to fruit cake.

"I'm head over heels in work."
"What's your job?"
"Acrobat in the circus."

We wonder if the "Thirteenth Chair" is a rocking chair.

Jesse Peirce as "Grenfall Lorry" thought he was pretty good, but Linton Coulter did some sure-enough love making.

Perfect poise is not looking guilty when you're sitting next your girl in the library and Prof. Ellis glares at you.

Incidentally

——Moonshiners posed last week while "Doc" Morrison shot them. Some of the pictures which were produced were grotesque to say the least.

——Cries of "Long Live Yotive" could be heard all over the campus the first of last week. And we are willing to wager that the memory of Graustark will long live in the minds of the college students. The evening was marked by varying emotions, sometimes by a cold chill down the spinal column, sometimes by a feeling of sympathy for Yetive, but more often by hearty laughter.

——In a bulletin written by Dr. Wilson which advertises the college, one of the benefits of the school was that many of the friendships begun in Maryville culminate in happy marriages. We have examples of these Maryville marriages all over the United States. We are glad that Phyllis Anderson and Luther Hammond are going to join the ranks very soon. These former Maryville students are to be married on Christmas day, and certainly they have the best wishes of all their Maryville friends.

——Rather in this connection, it was good to see Nell Watkins and Arthur Young living up to the old Maryville tradition of moonshining after lunch when they visited here during the Thanksgiving holidays.

——Much questioning was aroused by the announcement of the "Psi Upsilon" stunt at the carnival. Most everyone turned to his companion and asked "What's that?" Of course there were some who sat back and said that they had known all along that it was a new name for the Hi-Trail Club, but the majority were genuinely surprised.

——The Carnival was a gala occasion for the school, and the gym looked quite festive. The vari-colored festoons added a great deal to the feeling of gayety. The stunts aroused a great deal of favorable comment and the feeling was almost unanimous that the Carnival was one of the most enjoyable of the events this year.

CURRENT CAMPUS COMMENT

"Are you sure that was a clean middy when you put it on this morning?"—Mrs. Queener.

"It makes absolutely no difference to me how much you young people moonshine, but the library is not the place to do it. You may sit together at the same table, but you may not study off of the same book."—Prof. Ellis.

"My name is "Prince Charming,
And I live right up to my name,
by zing!"—Lucy Ann Voorhees

"Although Alpha Sig had a hard time selecting their Mid-Winter, we are sure that 'Little Old New York', our final choice, will be well received by its Maryville audience. It comes as the second Mid-Winter, and with its able caste should be a continuation of the excellent dramatic ability which Maryville possesses, as begun by Bainonian's presentation of 'Graustark'."—"Blue" Weinand.

"It is very good of you to congratulate me as Bainonian's Poster chairman. I'm giving to all those who congratulate me the honor of making a poster. Much obliged."—Celma Baird.

"It is very seldom that the girls have a holiday, and we want them to enjoy the ones they do have to the greatest extent."—Miss Mollie.

"Bigger and better women!"—Roberta Hickman.

This Changing World

To-day, you can see big buildings erected noiselessly—by electric welding.

The structural steel worker is dropping his clattering hammer for the electric arc. Silently, swiftly, rigidly, economically, buildings are being fabricated by electric welding, which knits steel with joints as strong as the metal itself.

Building silently! Nothing seems impossible in this electrical age.

Not only in building construction, but in every human activity, we instinctively turn to electricity to add to the comforts of life and to eliminate the wastes of production—another evidence that the electrical industry is maintaining its leadership in this changing world.

Not only industrial equipment, but electric refrigerators, MAZDA lamps, and little motors that add to the comforts of home, are manufactured by the General Electric Company. All are identified by the G-E monogram—a symbol of service.

Boxing and Wrestling Tournaments Announced and Many Men Begin Workouts This Week

Boxers Are Urged To "Weigh In" This Week

Tournament After Christmas to Show Maryville's Maulers of the Mystic Mitts.

All you fellows who pride yourselves on packing a tricky pair of dukes had better line-up your sparring partners and begin work, or else bribe the boxing commission, because the boxing tournament which opens after Christmas is going to produce some mighty good pugilistic artists.

Anyone who wishes to enter the tournament will please "weigh-in" at the swimming pool dressing rooms some time this week, and sign up with John Taggart.

We suggest that a series of lectures be conducted for the edification of most of us on the general subject of "What to Give Her for Christmas". 'Ray for dandelions!

Advanced Gym Class Working Faithfully

Jack Coughlin Coaching Some Likely Material in the Art of Tumbling.

Under the efficient direction of Jack Coughlin, a class in advanced gymnasium work is being formed. Boys who are able to show a certain amount of aptitude for this sort of work are eligible. A goodly number have already enrolled. Advanced work, as the name implies, will be the big forte of the class. This includes apparatus work requiring a fair degree of skill and also includes tumbling. Right now the boys are working hard to perfect the triple-roll, which is exceedingly difficult to master.

One of the purposes of this class is to provide entertainment between halves of basketball games, so we are looking forward to seeing some excellent gymnastic exhibitions. Jack Coughlin assures us that while these gym acts may look very easy to the average spectator, they are really very difficult, and are the result of long and arduous practices.

CURRENT CAMPUS COMMENT

"A 'conscientious objector' is a person who objects to a project merely for the pleasure of objecting."—Miss Wilkinson.

"Y" Again Offers Interclass Trophy

Juniors Get Grasp on Prize by Winning Basketball Championship.

Now that the interclass basketball tournament is in full swing, the classes would do well to consider the other contests which feature in the interclass championship trophy which the Y. M. C. A. offers each year.

Swimming, baseball, track and tennis count for points in the interclass race, and those who have an interest in these events should get in condition early so that their class can put up a real battle for the title.

The scoring system is as follows: 9 points for first place, 6 points for second, 3 points for third, and 1 point for fourth.

Last year the class of '30 won the cup by a close margin, and that class is out to take the trophy again this year.

Let's show our class spirit and stay behind the boys who are working for the class of '29, '30, '31 or '32.

The Y. M. C. A. is planning to sponsor an intermural basketball contest after the Christmas holidays.

South Fast Becoming A Leader In Industry

During The Past Year Over 2 Per Cent of the Nation's Minerals, Valued at More Than $2,000,000,000, Came From Southern Mines.

Ninety-nine percent of the Nation's sulphur was shipped last year from two Southern ports and an equal amount of the country's phosphate was produced by two Southern states. In discussing the basis of the South's industrial development, and possibilities for future development, Arthur Coleman, through the medium of Holland's, The Magazine of the South, tells in the current issue how nearly one-third of the Nation's mineral value in 1927 came from the South.

He says, "During the past year, over 32 per cent of the Nation's mineral value came from Southern mines. More than $2,000,000,000—11 per cent of the productive power of the entire South. A $2,000,000,000 industry in less than half a century. A business the value of whose products has multiplied 15.5 times in 25 years, as compared with a multiplication of the entire country's mineral values by 5.6 during the same period.

"The New South produces 99 per cent of the country's graphite and carbon black, 93 per cent of its asphalt, 85 per cent of its fuller's earth, 63 per cent of its petroleum, 57 per cent of its zinc, 50 per cent of its quicksilver, 45 per cent of its lead, 44 per cent of its feldspar, and 39 per cent of its coal. In short, of 56 minerals produced in this country in considerable quantities ranging from 25 to 100 per cent of the country's whole.

"There's coal in the hills of the Virginia, of Kentucky and Alabama and Oklahoma and Tennessee. Beneath those corn patches, ragged though they be, may lie many honest coal deposits. In fact, it is practically certain they do lie there; for while the South mined more than 273,000,000 tons in 1927, it left beneath the surface, as far as can be estimated, well over half a trillion tons. Enough for more than 2,000 years' supply, it would appear.

"Several years ago, the iron and steel centers in Pennsylvania declared that the South could never compete with the East in the quality of iron and steel. But two years ago, when the Steel Corporation's plants in the latter section were running at but half capacity, the Alabama plants of the Steel Corporation were running day and night, at full capacity, to care for their trade."

Pilot Of Highland Cagers Experienced

"Louie" Has Played Some Big Games for Orange and Garnet. Prospects Bright.

Lewis Reed, known to everyone as "Louie", hails from the city of Lorain, which is located in the good old Buckeye State, Ohio. "Louie" first attended West Tech High School at Cleveland, Ohio. He spent only a year at Tech, however, and finished his high school work at Lorain High, graduating in 1924. "Louie" earned letters in football, basketball, and track, and rated as one of the most valuable athletes in his school. In 1923, Lorain high swept through a victorious schedule, and captured the state championship of Ohio. And in a state boasting as many large high schools as Ohio, that honor is no small one.

"Louie" entered Maryville College in the fall of 1924. He stayed out of school two years, but finally came back to the fold in 1927. Since then he has been going as strong as ever, and as a reward for his consistent work on the basketball court last season, he received the captaincy for 1928-29. Although he has not lettered so far in either football or track, "Louie" has tried out for both, and it is our idea that he's bound to crash through in one of them pretty soon.

When questioned regarding his opinion of our basketball prospects, "Louie" said: "Our prospects for a successful season are very bright. We have five letter men back, and also a lot of new material which looks promising."

PRINCETON ON THE MAP

Princeton, N. J. (by New Student Service)—Millions who are denied the privilege of dying for dear old Siwash nevertheless have come to know our colleges as intimately as if they had attended one. Thanks to Hollywood's many films of "college life", the plain people now recognize a tattooed slicker when they see it and are able to tell you with some assurance that a college is a place where men wear battered headpieces, where rooms are decorated with "Keep off the Grass" signs and where football games invariably end with fifty-yard dashes and last minute scores for the home eleven.

The latest of these educational films is called "Varsity" and some interesting stories are told about it. It has been the custom to make these films at the hospitable University of Southern California but lately the tendency has been to vary the scenery. "Varsity" was to have been taken at Yale but the authorities demurred. Princeton was found willing so the story was fitted out with Princeton names.

Only The Tiger, Princeton's comic magazine, failed to see the joke. The issue of that magazine for last June criticized the administration for turning the campus into a temporary Hollywood. Several telegrams were secured from alumni.

Mr. Struthers Burt, '04, called Yale's refusal a "distinct victory for New Haven." "If we are going in for such things," complained Mr. Burt, "why not start nationwide advertising campaigns with such slogans as "Princeton, The Friendly University," or, "You don't know what education is until you've been to Princeton."

Gift Suggestions for ministerial students: penny savings banks; tiddly winks: "How to Take a Joke", in six short lessons.

Girls To Drill On Art Of Fencing

Ancient Game Revived To Develop Agility and Grace of Sport Devotees.

One of the latest, most interesting courses on the Hill is fencing. The art of fencing is taught by Mr. Jack Coughlin. Although Jack didn't put the fence in fencing he put the fencing course in Maryville College.

Last Monday morning this class met for the first time and a few of the fundamental things about fencing were explained. One of the chief purposes of fencing is to gain poise and gracefulness.

The class this year is to be divided into two sections. Those who took the course last year will be in the advanced class and those who are taking it for the first time will make up a beginners class.

Fencing is rapidly becoming one of our most popular sports. Girls' and boys' summer camps as well as the leading colleges are now teaching fencing.

It is not too late yet to enter this class. Let's see every girl who is interested in the leading up-to-date sports out at the Alumni Gymnasium next Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

WAR AVIATORS REPRODUCE "BATTLE OF THE CLOUDS"

A picture of aviators made by aviators.

This is "Wings", Paramount's wartime epic of the air, which will be at the Palace Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The story came from the pen of John Monk Saunders, an instructor in the United States Air corps during the war. It was directed by William Wellman, who served with the Lafayette Squadron.

Supervising the flying sequences were the aces of four nations: Capt. S. C. Campbell, British; Ted Parsons, of the French; Capt. Karl von Hartman, German, and James A. Healy, American.

Richard Arlen, playing one of the featured roles in "Wings" was a member of the Royal Flying corps.

Broom or Dishrag?
Bainonians Install Officers
Hi-Power Sig Program
Hayes Displaces Room-mate

Theta members enjoyed an impromptu program Saturday night. Fancher Smartt and Lorene Holland as speakers on the affirmative side won a debate, the subject being: Resolved, That a broom is more useful than a dish-rag. Ruth Laughead and Peg Lomax were the negative speakers. Both sides of the question were cleverly presented. A vocal solo and a stunt, "Blue Beard", ended the program.

The main feature of the evening in Bainonian was the installation of officers. Lois Miles, the new president, made a very appropriate speech of acceptance in which she voiced the sentiments of the new officers in asking the cooperation of all the members in the effort to make the next term a successful one. Preceding the installation, a short and varied program of music and readings was given.

Keeping up its tremendous pace of good programs, Alpha Sigma was treated to another one of those evenings of super-six entertainments last Saturday. As a matter of fact, the program was so good that the president personally and publicly commended the program secretary for his high-powered work—the latter, of course, responded with a beautiful blush. Probably the outstanding feature of the program was Mr. Bob Thrower's pick for the All-American football team.

Athenian's new officers-elect were sworn into office by the retiring president who seemed much in need of retirement or of going to work (as one of our loyal (?) members put it), considering the condition of his apparel. This ceremony was preceded by a short program. The retiring president, Walter R. Courtenay, gave a fine and inspiring farewell address which Ralph Teffeteller likened to Paul's farewell address at Ephesus. To conclude the program, the incoming president, Hayes Williams, made a well-planned and modest speech praising the past administration and exhorting the society to maintain the standard which has been set during the first term.

NO MEETING SATURDAY

On account of "Applesauce", the societies will not meet next lowing week's programs in the next issue of the Echo.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club had its regular meeting Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock, in the club room. Those present enjoyed a very interesting talk on "Korean Life" made by Chung Kim.

Due to the kindness of Professor Knapp the members of the club were allowed to go through the Aluminum Plant at Alcoa. All reported an instructive as well as interesting trip, which more than repaid for the lost energy and blistered heels which resulted from the hike.

The Home Ec Club is one of the liveliest organizations on the Hill; if you don't believe it just ask any member.

On Manners

With Apologies to Emerson

(Phil Brown)

A college boarding-house is no school of good manners, and Maryville is no exception to that rule. My first impression of the table to which I was assigned was that I had fallen among the Philistines.

Everybody was humped up over his or her plate engaged in a two-handed attempt to feed his or her face in the shortest time possible. It was a survival of the fittest. By dint of much labor consisting of one part initiative plus nine parts luck, I managed to corral a few stray beans and a small potato.

After making sure that my glass of water had not gone astray in the rush, I searched for the bread. It was at the far end of the table. I folded my hands in my lap, smiled cehrubically—or as nearly like a cherub as I am capable—and said timidly, "Pass the bread, please." The only answer was a succession of sounds resembling those made by waves lapping at the base of a rockbound coast at midnight. These sounds I later ascertained to be those emanating from someone absorbing soup. I pounded on the table to gain attention, and called, "Please pass the bread." Results were conspicuous by their absence. I was preparing for a supreme effort when the boy on my right turned to me and said thru a mouthful of beans, "Dot zay brea'. Caw fer blotterish." I murmured "Thanks," and then yelped, "Shoot the blotters this way!" Three girls and a boy started simultaneously to pass the bread.

Thus did my education in table technique begin, and in the hard school of experience I learned that the boy who hesitates is lost and the girl who hesitates is extinct.

Prof. Howell: This gas is deadly poison. What steps would you take if it should escape?
Walter Headrick: Long ones.

It is possible—we've tried it—when one gets the correct wave length, to converse during chapel service with a girl in the front row of the choir.

The point in question is COLOR HARMONY

A necessity in modern dress—its value is conceded but achieving it is another problem. The relation between costume and hosiery from the standpoint of color however, has been solved in Holeproof Hosiery. Lucile, well known colorist of Paris, has created the perfect hosiery shades to compliement the seasonal trends in gowns and footwear. These shades are reproduced exclusively in fine hosiery that cannot be excelled.

News From THE OTHER COLLEGES

Following are a few gleanings from the news of other colleges taken from papers on our exchange list:

At the end of the school year, two prizes will be offered to the two students of Tonkawa College, in Oklahoma, who throughout the year have shown the highest ideals of fairness, squareness, and clean living. One of these prizes will go to a boy, and one to a girl. To win either of these prizes will be a signal honor.

Bethany College in West Virginia, has just recently been placed on the approved list for membership into the Association of American Universities. Previously, Bethany has had splendid recognition by the association of Southern Colleges and the North Central Association, but this added recognition now makes Bethany's standing without question any place in this country or any foreign country.

Students of Carson-Newman College also had the pleasure and good fortune to hear Captain J. B. Noel tell of his adventures and see his interesting motion pictures showing the Mt. Everest Expedition.

It is considered a breach of etiquette for Oxford University women to talk with Oxford men on the streets. British newspapers have been commenting on the shocking manner in which the students are violating this tradition.

The freshmen of Cumberland University put on a novel stunt night in the form of a minstrel, which included a hog calling contest, a chicken calling contest, dance numbers, a tumbling act, and a scene from grand opera (?).

A chapter of Tau Beta Pi, National honorary engineering society, has recently been secured for Clemson College. This chapter will be the first in South Carolina, and it is considered a great honor to Clemson that her petition was accepted by Tau Beta Pi, as the scholastic and educational requirements of that fraternity are exceedingly strict.

Students of southern colleges will be interested to know that the Com-

Ballad Night In Chapel Saturday

Writers' Workshop Has Charge of Novel Night in the Chapel.

PROGRAM OF FOLK SONGS

Many American Folk Songs Deal With Touching Incidents.

In order to arouse interest in folk-songs and American folk-songs especially, the Writer's Workshop will present on Saturday evening at 6 o'clock, in the chapel, a program of ballad singing. The Writers' Workshop is engaged in collecting old folk-songs whose origins are unknown but which have been handed from person to person and generation to generation. Members of the Workshop wish to get the students interested so that they will aid them in getting together all such songs that are known to them. There are many different versions of some of these ballads which are often sung to different tunes. Since there are students here who come from many parts of the United States the sponsors of this program are hoping to receive a variety of songs of this type.

The songs of the Appalachian mountain people are of particular interest. "The Death of Floyd Collins" is one of the more recently composed mountain songs, and, as many of these songs, deals with a touching incident. "Old Smoky" is one of the best of the mountain songs.

OLD SMOKY

On top of Old Smoky, all covered with snow,
I lost my true lover, by courting too slow.

Though courting is pleasure and parting is grief,
A false-hearted lover is worse than a thief.

A false-hearted thief will take all you have,
But a false-hearted lover will take you to the grave.

The grave will decay you and turn you to dust,
There's not one boy in a thousand a poor girl can trust.

They'll tell you they love you to give your heart ease,
But the moment our back's turned, they court whom they please.

They tell you they love you, they tell you more lies,
Than there's cross-ties in the railroad or stars in the skies.

It's raining, it's raining, the moon gives no light,
Your horses can't travel this dark, stormy night.

Go put up your horses and feed them some hay,
Come sit by my side as long as you stay.

"My horses aren't hungry, they won't eat your hay,
I'm going to Georgia, I'll feed on the way.

"I'm going to Georgia, I'll write you my mind,
My mind is to marry, and leave you behind.

"Your parents are against me and mine are the same,
If I'm on our book, love, please erase off my name."

As sure as the dewdrops fall on the green corn,
Last night he was with me, but now he is gone.

I'll go back to Old Smoky, to the mountain so high,
Where the wild birds and turtle doves can hear my sad cry.

"Hand Me Down My Walking Cane" and "I Wish I Was Single Again" are typical American folk-songs.

HAND ME DOWN MY WALKING CANE

Oh hand me down my walking-cane,

SUPPER HOUR CHANGED

December 7—The supper hour has been changed at last. Beginning today, the supper bell will ring at 5:30 instead of 6:00. This change is made on account of the shorter days during the winter.

Usually the supper hour is changed immediately at the close of the football season, but this was not done this year because the season closed earlier than usual.

"The Bohemian Girl" Is Part Of Lyceum Light Opera Mirror

Well Trained Voices Assure Everyone an Enjoyable Evening of Music.

The Redpath Artist Singers who are being brought here next Monday evening will present in Voorhee's Chapel their celebrated musical entertainment "A Light Opera Mirror", which has attracted such widespread comment wherever it has been given.

The Redpath Artist Singers are musicians of wide repute, genuine artists who bring to the presentation of "A Light Opera Mirror" beautiful voices, years of training and marked dramatic power.

One of the most unforgetable features is the production of "Bohemian Girl", which occurs during the first half of the program. The main events of this famous opera are presented, and so cleverly is the cutting made from the original score of the opera, that the story unfolds wih perfect sequence, and a vivid and beautiful presentation is achieved. Magnificent costumes lend added charm to the production.

The press is always enthusiastic over the Redpath Artist Singers. Here are a few typical comments:

"The singers demonstrated that they not only had splendid voices but were also capable of achieving extremely dramatic expression."—Ft. Wayne (Ind.) News-Sentinel.

"A company of high order, singing with excellent harmony." Richland Democrat, Richland Center, Wisconsin.

Holiday Rush Hits College Maid Shop

Extra Help Requested to Fill Large Orders. Sale of Seconds Still On.

December 7—This morning a call for help was issued from the College Maid Shop in the form of a chapel announcement. Orders have been piling in so rapidly that the regular force of College Maids is unable to fill them.

The College Maid Shop does a remarkably large business at all times, but is being especially rushed in this pre-Christmas season. Large orders have just been received from firms in Chattanooga and Wareshoes, South Carolina. These orders must be filled before Christmas. Smaller orders must be filled for stores in Cleveland, Cincinnati, New York, Hartford, Conn., etc.

Many pastors throughout the country cooperate with the College Maid Shop by advertising its products in their church bulletins. By advertising such as this and by their own merit a considerable reputation has been gained by College Maid products.

The College Maid Shop is expanding. It has girls working for it in other schools. In Tusculum College there are sixteen girls working under College Maid management.

The sale of seconds will be going on all during next week. Girls are advised that this is a good place to secure some real bargains for themselves or their friends.

DR. STONE AN AUTHOR

Some books written by Dr. Stone are: "Footsteps in a Parish", "Recruiting for Christ", "Life of Whitfield", "That Friday night", and others. He makes frequent preaching tours through the East and mid-West and this year will deliver several addresses at Maryville.

A Modern Thoreau Leaves Dartmouth

Student, Weary of Restraint, Seeks a Walden in The White Mountains.

Hanover, N. H. (by New Student Service). A Dartmouth student has done what almost everyone who has read Walden yearns to do at one time or another. Curtis H. Glover, twenty and a junior, has bid goodbye to college and civilized life to begin anew in the woods, far away from the painful pressures of organized society.

"Goodbye Dartmouth," he wrote in a letter published in The Dartmouth:

"By the time you read this I shall be aboard a train speeding to northern wilds where I intend to prepare myself for a higher life than college leads to; the life described by Thoreau in Walden.

"I have existed in your civilization now for twenty years. I have existed merely as a spectator. You have forced me to do certain things, and I have done them—reluctantly, always inwardly rebelling. Now I have decided to give expression to my wild nature, and to try whether it be possible to live humanly."

The new Walden is located in the White Mountains on the estate of Mr. Glover, senior, who is a wealthy Boston architect. The news reports do not tell much about the economic side of the experiment, which, to us, seems the crucial one. For what Henry Thoreau was principally intent upon doing was to find out how one might live the most complete and satisfying life that was possible, with the minimum expenditure of energy in filling the belly and housing the body. If that is one of the purposes of the experiment it will be worth watching.

Noted Speakers Coming

Dr. John Timothy Stone Will Be Here for Life Work Conference.

Maryville audiences will have an opportunity to hear two of the most famous ministers in the country soon. Dr. Lewis S. Mudge and Dr. John Timothy Stone are coming here after the Christmas holidays.

Early in January Dr. Mudge, stated clerk of the General Assembly and Secretary of the General Council of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., will stop at Maryville while he is visiting colleges in this part of the country. Dr. Mudge is author of many pamphets and papers on ecclesiastical law and procedure, and is a very interesting speaker.

For the life work conference of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. here about the first of April, Dr. John Timothy Stone is coming. Dr. Stone has been pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian Church of Chicago since 1909. He has been president and a trustee of McCormick Theological Seminary since 1927.

Y. PLANS FOR CHRISTMAS

The Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. are making great plans for a special program to be given the last Wednesday night before school closes for the holidays. "A Masque of the First Christmas" will be given in the chapel, December 19.

The last Y.W.C.A. Sunday service will be a special program given for the orphans. Every year the Y. W. C. A. has given this to make these little orphans happy at Christmas time.

Quartet Makes Its Initial Ether Stir

Dixie Vagabonds Outstanding Entertainers on WNOX Program Friday.

December 7—The Dixie Vagabond quartet made its radio debut tonight from station WNOX at Knoxville. They were heard on a special program celebrating the opening of Sterchi brothers new furniture store on Gay Street.

The program opened at about 8:30 p. m. and continued until after ten o'clock. The broadcasting was done from the main show window of the store. This attracted a large crowd of people curious to see how this broadcasting business is done. Those in front had to be content with merely observing because very little sound penetrated the big plate glass window.

The Vagabonds' first two songs were not so satisfactory as those coming later. They sang a little too close to the microphone and got somewhat sharp because of the accompaniment's not being loud enough; a little nervousness contributed somewhat to the involuntary key change. In their other four numbers the quartet staged a real comeback and won the praise of everyone present in the studio. The quartet has been asked to appear again next Friday, but arrangements are still pending on this engagement.

In addition to the quartet numbers, Courtenay sang one of Harry Lauder's famous Scotch songs, Bowles sang "Neapolitan Nights" and Cotton played the xylorimbra. Radio listeners far and near report that the Vagabonds were the real hit of the program.

Another Christmas Suggestion

Miss Scheibler and "Gobo" Cartwright are planning to make this Christmas a long-to-be-remembered one. Their engagement and approaching marriage on Christmas day has been recently announced. The wedding will take place in Greensburg, Pennsylvania, Miss Scheibler's home.

Miss Scheibler is a well-liked teacher here on the Hill. She is an assistant teacher in the expression department. James Pledger Cartwright graduated from Maryville in 1927, being captain of the football team during his senior year. He is now coaching at Everett High.

Spiritualistic Seance Almost Too Real For Moonshiners' Comfort

December 4—Tonight there was something doing on the Hill—the College Players presented the "Thirteenth Chair", and when this capable group of young actors present a play, it is an unusual and pleasant treat.

The plot was one of the most exciting imaginable. Who killed Spenser Lee and Edward Wales? What was going to happen next? Really, when the lights went out and the direful deed done, there was not a soul who didn't have chills running up his back.

All the credit, of course, goes to the director, Mrs. Veech, and to the cast. Roberta Hickman as Madame Rosalie LeGrange made the outstanding performance of the evening. She carried us through the play with laughter and fright and love. The young lovers, played by Alice Rhea and William Graham, were everthing we could have asked. Forrest Robertson, as Roscoe Crosby, played his part admirably and Evelyn Sherard as Mrs. Crosby made a beautiful society woman. The carefree society girls, Sarah Moore, Marjorie Nelson, Muriel Hall, and Vinny Smithson, added much color and charm. But last, who committed the murder of Spenser Lee and who murdered Edward Wales?
